No. 3339.—In accordance with the terms of G. G. O. No. 1315, dated the 28th December 1872, as republished in G. G. O. No. 560, dated the 23rd May 1873, the Governor General in Council has directed the publication of the following documents relative to the actuarial enquiry on the condition of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund as on the 31st March 1878:—

No. 7, dated 6th November 1879.

From—The Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

In Financial (Military Funds) despatch, dated 8th November 1877, No 379, I informed Your Excellency in Council that I had decided to postpone the consideration of the proposal of your Government, that the rate of exchange allowed in the pro forma account of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund should be brought into accordance with the market rate, until a valuation of the fund had been made.

2. A valuation has now been made by Major-General Hannington, and a copy of his report is herewith forwarded for your information.

3. The balance sheet, it will be seen, shows an estimated surplus, on the 31st March 1878, of Rs. 1,75,199, the assets being thus about 7 per cent. in excess of the liabilities.

4. This result may be considered satisfactory, proving, as it does, that the rates of contribution which were originally fixed are sufficient to provide the pensions granted under the regulations, the exchange being taken at 1s. 11d. the rupee.

5. A considerable fall in the value of silver has occurred since the date of the establishment of the Fund, and if the decline in the value of silver should be permanent, an increase of the contributions payable by the subscribers in India will be necessary.

6. In the present state of exchange, however, I am of opinion that it will be sufficient to reduce the rate in the pro forma account of the Fund from 1s. 11d. to 1s. 9½d. the rupee. This alteration may be made from the 1st April next, and remain in force until the next valuation.

7. An increase of the contributions of the subscribers will not be necessary in consequence of this alteration, as will appear from the abstract of the valuation (B), in which, the exchange being taken at 1s. 9½d., the surplus is estimated at Rs. 9,156.

8. With reference to the remarks in General Hannington's report, as to the length of time which must elapse under the existing rules before officers in the Staff Corps can subscribe as Colonels, I am willing that the option of subscribing in Class I should be allowed to all officers who have completed five years' service as substantive Lieutenant-Colonels, subscription as Colonel being compulsory when a Lieutenant-Colonel comes into the receipt of Colonel's allowance.

9. The words "General Officers" in Class I imply that officers holding the army rank of Major-General are entitled to subscribe in that class, whereas an officer is classed under the rules according to his substantive rank. It will, therefore, be desirable that the word "Colonels," or the words "Lieutenant-Colonels in receipt of Colonel's allowances," should be substituted for the term "General Officers," in Class I.

10. If your Government concur in these views, I authorise you to make the necessary alterations in the rules of the Fund, and to publish General Hannington's report and valuation, for the information of the subscribers, in the Gazette of India, in accordance with the terms of G. O. G. G. No. 1315, dated 28th December 1872.

11. A copy of the rules, altered in accordance with the foregoing suggestions, is herewith enclosed.

Dated 13th June 1879.

From—MAJOR-GENERAL J. HANNINGTON,

To—The Under Secretary of State for India.

I have the honour to submit herewith a valuation of the assets and liabilities of the Indian Service (Military) Family Pension Fund as on the 31st March 1878.

The balance sheet shows an estimated surplus of Rs. 1,75,199, the assets being thus about 7 per cent. in excess of the liabilities.

I may remark that when the Fund was instituted on the 1st January 1873, the several Military Funds for widows and orphans had been closed for some years (from November 1861), and that consequently the new Fund took up at ordinary rates some extra risks. That a surplus should exist is, therefore, satisfactory, but this result must be further considered with reference to the rate of exchange between England and India.

On the establishment of the Fund, the rate of exchange was fixed at 1s. 11d. the rupee. To this rate the contributions of the members were adapted, and the valuation has been made accordingly. The fall of exchange has not yet had effect on the outlay of the Fund, because contributions received in England have hitherto sufficed for the Home payments.

The Fund is not entitled to obtain from the Secretary of State for India a rate of exchange above that ruling from year to year, and a permanent decline in the price of silver would compel an increase of the contributions required from members, or failing this, a reduction of the benefits derivable from the Fund.

Recent fluctuations of exchange have been extreme, and on the average of the last five years the rate obtained for bills on India was 1s. 8½d.

The surplus above indicated would cover a fall of exchange from 1s. 11d. to 1s. 9½d.

This is not the place for extended remark on the intricate question of exchange, but I may express an opinion that the main causes in operation are transient. A rapid fall in the price of silver occurred in 1876, and now, after three years of depression, a considerable reaction has begun, and will probably continue.

An adverse rate of exchange, if likely to be permanent, should not be neglected, but, under existing circumstances, it is, I think, unadvisable to disturb the arrangements of the Fund.

I bear in mind the fact that the Government of India, in a letter, No. 245, dated 13th August 1877, called attention to the adjustment of exchange, but since it appears, as above shown, that the actual condition of the Fund is at par with a rate of 1s. 9½d., I will venture to suggest that the contributions to the Fund may remain unchanged until the silver market becomes more steady than it is at this time. A careful watch on the course of exchange will be maintained, and the operations of the Fund are as yet so small that serious damage cannot suddenly occur. Of late the exchange has been very low, but it has not touched this Fund, and a considerable rise may be expected.

The details of the valuation are annexed, with an explanatory memorandum prepared by Mr. Hoskins, of the Funds Department. It will be seen that for each married member a special calculation has been made. An important circumstance has thus come prominently under notice.

Owing to the long term of 12 years to be passed in the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in the Staff Corps, the highest rate of pension (160%) granted by the Fund will seldom, if ever, be reached until the officer attains the age of 55. This may in the future be felt by officers as an inconvenience.

In answer to a reference on the 21st April 1877, I stated an opinion that admission to subscribe in higher grades would not be injurious to the Fund, but I thought that the time for making such a change in the rules had not arrived. I considered that the disadvantage of uncompensated risks brought on by the older entrants had to be surmounted, and I was averse from change while the condition of the Fund had not been ascertained.

It was also stated that by restricting contributions to the actual rank of the officers, the duty of the Pay Department would be simplified.

At the present date, in the light of the valuation now submitted, I will not maintain objections to a regulated admission of Lieutenant-Colonels to subscribe in Class 'I. Perhaps six years' service as Lieutenant-Colonel may, for this end, be sufficient, and the matter is open to the consideration of the Secretary of State.

INDIA OFFICE,
The 16th October 1879. }

J. HANNYNGTON.

No. 377, dated 9th November 1880.

From—The Government of India,

To—The Secretary of State for India.

We have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of Lord Cranbrook's Despatch No. 7 Financial (Funds), dated 6th November 1879, and to express our regret that it has remained so long unanswered.

2. From the papers received with this despatch, it appears that Major-General Hannington estimates that, on the 31st March 1878, the Capital Value of the Assets of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund, established under G. O. G. G. No. 1315 of 1872, and No. 560 of 1873, exceeded the Capital Value of its Liabilities by Rs. 1,75,190, or Rs. 9,156, according as the rupee is assessed to be worth 1s. 11d., or 1s. 9½d.

3. Lord Cranbrook remarked, that since the establishment of the Fund, when the Rupee was assessed at 1s. 11d., the value of silver, measured in gold, had fallen considerably, and added that, if this decline should be permanent, an increase of the Contributions payable by the Subscribers in India will be necessary. For the present, however, His Lordship thought that it would suffice to reduce the Rate of Exchange in the Pro Formæ Accounts of the Fund from 1s. 11d. to 1s. 9½d. the Rupee. This alteration was, accordingly, authorised with effect from the 1st April last, to remain in force until the next Valuation. Inasmuch as, even at this Rate of Exchange, the Assets of the Fund, according to General Hannington's Valuation, still slightly exceeded its Liabilities, Lord Cranbrook observed that no increase of the Contributions of the Subscribers would be necessary.

4. The Liabilities of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund, like those of all similar Institutions, may be classed as follows:—

Incumbent for Widows and Children actually in receipt of Pensions;

Contingent for actually existing Individuals, who will receive Pensions if the Subscribers upon whom they are dependent, predecease them; and Potential for Wives yet unmarried and Children yet unborn.

Potential Liabilities exist, both in respect to the Bachelors and Widowers subscribing to the Fund, and, also, in respect to the Married Subscribers.

5. Under the recent Valuation of the Bengal Civil Fund its Liabilities, were distributed among these several Classes as follows:—

	£	Per cent.
Incumbent	723,000	77.19
Contingent	93,000
Potential	508,000
Total	2,224,000	22.81

6. Thus, of the whole Liabilities of the Bengal Civil Fund, 22.81 per cent. are Potential Liabilities, which Class of Liabilities amounts to 29.55 per cent. of the Incumbent and Contingent Liabilities.

7. Till recently, these Potential Liabilities were overlooked by the Actuaries under whose advice the several Indian Civil Family Pension Funds were managed, the result being, as is plain from the foregoing figures, that the Managers were entirely misled as to their position.

8. We do not find, in General Hannington's Valuation, any reference to the Potential Liabilities of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund. Indeed, inasmuch as General Hannington has assigned specific ages to the 819 Children for whom he provides, there seems strong reason to infer that, at least, he cannot have taken account of the serious Liabilities of the Fund on account of the Unborn Children, even of the existing Married Subscribers, not to mention the Unborn Children of Bachelors and Widowers, and of Second Marriages of the present Married Subscribers.

9. We do not forget that, corresponding with the Potential Liabilities of such an Institution, there are Potential Assets in the shape of Donations and Subscriptions for the Wives to be married, and the Children to be born, in the future; but our experience in the case of the Civil Funds leads us to believe that the value of the Potential Assets of such a Fund is by no means equal to the value of its Potential Liabilities, and, at all events, we certainly do not think that without specific evidence, it can be assumed, with such certainty, that the Potential Assets of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund are equal to its Potential Liabilities, that both may be omitted from a Valuation of the Fund without affecting its correctness.

10. We are, also, respectfully, unable to acquiesce in the assumption that 1s. 9½d. is, under present circumstances, a proper Rate of Exchange to assume in a calculation of the Assets and Liabilities of the Fund.

11. The average Rates obtained for the Secretary of State's Bills upon India have been as follows:—

1875-76	1	9.64
1876-77	1	8.19
1877-78	1	8.79
1879-80	1	7.91
1880-81 to date	1	8.08

The Sterling Exchanges have been, of late years, sustained by large increases to our Debt, rendered necessary by Famine and War, from which we may now reasonably expect some respite.

12. We do not share General Hannington's opinion that the main causes of the recent divergence between the values of gold and silver are transient, or see any evidence of the considerable reaction which, writing in June 1879, he thought had begun, and would, probably, continue; and we cannot think that he is right in laying any stress upon the Average Rate of Exchange during the past five years.

13. It must be borne in mind, that the fundamental principle of the Indian Service Family Pension Fund, from which principle we hope that no departure is contemplated, has been that the State shall contribute nothing, in any shape, to the Fund, which is purely and simply a Mutual Insurance Fund. This being so, considerations of equity imperatively demand that the greatest care shall be taken that the Periodical Valuations of the Assets and Liabilities of the Fund are complete, and that they contain no element of speculation, such as, it seems to us, is contained in the assumption that the value of a rupee, measured in sterling money, is likely to increase. We think it at least as likely that it will decrease: but we deprecate any speculation on the subject either way, and recommend that the Assets and Liabilities of the Fund be valued at the current Average Rate which, as we write, may, perhaps, be taken at 1s. 8d.

14. If any mistake is made in the Valuations of the Assets and Liabilities of the Fund, either the Revenues of India will, we fear, be made to bear the consequences, or the support of the Fund will be unjustly distributed between the present Subscribers and their successors. We have, therefore, thought it right to abstain, pending Your Lordship's consideration of this despatch, from making any general alterations in the Rules of the Fund, and from publishing General Hannington's Report and Valuation.

15. But we have notified the alterations of detail authorised in the 8th and 9th paragraphs of Lord Cranbrook's despatch.

No. 2, dated 17th February 1881.

From—The Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India.

I have considered in Council your Financial letter, dated 9th of November 1880, No. 377, recommending that, in the valuation of the Indian Service Family Pensions, the rate of exchange should be taken at 1s. 8d., instead of 1s. 9½d., per rupee, as proposed in Financial (Funds) despatch, dated 6th November 1879.

2. Before coming to a conclusion as to the necessity of an alteration in the rates of contribution payable by subscribers on account of these pensions, I caused a reference to be made to Mr. William Sutton, the Actuary to the Registry of Friendly Societies, and a copy of his report* is herewith enclosed for your information, together with a further memorandum† by Major-General Hannington, of this office.

* Dated 18th January 1881.

† Dated 6th December 1880.

3. You will observe that, if the contributions fixed in 1873 are taken as the standard, and the balance in India as on 31st March 1878 is converted into sterling at 1s. 8s6d., which is the average of the rates obtained for the Secretary of State's bills upon India from 1874 to 1880, there is an estimated surplus as on that date of 10,523*l.*, which, Mr. Sutton suggests, should be employed in lessening the effect of the fall in the rate of exchange on the rupee contributions in India, and that this application of the surplus would allow of the rate of exchange for the conversion of the sterling contributions into rupees being for the present taken at a little over 1*s.* 9½*d.* instead of 1*s.* 8*d.* per rupee.

4. The subscribers were informed by G.O.G.G., dated 28th December 1872, No. 1815, that no assistance would be granted from Indian revenues towards the payment of the pensions provided by these regulations, and that the rates of contribution would be so adjusted as to "supply the pensions, and no more."

5. In accordance with this principle, it was stated, in Financial (Funds) despatch No. 7 of 1879, that, if the decline in the value of silver should be permanent, an increase in the contributions payable by the subscribers in India would be necessary. There is no reason to suppose that the rates of contribution originally fixed are insufficient, but it is apparent from Mr. Sutton's Report, that, owing to the fall in the rate of exchange, after giving the subscribers the full benefit of the surplus in 1878, a small increase in the rates of the rupee contributions will still be necessary to provide the benefits.

6. The pensions in sterling were originally fixed at rates which, when added to those granted by the Secretary of State for India in Council to the widows of Staff Corps Officers, &c., under the provisions of the Royal Warrant applicable to the British Army, made the total pensions payable as nearly as possible equal to the average pensions from the several Military Funds, and it is not desirable that the benefits thus fixed should be liable to alteration either in England or in India.

7. I, therefore, authorise you to notify to the subscribers that the rate of exchange in the pro forma account will now be altered from 1*s.* 11*d.* to 1*s.* 8*d.*, and that the sterling rates will for the present be converted into Indian currency at a little over 1*s.* 9½*d.* instead of 1*s.* 11*d.*, which is equivalent to increasing the existing rupee contributions by about 8 per cent.

8. Mr. Sutton further proposes, with a view to make the question of the sufficiency of the contributions for the benefits independent in future of fluctuations in the rate of exchange, that the annual pro forma accounts and valuation balance sheets should henceforth be made out in sterling, on the principle that everything should be brought into the unit in which the liabilities are fixed, and have ultimately to be paid.

9. Acting upon this principle, he would convert the contributions in India into sterling at the time from which they are assumed to carry interest at the rate of exchange which may be fixed by the Secretary of State at the commencement of each year, and he would so adjust the Indian contributions year by year, that they would, when converted into sterling, be always equivalent to the fixed contributions in English currency which are assumed to be sufficient to provide the benefits.

10. The objection to this proposal is, that the recovery by the officers of your Pay Department of rates of contribution varying year by year with the fluctuations in the rate of exchange would be highly inconvenient.

11. The main object of Mr. Sutton's proposal, namely, the exclusion of the fluctuations in the rate of exchange from the question of the sufficiency of the contributions for the benefits may, however, practically be attained without an annual adjustment of the Indian contributions.

12. The fixed contributions in sterling* being taken as the standard, the value of payments into your treasury by the subscribers in India would be determined by the rate of exchange in force at the date of such payment. The total receipts in each year could then be converted into sterling at the current rate of exchange at which the contributions are valued, and the capital in the pro forma account kept for the purpose of ascertaining the sufficiency of the payments to supply the pensions would always be stated in sterling, and would not be liable to be affected by exchange.

subsequent remittance of sums to England for the payment of the pensions, is undertaken by the Government, and that the loss, if any, from a rise in the rate of exchange would fall on

13. The valuations would be made in sterling without reference to exchange, and an adjustment of the Indian rates of contribution so as to secure the payment by the subscribers of the equivalent of the fixed rates in sterling might be made at the date of each triennial or quinquennial valuation.

14. The fact has not been overlooked that, by this plan, the risk of loss from a fall in the rate of exchange between the date of the conversion of the Indian balances into sterling and the date of the the subscribers. On the other hand, the value of the subscribers' payments should properly be determined at the date of payment, and not at any subsequent period, and as the immediate conversion of their payments into sterling, at the rate of exchange by which their value at the date of payment is determined, is a measure which would be equally fair to the subscribers and the Government, I am disposed to think that the risk of subsequent fluctuations in the exchange, and its bearing on remittances to England, consequent on the liability having to be met in this country, being a risk which may equally affect both the Government and the subscribers, need not be taken into account.

15. I shall, however, await the receipt of the views of your Government before passing a final decision on the subject, though I assume that you will, if possible, introduce the increased rate of contribution, and alter the rate of exchange from the commencement of the ensuing financial year.

16. A copy of the rules of the Fund, showing the altered rates of contributions in rupees, is forwarded herewith, and it will be observed that small fractions have been omitted.

Dated 18th January 1881.

Report from—W. SUTTON, Esq., Actuary to the Registry of Friendly Societies,
To—J. S. OLIPHANT, Esq., Director of Funds, India Office.

I have carefully perused the documents annexed to your communication of 5th instant, and, after giving the important question raised in that communication most anxious consideration, I have the honour to report as follows.

2. The rates of contributions and benefits are given in the rules of the Fund both in English money and rupees, the latter being deduced from the former at the rate of 1s. 11d. per rupee, and the rules provide for an alteration of the value of the rupee from time to time as the Secretary of State shall order. Members and incumbents pay and receive respectively in the currency of England or India according as they are for the time being in Europe or India. It would appear from the manner in which the rules are drawn up, and from Major-General Hannington's Report, dated 1870, that the rates of contribution and benefits are considered to be fixed in English money, and that the rupee contributions and benefits are considered to be variable, and made to depend from time to time upon the value given to a rupee by the Secretary of State. From the nature of the case, however, it may be taken for granted that the bulk of the payments into the Fund will take place in India in rupees, and that by far the greater portion of the payments out of the Fund will take place in Europe in English money.

3. Accordingly, it follows that the contributions payable in rupees, and which are intended to provide fixed benefits practically payable in English money, must from time to time be so adjusted that they shall, when converted into English money, be equivalent to the contributions in English money payable when in Europe for the same benefits. In order to give strict effect to the actuarial assumptions upon which the rates of contribution and benefit have been based, it is essential that such conversion into English money should take place as nearly as possible at the time from which the contributions are assumed to carry interest. This would probably be sufficiently well carried out in practice if the Secretary of State were to declare just previous to the commencement of each financial year of the Fund what is to be taken as the value of a rupee for the ensuing year. The contributions payable in each year would then be, as regards those payable in Europe, always the same, but, as regards those payable in India, would vary in amount from year to year according to the declared value of the rupee. This is the correct method of ensuring what I take to be the object sought, namely, that the question of the sufficiency of the contributions for the benefits, in other words, the question of the Fund's solvency, shall be made independent of fluctuations in the rate of exchange.

4. It will be seen that this method proceeds on the principle that the contributions whose accumulations are hereafter to provide the benefits shall, immediately they are payable, be converted into money of the same kind as that the benefits are ultimately to be paid in, the contributions in rupees to be of such amount from year to year, as, when forthwith converted into English money, shall be of the same amount as those payable in Europe.

5. In the letter from the Finance Department of the Government of India, dated 9th November 1880, the average rates of exchange for the Secretary of State's bills upon India are stated to be,—

				s.	d.
1874-75	1	10.22 per rupee.
1875-76	1	9.64 "
1876-77	1	8.49 "
1877-78	1	8.79 "
1878-79	1	7.96 "
1879-80	Not stated.
1880 to date	1	8.08 "

6. Taking these figures, it would appear, on the assumption that pensions are all practically payable in England, that the contributions paid in rupees have been considerably less than, under the strict method just indicated, should have been paid. Indeed, the only full tabular contributions paid in the course of those years would be those paid in England, and had it not been for the fact that these latter contributions more than sufficed to meet the incumbent pensions payable in England during the same period, the question of the rate of exchange would, probably, have sooner called for consideration.

7. There would not appear to be any great practical difficulty in carrying out the method that has been here indicated. Tables could be constructed and circulated with the rules showing, say, for all rates from 1s. 6d. per rupee to 2s. per rupee, and proceeding by halfpennies, the amounts of rupee benefits and contributions corresponding to fixed English money benefits and contributions, and from year to year the reference to the tables would simply depend upon the Secretary of State's order as to the value of a rupee for that year.

8. In consistently carrying out this scheme it would follow that the annual accounts and the valuation balance sheets should, in future, be made out, not with a rupee as the unit, but in English money, acting on the principle that everything should be brought into the unit in which the liabilities are fixed and have ultimately to be paid. As it appears that only a pro forma account is kept, the balance on each year's transactions in India in rupees should be at once converted into English money at the rate fixed for that year by the Secretary of State, so that the total amount at any time standing to the credit of the Fund in India would appear in English money.

9. There appears to be a small item of liability in respect of assurances where the unit of liability is fixed in rupees. There need be no difficulty in dealing with this, however, and it might, if thought desirable, be kept distinct.

10. According to Major-General Hannington's valuation as at 31st March 1878, there was, on the assumption of a permanent rate of exchange of 1s. 11d. per rupee, an estimated surplus of Rs. 1,75,199, which would be reduced to a surplus of only Rs. 9,156 if the permanent rate of exchange were taken as 1s. 9½d., and according to his memorandum of 6th December 1880 would be converted into a deficiency amounting to about 10 per cent. of the estimated value of the future contributions if the rate were taken at 1s. 8d. per rupee.

11. I am informed by Major-General Hannington that the balance standing to the credit of the fund in England as at 31st March 1878 amounted (including interest) to 4,397l. 10s., but it will be seen, on reference to the valuation balance sheets contained in Major-General Hannington's report, that the capital of the Fund is throughout stated at Rs. 8,53,131, so that the effect of turning the 4,397l. 10s. into rupees at a lower rate than 1s. 11d. per rupee is not taken into account. The result is to slightly understate the estimated surplus taking the rupee = 1s. 9½d., and to overstate the estimated deficiency, taking the rupee = 1s. 8d.

12. If, now, the valuation balance sheet be presented in English money, it will stand as follows:—

Rupee=1s. 11d.
Assets.		Liabilities.
	£		£
Capital: India	77,361.5	Estimated value of incumbent pensions—
England	4,397.5	Widows	11,110
	81,759	Children	8,282
Estimated value of contributions			19,392

money):—		Wives	153,481
Wives	134,398	Children	55,202
Children	38,653		208,683
		Assurances	360
		Office charges	9,543
			238,018
		Estimated surplus	16,792
	254,810		254,810

13. If the rupee be valued at 1s. 9½d., the capital in India will be reduced to 72,815l., and the assurances and office charges to 337l. and 8,958l. respectively, giving an estimated surplus of 12,394l.

14. If the rupee be valued at 1s. 8d., the capital in India will be reduced to 67,270l., and the assurances and office charges to 313l. and 8,333l. respectively, giving an estimated surplus of 7,998l.

15. If the rupee be valued at 1s. 8½d., that being the average of the rates given in the letter from the Finance Department of the Government of India, dated 9th November 1880, the capital in India will stand at 70,167l., and the assurances and office charges at 326l. and 8,692l. respectively, giving an estimated surplus of 10,523l.

16. Now, assuming the Secretary of State to authorise the conversion of the capital in India as at 31st March 1878 into English money in the manner already indicated, at the average rate of exchange of 1s. 8½d. per rupee, and assuming that, for the present at all events, the contributions are to be paid in rupees at the rate of 1s. 8d. per rupee, taking as the standard the fixed English money contributions, and assuming, further, that the estimated surplus of 10,523*l.* is to be appropriated in reduction of the contributions, or, which will be practically the same thing, in raising the value of a rupee, the next step is to calculate how much the rate of exchange should be raised to give effect to this appropriation of surplus. Now 10,523*l.* is 6.1387 per cent. of 173,051*l.*, the estimated value of the contributions if payable in English money, so that only 98,861*l.* 3 per cent. of the said contributions may be considered as required for solvency of the Fund. That is, for every 12 rupees to the pound (rupee=l. 8*d.*) only 11.203356 rupees are required, so that the appropriation of the said estimated surplus would have the effect of raising the rate of exchange to be used from l. 8*d.*, the assumed rate ordered by the Secretary of State, to $\frac{240}{11.203356}$, that is, 21.308*d.*, or a little over l. 9½*d.* As the rate of exchange hitherto used for estimating the contributions payable in rupees has been taken at l. 11*d.* per rupee, this is equivalent to raising the existing rupee contributions in the ratio of 23*d.* to 21.308*d.*, or by as near as may be eight per cent.

17. If the conversion of the existing capital in India, as at date of valuation, be effected at l. 8*d.* per rupee, the surplus for appropriation, as already shown, would be 7,998*l.*, and instead of 21.308*d.* as the new value of a rupee for determining the rupee contributions, we should have 20.97*d.*, and the substitution of this rate for the existing rate of 23*d.*, or l. 11*d.*, would be equivalent to raising the existing rupee contributions by 9.7 per cent., a result only slightly differing from the 10 per cent. advised by Major-General Hannington.

18. In keeping the Indian accounts in the manner that has been indicated, the rupees constituting the year's balance would, of course, be converted into English money at the rate of l. 8*d.* per rupee, and the subscribers to the Fund would understand that the allowance of the higher rate of exchange by which to determine their rupee contributions was the effect of giving them the full benefit of the surplus shown on the valuation.

Note.—Throughout what has preceded the word contributions must be taken as including donations.

19. Although not strictly within the terms of this reference, it may be considered desirable to allude to the other point raised in the letter of 9th November 1880 from the Finance Department of the Government of India. Exception appears to be taken to the fact that Major-General Hannington has not brought into account in his valuation the potential liabilities connected with the Fund. This is quite correct, but the reason for the omission is obvious. I gather from his report of 1870 that Major-General Hannington has so drawn up the scheme of the Fund that all potential liabilities shall have a corresponding potential asset in the form of equivalent donations and contributions, so that if the valuation had taken account on the one side of potential liabilities, there would necessarily appear on the other side a corresponding potential asset of exactly equivalent estimated value.

Dated 6th December 1880.

Memorandum by—MAJOR-GENERAL J. HANNINGTON.

Indian Service Family Pension Regulations.

With reference to the letter of the Government of India, No. 377, dated the 9th November 1880, I beg leave to say that the Government seems to have been misled by a supposed analogy between the constitution of the Civil Service Funds and that of the Military Family Pension Fund. The Government accordingly observes that the liabilities of the Family Pension Fund, like those of all similar institutions, may be classed into—

1. Incumbent,
2. Contingent,
3. Potential, and percentages of these risks, as derived from a recent valuation of the Bengal Civil Fund, are then set forth.

2. The Government has not found in my valuation any reference to potential liabilities, and because of this apparent omission, the publication of my report and valuation has been suspended.

3. In answer to this unexpected objection, I must explain that the Indian Civil Funds are not by any means similar to the Family Pension Fund. They are, in most important respects, essentially dissimilar.

4. The Civil Funds are supported by percentages levied on salaries. Not one member pays (unless by accident) in due proportion to the benefits that his family will receive. However the liabilities may rise or fall, the sum of the contributions of members remains almost invariable. Hence arises the necessity for taking account of the several classes of liabilities mentioned by the Government of India. Hence also it is that valuations of the Civil Funds are so complex and so difficult as to task the skill of the most competent actuaries. It is no wonder that in times past they have been defective.

5. In the Family Pension Regulations, as its published rules very plainly show, each benefit is set against a corresponding and carefully adjusted payment. If a member marry he pays an immediate donation, with a rate of contribution proportionate to the pension of his widows.

If a child be born, a birth donation and a proper rate of subscription must be paid. If a widower remarry he has to contribute according to his then age and position, exactly on the same terms as if he were a bachelor contracting a first marriage. Thus it will be understood that in every case a determinate equation subsists, and that each obligation of the Fund is covered, as it arises, by a corresponding payment. It follows that in the Family Pension Regulations "potential liabilities" have no place.

6. On the question of exchange I cannot offer a confident opinion. There has been, for some years, a steady descent in the rates obtained for the Secretary of State's bills on India, and until something like a limit has been reached, a valuation of the Family Pension Fund assets will be more or less uncertain.

7. Up to the present time exchange has not touched the Fund. The contributions received in England have discharged all claims, and, as shown in the margin, a considerable balance remains on hand. Under these circumstances I think that the Fund may safely await the course of events as to exchange, and that the reduction from 1s. 11d. to 1s. 9½d., as ordered by the Secretary of State, will suffice, as was intended, until the next valuation as on 31st March 1883.

8. That the Indian Government should watch over the progress of the Fund is eminently desirable, and the views that may from time to time be held by the Government must command attention. Therefore, I proceed to say that if it be determined to establish a strict equilibrium of assets and liabilities as on the 31st March 1878, this may be done by—

1. Increase of contributions only.
2. Decrease of benefits only.
3. Readjustment of both.

Of these measures, the first is, I think, the best, and taking exchange at 1s. 8d., as proposed by the Government of India, the requisite increase of contributions would be 10 per cent.

10. The second measure would press hardly on a helpless class. The benefits already granted to present incumbents cannot be altered, but all future benefits would be reduced by 7½ per cent.

11. Thirdly, by a readjustment of both, the contributions would be increased by 5 per cent., and the future benefits of all kinds would be reduced by 3½ per cent.

RESOLUTION.—These proceedings contain the record of the existing agreements with the several Local Governments for the administration of the provincial services.

2. These agreements are the outcome of what is popularly known as Lord Mayo's decentralisation scheme of 1870. The principles of that scheme could in 1870 only be applied in a limited and tentative manner. Certain heads of expenditure were handed over to the more unfettered control of Local Governments, together with the means of providing for them, consisting partly of the receipts under the same heads, and partly of a fixed consolidated allotment from the Imperial revenue. The Governments were to use as they pleased any surplus, but to make good any deficit, resulting from their administration:

3. In 1877 an important advance was made by handing over to certain Governments heads of revenue, but also introducing the principle of Provincial responsibility for works constructed for mere Local and Provincial purposes.

At the same time were issued (Resolution, Financial Department, No. 1709 of 22nd March 1877) new "rules and conditions," which are still the standard, for the administration by the Governments of all revenues and services handed over to them. All the Governments except that of Madras, which remains under the arrangements of 1870, readily accepted the more independent position offered to them; and in 1877, or subsequently, have entered into revised agreements of more or less extended scope, the latest (for Assam and British Burma) affecting almost all heads of revenue and expenditure. These agreements were in some cases for short terms, and all either have expired already, or will expire with the current year, except the two last specified, which extend to 1882-83. These two it is proposed, with the consent of the Local Governments concerned, to terminate on the 31st March next, in order to secure an early establishment of the decentralisation system in all the Provinces on a uniform and extended basis.

4. In the first place, it is now proposed to apply to the whole of India the principle upon which the most recent settlement, namely, that with Burma in 1879, was framed. That principle is that, instead of giving Local Governments a fixed sum of money to make good any excess of provincialised expenditure over provincialised receipts, a certain proportion of the Imperial revenue of each Province should be devoted to this object. Certain heads, as few in number as possible, are wholly or with minute local exceptions only, reserved as Imperial; others are divided, in proportions for the most part equal, between Imperial and Provincial; the rest are wholly, or with minute local exceptions only, made Provincial. The balance of transfers being against the Local Governments, is rectified for each Province by a fixed percentage on its Land Revenue (otherwise reserved as Imperial), except in Burma where the percentage is extended to the Imperial rice export duty and salt revenue also. The advantage of this system over that which now generally prevails is, that the Provincial Governments will be given a direct interest, not only in the provincialised revenue, but also in the most important item of Imperial revenue raised within their own Province.

5. Another important change which is contemplated requires somewhat fuller explanation. In the Resolution No. 3334, dated 14th December 1870, the Imperial Government, speaking broadly, announced a policy of divesting itself of both responsibility and control within certain limits, but a reservation was made (paragraph 17) of power to modify the resources granted, in the event of "some fiscal misfortune, such as heavy loss in the opium revenue, or national disaster, such as war or severe famine." On two occasions already within a decade this reservation has been acted on. On the occasion of the great famine of 1876-77 in Western and Southern India, the Supreme Government necessarily came to the rescue of the Local Governments in meeting the enormous outlay involved; but it directed that all Provincial and Local resources must be exhausted before Imperial aid could be supplied. This decision was unexceptionable in the sense in which it was meant; but it may have led to developments which were not altogether intended. The second occasion on which the reservation has been acted on is that of the Afghan war. The Local Governments were called upon during the years 1879-80 and 1880-81 to contribute £670,000 from the resources made their own by the decentralisation policy, and in the Financial Statement of 1880-81 (paragraph 170) the hope was expressed that they had been able "to afford this timely help to the general finances with little apparent difficulty." The circumstances of the time were, without doubt, peculiar, and the strain upon the finances was undoubtedly severe. But the sudden suspension of improvements in progress, the starvation of public works, and the discouragement of care and economy by requiring a surrender of their results could not, in themselves, be otherwise than prejudicial.

6. In modification, therefore, of the reservation hitherto in force, it is proposed to declare, on the one hand, that the Local Governments must look for no special aid from the Imperial Government except in the case of severe famine (and then only within limits to which allusion will presently be made); and on the other, that the Imperial Government will make no demand on them except in the case of disaster so abnormal as to exhaust the Imperial reserves and resources, and to necessitate a suspension of the entire machinery of public improvement throughout the Empire.

7. The question of relief to be afforded on the occasion of severe famine presents considerable difficulties. It has been suggested that each Local Government should be held responsible for a fixed share of any expenditure incurred on famine relief, and that exceptional cases may be left for exceptional treatment at the time. To this course, the objections are that any fixed share of the expenditure will always be either too much or too little, and that a time of actual famine is a bad time for driving bargains and defining responsibilities. It is obvious that the Provincial Government ought to have a direct interest in keeping down relief expenditure, and equally so that a Provincial Government, emerging from a great famine after exhausting all its resources, cannot be saddled with a further liability for interest on Imperial famine expenditure, and will even be crippled in its ordinary administration for many years to come. The real question seems to be, how far should Provincial resources be depleted before Imperial aid steps in?

8. Assuming that Provincial responsibility ought to be enforced within reasonable limits, His Excellency in Council considers that those limits must bear relation to the Provincial resources, not to the relief expenditure. Provincial resources consist of (1) current income during the period of distress; (2) accumulated savings of past years, in excess of the ordinary "working balance"; and (3) the margin of provincialised income over expenditure in normal years, which is the Provincial Government's "profit on the contract" available for public improvements. Upon these, provincial responsibility will be enforced in proportion to their nature. The first should be entirely exhausted, every avoidable expense in every department being retrenched, and the Public Works grants being applied to famine works to the very utmost possible. The second should be drawn upon up to two-thirds only of their total amount. The third will, in the first place, be made liable to whatever extent may be necessary, in addition to the ordinary Public Works grants, for the completion of works begun as relief works under the pressure of famine. In cases where no such need for completion remains after a famine, this third resource will be chargeable up to one-fourth, at most, for payment of interest of Imperial loans (if any) which have been raised to meet the excess cost of that famine in the Province.

9. In connection with this subject, His Excellency in Council is pleased to declare that, though unable to give any absolute pledge at this early period, it is his intention, in the event of a sufficient surplus accruing at the close of the current financial year, to restore to the Provincial Governments the contributions, as per margin, which they made to the Imperial Government in the years 1879-80 and 1880-81, on receipt of satisfactory assurances that these amounts will be devoted to Productive Public Works.

10. There is, however, another very important question which is intimately connected with the general scheme for the decentralisation of finance, namely, the development of self-government. Allusion was prominently made to this point in the 23rd paragraph of the Resolution of December 14th, 1870, in the following terms:—

"But beyond all this, there is a greater and wider object in view. Local interest, supervision, and care are necessary to success in the management of funds devoted to education, sanitation, medical charity, and local public works. The operation of this Resolution in its full meaning and integrity will afford opportunities for the development of self-government, for strengthening municipal institutions, and for the association of Natives and Europeans to a greater extent than heretofore in the administration of affairs."

In pursuance of the policy thus laid down, considerable progress has been made since 1870. The bulk of the local rates and cesses now existing has been imposed since that date; in some Provinces a portion of these have been entrusted to the management of Committees; in others, such as Bombay, the Committees previously existing have made great advances in resources and in efficiency. Municipalities, also, have increased in number and usefulness. At the same time, it must be admitted that there has been greater inequality in the progress in the direction of self-government attained in the various Provinces than their respective circumstances can be altogether held to justify. There undoubtedly exists very great variety in the weight of the burdens borne by different localities, and very great diversity in the objects for which the latter are called on to provide. The inequality sometimes produces a sense of injustice; the objects are often those the advantage or local obligation of which the people are least able to understand. Matters such as primary education and minor public works, which have in some Provinces been for many years under local management with acknowledged advantage, are in others reserved to the Provincial Government, while heavy contributions are levied from municipalities for Police, in the administration of which they necessarily can take no part.

11. His Excellency the Governor General in Council is, therefore, of opinion that the time has now arrived when further practical development may be afforded to the intentions of Lord Mayo's government, and that the Provincial agreements should no longer exclude from all consideration the mass of taxation under Local and Municipal management, together with the similar resources still retained in Provincial control, and ignore the question of local self-government. The Provincial Governments, while being now largely endowed from Imperial sources, may well, in their turn, hand over to local self-government considerable revenues, at present kept in their own hands, but similar in kind to many which have long been "locally" managed with success by Committees, partly composed of non-official members, and subject only to a general remedial control reserved to the State by the legislature. At the same time, such items should be generally made Local as the people are most likely to be able to understand the use of and to administer well. His Excellency would, therefore, invite the local Governments to undertake a careful scrutiny of Provincial, Local, and Municipal accounts, with the view of ascertaining (1) what items of receipt and charge can be transferred from "Provincial" to "Local" heads, for administration by Committees comprising non-official, and, wherever possible, elected members, and what items already "Local" but not so administered, might suitably be so; (2) what redistribution of items is desirable in order to lay on Local and Municipal bodies those which are best understood and appreciated by the people; (3) what measures, legislative or otherwise, are necessary to ensure more local self-government. Incidentally to the scrutiny they will probably notice, and might carefully consider (4) ways of equalizing local and municipal taxation throughout the Empire, checking severe or unsuitable imposts, and favouring forms most in accordance with popular opinion or sentiment. The Government of India have already made some preliminary inquiries in the same direction, the results of which will shortly be communicated to the several Local Governments for consideration in conjunction with their own.

12. Appended to this Resolution are a schedule showing the heads under which it is proposed to make assignments for Provincial Services, and a figured statement of its actual operation, if applied to the estimates of 1881-82, in the case of each Government. Both are subject to any modifications in the direction of "de-provincialisation," or transfer of funds to local and municipal bodies, which may result from the inquiries instituted in accordance with the preceding paragraph. The following remarks are offered in explanation of the schedule.

13. It is deemed expedient that the Imperial and Provincial Governments should have joint and equal interests in the net revenue from Forests, Excise, Assessed Taxes, Stamps, and Registration, including Record Room Fees.

Such a joint interest in the more important of these revenues already practically exists in most Provinces, although in a somewhat complex form. Regarding Registration, however, it may be observed that the present policy of the Government of India is not to look upon it as a source of revenue.

14. The Imperial Government will, henceforth, claim no share in the revenue from Provincial Rates, which will be appropriated wholly by the Local Governments.

15. The Medical Establishments have not hitherto been included in the provincial services, except in the case of Bombay and British Burma, because their cost is not immediately within the control of the Local Governments. But experience shows that these items are subject to little fluctuation; and it seems simpler and better now to include them in the provincial allotments. The Ecclesiastical Establishments are, to some extent, in a similar position, but it appears desirable, for various reasons, that they should, for the present, be provincially administered outside the new arrangements, on the fixed allotment system.

16. With respect to Pensions, some of the Local Governments have hitherto objected to become responsible for them, because the pensioners of one Government may draw their pensions from treasuries under another Government. But, as it is evidently desirable that the Government which grants a pension or gratuity should be responsible for its cost, the Governor General in Council has lately, in order to obviate that objection, allowed the inter-provincial adjustment of expenditure on pensions.

In the same way, it is proposed to allow the inter-provincial adjustment of revenue collected by one Local Government for another (such, for example, as the excise on spirit distilled, or on fermented liquors and drugs produced in India, when carried by land or sea, and under bond or otherwise, into some other Province).

None of these adjustments will appear in the Finance and Revenue Accounts; they will be effected outside these accounts by clearing or cancelling arrangements under the supervision of the Comptroller General, who will record all claims established, after mutual correspondence, by one Local Government against another or against the Imperial Government, and adjust them by periodical transfers from the balances of the debtor Governments to those of the creditor Governments.

17. Railways, Irrigation and Navigation, and Other Public Works.—

* In thousands of rupees.	Railways Miles.	Irrigation Works, gross, including in- direct Re- venue *
Now provincialised	1,181	60,83
Now imperial ...	2,463	2,35,48
Total	3,644	2,96,31

The extent to which these works have up to the present time been provincialised is shown in the margin. Under the arrangements now in force, each Local Government bears, as a provincial charge, interest on the whole imperial part of the capital cost of every such work in its jurisdiction, of which capital and revenue accounts are kept, whether such cost has been recorded under 38 Productive Public Works, or under some other ordinary head, and is entirely responsible for its construction and administration. The connection of the Government of India with such works is confined to the enforcement of the rules and tests prescribed by itself or the Secretary of State, and to the provision of the funds required from the Imperial Treasury under the head of Productive Public Works. The Local Governments do not, of course, pay interest upon any part of the capital cost of such works which has been provided from Provincial Revenues, or by means of Local Debt or Loans the interest on which is a Provincial charge.

18. Since the time, however, when the arrangements just described were matured, Public Works policy and prospects have altered most materially. The "Famine Relief and Insurance" annual allotment has been permanently fixed, the invocation of private enterprise is producing a response the limits and effects of which no one can now foresee, and the resources of the Empire for public works will require manipulation, as a whole, from new standpoints, and for the attainment of hitherto un contemplated ends. Under these circumstances, it seems to be unwise, and might prove to be improvident, to stereotype, much more to alter hastily the status quo. Irrigation works will, probably, still be constructed almost entirely by the State, in which case provincialisation may still be freely pursued; but as regards Railways, the future is altogether uncertain. The Governor General in Council desires to make the administration of all these services as far as possible Provincial, but is unable, for the reasons explained, to give more than a general declaration of intention to provincialise hereafter every work which, on mature consideration, proves suitable for such treatment. Existing provincialisations will not be now interfered with, but should be considered to be provisional only.

19. The financial result shown in the figured statement may be summarised as under; the percentage of land revenue to be assigned to produce equilibrium is added :—

* In hundreds of rupees.

The above figures thus fall into the Budget Estimate of 1880-81, upon which the statement is based :—

	Revenues.*	Expenditure.*
Amount comprised in the Provincial arrangement as above ...	41,88,24,5	18,92,78,9

„ reserved as exclusively Imperial ...	25,78,26,5	47,57,25,1
Total ...	70,41,67,0	69,56,17,0

* In hundreds of rupees.

Nearly three-fifths of the revenues, and above one-fourth of the expenditure of British India, would thus be “provincialised”; that is to say, the Provincial Governments would have to a greater or less extent, according to the circumstances of each head, an interest in, and responsibility for, their administration.

20. While thus inviting the Local Governments to assume new obligations, the Government of India has assigned to them, simultaneously, the means of discharging these obligations. The prospects of the revenues which it is proposed to divide between the Central and Local Governments, as well as of those which will be exclusively provincial, are good, and the details of the administration will be so completely in the hands of the Local Governments, that they will be able effectually to promote economy as well as to develop the revenues. Their share of the increased resources thus obtained will be at their free disposal, subject always to standing rules, to be made from time to time. After such modifications as may be made upon a consideration of the criticisms of the Local Governments, it is intended that this scheme should supersede all the existing contracts, with effect from the beginning of the financial year 1882-83.

21. The views of the Local Governments on this Resolution should reach the Government of India as early as possible. The object being simplicity and uniformity, combined with a complete development of the policy that it is expedient that a Local Government should possess a substantial independent interest in the improvement of the revenues which it collects, and the restriction of the expenditure which it incurs, the Governor General in Council anticipates the cordial co-operation of the Local Governments in this measure, and is confident that objections thereto will not be made inconsiderately.

ORDERED, that this Resolution be communicated to the Home, Foreign, Military, and Public Works Departments, as also to the Comptroller General and Accountants General, for information, and to the several Local Governments for immediate consideration, and that it be published in the Gazette of India.

Edicts introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill, and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it, are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General:—

A Bill to declare the extent of the testamentary power of Hindús and Buddhists, and to regulate their Wills.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare the extent of the testamentary power of Hindús and Buddhists, and to provide rules for the execution, attestation, revocation, revival, interpretation and probate of their wills; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Hindú Wills Act, 1882": it applies to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

2. On and from that day the Hindú Wills Act, 1870, and the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, section 154, shall be repealed. But all references to the former Act shall be read as if made to this Act.

II.—EXTENT OF TESTAMENTARY POWER.

3. Every Hindú and Buddhist may bequeath property in the cases and to the extent in and to which he may transfer the same:

Provided that when the testator is a member of an undivided family and his right to bequeath conflicts, at the time of his death, with any right of the surviving members of such family, the latter right shall prevail.

III.—RULES REGULATING WILLS.

Portions of Act X of 1867 extended to wills of Hindús and Buddhists. 4. The following portions of the Indian Succession Act, 1865, namely,— sections 46, 48, 49, 50, 51, 55 and 57 to 77 (both inclusive), sections 82, 83, 85 and 88 to 103 (both inclusive), sections 106 to 117 (both inclusive), and

shall, notwithstanding anything contained in section 331 of the same Act, apply—

(a) to all wills and codicils made by any Hindú or Buddhist on or after the first day of March, 1882, within British India; and

(b) to all such wills and codicils made outside British India, so far as relates to immoveable property situate in British India.

Proviso.

5. Nothing contained in section four shall—

(a) render any will or codicil revocable by the testator's marriage;

(b) authorise any testator to bequeath property which he could not have transferred;

(c) deprive any persons of any right of maintenance of which, but for section four of this Act, the testator could not deprive them by will;

(d) affect any law of adoption or intestate succession; or

(e) authorise any Hindú or Buddhist to create in property any interest which he could not have created before the first day of March, 1882.

IV.—MISCELLANEOUS.

6. With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, any local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, either retrospectively from the said first day of March, 1882, or prospectively, exempt from the operation of the whole or any part of section four of this Act the members of any race, sect or tribe, throughout the whole or any specified portion of the territories administered by such local Government; and may, from time to time, revoke any such exemption, but not so that the revocation shall have any retrospective effect.

7. Nothing herein contained shall affect the saving of rights of rights, duties and privileges of the Administrators General of Bengal, Madras and Bombay, respectively.

8. In this Act the term "Hindús" shall include also Jains, Sikhs and all other persons (not being Muhammadans or Buddhists) to whom the Indian Succession Act, 1865, does not apply.

And in this Act and in the said sections of the said Succession Act all words defined in the same Act shall, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, be deemed to have the same meaning as that Act has attached to such words respectively.

And in applying sections 62, 63, 92, 96, 98 to 103 (both inclusive) of the said Succession Act to wills and codicils made under this Act, the words "son," "sons," "child" and "children" shall be deemed to include an adopted child; and the word "grand-children" shall be deemed to include the children, whether adopted or natural born, of a child whether adopted or natural born; and the expression "daughter-in-law" shall be deemed to include the wife of an adopted son.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Hindú Wills Act, 1870, has now been in force for eleven years in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the Chief Commissionership of Assam and the towns of Madras and Bombay. It has worked satisfactorily in preventing forgery, fraud and perjury. There is also reason to believe that it has enhanced the value of property by making the title thereto more readily ascertainable and by facilitating its transfer. The primary object of the present Bill is to extend to the rest of British India such of the provisions of the Act as have not been repealed by the Probate and Administration Act, 1881.

The opportunity has been taken to declare, in accordance with recent decisions, that a Hindú's right to bequeath is co-extensive with his power to alienate, except where in an undivided family the right to bequeath conflicts with the law of survivorship. See 8 Mad. H. C. 6, 13; 3 Bomb. A. C. 6, 66; Mayne's Hindú Law and Usage, § 349.

In British Burma the Recorder of Rangoon and the Judicial Commissioner, sitting as Judges of the Special Court, have decided that a Buddhist has no power to make a will. But both Judges are strongly in favour of conferring the power by legislative enactment. The local Government remarks that "the Burmese of the larger towns are in the habit of making wills. They are very ready to adopt the practices of advanced civilisation where they recognise their advantages, and they are quick to discover the merits of any particular custom. In the course of the rapid progress which their country is making, they have easily perceived the benefits of a power of regulating the devolution of property by will, and a genuine want for this power has in consequence grown up." The Bill therefore expressly declares that every Buddhist may bequeath the property in the cases and to the extent in and to which he may transfer the same.

As there possibly are in some parts of the empire Hindús and Buddhists to whom it may be inexpedient to apply the rules for the execution, attestation, revocation, revival and interpretation of wills, power has been given to each local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to exempt from all or any of those rules the members of any race, sect or tribe throughout the whole or any specified portion of the territories administered by such Government.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 27th SEPTEMBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—There has been more or less rain in all districts of Bengal as well as in Assam and British Burma, and prospects of the crops, except where damaged by floods, are generally favourable. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh light showers fell in the eastern districts and elsewhere, but more rain is now everywhere required for the rabi sowings, though crops are on the whole in good condition. In the Punjab, in the Central Provinces, and in the Central India and Rajputana States rain fell in some places, and agricultural prospects are satisfactory. In the Bombay Presidency prospects have been improved by rain in a great part of the Deccan; but in the Southern Mahratta Country and Satara crops are suffering from drought. In the Mysore State rain has continued to fall in more or less abundance, and crops are thriving except in a few taluks. In the Nizam's Territories the khariif is now doing well. The Berar and Coorg reports continue favourable.

Prospects seem good throughout the country, except in the Southern Mahratta Country, where rain is much required. Harvesting has begun in places, and the reports which refer to the outturn indicate the probability of a good general yield.

The total quantity of tea shipped through the Syndicate Agency was as follows:—

5,691 packages	276,558 lbs. to Melbourne.
227 "	10,640 " Auckland.
Total ... 5,918 " ...	287,198 lbs.

* Accounts not reprinted here.

The following were the contributions from the various districts:—

	lbs.	lbs.
Assam	78,820
Cachar	126,978
Darjeeling	55,379
Kangra Valley	19,290
Dehra Dun	2,721
Kumaon	1,185
Chittagong	3,582
		287,405
Less samples, &c.		207
Total		287,198

Small consignments were forwarded from Melbourne to Adelaide, Dunedin, Brisbane and Sydney, in order that the tea might be introduced as far as possible throughout the Colonies; but the bulk of the tea has been sold in Melbourne, where it has met with a good reception, and no difficulty has been experienced in moving off all the consignments on their arrival.

The favourable reception accorded to the Syndicate shipments induced numerous shipments on private account, and some idea of the impetus given to the trade by the Syndicate operations may be gained by comparison of the exports of last season with those of the previous year, viz.,—

Exported to Australia, May 1879 to May 1880	86,628
" " " " 1880 " 1881	621,128
Increase	534,500

Advices of sale of the whole of the tea shipped have now been received. There appears to be no difficulty in disposing of a large quantity of tea at fair prices in the Melbourne market; and if the trade with the other Colonies becomes further developed, a steadily increasing demand for Indian tea in the Colonies may confidently be anticipated. No prejudice exists against the tea, and its superiority to China growth is universally admitted wherever it has been tried. It only requires to be known to make its way, and to ensure this result the Syndicate have wisely determined to continue regular shipments during the current year.

The following shipments have already been made this season:—

597 packages	24,613 lbs. per	Rollo,
363 "	18,690 "	steamer Venetia,
1,264 "	53,322 "	" Cathay,

and the judicious distribution of the total quantity promised, together with shipments on private account, will be sufficient to keep the tea constantly before the Colonial public.

A good deal of correspondence lately appearing in the Colonial papers on the subject of adulteration of China tea has been caused by the seizure of a shipment of so-called tea from China, which was declared by the authorities unfit for human consumption, and the attention of the public has thus been forcibly drawn to the comparative purity of Indian and China teas to the great advantage of the former.

Advices from America, extracts of which were forwarded to you with the Circular of 12th August, are very encouraging, and the Committee are strongly of opinion that if the movement in that direction receives the same measure of support in the shape of contributions of tea as that given to the Australian Market, the ultimate result cannot fail to be successful. There is a very large field in America, where the consumption of tea is about 70 million lbs. yearly, and a vigorous effort should be made to secure a fair share of this trade.

Mr. Sibthorp, who is now travelling in America on behalf of the Syndicate, is provided with a large number of samples, and the information received from him therefore is based on the most thorough investigation of the requirements of the trade after comparison of samples with the leading houses. After visiting the principal cities of America and Canada, and arranging therein with influential houses to conduct the Syndicate Agencies, his duties will be complete, and it only remains for all interested in Tea to aid in carrying out the business he has so ably inaugurated.

The Government of India have liberally assisted the movement by a contribution of Rs. 6,000 towards the expenses incurred, which have been very heavy, and the funds remaining at the disposal of the Committee will be applied to advertising and assisting the introduction of India teas in America and Canada by every possible means.

A large quantity has been promised for shipment to America, but several of the leading houses have waited further information before deciding on the quantity they will contribute. This information is fully supplied in the circulars of 12th August, referred to above, and the Committee now request the favour of an early statement of their intentions, in order that proper arrangements may be made for the division of the various consignments.

The period during which the Committee have held office having now extended over a year, it is desirable that subscribers to the Syndicate should have an opportunity of making a fresh election at the Meeting to be held on Monday, 5th September, of which notice is hereto annexed. They therefore tender their resignation, and at the same time venture to express a hope that the operations undertaken by them will have your approval and confirmation.

NOTICE.

The undersigned is prepared to receive tenders from parties desirous of leasing the water-power available at Kharakwala, "Lake Kile," the available power is variable: from July to January, inclusive, the minimum is about 130 actual horse-power, from beginning of February to end of April, it decreases from about 130 to about 40, and during the months of May and June the power which can be guaranteed is very small. Kharakwala is situated south-west of Poona, 11 miles from the Railway Station, with which it is connected by a good road; about 4 acres of land close to the canal are available as sites for factories, &c. In the last year the area of sugarcane grown under the Mutha canals in the neighbourhood of Poona was 1,968 acres, this area is capable of still further extension to a probable area of 2,500 acres. Under these circumstances, it is thought that the above power offers an inducement for the erection of a sugar manufactory, of which none at present exists in the Bombay Presidency.

Information regarding the actual heads and discharges available throughout the year and all other particulars can be obtained on application to the Executive Engineer for Irrigation, Poona. Tenders will be received up to the 15th November 1881.

The undersigned does not bind himself to accept the highest or any tender.

STOWAWAYS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES moved for leave to introduce a Bill to prohibit the landing of certain Stowaways, and to provide for the recovery of expense incurred by Government in respect of such persons. He said that stowaways (sic venia verbo) were, on a rough average, found on board two out of every ten vessels arriving at the port of Calcutta. At Rangoon the average number landed annually was only twelve; but the Chief Commissioner said that there was every likelihood of this number increasing with the advance of the direct trade between the United Kingdom and Rangoon. They were frequently landed at Aden, but he (MR. STOKES) could not give the Council the figure; and at Bombay the Customs Preventive Department reported that they were numerous enough to render prohibitory measures desirable. For some unknown reason, stowaways did not approve of Madras, and cases of landing them in that Presidency were of rare occurrence. As the law stood, masters of ships in British Indian ports might land stowaways, and were in no way responsible for them after they had landed. If stowaways so landed were Europeans and became vagrants (as they occasionally did), they had to be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, and provided with subsistence-allowance while in charge of the police, with food while in a work-house, and (where no employment was obtained for them) with a passage to some place out of British India—to England, or Australia, or wherever else their homes might be. As the necessity for relieving such persons really arose from the carelessness of masters of ships, who failed to detect their presence on board before leaving port, it seemed unfair that the expenses so incurred should be borne by the Indian tax-payer. A similar difficulty had occurred elsewhere. Thus, at home it had been held that stowaways were not seamen within the meaning of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and therefore, when landed in the United Kingdom, they became a charge on parochial funds. In Mauritius, and, he believed, also in Victoria, the colonial legislatures had been forced to deal with the subject.

The present Bill had been prepared to relieve the Indian tax-payer. It prohibited the landing in British Indian ports of stowaways of European extraction, except with the previous sanction of the shipping master or some other officer appointed by the local Government; and it required the owner or agent of the ship on board of which the stowaway was found to give a bond to the effect that all expenses incurred in the event of the stowaway becoming a vagrant within one year should be borne by the obligor. It also imposed a penalty on any master causing or permitting a stowaway to land; and it provided that where any stowaway was caused or permitted to land without the shipping master's sanction and became a vagrant within one year of so landing, the owner or agent of the ship from which the stowaway had landed should pay all the expenses incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

The present piece of 'over-legislation' had been originated by the Financial Department; and all the maritime local Governments, except, of course, Madras, were in favour of it.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL CIVIL COURTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the law relating to the Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam. He said that section 4 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, declared that the number of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs to be appointed in each district should be fixed, and might from time to time be altered, by the local Government. And section 6 of the same Act declared that, when the Governor General in Council had sanctioned an increase in the number of Munsifs, the High Court should nominate such person as it thought fit to be a Munsif, and the local Government should appoint him accordingly. The number of Munsifs was accordingly fixed, under section 4, in the Lower Provinces and Assam. Subsequently, in exercise of the power vested in local Governments by the terms of the provincial service arrangements in regard to the creation of additional appointments on salaries not exceeding Rs. 250 a month, the Government of Bengal and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appointed Munsifs in excess of the number so fixed. Doubts had been raised as to the validity of such appointments. It appeared to the Government of India that the law did not authorize the local Government to appoint Munsifs, whether temporarily or permanently, in excess of the fixed number, unless an increase to that number had previously been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council. It was, however, in the opinion of the Government of India, desirable to empower the local Government, without the sanction, but subject to the control, of the Governor General in Council, to increase the number of Munsifs, provided that this power was confined to those grades of Munsifs the pay of which did not exceed Rs. 250 a month.

The present Bill had accordingly been prepared. The opportunity had been taken to validate the appointments of Munsifs already made by the Bengal Government and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, and to make it clear that the local Government could not increase the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council. The law regarding the Bengal Civil Courts was contained in two Acts, VI of 1871 and XIX of 1877, section 1, and the Bill would repeal those enactments and re-enact them with the amendments which he had specified and with such changes in the wording of the law as the experience of the last ten years had shewn to be desirable.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Wednesday, the 5th October, 1881.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR,

The 15th day of July 1881.

PRESENT :

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said "Foreign Deserters Act, 1852," and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared, that from and after the publication hereof in the London Gazette, seamen, not being slaves (and not being British subjects), who desert from merchant ships belonging to subjects of the King of Denmark within her Majesty's dominions, shall be liable to be apprehended and carried on board their respective ships; provided always, that if any such deserter has committed any crime in Her Majesty's dominions he may be detained until he has been tried by a competent Court, and until his sentence (if any) has been fully carried into effect.

And Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said "Foreign Deserters Act, 1852," and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is further pleased to order and declare that upon and after the publication hereof in the London Gazette, the Order in Council relating to Seamen who desert from the merchant ships belonging to the subjects of the King of Denmark made, by virtue of the said Act, on the 13th day of June 1853, and published in the London Gazette on the 14th day of June 1853, shall be revoked, and the same is hereby revoked accordingly.

And the Secretary of State for the Home Department, the Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the Secretary of State for India in Council are to give the necessary directions herein accordingly.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th October, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 20 of 1881.

A Bill to prohibit the landing of certain Stowaways, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prohibit the landing in British India of stowaways of European extraction, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons who become vagrants within one year after so landing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Stowaways Act, 1881"; and it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act—

"Stowaway" means any person of European extraction as defined in the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the owner, the consignee or the master of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, and who arrives on board such ship in a British Indian port;

"Master" includes any person in charge of a decked vessel; and

"Shipping master" includes any other officer whom the local Government may from time to time appoint to exercise the powers of a shipping master under this Act.

3. No master shall cause or permit any stowaway finally to land from his ship in a British Indian port without the previous sanction in writing of the shipping master.

4. Such sanction shall not be given unless and until the owner or agent of such ship has given to the shipping master a bond in such form, and with such number of sureties, as the local Government may from time to time prescribe, binding himself, in such sum as the shipping master thinks sufficient, to pay to the Secretary of State for India in Council, in the event of such stowaway becoming within one year after he so lands from such ship chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

5. Any master who, in wilful disobedience of the prohibition contained in section three, causes or permits any stowaway finally to land from his ship, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

6. Whenever any stowaway finally lands from a ship without the sanction required by section three and becomes chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, within one year after so landing, the person who is at the discovered such landing the owner or agent of the ship from which such stowaway has so landed shall be liable to pay to the Government the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

7. All costs and charges which any owner or agent is liable to pay under this Act shall be recoverable by suit as if he had entered into an express agreement with the said Secretary of State in Council to repay them.

Cf. last para. s. 31, Act IX of 1874.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Stowaways of European extraction are found, on a rough average, on board twenty per cent. of the vessels arriving at the port of Calcutta. They are also, though less frequently, landed at Bombay, Aden and Rangoon. As the law stands, masters of ships in British Indian ports may land stowaways, and are in no way responsible for them after they have landed. If stowaways so landed are Europeans and become vagrants (as they occasionally do), they have to be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, and provided with subsistence-allowance while in charge of the police, with food while in a workhouse, and (where no suitable employment is obtained for them) with a passage to England, Australia or wherever their homes may be. As the necessity for relieving such persons really originates in the carelessness of masters of ships, who fail to detect their presence on board before leaving port, it seems unfair that the expenses so incurred should be borne by the Indian tax-payer.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It prohibits the landing of stowaways of European extraction, unless with the previous sanction of the Shipping Master or other officer appointed by the local Government, and unless the owner or agent of the ship on board of which the stowaway is found gives a bond to the effect that all expenses incurred in the event of the stowaway becoming a vagrant within one year shall be borne by the obligor. It also imposes a penalty on any master causing or permitting a stowaway to land, and provides that where any stowaway lands without such sanction and becomes a vagrant within one year of so landing, the owner or agent of the ship from which he has landed shall pay all the expenses incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

17. Subject to such orders as may from time to time be issued by the Governor General in Council, the High Court shall prepare a list of days to be observed in each year as close holidays in the Courts subordinate thereto.

CHAPTER III.

ORDINARY JURISDICTION.

18. The local Government shall fix, and may from time to time vary, the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Court under this Act: Act VI of 1871, s. 18.

Provided that, where more than one Subordinate Judge is appointed to any District, or where more than one Munsif is appointed to any Munsifi, the Judge of the District Court may assign to each such Subordinate Judge or Munsif the local limits of his particular jurisdiction within such District or Munsifi, as the case may be.

The present local limits of the jurisdiction of every Civil Court (other than the High Court) shall be deemed to be fixed under this Act.

19. The jurisdiction of a District Judge or Subordinate Judge extends, subject to the provisions in the Code of Civil Procedure, section fifteen, to all original suits for the time being cognizable by the Civil Courts: Act VI of 1871, s. 19.

20. The jurisdiction of a Munsif extends to all like suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed one thousand rupees: Act VI of 1871, s. 20.

21. Appeals from the decrees and orders of District Judges and Additional Judges shall, when such appeals are allowed by law, lie to the High Court: Act VI of 1871, s. 21.

22. Appeals from the decrees and orders of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs shall, when such appeals are allowed by law, lie to the District Judge, except where the amount or value of the subject-matter in dispute in the appeal exceeds five thousand rupees, in which case the appeal shall lie to the High Court: Act VI of 1871, s. 22.

Provided that the High Court may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the local Government, order that all appeals from the decrees and orders of any Munsif shall be preferred to the Court of such Subordinate Judge as may be mentioned in the order, and such appeals shall thereupon be preferred accordingly.

23. Where in any suit or proceeding it is necessary for any Court under this Act to decide any question regarding succession, inheritance, marriage or caste, or any religious usage or institution, the Muhammadan law in cases where the parties are Muhammadans, and the Hindú law in cases where the parties are Hindús, shall form the rule of decision, except in so far as such law has, by legislative enactment, been altered or abolished: Act VI of 1871, s. 24.

In cases not provided for by the former part of this section, or by any other law for the time being in force, the Court shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience.

24. No Munsif, Subordinate Judge, Additional Judge or District Judge shall try any suit in which he is a party or personally interested, or shall adjudicate upon any proceeding connected with, or arising out of, such suit: Act VI of 1871, s. 25.

No Subordinate Judge, Additional Judge or District Judge shall try any appeal against a decree or order passed by himself in another capacity.

When any such suit, proceeding or appeal comes before any such Munsif, Subordinate Judge, Additional Judge or District Judge, he shall forthwith transmit the whole record of the case to the Court to which he is immediately subordinate, with a report of the circumstances attending the reference.

The superior Court shall thereupon dispose of the case in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, section twenty-five.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the extraordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section the Munsif and Subordinate Judge shall be deemed to be immediately subordinate to the District Judge and the Additional Judge and District Judge to the High Court.

CHAPTER IV.

SPECIAL JURISDICTION.

25. Every District Judge may from time to time, subject to the orders of the High Court, refer to any Subordinate Judge under his control any appeals pending before him from the decrees of Munsifs; and such Subordinate Judge shall hear and dispose of such appeals accordingly.

The District Judge may withdraw any appeals so referred and hear and dispose of appeals so withdrawn.

26. The High Court may from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge under his control appeals under the Code of Civil Procedure from any orders of Munsifs against which an appeal lies to the District Court.

The High Court may also from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge or Munsif under the control of such District Judge any of the proceedings next hereinafter mentioned, or any class of such proceedings specified in such order, and then pending, or thereafter instituted, before such District Judge.

The proceedings referred to in the second clause of this section are the following (that is to say):—

(a) Proceedings under Bengal Regulation V, 1793 (to limit the interference of the Zillah and City Courts of Dewanny Adawlat in the Execution of Wills and Administration to the Estates of Persons dying intestate).

(b) Applications for certificates under Act No. XXVII of 1860 (for facilitating the collection of debts on successions, and for the security of parties paying debts to the representatives of deceased persons).

(c) Proceedings under the Probate and Administration Act, 1881.

(d) Proceedings under Act No. XL of 1858 (for making better provision for the care of the persons and property of Minors in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), or Act No. IX of 1861 (to amend the law relating to Minors).

(e) Claims preferred to, or objections made to the attachment of, any property under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 278.

(f) Applications to file awards under section 525 of the same Code.

(g) Applications for permission to sue or appeal as a pauper.

The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings so transferred and may either himself dispose of them, or, with the previous sanction of the High Court, transfer them to any other Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

27. Subject to the provisions of the last clause of section twenty-six, all proceedings transferred under the second clause of the same section shall be disposed of by the Subordinate Judge or Munsif (as the case may be) according to the rules prescribed for the guidance of District Judges in like cases:

Provided that an appeal from the order of the Subordinate Judge or Munsif in such cases shall lie to the District Judge.

An appeal from his order thereon shall lie to the High Court if an appeal from the decision of the Judge in such proceedings is allowed by the law in force for the time being.

28. The local Government may invest, within such local limits as it from time to time appoints, any Subordinate Judge with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes for the trial of suits cognizable by such Courts, up to the amount of five hundred rupees, and any Munsif with similar jurisdiction up to the amount of fifty rupees; and may, whenever it thinks fit, withdraw such jurisdiction from the Subordinate Judge or Munsif so invested.

29. Section fifty-one of Act No. XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature) shall be read as if, for the words "Principal Sudr Amin," the words "Subordinate Judge" were substituted.

CHAPTER V.

MISFEAZANCE.

30. Any District Judge, Additional Judge, Subordinate Judge or Munsif may, for any misconduct, be suspended or removed by the local Government.

31. The High Court may, whenever it sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend any Subordinate Judge under its control.

Whenever the High Court exercises this power, it shall forthwith report to the local Government the circumstances of the suspension, and the local Government shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

32. The High Court may appoint a Commission for enquiring into the alleged misconduct of any Munsif.

Act VI of 1871, s. 26.

Act VI of 1871, s. 27.

Act VI 1871, s. 26.

Act VI 1871, s. 29.

Act VI 1871, s. 29.

Act VI 1871, s. 21.

Act VI 1871, s. 29.

Act VI 1871, s. 29.

On receiving the report of the result of any such enquiry, the High Court may, if it thinks fit, remove the Munsif from office, or suspend him, or reduce him to a lower grade.

The provisions of Act No. XXXVII of 1850 (for regulating enquiries into the behaviour of public servants) shall apply to inquiries under this section, the powers conferred by that Act on the Government being exercised by the High Court.

The High Court may also, previous to the appointment of such Commission, suspend any Munsif pending the result of the inquiry.

The High Court may, without appointing any such Commission, remove or suspend any Munsif, or reduce him to a lower grade.

1871, s. 34.

33. Any District Judge may, whenever he sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend from office any Munsif under his control.

Whenever a District Judge suspends from office any such Munsif, he shall forthwith send to the High Court a full report of the circumstances of the suspension, together with the evidence, if any; and the High Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER VI.

MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

1871, s. 35.

34. The District Judges shall appoint the ministerial officers of their Courts, and, subject only to the general control of the local Government, the said Judges may remove or suspend such officers or fine them in an amount not exceeding one month's salary.

35. The ministerial officers of the Courts of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs shall be nominated and appointed by those Courts respectively, subject to the approval of the District Judge within whose jurisdiction such Courts are situate.

Every such Court may, by order, remove or suspend from office, or fine in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any of its ministerial officers who is guilty of any misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office. And the District Judge, subject only to the general control of the local Government, may, on appeal or otherwise, reverse or modify every such order.

The District Judge, within whose jurisdiction such Court is situate, may, by order, suspend or remove any such ministerial officer.

Nothing in this section or in section thirty-four shall exempt any officer from any penal or other consequences to which he may be liable under any other law in force for the time being.

36. The local Government may, at the instance of the District Judge, transfer from any Court in the territories administered by such Government, to any other Court in the same territories, all or any of the ministerial officers of such Judge or of any Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

The District Judge may transfer all or any of the ministerial officers of any Court under his control to any other such Court.

37. Any fine imposed under this Chapter shall, if the order imposing it so directs, be recovered by deduction from the offender's salary.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 4 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, declares that the number of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs to be appointed in each district shall be fixed, and may from time to time be altered, by the local Government. And section 6 of the same Act declares that, when the Governor General in Council has sanctioned an increase in the number of Munsifs, the High Court shall nominate such person as it thinks fit to be a Munsif, and the local Government shall appoint him accordingly. The number of Munsifs was accordingly fixed under section 4 in the Lower Provinces and Assam. Subsequently, in exercise of the power vested in local Governments by the terms of the provincial service arrangements in regard to the creation of additional appointments on salaries not exceeding Rs. 250 a month, the Government of Bengal and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appointed Munsifs in excess of the number so fixed. Doubts have been raised as to the validity of such appointments. It appears to the Government of India that the law does not authorize the local Government to appoint Munsifs, whether temporarily or permanently, in excess of the fixed number, unless an increase to that number has previously been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council. It is, however, in the opinion of the Government of India desirable to empower the local Government, without the sanction, but subject to the control, of the Governor General in Council, to increase the number of Munsifs, provided that the power is confined to those grades of Munsifs the pay of which does not exceed Rs. 250 a month.

2. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared. It enables the local Government without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council to increase the number of Munsifs of a grade the salary of which does not exceed Rs. 250 per month. The opportunity has been taken to validate the appointments already made by the Bengal Government and the Chief Commissioner of Assam: to make it clear that the local Government cannot increase the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council: to extend the District Judge's power of transferring appeals and proceedings to appeals from all orders made by Munsifs and to proceedings under the Probate and Administration Act, 1851; and to make such amendments in the wording of the law as the experience of the last ten years shows to be necessary or desirable.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 4th OCTOBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Beneficial rain has fallen in the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country of the Bombay Presidency, and there has consequently been a continued improvement in prospects there. Rain has also again fallen in the Nizam's Territories and in the Mysore State, and the outlook continues favourable. In the Madras Presidency, excepting a few districts where more rain is wanted, the general prospects are good. In Assam excessive rain has done some damage to crops in parts; but prospects are on the whole favourable. In Bengal also there has been too much rain in some districts, but in others the fall is reported insufficient. The harvesting of autumn crops is nearly finished, with a fair average outturn. From the North-Western Provinces and Oudh light local showers are again reported in the eastern tracts; but more rain seems required in parts for the rabi sowings. In the Central Provinces there have been more or less heavy showers. The prospects of the kharif crops are good, and preparation for the rabi sowings is being made. In the rest of the country, i.e., in the Punjab, in the Central India and Rajputana States, in Berar, in Coorg, and in British Burma agricultural prospects are on the whole either fair or good.

Generally the season has been favourable, and harvesting continues. The usual autumnal fevers are, however, prevalent.

- "Memorandum upon Current Land Revenue Settlements in the temporarily-settled parts of British India," by E. Stack, Esq.

R E S O L U T I O N .

IN August 1879, at a time of financial pressure, it appeared to the Government of India to be expedient to invite Local Governments, under which settlement operations were proceeding, to review any resettlements in progress, to contract the work where it did not seem likely to be remunerative, and to bear in mind that fresh proposals for revision of settlement would not be favourably entertained unless it could be shown either that the undertaking would yield a sufficient pecuniary return, or that special circumstances existed which would justify unremunerative outlay. A communication in this sense was addressed to the Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and of the Punjab. The Government of Bombay was asked to consider whether similar instructions might be usefully applied in the Bombay Presidency; and the Government of Bengal had been requested at a somewhat earlier date to supply information regarding the cost of settlement work then in prospect and its probable financial results. It was not thought necessary to address other Local Governments and Administrations, either because the settlements in course of execution were first settlements, as in Madras and British Burma, or because the Government of India was already in correspondence with the Local Administration on the subject of its settlements, as in the case of Assam, or, lastly, for the reason that the period, as in Berar, when any districts would be due for revision of settlement was, as yet, more or less remote.

2. In the course of the discussions which preceded and followed the issue of the orders of August 1879, it was represented that resettlements are not infrequently unsuccessful from a merely financial point of view; that a regular revision of settlement, comprising remeasurements and a renewal of the record of rights, must inevitably harass for several years the people of the district where it is being conducted; that such resettlements temporarily depreciate the value of landed property; that, until the revised assessments are announced, they check improvement; and that, for these and other reasons, they cost the people a good deal, besides what they cost to the general treasury. It appeared, however, that the Government of India was hardly in a position to determine what precise weight should be attached to these and similar arguments, because, although much information bearing upon some of them, and more especially upon the question whether revision operations are financially profitable, was scattered throughout a variety of settlement reports and treatises, no attempt had been made to bring together the material particulars in a compendious and accessible compilation, or to sum up the history of all regular settlements now current in India, with special regard to their financial results.

3. Mr. E. Stack, c.s., then Officiating Under Secretary in the Home, Revenue and Agricultural Department, was accordingly requested to prepare the memorandum mentioned in the preamble, with the object of presenting a sketch of all the temporary land revenue settlements now in force, and of comparing the expenditure upon them with the increase of revenue obtained. Mr. Stack carried on this work in intervals of leisure while he was acting as Under Secretary to the Government of India up to the beginning of April 1880. He was then retained on special duty for a short time, and the work, with the exception of certain statistics from the Bombay Presidency, was practically finished by the middle of the following June. The information from Bombay was received in August 1880; and printed copies of the Memorandum were ready for the perusal of the Government of India in December last. All or most of the several sections of the Memorandum had been submitted to the criticism of competent revenue authorities in the different provinces before they were finally printed off.

4. The Governor General in Council has read the work thus prepared with much interest. It has been ably compiled with conspicuous industry and great research, and is highly creditable to Mr. Stack. As a work of reference, the Memorandum will prove extremely valuable, not only in the Secretariats of the Government of India and of the Local Governments and Administrations, but also for the use of settlement officers in all parts of the Empire. By affording a clear and comprehensive view of the different systems adopted in different provinces, it will tend to promote a general knowledge of methods of settlement which will be of material assistance to those engaged upon such duty.

5. Of the Local Governments more or less directly addressed in connection with the question of continuing or beginning revisions of settlement, the Government of Bengal forwarded a report of the Board of Revenue, from which it appeared that the increase of revenue anticipated from the settlements to be undertaken in 1879-80 was estimated at 33·8 per cent. on the outlay; the Government of Bombay represented that in the regulation districts of the Presidency the annual increase in the land revenue, arising from enhancements imposed at resettlement, was so large that no question could exist as to the financial advantage of continuing and completing the revision; and the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, whose views were accepted by the Government of India, urged that, as the assessments of Moradabad, Agra and Hamirpur were nearly finished, and as the expenditure on the survey in Banda and Karwi would be thrown away if the settlement were stopped, the operations in progress should not be interrupted. The Government of the Punjab submitted no direct reply to the letter of August 1879; but it has since, for reasons fully explained in each case, obtained the sanction of the Government of India to the commencement or continuance of revisions of settlement in the Sirsa, Hoshiarpur, Jullundur, Ludhiána, Ráwalpindi and Simla districts.

6. The Governor General in Council has now considered the correspondence above recapitulated in the light of the information collected in the Memorandum by Mr. Stack. There is not, at present, any question of discontinuing settlement operations which are already in progress; nor is it upon any grounds of financial pressure that general orders now appear to be required. But, having regard to the cost of resettlements and to the harassment of the people which detailed enquiries at every revision of settlement entail, the Governor General in Council considers that the principle of the orders of August 1879 should now be re-stated and its application extended to other Provinces besides those to which it has already been applied. No revision of settlement should therefore be commenced by the Governments of the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, or by the Chief Commissioners of the Central Provinces or Ajmere, without the previous sanction of the Government of India; and it is to be understood that in making applications for such sanction, it should be shown either that an increase of revenue proportionate to the expenditure on the settlement is to be expected, or that sufficient administrative reasons exist for entering, without the prospect of a substantial return, upon a work which in itself is costly to the Government and harassing to the people.

7. The advantage or otherwise of undertaking a revision of settlement will thus always come under careful review; and it may here be mentioned that the consideration of this problem involves, amongst others, four important data, viz.,—

- (1) the cost of operations ;
- (2) the period during which operations will continue ;
- (3) the increment of revenue expected ;
- (4) the incidence of the existing assessment on individual landholders.

Of these data the first and the third are, financially, of most consequence, since the basis of the principle now accepted by the Government of India is the proportion of cost of operations to increment of revenue. But from an administrative point of view, both the second and the fourth data require particular attention, on account, in the first case, of the vexation caused to the agricultural population by lengthened operations, and, in the second, of the unfairness to individual proprietors which inequality of assessment involves.

8. In the interests both of the exchequer and of the agricultural population, it is necessary that every measure should be adopted to forestall and reduce the cost of actual settlement operations; and it is for this purpose fortunate that, under the programme drawn out in the proceedings of the Famine Commissioners, one of the earliest and most important duties of every Local Government will be the establishment of an organisation devised for the purpose of maintaining, in respect to every estate in the province, continuous records of their financial and agricultural condition, from which the information required for the assessment of land revenue ought to be available at the least possible expenditure both of money and of time. On this subject a fuller expression of the views of the Government of India will shortly be communicated to Local Governments and Administrations. But it may be said at once that the officials who will be entrusted with the development of the special organisation should direct their earliest and most strenuous efforts to perfecting the system in those districts or tracts of country which will first come under settlement in the future.

9. Assuming, then, that action will have been taken to reduce the cost of resettlement to its lowest possible figure, the Government of India observes that the orders of August 1879, which admitted that over-rigid instructions would be inapplicable to the case, at the same time indicated that where the annual increase resulting from a resettlement would amount to not less than one-fifth of its total cost, there would be no reason either to defer it or to restrict its scope; but that where the prospective annual increase was no more than one-tenth of such cost, it would not, under the financial conditions which then existed, be worth while to incur it. Although, however, this indication has been given of the character of the calculation which has been made, there is certainly no intention to lay down any hard-and-fast rule of arithmetical proportion as binding on any Local Government or Administration. It will suffice to say that the relation between the outlay and the financial return expected therefrom should always be considered; that where a resettlement would clearly yield (1) no increase of revenue, or (2) less than a profitable rate of interest on the expenditure, it would ordinarily be preferable not to enter upon it; and lastly, on the other hand, that where special administrative reasons for a revision of settlement, such as the necessity for correcting inequality in the incidence of the land revenue, might be shown to exist, the Government of India would be prepared to entertain proposals for a resettlement, notwithstanding the absence of any prospect of financial advantage. The main point to which attention is now directed is that, in future, no settlement is to be undertaken without the previous sanction of the Government of India, before whom a carefully prepared estimate of financial results must first be placed.

10. In Oudh, British Burma, Berar and Orissa many years must elapse before any revisions of settlement come under consideration; and the instructions contained in the preceding paragraphs should be borne in mind by the several local authorities charged with the administration of those parts of India, not as anticipating any decision upon circumstances which are as yet too remote to be taken into view, but as expressing the opinion of the Governor General in Council as at present advised, and, in particular, as requiring a reference to the Government of India before any resettlement shall be actually begun. To the comparatively unimportant resettlements of Government and temporarily-settled estates and of alluvial accretions undertaken here and there in parts of the Lower Provinces other than Orissa, the foregoing orders do not apply; but the Governor General in Council considers that the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal when determining, upon his own authority, what resettlements of this class shall, from time to time, be made, should be guided, as far as possible, by the principles, as above explained, which the Government of India will observe when dealing with proposals for the revision of larger settlements which are submitted to itself.

11. Pending the result of administrative reforms involved in the programme of the Famine Commission, it is premature to make any forecast of the measures which can be taken for reducing the work of re-measurement and local enquiry at future settlements. The question, however, has already received some attention in different parts of India. Thus, in the Bombay Presidency attempts have been made to dispense, to some extent, with re-measurement and re-classification of soils. In the Presidency of Madras strong hopes seem to be entertained that the rates could be raised without a fresh survey or revision of the records. In the North-Western Provinces one of the chief objects of the Agricultural Department has been to secure the maintenance of correct village papers, and thus to facilitate the revision of the next settlement. In Oudh endeavours will be made in the same direction, but it is not yet known whether at the next revision of settlements it will be found possible to dispense with fresh surveys and renewed classification of soils. The Punjab Government has accepted the principle that, where local circumstances admit, re-measurements and detailed revision of the record of rights should be foregone at re-settlement. And, lastly, the Chief Commissioner of British Burma has devised the system embodied in his Directions to Revenue Officers for the purpose of giving effect to this object.

12. On the other hand, there are certain Provinces where it would be an advantage if the matter were now discussed. As regards the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, there is some reason to believe that a fresh record of rights will be indispensable; and in the Central Provinces, apparently both a fresh survey and a new record of rights will be required in anticipation of a new settlement. For the Province of Assam a Revenue Code has been drafted, and possibly on its submission the Government will have an opportunity of considering how the principle here in view could best be applied in that part of the country. But as the Resident at Hyderabad, the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces and the Chief Commissioner of Assam have not hitherto been addressed on the subject of this and the last preceding paragraph, the Government of India would be glad to be favoured with any remarks they may have to make upon it. The points for their consideration are (1) whether when resettlements fall due it will be possible to circumscribe the procedure by dispensing wholly or partially with either re-measurement or re-classification of soils or revision of the record of rights, and (2) whether any measures are now practicable which would facilitate the adoption of such a restricted procedure hereafter when the time for resettlement is at hand.

13. It will be apparent from the views now adopted by the Government of India that failure to maintain a correct agricultural record may result either in serious financial loss to the State or in the institution of operations which are harassing to the agricultural population. In some Provinces the administrative machinery required for the maintenance of such records already exists in good working order; in others it is intended that it shall either be created or improved. In all cases, no efforts should be spared to give the fullest effect to the wishes of the Government in this matter. The Governor General in Council therefore requests that Local Governments and Administrations will impress upon the executive officers who are or will be responsible for the continuous maintenance of the records, which, if properly kept up, would reduce the cost and labour of revising settlements, the great importance which he attaches to the proper discharge of this duty and the necessity which will arise for a full explanation should it, in any case, be performed with less completeness than is allowed by the means available for its fulfilment.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House, Simla, on Wednesday, the 5th October, 1881.

P R E S E N T :

The Hon'ble J. Gibbs, C.S.I., C.I.E.

Major the Hon'ble E. Baring, R.A., C.S.I., C.I.E.

Major-General the Hon'ble T. F. Wilson, C.B., C.I.E.

STOWAWAYS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES introduced the Bill to prohibit the landing of certain stowaways, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Gibbs, Major the Hon'ble E. Baring and the Mover. He said that when he obtained leave to introduce the Bill he stated that in Mauritius, and, he believed, also in the colony of Victoria, the colonial legislatures had been compelled to legislate on the subject of stowaways. Since then he had ascertained that the colony of Victoria actually had legislated in that direction. Under their Passengers, &c., Statute of 1865 stowaways were treated as passengers, and in the event of their being likely to become distressed, the owner, master or charterer of the vessel was required, under that Act, to enter into a bond to prevent their becoming a burden upon the public charitable institutions of the colony. In Mauritius the practice was governed by Article 6 of Ordinance 11 of 1877, which forbade the landing of any stowaway without permission of the police under a penalty; and as permission was only given under certain special circumstances, the practical effect of the law was to compel the master of the vessel to bear the expense of taking or sending a stowaway back whence he came. The present Bill substantially enacted those provisions.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill be published in the Fort St. George Gazette, the Bombay Government Gazette, the Calcutta Gazette and the British Burma Gazette in English. It was not, he said, thought necessary that the Bill should be published in the Native languages.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL CIVIL COURTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES introduced the Bill to amend the law relating to the Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Rivers Thompson and Gibbs and the Mover. He had only to add to what he had said when he obtained leave to bring in the Bill that the object of introducing it at Simla was that it might at once be published in the Gazettes, and referred to the Local Governments and High Courts concerned. It would not be further proceeded with till the Council had re-assembled in Calcutta.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill be published in the Calcutta Gazette, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh Government Gazette and the Assam Gazette in English and in such other languages as the Local Governments might think fit.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

EXCISE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Excise-revenue in Northern India, British Burma and Coorg.

The Council adjourned to Wednesday, the 26th October, 1881.

NOTICE.

The undersigned is prepared to receive tenders from parties desirous of leasing the water-power available at Kharakwasla, "Lake Effe;" the available power is variable: from July to January, inclusive, the minimum is about 130 actual horse-power, from beginning of February to end of April, it decreases from about 130 to about 40, and during the months of May and June the power which can be guaranteed is very small. Kharakwasla is situated south-west of Poona, 11 miles from the Railway Station, with which it is connected by a good road; about 4 acres of land close to the canal are available as sites for factories, &c. In the last year the area of sugarcane grown under the Mutha canals in the neighbourhood of Poona was 1,966 acres; this area is capable of still further extension to a probable area of 2,500 acres. Under these circumstances, it is thought that the above power offers an inducement for the erection of a sugar manufactory, of which none at present exists in the Bombay Presidency.

Information regarding the actual heads and discharges available throughout the year and all other particulars can be obtained on application to the Executive Engineer for Irrigation, Poona. Tenders will be received up to the 15th November 1881.

The undersigned does not bind himself to accept the highest or any tender.

WILLIAM CLERKE, M. Inst., C.E.,
Erec. Engr. for Irrigation,
Poona Division.

(b) Annas and pies have been omitted from these figures.

The above figures show that the total number of persons killed in the several Provinces has gradually increased from 19,273 in 1876 to 21,990 in 1880. The largest number of deaths occurred in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, in which Provinces the deaths during the year under report aggregated 11,359 and 5,281 respectively.

In Bengal 10,064 deaths were caused by snake-bite, and 359 persons were killed by tigers: while in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh 4,723 persons died from snake-bite, and 265 were killed by wolves. The total number of persons killed by wild beasts and venomous snakes during the years 1879 and 1880 was—

		In 1879.		In 1880.
		(Exclusive of the deaths in Mysore.)
By wild beasts	2,890	...	2,840
„ venomous snakes	17,263	...	19,150
Total	20,156	...	21,990

The increase in the number of deaths as compared with the returns of the previous year was common to all Provinces except British Burma.

2. The number of cattle killed increased from 51,830 in 1876 to 55,911 in 1879, and 58,386 in 1880 (exclusive of the figures for Mysore, where the deaths in the previous year amounted to 5,899). The increase compared with 1879 is general to all Provinces, except the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Punjab and Ajmer-Merwara. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the totals for the two years are nearly the same, and in the Punjab there was a decrease of about 1,200 in the number of cattle killed.

In some returns, e.g., those from the Punjab and Berar, sheep and goats have been included under the heading cattle. In future it will be better that sheep and goats should be altogether excluded from these returns.

3. The total number of wild animals destroyed has fallen year by year from 23,459 in 1876 to 18,041 in 1879 and 14,886 in 1880. As compared with the previous year the falling off was common to all Provinces, except the Central Provinces, Coorg and Berar. The most remarkable decrease occurred under the heading "Other animals" in the Madras Presidency, the figures for 1879 and 1880 having been 2,956 and 139 respectively. The Governor General in Council again expresses his hope that in tracts where wild animals abound licenses under the Arms Act will be freely given by the local officers. The reports assert that this is the case, but the falling off in the number of wild animals destroyed is unsatisfactory. Endeavours should also be made to induce men belonging to the shikari class to devote themselves specially to the work of destruction in districts which are more than usually infested with wild animals; and Local Governments are authorised to make special arrangements for the experimental employment of such men who, in some of the present reports, are shown to have done good work.

4. The number of snakes shown as destroyed was 212,776 as compared with 131,927 in the previous year, the increase being mainly due to the very large number (177,078) of snakes which were killed in the Bombay Presidency. The total amount of rewards paid for the destruction of snakes was Rs. 11,663 as compared with Rs. 7,663 in the previous year. It is chiefly in towns and villages that the destruction of snakes is desirable, and for this reason it is satisfactory to observe that so many municipalities are now beginning to offer rewards.

5. On the whole, the results recorded in the reports for the year under review cannot be regarded as satisfactory, inasmuch as the number of persons and cattle killed has increased in most Provinces as compared with the previous year, while this increase has been accompanied by a considerable falling off in the number of wild animals destroyed.

The Governor General in Council desires again to invite the special attention of Local Governments and Administrations to the subject with a view to stimulating district officers to do all in their power to diminish this grievous but, in great measure, preventible mortality.

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution, with the appended table, be forwarded to Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 11th OCTOBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—There has been no rain during the week in the Punjab, and scarcely any in the Rajputana and Central India States; but the weather is seasonable, and agricultural prospects are generally satisfactory. In the Central Provinces also there has been little or no rain (except in one district). Kharif crops are being harvested and rabi sowings are in progress. In the Bombay Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country, on the other hand, general and beneficial showers have again fallen, thus maintaining the improvement previously reported in the agricultural prospects of this tract. In the Nizam's Territories and in the Mysore State also there has again been a fair rainfall, and prospects are favourably reported on. In Berar the harvest is fair and rabi sowings have commenced. In Coorg the rabi crop has been reaped, the picking of cardamoms has begun, and coffee is ripening. In the Madras Presidency rainfall is reported from all districts, harvest operations are in progress, and standing crops are on the whole in good condition. In Bengal the rainfall during the week has done much good. In the eastern districts, however, it has been comparatively slight, and more is wanted in parts. Cultivation for cold weather sowings is progressing. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh fair rain is again reported from the eastern districts, though more continues to be needed in parts for the late kharif and for the rabi sowings.

No. 3250-176, dated Nagpur, 1st September 1881.

From—LINDSAY NEILL, Esq., Offg. Secretary to the Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Dept.

WITH reference to correspondence ending with your reminder No. 116, dated 23rd ultimo, asking for a report showing how far the object for which advances made with the view of providing Baiga families with the means of settling down to regular cultivation has been successful, I am directed to report as follows.

2. In letter No. 4582-213, dated 31st October 1878, to the Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce Department, the Chief Commissioner, with reference to a small grant of Rs. 200 already made, solicited sanction to a grant from Provincial Revenues of a sum of a Rs. 2,000, to be placed in equal proportions at the disposal of the Deputy Commissioners of Balaghat and Mandla, for the purpose of enabling them to induce the Baigas of those districts to settle down to regular cultivation by furnishing them with the means of husbandry. Sanction was accorded in Department Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce letter No. 298, dated 2nd December 1878.

3. The Baigas in both these districts were given to dhya cultivation—the cultivation by the axe, i.e., trees are felled and burnt on the spot during the dry weather, and with the first burst of the monsoon the lesser millets are sown in the ashes over the clearing.

4. At the close of 1878 the position of matters was this. In regard to the Balaghat District the Chief Commissioner had expressed himself in the following terms in a letter to the Commissioner, Nagpur Division:—

“With regard to the subject of the prevention of dhya cutting, I am to say that while convinced of the necessity of taking more energetic steps than has hitherto been done for the prevention of this practice, the Chief Commissioner is not prepared to sanction so harsh a measure as the destruction of crops which may have been raised in this way. He sees no reason for thinking that the end in view cannot be attained in other ways. It seems plain from the Deputy Commissioner's letter that no systematic attempt has yet been made to prevent dhya cutting. Indeed it seems to have hitherto been practically authorised by a tax of one rupee being imposed on each axe. The Deputy Commissioner writes ‘the Baigas have noticed that the prohibition was nominal and have therefore not obeyed the law. There seems to be nothing in past experience therefore to show that a rigorous system of prevention accompanied by offers of land and grant of bullocks and seed as proposed by you may not be sufficient to put down the practice. Such a system of prevention might consist in causing the forest patrols to visit at the season when dhya cuttings are usually made all the spots where it is most likely to be practised, and by confiscating the axes of the persons so engaged, or if necessary by arresting them and carrying them before the authorities, who might inflict such legal penalty as might seem fit. There appears to the Chief Commissioner to be no reason why the law should not be put in force against dhya cutters as well as against other transgressors. As nothing of the sort appears hitherto to have been tried, there seems to be no sufficient reason for assuming that nothing short of the destruction of the crops so grown will put a stop to the practice. The Deputy Commissioner, Mandla, writes in a recent letter that the Baigas inhabiting a portion of that district have recently given up dhya cutting 'owing to the pressure that has been brought to bear on them.' The Chief Commissioner has never heard that that pressure included the destruction of crops, and he therefore feels confident that other measures of repression will be found equally successful in Balaghat."

Up to that time some 19 families had been encouraged to settle down to regular cultivation by a grant of some Rs. 400 for the purchase of bullocks, seed-grain and implements of husbandry, and their example had been followed by some 20 other families.

With the Rs. 1,000 for which sanction was asked it was intended to supply other families with such means of husbandry. Attempts were to be made to induce Baigas to settle on the lands of villages already leased to farmers rather than to attempt to form pure Baiga settlements, but where necessary Government land was to be given rent-free for a term of years.

5. The position of matters in the Mandla district was similar to that described in Balaghat, and Rs. 1,000 were placed at the disposal of the Deputy Commissioner wherewith to reclaim the Baigas from their destructive and wasteful method of livelihood, and wean them to regular cultivation.

6. In March 1879 the Commissioner of the Nagpur Division reported that some 33 families of Baigas had already taken up their abode in some of the villages held on 10 years' leases and on squatter plots, and were engaged in putting up huts for themselves, for which they had been supplied with grass, bamboos, &c., free of cost. He continued—

"The lessees of these villages have raised no objection to Baigas locating themselves on their estates, but on the contrary seem disposed to encourage their reclamation, inasmuch as they have expressed their willingness to aid them in every way by instruction as to the use of agricultural implements, and by allowing them to cultivate as much land as they can free of rent for three years.

"Until the next harvest these new settlers will not need much assistance for their support, as in most cases they will earn their livelihood as heretofore, but should any advance be needed by them for their maintenance, they will be supplied with food grain by the lessees, which will be recovered from the crops they may raise.

"As it often happens that at seed-time a difficulty exists in obtaining seed-grain caused by the refusal of malguzars and grain dealers to supply cultivators, it is proposed to lay in a stock of such grain at once, and as the sowing season approaches make the same over to the lessees, who will distribute it to the Baigas according to the quantity of land that has been broken up, and the value of the seed will be recovered by instalments extending over three years.

"The Baigas will also be allowed to select their plough cattle with the aid of the lessees, but the settling of price and payment of the same will rest with the tahsildar, the cattle being identified by a distinguishing mark as Government property, and in any case where a refund of its value by the Baigas has been decided on, a limit of five years has been fixed.

"As the villages in which the Baigas have settled themselves are all within a short distance of the Behir tahsil, the general supervision of the scheme is vested in the tahsildar, and I have instructed the tahsildar to impress on this official that our main object is to get these people to take to agriculture, and that they are not to be unduly harassed or pressed for demands against them when they are unable, in spite of honest efforts previously made, to meet them.

"The Chief Commissioner was pleased to sanction a sum of Rs. 1,000 being spent in providing the Baigas with the necessary means of cultivation, but from a statement which has been furnished me, I find that about Rs. 1,200 is wanted for this purpose, and as it will be a great point gained if our endeavours result in dhya cutting being abandoned by these people, I hope the Chief Commissioner will sanction an additional sum of Rs. 200."

7. Shortly afterwards the Commissioner further reported on the subject, and as it seemed that the experiment of settling Baigas down as regular cultivators had a fair hope of success, the Chief Commissioner on the 21st March 1879 asked the sanction of the Department Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce to a further grant of Rs. 2,500 from Provincial Revenues being spent on the experiment in Balaghat. This further grant was sanctioned on the 14th April 1879. The Commissioner of the Nagpur Division was therefore informed that the total sanctioned outlay on Buga colonization in the Balaghat District was Rs. 3,500; that it was intended to recover the advances made by instalments extending over a series of years, but that if the amount sanctioned exceeded what could profitably be spent in advances to Baigas, expenditure should be restricted accordingly.

8. Turning now to the experiment in Mandla, I am to observe that the Commissioner of the Jubbulpore Division thought it best to allow one agricultural season to pass before permitting himself to form a definite opinion regarding the probable success of the scheme. In July 1880 he reported that in June 1879, a sum of some Rs. 800 had been advanced to 40 families of Baigas settled on the lands of three villages. The money had been spent on the purchase of plough-bullocks, seed-grain, agricultural implements and on payment of debts. The last item calls for some explanation. When arrangements were being made to settle these Baigas, the Deputy Commissioner, Mandla, found that they were all indebted in trifling amounts to traders, and that there would be a far greater chance of the settlement prospering if the Baigas were started free from all claims of private creditors. This was accordingly done.

In 1879 the Baigas settled being no vices got Gonds to teach them to plough, but in 1880 they had managed themselves to plough almost the whole of their lands, and intended to sow oil-seeds, besides rice and the lesser millets. The Deputy Commissioner found that they had paid regard to his instructions and had not contracted any debts. He also found them happy and contented. The Commissioner considered that the experiment as far as it had gone, had been successful, and recommended (a) that the Buga settlers should pay rent at Re. 1 per plough for the first two years, and thereafter at Rs. 3 per plough till the expiration of the Mandla settlement (1885-86); (b) that the sums advanced should be recovered by ten equal annual instalments.

Both these recommendations were accepted and approved by the Chief Commissioner.

9. In September 1880 the Commissioner of Jubbulpore reported that the Deputy Commissioner, Mandla, had succeeded in inducing 33 other Buga families to settle, and solicited sanction to the grant of a sum of Rs. 1,000 to provide them with the means of starting as agriculturists. A reference having been made to the Department of Home, Revenue and Agriculture, the grant was sanctioned in letter No. 181, dated 1st November 1880.

10. By an expenditure of Rs. 1,121 the first settlement was kept prosperous, and a second settlement of Baiga families was located at Silpuri. These Baigas had previously entirely supported themselves by 'bewar,' and their settlement was due to the personal exertions of the Deputy Commissioner, who during the cold season of 1880 had an interview with one of their headmen, and succeeded in inducing him to settle down with about 20 other families to regular cultivation. Thus in all 85 families of Baigas have been settled in the Mandla district by means of the grant of Rs. 2,000, the whole of which will, it is hoped, be gradually recovered. Of these 85 families, 65 are settled on the lands of Chaugan and other neighbouring villages close to Ramnagar, while the remaining 20 have been settled at Silpuri near Bichia.

The Deputy Commissioner of Mandla visited the Baiga settlement at Chaugaon on the 4th June last, and that at Silpuri on the 20th, and the following extract shows clearly the state in which he found the settlements:—

“As regards the first, I have only to say that the settlement is in every way in a prosperous condition, and that it is quite indistinguishable from an ordinary village of this district. Indeed if the size of the houses, the area of cultivation, and the number of cattle be taken into consideration, Chaugaon must be considered above the average of the villages in this district. I satisfied myself that all the Baigas established at this place have been adequately provided with all the necessary means of agriculture and that all their requirements have been fully met. To this letter is appended a list of advances which have been made since May last for the purchase of bullocks, seed, and to relieve them from the incubus of debt which at the outset threatened to mar their efforts to become a prosperous agricultural community. The settlement at Silpuri is quite a recent one, the Baigas having collected there in the months of April and May last. They came from Kisli and Lalijhria under the leadership of one Lap Singh, and number altogether 20 houses. Before the arrival of the Baigas there were three Gond families who carried on cultivation at Silpuri, and one of these is a man of some substance, the former malguzar of the small adjoining village of Khatola. He is at present the head of the village community.

“The presence of these Gonds will doubtless be a source of great advantage to the Baigas, as they are well versed in husbandry, and will be of great aid in assisting and directing the Baigas in their earliest efforts. The Baigas have built themselves huts after their own fashion, and they have evidently determined to make themselves comfortable. At the time of my visit they were busily engaged in preparing their fields for kodu.

“There are 27 families ready to undertake cultivation, the others for one reason or another express themselves unable or unwilling to cultivate this year on their own account. * * * * *

“In my opinion the new settlement has been started under favourable circumstances and is likely to be successful.

“It will no doubt be necessary to exercise much tact in dealing with the first generation of settlers, as these people are impulsive, extraordinarily liable to panic and to be influenced by the wildest and most absurd rumours.

“The convincing proof of the advantages of a settled life of agriculture over the fire and axe cultivation which the comfort of settlements like those at Chaugaon and Silpuri afford, must have an effect on the wilder portion of the tribe, and I have no doubt that they will attract others. In fact I am credibly informed that there are many others willing and ready to take to settled cultivation. The season is, however, too far advanced to permit further arrangements this year.

“Should it be found practicable to induce the bulk of this tribe to settle down to cultivation, the result must be most beneficial to our forests and to the people themselves. Unfortunately I understand that most of the Baigas fled into the Kawardha State as soon as it was made clear to them that they would not any longer be allowed to carry on their fire and axe cultivation.

“In the Chhattisgarh Zamindaris they are permitted perfect freedom in carrying on their destructive system of cultivation, and a considerable revenue is raised from them by the imposition of a small poll tax at so much per axe. There was therefore every inducement for them to betake themselves to forests where they are unmolested, and the census returns will in all probability show a very considerable emigration of Baigas from this district to the Chhattisgarh Zamindaris.”

11. Reverting to the experiment in the Balaghat district, I am to say that the present Deputy Commissioner of that district, Major A. Bloomfield, who was there some 10 years ago and has now returned to it, has taken up the subject with much thoroughness. A copy of his report dated 10th May last on the possible reclamation of the Baigas is appended.

It would appear that there are now some 600 Baiga families in the Balaghat district. These belong to three distinct tribes, which have little or no intercourse with each other, and are called Binjwars, Narotias and Barotias. The Narotias are the most numerous, being nearly one-half of the whole, and are found in the centre of the district round about Tipagarh and Khondapar above the Odha ghât. The Binjwars are found about Mau in the north-west of the district, and the Barotias about Bhimlat in north-east. These last are somewhat less numerous than the Binjwars and are the wildest of all the Baigas, none of them having as yet taken to the plough, while the Binjwars are beyond others ready to imitate and conform to the ways of the Hindu population which has spread up to them. As matters at present stand, 75 Baiga families have been provided by Government with land and bullocks and furnished with seed-grain at a cost of about Rs. 3,000. About 40 families have bullocks of their own and require no assistance, and there remain some 485 families for whom as yet nothing has been done.

12 The Commissioner of Division has reviewed the proposals of his Deputy Commissioner, giving his own opinion thereon and recording the results of a tour in the Balaghat district in March last, when he saw many of the

* Dated 6th June 1881.

Baigas. The following extract is taken from his letter* :—

“Major Bloomfield urges that year by year more and more of these should be aided to settle down as agriculturists, and champions their claim on Government for assistance now that they are strictly prevented from carrying on the system of cultivation by axe and fire which had been their habit for untold generations. Their claim has not been denied, witness the advances which, with the Chief Commissioner's sanction, have been made, and should success attend the measures which have been taken, I doubt not that the Chief Commissioner would make an annual grant in order that the whole tribe might be gradually turned into agriculturists.

“It will be seen that Major Bloomfield is most sanguine of success, and I think that if the Deputy Commissioner gives his personal attention to the matter there is every reason to hope that success will be achieved. When I was in Balaghat last March I must have seen almost all the adult male Baigas in the district. They met me at Kharawali and at Behir in large bodies, and I saw a good deal of others elsewhere. They were most anxious that the prohibition against ‘bewar’ cutting should be withdrawn, and prayed and besought me not to deprive them of their only means of livelihood, or at least to let them have one year more, and they pleaded their inability to take to regular cultivation. To forbid all ‘bewar’ cutting and leave the Baigas to themselves, must necessarily lead to one of two things—either the Baigas will cut ‘bewar’ at all risks, and the damage they can do in a single year must be seen to be believed; or they will emigrate en masse to enjoy in Kawardha and elsewhere the liberty they no longer possess with us. It is impossible to contemplate with satisfaction either alternative, and in my opinion it is distinctly incumbent on the Government to do what it can to train these wild subjects to another mode of life. What Major Bloomfield has to say on the rights of these men in the soil or to the large areas over which they have wandered, cutting ‘bewar’ now in one part and then in another, may be put aside as extravagant and based on an erroneous theory of property; but he is I hold quite correct in asserting that these people have a claim on the public and on the Government for assistance. In the general interest their ways of life are being interfered with, and unaided they are not able to adapt themselves to the new state of things.

4. I think that the proposal that every year something should be spent on settling these uncivilised men is fully justified, and I quite approve of the selection Major Bloomfield has made of the places where Baigas should be located. I concur also with him in thinking that the Baigas will only be induced to settle in small tolas, and that it would be difficult to persuade them to settle down at any great distance from the hills, which they look on as their home. Under Major Bromfield's supervision too I think there is the very best chance of the settlement of these men being successfully accomplished. He has a great liking and sympathy for them; he has known many of them for years and is acquainted with their personal histories, and it is impossible to see him among them without being struck with the confidence which they seem to have in him. All the same, I do not imagine that the task of training these children of the forest into tillers of the soil will be altogether an easy one or one rapidly accomplished, or that progress will be uninterrupted without arrest or relapse. That would indeed be too much to expect, seeing that the Deputy Commissioner will have to deal with childish natures, with men who, like all savages, have a dislike to steady labour and settled occupations, but I do not doubt that perseverance will overcome all difficulties at last, if the Chief Commissioner will only provide the means of carrying through the scheme. The most difficult thing to make is a beginning, and a fair beginning has, I think, been made.

"No doubt what has been proposed would cost money, but it may not be necessary to turn all the Baigas into cultivators with plough cattle of their own, though with the first that seems necessary. It is not unlikely that the Baigas as a body when a fair proportion of them settle down to agriculture, will turn their hands to various kinds of steady labour, and the Deputy Commissioner is even now doing his best to enlist them as laborers in our forests.

"5. It remains for me only to add a few words regarding Major Bloomfield's proposals as made in paragraphs 28—31 of his report. He is anxious to see a Christian Mission established among the Baigas, believing that the presence of a European Missionary among them would do more for their advancement than any thing else. It seems very probable that a European settling amongst these Baigas and working for their good would effect a very great deal in a comparatively short time: such a Mission as that of Mr. Löhr in Raipur would in a few years effect much, but Government could hardly move in such a matter. Nor does Major Bloomfield, as I understand him, suggest that Government should move in the matter. He is anxious individually to promote such a Mission, and he asks only to be allowed to have a pamphlet concerning the Baigas printed at the Chief Commissioner's Press, in order that he may through it make the circumstances of the Baigas known. I do not think that there would be any objection to granting that concession; whether any further countenance or assistance could be given to a Mission is another question, which it seems unnecessary to consider at present."

13. The Chief Commissioner concurs in the views of the Commissioner, viz., that year by year something should be done in the way of settling down the Baigas to fixed occupations, and that the personal interest in these wild tribes taken by Major Bloomfield is a guarantee that the subject will receive full attention, and that the money which may annually be devoted to the object will be utilised to its fullest extent.

Last month the Chief Commissioner sanctioned an additional outlay of Rs. 500 in the Balaghat District which was urgently needed to provide Baigas with bullocks, implements and seed-grain. At the present moment there are in the Balaghat District some 123 Baiga families who have been aided to settle down as cultivators.

14. The Chief Commissioner submits his opinion that both in Mandla and Balaghat a fair measure of success has been achieved. The Commissioner of the Jubbulpore Division is enquiring whether any further settlements of Baigas can be made in the Mandla District, and the Chief Commissioner may probably hereafter address the Government of India if further outlay is required there. At present he would ask sanction to a yearly allotment from Provincial Revenues of Rs. 2,500 for the next 4 years being made for the reclamation of Baigas in the Balaghat District, so that Major Bloomfield, the Deputy Commissioner, may set to work in a systematic and methodical way in effecting such reclamation. Much, if not all, of the money will be ultimately recovered, but even were none recovered it will still be profitable expenditure if it ensures the Baigas becoming settled cultivators. The damage which one of their dhya clearings does to a forest is immense, and however well the forests might be watched surreptitious dhya clearing would occur, unless the district officer were able to offer them other means of livelihood. An annual report on the progress of the reclamation experiment would of course be submitted.

From MAJOR A. BLOOMFIELD, Deputy Commissioner, Balaghat, to the Commissioner, Nagpur Division,—(No. 1288, dated 10th May 1881).

I HAVE the honour to submit as follows, regarding the Baigas of this district, with a view to further action being taken towards putting them in a satisfactory manner on a fair way to earning an honest livelihood.

2. The recent census has enabled me to ascertain the exact number of the comparatively few who still remain in this district. The following table contains in a simple form the result of the enumeration :—

Caste.	Men.	Women.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.
Binjwars	180	156	157	178	671
Nahars or Nahrotias	284	291	298	266	1,139

Divisions.

3. They are divided into three Ghots or tribes, viz. :—

- (1) Binjwars,
- (2) Nahrotias or Nahars, and
- (3) Bharotias.

These are distinct tribes in every way; they neither intermarry nor intermix in any way, and are seldom, if ever, found living together in one village. The Binjwars appear to be slightly Hinduized, and observe sundry petty rules of caste, as if, apparently, they desire to distinguish themselves from the other two tribes, between whom and themselves there is, in physique, language, &c., but little difference. They will not eat the flesh of the ox, bison, nilgai, and e.g., rats, ant-eaters, squirrels.

many other things which are readily devoured and much appreciated by the other tribes.

4. The three tribes are not only found in separate villages, but in different parts of the district. The appended list of villages in which the Baigas were living at the time of census shows that they inhabit—

- (1) The Binjwars in the Paraswara and Man taluks, or, in other words, the hills and ghats overlooking the upper reaches of the Wainganga river.
- (2) The Nahrotias, the central hills of the Sanka taluq, the Dhansuwa pargana, the Saletkri and Bhanpur zamindaris, and farther north towards the Mandla border. Before pressure was first brought to bear on them to stop their Bhewar, they were to be found nearly all collected in the central ranges of hills called—the hills of the Hatta pargana, and the hills of the Bhanpur and Salettekri zamindaris. When the Bhewar was stopped in the Khalsa, they mostly went further east into the zamindaris, and since the dhya in the zamindaris has been stopped, they have been coming slowly back into the plain villages, near and around the old haunts and hills of themselves and their forefathers. Within the last month or two, several families have emerged from the Bhanpur zamindari to settle in our most promising Baiga settlements of Karwahi* and Bhuddhutola.

- (3) The Bharotias in the northern parts of the Bhanpur and Salettekri zamindaris, the hilly villages of Bhimlat, the Bhaisonghat range, and the hills of Raigarh Bichia. In these places and along the banks of the Bhanjar river, within the borders of the Mandla district. Since the stoppage of the Bhewar, most of them have gone over the border into Kanarda, where most of them would finally settle, were it not for the Begar that is exacted from them in lieu of land rent or axe rate.

of the jungles in which they lived. How they have managed to live since the Bhewar was stopped is really difficult to understand. The fairly good condition in which they now are shows that they certainly have not starved. They certainly have been very hard pressed; some have borrowed grain from their neighbours and got considerably into debt, a state quite new to Baigas, and most have managed to keep body and soul together by selling minor forest produce in the bazaars, and subsisting chiefly on jungle roots, fruits and herbs, and fish from the hill streams. A few have managed to earn a little grain by assisting in trifling matters the cultivators of the neighbouring villages; and some malguzars have tried to give them work, but have found it difficult to discover anything they can put their hands to.

6. Before entering into the subject of the settlement of the Baigas, I ought perhaps to note a very marked difference in the character of the three tribes of Baigas—a difference which should be borne in mind in arranging for their settlement.

The Binjwars are the most civilised of the three tribes; several families living in the marginally noted villages of the Man valley have long been regularly settled as plough cultivators. Some of those in the villages marked† were so when I first came into the district in 1868.‡

They evidently take more readily to the plough, and have no great objection to live in the same villages as other cultivating castes.

The Nahrotias come next to the Binjwars. Up to 1870 the only one of them who had at all taken to the plough was Ganu, the head of the Baiga village of Goara. About that time the pressure against Bhewar cutting had begun to tell. Mutira Pujari (also a Nahrotia) of Jaldidhar took to the plough in addition to a little Bhewar cutting, which at the time he frankly told he must cut, even if I cut his throat for it.

§ Vide my letter No. 593, dated 20th March 1872.

Next, in 1871,§ the Randarparhi Baigas, headed by the late Ranjar Pujari, willingly volunteered to assist me in the tracking of the celebrated elephant, and on its being killed by Mr. Naylor and me, received the Government reward of Rs. 200. With this and some encouragement, and the good land of Karwahi, they were induced to come down from the rocks of Khandarparhi and take to settled plough cultivation, forming the nucleus of the most promising of our Baiga settlements. Since then the Nahrotias have been gradually taking to the plough.

The Bharotias are the wildest of all. I believe that not one of them has yet taken to the plough, and all who have come to me steadily maintain that they can never bring themselves to it.

7. My predecessor in his report No. 1596, dated 14th June 1880, showed bullocks will die, crops fail, and wild men be improvident as well as unsuccessful in a calling entirely new to them.

8. During the current year, Rs. 737 have been expended in the purchase of 71 bullocks, which have been distributed as shown in the appended list B. About 12 pick-axes and 13 phaoras, old and much used, belonging to District Funds, have been given, and about Rs. 200 to Rs. 350 will be expended in the purchase of seed grain to be distributed chiefly to those who have been recently supplied with bullocks. In this way the expenditure this year will amount to about Rs. 900, and 31* families of average cost of about Rs. 40.†

† This is leaving a margin for grain, &c.

9. The figures I have given above in paragraph 2 show that altogether there are about 600 Baiga families. Of these, about 75 have been provided with bullocks at Government expense, about 40 families have cattle of their own, and about 485 families remain to be supplied. This, at Rs. 40 per family, represents a cost of about Rs. 19,400.

Including those in the Man valley.

Binjwars; Nahrotias; Bharotias.

10. It may perhaps be urged that the fruits of the present system, which has now been under trial for nearly 10 years, are so small that it does not promise much success. This I venture to submit is not the fault of the system, but of the way in which it has been managed. I have not the slightest doubt that if the system be properly and steadily followed up, it will prove a complete success, and not many years will elapse before all the Baigas, even the Bharotias, will have become settled cultivators, quite happy and contented with their lot. Even now there are not wanting signs to show that the Bharotias are watching the progress made by the Nahrotias.

11. The only question is the expense that will have to be incurred to bring about this end, and this seems a proper place in which to insert a few words in favour of the Baigas, to show that they are in all respects worthy and deserving of all that may be expended on them.

12. The damage done by the Baigas has certainly been very great, for aided by the dhya cutting Gonds they have, with a very few exceptions, at periods more or less remote closely shaven almost every hill in the district. In very rare places indeed is there a hill to be seen that has not a closely cropped appearance, with here and there a tuft of trees, or a single tree, showing what the jungle once was. New arrivals in the district, and those who are not well acquainted with the Baigas, naturally feel indignant on seeing these devastations, and vow vengeance and reprisals in the way of burning crops, summary ejections, and so forth. But they entirely forget, if indeed they are not ignorant, of the rights which these Baigas might in all justice claim. For generations untold, probably from the time when the ancient Britons were yet clothed in their original garments of skins, the ancestors of these Baigas have lived, died, and been buried on the slopes of these hills and in the fastnesses of these jungles. They have supported themselves, their families, and their aged parents without the aid or interference of the State, or poor laws, or any thing else, thereby setting a good example to the more civilized poor of the British Isles, and other countries. They have managed their own affairs without the aid of judge, jury, police or any Government officials; until the last few years they have escaped the grasp of inexperienced Extra-Assistants, and over-officious Police subordinates.

13. Surely then these Baigas might fairly claim absolute occupancy rights of the land they have held so long, or even be considered sub-proprietors of their holdings. They have not, however, in their wild ignorance put forward any claim whatever. They have quietly bowed to whatever authority has been set up over them, and have never refused to carry out any orders that have been issued to them, although they have frequently failed to act up to them. The stopping of the Bhewar cutting was the very taking of the bread from their mouths, yet although trusting to the negligence of native subordinates, they have in places continued to cut Bhewar, they have hardly so much as grumbled; they have given no trouble at all, but have quietly and cheerfully submitted to their fate and with no State aid worth mentioning, earned a hard though honest livelihood in their own quite way. Had the Sonthals or Bhils, or the tribes on the Assam borders, been treated in this way, there would have been a very different story to tell; bloodshed and jungle fighting would have been the order of the day.

14. This being the case, I cannot doubt that you will agree with me that the Baigas are entitled to all credit and consideration at our hands. I do not advocate that they be allowed to return to their former wasteful mode of living, but (1) that by steady and continuous effort, they be induced to take to regular cultivation, and (2) that they be assisted in every possible way to add to their earnings by any other means that may be made available.

15. I do not think it would be necessary to incur a very large expenditure in any one year, but I do not feel quite confident that a steady continuous pressure coupled with unchanging kindness and an annual expenditure of about Rs. 2,000 in the direction already commenced will have the desired effect. The Baigas should in every way be encouraged to bring all their troubles direct to the head of the district, and they will soon learn to be so confident in him, that they will ever be more ready to follow his advice.

16. It can hardly be expected that for some years to come the Baigas will be able to support themselves on the produce of their ploughs alone, and I would therefore assist them in adding to their earnings—

- (1) by working in the 2nd class reserved jungles, cutting timber and bamboos for floating down the rivers to the Madgi Station of the Nagpur and Chhattisgarh line;
- (2) by cutting and removing creepers which are now doing much damage;
- (3) by bringing minor forest produce to the local markets;
- (4) by reserving to them the right to fish in the small streams above the ghats, of which the fisheries now yield no revenue to Government.

16 (a). There seems to be some difficulty in inducing the Baigas to take to working in our forests. They are not perhaps generally steady workers, but in this case it is not perhaps the work they so much object to, as the forest subordinates under whom they have to work. Under European supervision, as has been proved during the sleeper operations* in the Banjar reserve, Baigas will work very well, but they have no confidence in forest subordinates. I am trying to get over the difficulty by giving them contract work, but cannot yet report any result.

Working in forests.

* In 1870-71.

17. The creeper cutting work I propose to do by contract, allotting to each collection of Baigas a tract of forest in which to clear creepers from all good trees. It will be worse than useless to clear away all creepers, which now furnish to the surrounding agricultural communities a continual supply of valuable fibre.

Creeper cutting

18. I have endeavoured to encourage the Baigas not yet settled to the plough, to support themselves as much as possible by the collection of minor forest produce. Tikur, Bychandi, Chironji, and light bamboo work are the most important items in the Baiga's trade. I have prohibited the forest subordinates from levying any duty from the Baigas resorting to the markets with produce of this kind, for not only could they ill afford to pay the duty, but the trouble given to them in its collection prevented them to a considerable extent from resorting to the markets at all. The forest duty thus lost to Government, amounting generally to about 3 to 6 pies per head-load, is in the year something very trifling.

19. The Baigas of several villages have recently complained to me that the Dhimars of the surrounding villages have endeavoured to frighten them from fishing in the streams passing through the jungles in the neighbourhood. As these Dhimars have no rights whatever in the fisheries, which are trifling, and bring in no revenue to Government, I have given the Baigas written permission to fish, and prohibited the Dhimars from interfering with them.

20. It now remains to notice briefly the places I would select for the location of the Baigas, with a view to provide them with land suited for the plough. It may here be observed that my predecessor, Colonel Plowden, in his report on this subject strongly condemned the places* where the Baiga settlements have already been commenced, and recommended in lieu the lands of Chakarwa away in Bhimlat in the Upper Banjar valley. But he was not well acquainted with the Baigas and their habits, and was ignorant of the circumstances which led to the selection of these places. The great desideratum is to get the Baigas to leave the hills and settle down somewhere in the culturable valleys. Before they have tried their hands at the plough they are naturally and rightly doubtful as to their ability to support themselves by plough cultivation. They consequently cling tenaciously to the jungles and hills they have known from their childhood, and which they look to as their great reserve of all the necessaries of life. As this reserve it may be noted has been proved to be a never failing one; for during the famine year of 1868-69 when the cultivators of the plains were so starving and wretched as to require State aid, the Baigas, notwithstanding the failure of their Bhewar crops, were in as good condition and as contented as ever. They will not therefore emigrate to any spot, however distant from their jungles, where the soil may happen to be good, but prefer inferior land nearer at hand. Hence it came about that in the beginning of 1872, in consultation with Ranjur Pujari of Khandapar, I selected Karwahi, and Barwahi, these barren wastes, for their settlement. Karwahi, notwithstanding that a road has since been turned through it, is admitted by all to be by far the most promising of all the Baiga locations,† and now with its "tola" called Budhatola boasts of no less than 329 inhabitants, including those who at the census were temporarily absent at Kanhatola, but exclusive of the 10 households recently arrived.‡ Barwahi has by some mistake been given on a ten years' lease to a neighbouring malguzar§ instead of being reserved. Jaldidhar was selected by Mutira Pujari himself, and although not a very suitable place, has, as I expected when I agreed to it, answered its purpose in inducing several Baiga families to settle. Several who first settled in Jaldidhar have moved to Bhainswahi just outside the hills, and the Pujari himself is ready to follow so soon as land is found for him.

- (2) Goara.
- (3) Jaldidhar.

Goara was selected by Ganu Baiga himself, and is quite suitable, notwithstanding that the main road to Behir has since been turned through it. Baganagar, under the Dukri hill, appears suitable; and Maldhar, away on the Western Ghats, will do for the Binjwars.

Goara was selected by Ganu Baiga himself, and is quite suitable, notwithstanding that the main road to Behir has since been turned through it. Baganagar, under the Dukri hill, appears suitable; and Maldhar, away on the Western Ghats, will do for the Binjwars.

21. Having said so much about the sites already selected, I will mention a few places I would recommend to be reserved for the Baigas.

The villages of Sareka and Jutta, situated within a mile of Karwahi, were leased for 10 years to the Patel of Bhanderi, but as he has failed to come up to the terms of his agreement, the leases will not be renewed. In both these, there are large areas of good soil, well suited for the Baigas. Barwahi, which joins Karwahi to Jutta and Sareka, and is close to the jungles, should also if possible be reserved. I have arranged to locate a few families of Baigas at Kumdul, a small piece of good land lying to the south-west of the Tipagarh hill, and some of the Jaldidhar people have already come down to Bhainswahi on the opposite side. If these places shall prove insufficient for the Nahrotias, then the two Government villages of Gogatola, and Parsatola also close to Karwahi, can be made available for the purpose.

22. The Binjwar Baigas can be provided for in any of the Government villages of the Man and Paraswara Taluks, or possibly they may be induced to follow the example of some of their caste fellows, and settle with other castes in permanently settled villages.

23. I observe that it has been urged that Baigas should be induced to locate themselves with ordinary cultivators in permanently-settled villages, but I think I may safely say that great experience shows that for the present at any rate this is not practicable except with the Binjwars, nor do I think it desirable. Alone the Baigas will learn to use the plough, and mixed with others they will learn no more, except that which would be better left unlearned.

24. The Bharotias will be found the most difficult to deal with. The stopping of their Bhewar has no doubt pressed them sorely, but I hope that now they see the only road left to them is to follow the example of the Nahrotias, they will gradually come down. They can easily be provided for in any of the waste villages of Bhimlat or Raigarh.

25. The late Tahsildar of Behir, Ramcharan Lal, rightly reported that there is great difficulty in collecting Baigas together in large communities. The Baigas when they disagree settle matters by separating. There is no particular advantage in making large collections of Baiga houses, and there will be no difficulty in settling them in small tolas scattered about the village lands. This has been done at Karwahi where there are 3 or 4 tolas, and is a common practice all over the district.

26. I will conclude by giving a brief sketch of an alternative, or it may be styled an auxiliary, scheme for settling the Baigas. I have long had it in contemplation, but have not been able to set it on foot.

27. The measures I have above proposed to be adopted by Government will doubtless go far towards establishing the Baigas as regular cultivators, but there are two points regarding which doubts arise, in my mind, namely:—

- (a) Will the Government agree to incur this expenditure, which for the present at any rate is in amount beyond accurate estimate.
- (b) Will the permanent improvement of the Baigas be thereby ensured.

My auxiliary scheme will, I venture to think, go a great way towards stopping any possible gaps that may be left by the Government measure.

28. My proposal is to endeavour to induce the many charitable people and institutions in the British Isles, to send out a Mission to the Baigas; for I believe that if a really good man, such as many of the Missionaries are, could be permanently located amongst them, their permanent improvement would be ensured, and not only this, but that much good would result to the country for many miles round.

29. When last on furlough, I wrote a paper on the Baigas, and sent it round to several Missionary Societies. Most seemed to have their hands very full, working up to the extent of their incomes, and pleaded want of funds, but the Free Church Mission of Scotland said they would undertake the work, if I could guarantee them about £150 a year.

30. Now I believe that the difficulty about funds can be easily overcome, for apart from any contributions that might be made from Imperial, Provincial and District funds, the money that could be raised from private individuals at home and in this country would suffice to meet all demands. Possibly also the Aborigines Protection Society would give some help. But before the public can be expected to take any interest in the matter, it will be necessary to lay the case before them in a popular manner. This I propose to effect by writing a short paper about the Baigas, and circulating it in great numbers amongst all who will probably answer to the call. The only difficulty I have is in the printing, but if the Chief Commissioner, after approving of the draft pamphlet, would sanction this being done at his office press, I would during the ensuing rains re-write in an abbreviated and amended form the paper I drafted in England.

31. I have now only to express my regret that the statistics accompanying this report are not nearly so full as I should have wished, but not finding the materials ready, I preferred not to delay the report for them. I have taken measures to have fuller information ready for the next annual report.

To—The Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

I AM directed to acknowledge receipt of your Officiating Secretary's letter No. 3250-176, dated 1st September 1881, submitting a report on the progress which has been made in inducing Baiga families of the Mandla and Balaghat Districts to settle down to regular cultivation by furnishing them with the means of husbandry.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th October, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 20 of 1881.

A Bill to prohibit the landing of certain Stowaways, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prohibit the landing in British India of stowaways of European extraction, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons who become vagrants within one year after so landing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Stowaways Act, 1881"; and it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act—
"Stowaway" means any person of European extraction as defined in the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the owner, the consignee or the master of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, and who arrives on board such ship in a British Indian port;

"Master" includes any person in charge of a decked vessel; and

"Shipping master" includes any other officer whom the local Government may from time to time appoint to exercise the powers of a shipping master under this Act.

3. No master shall cause or permit any stow-away finally to land from his ship in a British Indian port without the previous sanction in writing of the shipping master.

4. Such sanction shall not be given unless and until the owner or agent of such ship has given to the shipping master a bond in such form, and with such number of sureties, as the local Government may from time to time prescribe, binding himself, in such sum as the shipping master thinks sufficient, to pay to the Secretary of State for India in Council, in the event of such stowaway becoming within one year after he so lands from such ship chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

5. Any master who, in wilful disobedience of the prohibition contained in section three, causes or permits any stowaway finally to land from his ship, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

6. Whenever any stowaway finally lands from a ship without the sanction required by section three and becomes chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, within one year after so landing, the person who is at the date of such landing the owner or agent of the ship from which such stowaway has so landed shall be liable to pay to the Government the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

7. All costs and charges which any owner or agent is liable to pay under this Act shall be recoverable by suit as if he had entered into an express agreement with the said Secretary of State in Council to repay them. Cf. last p. s. 31, Act of 1874.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Stowaways of European extraction are found, on a rough average, on board twenty per cent. of the vessels arriving at the port of Calcutta. They are also, though less frequently, landed at Bombay, Aden and Rangoon. As the law stands, masters of ships in British Indian ports may land stowaways, and are in no way responsible for them after they have landed. If stowaways so landed are Europeans and become vagrants (as they occasionally do), they have to be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, and provided with subsistence-allowance while in charge of the police, with food while in a workhouse, and (where no suitable employment is obtained for them) with a passage to England, Australia or wherever their homes may be. As the necessity for relieving such persons really originates in the carelessness of masters of ships, who fail to detect their presence on board before leaving port, it seems unfair that the expenses so incurred should be borne by the Indian tax-payer.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It prohibits the landing of stowaways of European extraction, unless with the previous sanction of the Shipping Master or other officer appointed by the local Government, and unless the owner or agent of the ship on board of which the stowaway is found gives a bond to the effect that all expenses incurred in the event of the stowaway becoming a vagrant within one year shall be borne by the obligor. It also imposes a penalty on any master causing or permitting a stowaway to land, and provides that where any stowaway lands without such sanction and becomes a vagrant within one year of so landing, the owner or agent of the ship from which he has landed shall pay all the expenses incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

The superior Court shall thereupon dispose of the case in the manner prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure, section twenty-five.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the extraordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section the Munsif and Subordinate Judge shall be deemed to be immediately subordinate to the District Judge and the Additional Judge and District Judge to the High Court.

CHAPTER IV.

SPECIAL JURISDICTION.

25. Every District Judge may from time to time, subject to the orders of the High Court, refer to any Subordinate Judge under his control any appeals pending before him from the decrees of Munsifs; and such Subordinate Judge shall hear and dispose of such appeals accordingly.

The District Judge may withdraw any appeals so referred and hear and dispose of appeals so withdrawn.

26. The High Court may from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge under his control appeals pending before District Judge, under the Code of Civil Procedure from any orders of Munsifs against which an appeal lies to the District Court.

The High Court may also from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge or Munsif under the control of such District Judge any of the proceedings next hereinafter mentioned, or any class of such proceedings specified in such order, and then pending, or thereafter instituted, before such District Judge.

The proceedings referred to in the second clause of this section are the following (that is to say) :—

(a) Proceedings under Bengal Regulation V, 1799 (to limit the Interference of the Zillah and City Courts of Dewanny Adawlut in the Execution of Wills and Administration to the Estates of Persons dying intestate).

(b) Applications for certificates under Act No. XXVII of 1860 (for facilitating the collection of debts on successions, and for the security of parties paying debts to the representatives of deceased persons).

(c) Proceedings under the Probate and Administration Act, 1881.

(d) Proceedings under Act No. XL of 1858 (for making better provision for the care of the persons and property of Minors in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), or Act No. IX of 1861 (to amend the law relating to Minors).

(e) Claims preferred to, or objections made to the attachment of, any property under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 278.

(f) Applications to file awards under section 525 of the same Code.

(g) Applications for permission to sue or appeal as a pauper.

The District Judge may withdraw any proceedings so transferred and may either himself dispose of them, or, with the previous sanction of the High Court, transfer them to any other Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

27. Subject to the provisions of the last clause of section twenty-six, all proceedings transferred under the second clause of the same section shall be disposed of by the Subordinate Judge or Munsif (as the case may be) according to the rules prescribed for the guidance of District Judges in like cases:

Provided that an appeal from the order of the Subordinate Judge or Munsif in such cases shall lie to the District Judge.

An appeal from his order thereon shall lie to the High Court if an appeal from the decision of the Judge in such proceedings is allowed by the law in force for the time being.

28. The local Government may invest, within such local limits as it from time to time appoints, any Subordinate Judge with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes for the trial of suits cognizable by such Courts, up to the amount of five hundred rupees, and any Munsif with similar jurisdiction up to the amount of fifty rupees; and may, whenever it thinks fit, withdraw such jurisdiction from the Subordinate Judge or Munsif so invested.

29. Section fifty-one of Act No. XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature) shall be read as if, for the words "Principal Sadr Amin," the words "Subordinate Judge" were substituted.

CHAPTER V.

MISFEAZANCE.

30. Any District Judge, Additional Judge, Subordinate Judge or Munsif may, for any misconduct, be suspended or removed by the local Government.

31. The High Court may, whenever it sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend any Subordinate Judge under its control.

Whenever the High Court exercises this power, it shall forthwith report to the local Government the circumstances of the suspension, and the local Government shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

32. The High Court may appoint a Commission for enquiring into the alleged misconduct of any Munsif.

On receiving the report of the result of any such enquiry, the High Court may, if it thinks fit, remove the Munsif from office, or suspend him, or reduce him to a lower grade.

The provisions of Act No. XXXVII of 1850 (for regulating enquiries into the behaviour of public servants) shall apply to inquiries under this section, the powers conferred by that Act on the Government being exercised by the High Court.

The High Court may also, previous to the appointment of such Commission, suspend any Munsif pending the result of the inquiry.

The High Court may, without appointing any such Commission, remove or suspend any Munsif, or reduce him to a lower grade.

33. Any District Judge may, whenever he sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend from office any Munsif under his control.

Whenever a District Judge suspends from office any such Munsif, he shall forthwith send to the High Court a full report of the circumstances of the suspension, together with the evidence, if any; and the High Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER VI.

MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

34. The District Judges shall appoint the ministerial officers of their Courts, and, subject only to the general control of the local Government, the said Judges may remove or suspend such officers or fine them in an amount not exceeding one month's salary.

35. The ministerial officers of the Courts of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs shall be nominated and appointed by those Courts respectively, subject to the approval of the District Judge within whose jurisdiction such Courts are situate.

Every such Court may, by order, remove or suspend from office, or fine in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any of its ministerial officers who is guilty of any misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office. And the District Judge, subject only to the general control of the local Government, may, on appeal or otherwise, reverse or modify every such order.

The District Judge, within whose jurisdiction such Court is situate, may, by order, suspend or remove any such ministerial officer.

Nothing in this section or in section thirty-four shall exempt any officer from any penal or other consequences to which he may be liable under any other law in force for the time being.

36. The local Government may, at the instance of the District Judge, transfer from any Court in the territories administered by such Government, to any other Court in the same territories, all or any of the ministerial officers of such Judge or of any Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

The District Judge may transfer all or any of the ministerial officers of any Court under his control to any other such Court.

37. Any fine imposed under this Chapter shall, if the order imposing it so directs, be recovered by deduction from the offender's salary.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 4 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, declares that the number of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs to be appointed in each district shall be fixed, and may from time to time be altered, by the local Government. And section 6 of the same Act declares that, when the Governor General in Council has sanctioned an increase in the number of Munsifs, the High Court shall nominate such person as it thinks fit to be a Munsif, and the local Government shall appoint him accordingly. The number of Munsifs was accordingly fixed under section 4 in the Lower Provinces and Assam. Subsequently, in exercise of the power vested in local Governments by the terms of the provincial service arrangements in regard to the creation of additional appointments on salaries not exceeding Rs. 250 a month, the Government of Bengal and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appointed Munsifs in excess of the number so fixed. Doubts have been raised as to the validity of such appointments. It appears to the Government of India that the law does not authorize the local Government to appoint Munsifs, whether temporarily or permanently, in excess of the fixed number, unless an increase to that number has previously been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council. It is, however, in the opinion of the Government of India desirable to empower the local Government, without the sanction, but subject to the control, of the Governor General in Council, to increase the number of Munsifs, provided that the power is confined to those grades of Munsifs the pay of which does not exceed Rs. 250 a month.

2. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared. It enables the local Government without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council to increase the number of Munsifs of a grade the salary of which does not exceed Rs. 250 per month. The opportunity has been taken to validate the appointments already made by the Bengal Government and the Chief Commissioner of Assam: to make it clear that the local Government cannot increase the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council: to extend the District Judge's power of transferring appeals and proceedings to appeals from all orders made by Munsifs and to proceedings under the Probate and Administration Act, 1881: and to make such amendments in the wording of the law as the experience of the last ten years shows to be necessary or desirable.

SCHEDULE.

An Act to amend the Law with respect to Fugitive Offenders in Her Majesty's Dominions, and for other Purposes connected with the Trial of Offenders. [27th August, 1881].

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows (that is to say) :—

1. This Act may be cited as the Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881.

PART I.

RETURN OF FUGITIVES.

2. Where a person accused of having committed an offence (to which this part of this Act applies) in one part of Her Majesty's dominions has left that part, such person (in this Act referred to as a fugitive from that part), if found in another part of Her Majesty's dominions, shall be liable to be apprehended and returned in manner provided by this Act to the part from which he is a fugitive.

Liability of fugitive to be apprehended and returned.

A fugitive may be so apprehended under an endorsed warrant or a provisional warrant.

43. Where a warrant has been issued in one part of Her Majesty's dominions for the apprehension of a fugitive from that part, any of the following authorities in another part of Her Majesty's dominions in or on the way to which the fugitive is or is suspected to be (that is to say),—

- (1) A Judge of a superior Court in such part, and
- (2) In the United Kingdom a Secretary of State and one of the Magistrates of the Metropolitan Police Court in Bow Street, and
- (3) In a British possession the Governor of that possession, if satisfied that the warrant was issued by some person having lawful authority to issue the same, may endorse such warrant in manner provided by this Act; and the warrant so endorsed shall be a sufficient authority to apprehend the fugitive in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which it is endorsed, and bring him before a Magistrate.

4. A Magistrate of any part of Her Majesty's dominions may issue a provisional warrant for the apprehension of a fugitive who is or is suspected of being in or on his way to that part on such information, and under such circumstances, as would in his opinion justify the issue of a warrant if the offence of which the fugitive is accused had been committed within his jurisdiction; and such warrant may be backed and executed accordingly.

A Magistrate issuing a provisional warrant shall forthwith send a report of the issue, together with the information or a certified copy thereof, if he is in the United Kingdom, to a Secretary of State, and if he is in a British possession, to the Governor of that possession; and the Secretary of State or Governor may, if he think fit, discharge the person apprehended under such warrant.

5. A fugitive when apprehended shall be brought before a Magistrate, who (subject to the provisions of this Act) shall hear the case in the same manner and have the same jurisdiction and powers, as near as may be (including the power to remand and admit to bail), as if the fugitive were charged with an offence committed within his jurisdiction.

If the endorsed warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive is duly authenticated, and such evidence is produced as (subject to the provisions of this Act), according to the law ordinarily administered by the Magistrate, raises a strong or probable presumption that the fugitive committed the offence mentioned in the warrant, and that the offence is one to which this part of this Act applies, the Magistrate shall commit the fugitive to prison to await his return, and shall forthwith send a certificate of the committal and such report of the case as he may think fit, if in the United Kingdom to a Secretary of State, and if in a British possession to the Governor of that possession.

Where the Magistrate commits the fugitive to prison he shall inform the fugitive that he will not be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days, and that he has a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, or other like process.

A fugitive apprehended on a provisional warrant may be from time to time remanded for such reasonable time, not exceeding seven days at any one time, as under the circumstances seems requisite for the production of an endorsed warrant.

6. Upon the expiration of fifteen days after a fugitive has been committed to prison to await his return, or if a writ of habeas corpus or other like process is issued with reference to such fugitive by a superior Court, after the final decision of the Court in the case,

(1) if the fugitive is so committed in the United Kingdom, a Secretary of State, and

(2) if the fugitive is so committed in a British possession, the Governor of that possession, may, if he thinks it just, by warrant under his hand order that fugitive to be returned to the part of Her Majesty's dominions from which he is a fugitive, and for that purpose to be delivered into the custody of the persons to whom the warrant is addressed, or some one or more of them, and to be held in custody, and conveyed by sea or otherwise to the said part of Her Majesty's dominions, to be dealt with there in due course of law as if he had been there apprehended; and such warrant shall be forthwith executed according to the tenor thereof.

The Governor or other chief officer of any prison, on request of any person having the custody of a fugitive under any such warrant, and on payment or tender of a reasonable amount for expenses, shall receive such fugitive and detain him for such reasonable time as may be requested by the said person for the purpose of the proper execution of the warrant.

7. If a fugitive who, in pursuance of this part of this Act, has been committed to prison in any part of Her Majesty's dominions to await his return, is not conveyed out of that part within one month after such committal, a superior Court, upon application by or on behalf of the fugitive, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given, if the said part is the United Kingdom to a Secretary of State, and if the said part is a British possession to the Governor of the possession, may, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, order the fugitive to be discharged out of custody.

8. Where a person accused of an offence and returned in pursuance of this part of this Act to any part of Her Majesty's dominions, either is not prosecuted for the said offence within six months after his arrival in that part, or is acquitted of the said offence, then if that part is the United Kingdom a Secretary of State, and if that part is a British possession the Governor of that possession, may, if he think fit, on the request of such person, cause him to be sent back free of cost and with as little delay as possible to the part of Her Majesty's dominions in or on his way to which he was apprehended.

9. This part of this Act shall apply to the following offences, namely, to treason and piracy, and to every offence, whether called felony, misdemeanour, crime, or by any other name, which is for the time being punishable in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which it was committed, either on indictment or information, by imprisonment with hard labour for a term of twelve months or more, or by any greater punishment; and for the purposes of this section, rigorous imprisonment, and any confinement in a prison combined with labour, by whatever name it is called, shall be deemed to be imprisonment with hard labour.

This part of this Act shall apply to an offence notwithstanding that by the law of the part of Her Majesty's dominions in or on his way to which the fugitive is or is suspected of being it is not an offence, or not an offence to which this part of this Act applies; and all the provisions of this part of this Act, including those relating to a provisional warrant and to a committal to prison, shall be construed as if the offence were in such last-mentioned part of Her Majesty's dominions an offence to which this part of this Act applies.

10. Where it is made to appear to a superior Court that by reason of the trivial nature of the case, or by reason of the application for the return of a fugitive not being made in good faith in the interests of justice or otherwise, it would, having regard to the distance, to the facilities for communication, and to all the circumstances of the case, be unjust or oppressive or too severe a punishment to return the fugitive, either at all or until the expiration of a certain period, such Court may discharge the fugitive, either absolutely or on bail, or order that he shall not be returned until after the expiration of the period named in the order, or may make such other order in the premises as to the Court seems just.

11. In Ireland the Lord Lieutenant or Lords Justices or other Chief Governor or Governors of Ireland, also the Chief Secretary of such Lord Lieutenant, may, as well as a Secretary of State, execute any portion of the powers by this part of this Act vested in a Secretary of State.

PART II.

INTER-COLONIAL BACKING OF WARRANTS, AND OFFENCES.

Application of Part of Act.

12. This part of this Act shall apply only to those groups of British possessions to which, by reason of their contiguity or otherwise, it may seem expedient to Her Majesty to apply the same.

It shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time by Order in Council to direct that this part of this Act shall apply to the group of British possessions mentioned in the Order, and by the same or any subsequent Order to except certain offences from the application of this part of this Act, and to limit the application of this part of this Act by such conditions, exceptions and qualifications as may be deemed expedient.

Backing of Warrants.

13. Where in a British possession of a group

Backing in one British possession of warrant issued in another of same group.

to which this part of this Act applies a warrant has been issued for the apprehension of a person accused of an offence punishable by law in that possession, and such person is or is suspected of being in or on the way to another British possession of the same group, a Magistrate in the last-mentioned possession, if satisfied that the warrant was issued by a person having lawful authority to issue the same, may endorse such warrant in manner provided by this Act; and the warrant so endorsed shall be a sufficient authority to apprehend, within the jurisdiction of the endorsing Magistrate, the person named in the warrant, and bring him before the endorsing Magistrate or some other Magistrate in the same British possession.

14. The Magistrate before whom a person so

Return of prisoner apprehended under backed warrant.

apprehended is brought, if he is satisfied that the warrant is duly authenticated as directed by this Act and was issued by a person having lawful authority to issue the same, and is satisfied on oath that the prisoner is the person named or otherwise described in the warrant, may order such prisoner to be returned to the British possession in which the warrant was issued, and for that purpose to be delivered into the custody of the persons to whom the warrant is addressed, or any one or more of them, and to be held in custody and conveyed by sea or otherwise into the British possession in which the warrant was issued, there to be dealt with according to law as if he had been there apprehended. Such order for return may be made by warrant under the hand of the Magistrate making it, and may be executed according to the tenor thereof.

A Magistrate shall, so far as is requisite for the exercise of the powers of this section, have the same power, including the power to remand and admit to bail a prisoner, as he has in the case of a person apprehended under a warrant issued by him.

15. Where a person required to give evidence on behalf of the prosecutor or defendant on a charge for an offence punishable by law in a British possession of a group to which this part of this Act applies, is or is suspected of being in or on his way to any other British possession of the same group, a Judge, Magistrate or other officer who would have lawful authority to issue a summons requiring the attendance of such witness, if the witness were within his jurisdiction, may issue a summons for the attendance of such witness; and a Magistrate in any other British possession of the same group, if satisfied that the summons was issued by some Judge, Magistrate or officer having lawful authority as aforesaid, may endorse the summons with his name; and the witness, on service in that possession of the summons, so endorsed, and on payment or tender of a reasonable amount for his expenses, shall obey the summons, and in default shall be liable to be tried and punished either in the possession in which he served or in the possession in which the summons was issued, and shall be liable to the punishment imposed by the law of the possession in which he is tried for the failure of a witness to obey such a summons. The expression "summons" in this section includes any subpoena or other process for requiring the attendance of a witness.

16. A Magistrate in a British possession of a Provisional warrant in group of British possessions.

group to which this part of this Act applies, before the endorsement in pursuance of this part of this Act of a warrant for the apprehension of any person, may issue a provisional warrant for the apprehension of that person, on such information and under such circumstances as would in his opinion justify the issue of a warrant if the offence of which such person is accused were an offence punishable by the law of the said possession, and had been committed within his jurisdiction; and such warrant may be backed and executed accordingly: Provided that a person arrested under such provisional warrant shall be discharged unless the original warrant is produced and endorsed within such reasonable time as may under the circumstances seem requisite.

17. If a prisoner in a British possession whose Discharge of prisoner not returned within one month to British possession of same group.

return is authorized in pursuance of this part of this Act is not conveyed out of that possession within one month after the date of the warrant ordering his return, a Magistrate or superior Court, upon application by or on behalf of the prisoner, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to the person holding the warrant and to the chief officer of the police of such possession or of the province or town where the prisoner is in custody, may, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, order such prisoner to be discharged out of custody.

Any order or refusal to make an order of discharge by a Magistrate under this section shall be subject to appeal to a superior Court.

18. Where a prisoner accused of an offence is Sending back of prisoner not prosecuted or acquitted to British possession of same group.

returned in pursuance of this part of this Act to a British possession, and either is not prosecuted for the said offence within six months after his arrival in that possession or is acquitted of the said offence, the Governor of that possession, if he thinks fit, may, on the requisition of such person, cause him to be sent back, free of cost, and with as little delay as possible, to the British possession in or on his way to which he was apprehended.

19. Where the return of a prisoner is sought

or ordered under this part of this Act and it is made to appear to a Magistrate or to a superior Court that by reason of the trivial nature of the case, or by reason of the application for the return of such prisoner not being made in good faith in the interests of justice or otherwise, it would, having regard to the distance, to the facilities of communication and to all the circumstances of the case, be unjust or oppressive, or too severe a punishment, to return the prisoner either at all or until the expiration of a certain period, the Court or Magistrate may discharge the prisoner either absolutely or on bail, or order that he shall not be returned until after the expiration of the period named in the order, or may make such other order in the premises as to the Magistrate or Court seems just.

Any order or refusal to make an order of discharge by a Magistrate under this section shall be subject to an appeal to a superior Court.

PART III.

TRIAL, &c., OF OFFENCES.

20. Where two British possessions adjoin, a person accused of an offence committed on or within the distance of five hundred yards from the common boundary of such possessions may be apprehended, tried and punished in either of such possessions.

21. Where an offence is committed on any person or in respect of any property in or upon any carriage, cart or vehicle whatsoever employed in a journey, or on board any vessel whatsoever employed in a navigable river, lake, canal or inland navigation, the person accused of such offence may be tried in any British possession through a part of which such carriage, cart, vehicle or vessel passed in the course of the journey or voyage during which the offence was committed; and where the side, bank, centre or other part of the road, river, lake, canal or inland navigation along which the carriage, cart, vehicle or vessel passed in the course of such journey or voyage is the boundary of any British possession, a person may be tried for such offence in any British possession of which it is the boundary:

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the trial for such offence of a person who is not a British subject, where it is not shown that the offence was committed in a British possession.

22. A person accused of the offence (under whatever name it is known) of swearing or making any false deposition, or of giving or fabricating any false evidence, for the purposes of this Act, may be tried either in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which such deposition or evidence is used, or in the part in which the same was sworn, made, given or fabricated, as the justice of the case may require.

23. Where any part of this Act provides for the place of trial of a person accused of an offence, that offence shall, for all purposes of and incidental to the apprehension, trial and punishment of such person, and of and incidental to any proceedings and matters preliminary, incidental to, or consequential thereon, and of and incidental to the jurisdiction of any Court, constable, or officer with reference to such offence, and to any person accused of such offence, be deemed to have been committed in any place in which the person accused of the offence can be tried for it; and such person may be punished in accordance with the Courts (Colonial) Jurisdiction Act, 1874.

24. Where a warrant for the apprehension of a person accused of an offence has been endorsed in pursuance of any part of this Act in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or where any part of the Act provides for the place of trial of a person accused of an offence, every Court and Magistrate of the part in which the warrant is endorsed or the person accused of the offence can be tried shall have the same power of issuing a warrant to search for any property alleged to be stolen or to be otherwise unlawfully taken or obtained by such person, or otherwise to be the subject of such offence, as that Court or Magistrate would have if the property had been stolen or otherwise unlawfully taken or obtained, or the offence had been committed wholly within the jurisdiction of such Court or Magistrate.

25. Where a person is in legal custody in a British possession either in pursuance of this Act or otherwise, and such person is required to be removed in custody to another place in or belonging to the same British possession, such person, if removed by sea in a vessel belonging to Her Majesty or any of Her Majesty's subjects, shall be deemed to continue in legal custody until he reaches the place to which he is required to be removed; and the provisions of this Act with respect to the retaking of a prisoner who has escaped, and with respect to the trial and punishment of a person guilty of the offence of escaping or attempting to escape, or aiding or attempting to aid a prisoner to escape, shall apply to the case of a prisoner escaping while being lawfully removed as aforesaid, in like manner as if he were being removed in pursuance of a warrant endorsed in pursuance of this Act.

PART IV.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Warrants and Escape.

26. An endorsement of a warrant in pursuance of this Act shall be signed by the authority endorsing the same, and shall authorise all or any of the persons named in the endorsement, and of the persons to whom the warrant was originally directed, and also every constable, to execute the warrant within the part of Her Majesty's dominions or place within which such endorsement is by this Act made a sufficient authority, by apprehending the person named in it, and bringing him before some Magistrate in the said part or place, whether the Magistrate named in the endorsement or some other.

For the purpose of this Act every warrant, summons, subpoena, and process, and every endorsement made in pursuance of this Act thereon, shall remain in force, notwithstanding that the person signing the warrant or such endorsement dies or ceases to hold office.

27. Where a fugitive or prisoner is authorised to be returned to any part of Her Majesty's dominions in pursuance of Part One or Part Two of this Act, such fugitive or prisoner may be sent thither in any ship belonging to Her Majesty or to any of her subjects.

For the purpose aforesaid, the authority signing the warrant for the return may order the master of any ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty bound to the said part of Her Majesty's dominions to receive and afford a passage and subsistence during the voyage to such fugitive or prisoner, and to the person having him in custody, and to the witnesses, so that such master be not required to receive more than one fugitive or prisoner for every hundred tons of his ship's registered tonnage, or more than one witness for every fifty tons of such tonnage.

The said authority shall endorse or cause to be endorsed upon the agreement of the ship such particulars with respect to any fugitive, prisoner or witness sent in her as the Board of Trade from time to time require.

Every such master shall, on his ship's arrival in the said part of Her Majesty's dominions, cause such fugitive or prisoner, if he is not in the custody of any person, to be given into the custody of some constable, there to be dealt with according to law.

Every master who fails on payment or tender of a reasonable amount for expenses to comply with an order made in pursuance of this section, or to cause a fugitive or prisoner committed to his charge to be given into custody as required by this section, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, which may be recovered in any part of Her Majesty's dominions in like manner as a penalty of the same amount under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same.

28. If a prisoner escape, by breach of prison or otherwise, out of the custody of a person acting under a warrant issued or endorsed in pursuance of this Act, he may be retaken in the same manner as a person accused of a crime against the law of that part of Her Majesty's dominions to which he escapes may be retaken upon an escape.

A person guilty of the offence of escaping or of attempting to escape, or of aiding or attempting to aid a prisoner to escape, by breach of prison or otherwise, from custody under any warrant issued or endorsed in pursuance of this Act, may be tried in any of the following parts of Her Majesty's dominions, namely, the part to which and the part from which the prisoner is being removed, and the part in which the prisoner escapes, and the part in which the offender is found.

Evidence.

29. A Magistrate may take depositions for the purposes of this Act in the absence of a person accused of an offence in like manner as he might take the same if such person were present and accused of the offence before him.

Depositions (whether taken in the absence of the fugitive or otherwise) and copies thereof, and official certificates of or judicial documents stating facts, may, if duly authenticated, be received in evidence in proceedings under this Act:

Provided that nothing in this Act shall authorise the reception of any such depositions, copies, certificates, or documents in evidence against a person upon his trial for an offence.

Warrants and depositions, and copies thereof, and official certificates of or judicial documents stating facts, shall be deemed duly authenticated for the purposes of this Act if they are authenticated in manner provided for the time being by law, or if they purport to be signed by or authenticated by the signature of a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which the same are issued, taken, or made, and are authenticated either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of a Secretary of State, or with the public seal of a British possession, or with the official seal of a Governor of a British possession, or of a Colonial Secretary, or of some Secretary or Minister administering a department of the Government of a British possession.

And all Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of every such seal as is in this section mentioned, and shall admit in evidence without further proof the documents authenticated by it.

At the Court at Holyrood Palace, the 26th day of August 1881.

PRESENT:

The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and Strathearn.
Lord President.Earl of Rosebery.
Mr. Secretary Childers.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the 37th year of Her Majesty's reign, chapter 88, intituled "The Slave Trade Act, 1873," it was, amongst other things, provided that, where any Treaty in relation to the Slave Trade is made after the passing of that Act, by or on behalf of Her Majesty with any Foreign State, Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, direct that as from such date, not being earlier than the date of the Treaty, as may be specified in the Order, such Treaty shall be deemed to be an existing Slave Trade Treaty within the meaning of the Act, and it was further provided that thereupon (as from the said date, or, if no date should be specified, as from the date of such Order) all the provisions of the Act should apply and be construed accordingly.

And whereas on the 25th day of January 1880, a Treaty or Convention for the suppression of the African Slave Trade was concluded between Her Majesty and His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, in the following terms, that is to say:—

“Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, being mutually animated by a sincere desire to co-operate for the extinction of the traffic in African slaves, have resolved to conclude a Convention for the purpose of attaining this object, and with this view have named as their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:—

“And His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, Sawas Pasha, His Majesty's Minister for Foreign Affairs;

“Who, having communicated to each other their respective full powers found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:—

“ARTICLE I.

“His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, whilst renewing absolutely the prohibition of the Slave Trade, engages to forbid from henceforward the importation of African slaves into any part of the Ottoman dominions or its dependencies, or their transit through Ottoman territories by sea; and to punish, in the manner provided by Ottoman law, and in conformity with the provisions of the Firman of the year A.H. 1273 (A.D. 1857), any person or persons amenable to Ottoman jurisdiction who may be found engaged, directly or indirectly, in the traffic in African slaves. His Majesty further engages to prohibit the exportation of black slaves from the Ottoman Empire to foreign parts, except when accompanying their masters or mistresses as domestic servants, in which case each slave, man or woman, shall be furnished with a certificate stating his or her age, and otherwise describing them, and stating the particular capacity in which they accompany their master or mistress; and in the event of their not being furnished with such certificates they shall be set free, and the parties attempting to export them shall be liable to punishment; and all free blacks leaving the Ottoman territories shall, on application to the Ottoman authorities, be furnished with passports certifying that they are free and at liberty to dispose of themselves without restriction or reserve.

“ARTICLE II.

“Any person or persons not being Ottoman subjects, who may be found engaged in the African Slave Traffic, either directly or indirectly, within the Ottoman dominions, or on board Ottoman vessels, shall, together with their accomplices, if any, be handed over for trial according to the laws of the country with the depositions (procès-verbaux) drawn up by the Ottoman superior authority of the place where the traffic has been proved; and all other documents or evidence (éléments de conviction) handed over by the said authority, and destined to serve as proofs at the trial of the

“Sa Majesté la Reine du Royaume Uni de la Grande Bretagne et d'Irlande, le Très-Honorable Sir Austen Henry Layard, Ambassadeur Extraordinaire et Plénipotentiaire de Sa Majesté près la Sublime Porte; “Et Sa Majesté l'Empereur des Ottomans, Sawas Pacha, son Ministre des Affaires Étrangères; “Lesquels se sont communiqués mutuellement leurs pleins pouvoirs respectifs, trouvés en bonne et due forme, et ont convenu et arrêté les Articles suivants:—

“ARTICLE I.

“Sa Majesté l'Empereur des Ottomans, renouvelant d'une manière absolue la défense du trafic des nègres, s'engage à prohiber l'importation des esclaves d'Afrique dans toutes les parties de l'Empire Ottoman ou ses dépendances, leur passage à travers le territoire Ottoman par mer, et à punir, suivant les dispositions prévues par la loi Ottomane et conformément aux dispositions du Firman de l'Année 1273 (A.D. 1857), toute personne ou toutes personnes justiciables des Tribunaux Ottomans qui se trouveraient, mêlées soit directement, soit indirectement, au trafic des noirs. Sa Majesté s'engage aussi à interdire l'exportation des esclaves noirs du territoire Ottoman à l'étranger, sauf le cas où ils auraient à accompagner leurs maîtres ou maîtresses en qualité de domestiques attachés à leurs personnes. Dans ce cas, chaque esclave, homme ou femme, sera muni d'un certificat constatant son âge, ainsi que tout autre signe distinctif, et mentionnant tout particulièrement en quelle qualité il accompagne son maître ou sa maîtresse. Dans le cas où il ne sera pas muni de pareil certificat, il sera affranchi, et ceux qui tenteraient de l'exporter seront passibles de punition.

“Tous les noirs affranchis qui quitteront l'Empire Ottoman recevront des autorités Ottomanes des passeports constatant qu'ils sont affranchis et libres, et qu'ils disposent de leurs personnes sans restriction ou réserve.

“ARTICLE II.

“Elles seront accompagnées des procès verbaux dressés par l'autorité supérieure Ottomane, de l'endroit où le trafic aura été constaté, et de tous les autres éléments de conviction, fournis par la suadite autorité, destinés à servir de preuves, lors offenders, so far as those laws may admit of such proof.

"All African slaves found in the possession of a dealer in slaves shall be liberated and dealt with in conformity with the provisions of Article III of the present Convention.

"ARTICLE III.

"Taking into consideration the impossibility of sending back to their homes African slaves who may be captured from slave dealers and liberated, without exposing them to the risk of perishing from fatigue or want, or from falling again into slavery, the Ottoman Government engages to adopt adequate measures to insure the freedom of such captured Africans, and to see that they are properly cared for.

"ARTICLE IV.

"His Imperial Majesty engages to pursue as criminals all persons who may be found engaged in the mutilation of, or traffic in, children. If such persons are amenable to Ottoman jurisdiction they shall be handed over to the Ottoman Tribunals and punished according to Ottoman law; if they are not amenable to Ottoman jurisdiction, that is to say, if the criminals are not Ottoman subjects and the crime has not been committed on Ottoman territory, then they shall be handed over to the competent Tribunals, to be dealt with according as the law of their country directs, together with the depositions (procès-verbaux) and other documents or evidence ('éléments de conviction'), as laid down in Article II.

"ARTICLE V.

"With the view to the more effectual suppression of the Traffic in African Slaves in the Red Sea, His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans agrees that British cruizers may visit, search, and, if necessary, detain, in order to hand over to the nearest or most convenient Ottoman authority or to the competent authorities according to Article IV, for trial, any Ottoman vessel which may be found engaged in the traffic in African slaves, as well as any Ottoman vessel which may fairly be suspected of being intended for that traffic, or which may have been engaged in it on the voyage during which she has been met with.

"This right of visit and detention may be exercised in the Red Sea, in the Gulf of Aden, on the coast of Arabia, in the Persian Gulf, and on the East Coast of Africa, and in Ottoman maritime waters where no constituted authorities exist; and any vessel which may be detained by a British cruizer under the provisions of this Convention shall, together with her cargo and crew, be handed over for trial to the nearest or most convenient Ottoman authority, or to the competent authorities according to Article IV.

"Should there be good reason for believing that vessels sailing under the Ottoman flag which may be found in Ottoman harbours or waters have African slaves on board for purposes of traffic, or have been employed in the African du procès des inculpés, en tant que ces lois admettent de pareilles preuves.

"Tous les noirs trouvés en la possession de marchands d'esclaves seront affranchis, et on agira à leur égard conformément aux dispositions de l'Article III de la présente Convention.

"ARTICLE III.

"Prenant en considération l'impossibilité de renvoyer dans leurs foyers les esclaves d'Afrique qui seraient capturés des marchands d'esclaves et affranchis, sans les exposer au risque de périr de fatigue et de faim ou de tomber de nouveau sous le joug de l'esclavage, le Gouvernement Ottoman s'engage à prendre les mesures convenables pour assurer la liberté des noirs qui viendraient à être capturés, et à veiller à ce qu'ils soient convenablement soignés.

"ARTICLE IV.

"Sa Majesté Impériale s'engage à poursuivre comme criminels toutes les personnes qui se trouveraient compromises dans des actes de mutilation ou de trafic d'enfants. Si ces personnes sont justiciables des Tribunaux Ottomans elles seront livrées aux Tribunaux Ottomans et punies suivant la loi Ottomane. Dans le cas contraire, c'est à dire, dans le cas où le criminel n'est pas sujet Ottoman et le crime n'a pas été perpétré sur le territoire Ottoman, elles seront consignées entre les mains du Tribunal compétent, qui agira à leur égard suivant les lois du pays dont elles relèvent. Elles seront accompagnées de procès-verbaux et d'autres éléments de conviction, comme il est dit dans l'Article II.

"ARTICLE V.

"Dans le but d'opérer d'une manière réelle la suppression du trafic des nègres dans la Mer Rouge, Sa Majesté l'Empereur des Ottomans consent à ce que les croiseurs Anglais soumettent à la visite et aux recherches, et s'il est nécessaire à la détention, pour en faire la remise à l'autorité Ottomane la plus proche ou la plus compétente ou bien à qui de droit conformément à l'Article IV, et lui faire subir son jugement tout navire Ottoman qui se trouverait impliqué dans le trafic des noirs comme aussi tout navire Ottoman qui pourrait à juste titre être suspect d'être destiné à opérer ce trafic ou qui l'aurait exercé dans le cours du voyage où il a été rencontré.

"Ce droit de visite et de détention pourra être exercé dans la Mer Rouge, dans le Golfe d'Aden, sur la côte Arabique, dans le Golfe Persique, sur la Côte Orientale de l'Afrique ainsi que dans toutes les eaux maritimes Ottomanes, même dans l'absence d'autorité constituée. Tout navire qui serait détenu par un croiseur Anglais à teneur des dispositions de cette Convention, sera consigné, ainsi que son chargement et son équipage, à l'autorité Ottomane la plus proche ou la plus compétente, ou bien à qui de droit conformément à l'Article IV pour qu'il soit procédé à son jugement.

"Dans le cas où l'on aurait lieu de croire que des navires sous pavillon Ottoman, rencontrés dans les ports ou eaux Ottomans, ont des noirs à bord dans le but d'en faire le commerce, ou bien des navires dont serait servi pour le trafic des Slave Traffic during the voyage on which they have been last engaged, such vessels, on being denounced by the Commander or other commissioned officer of a British cruiser, or by a British Consular Officer, shall be immediately searched by the Ottoman authorities, and any slaves who may be found on board shall be released and manumitted, and the vessel, her master, officers, and all persons who shall be proved to have acted in connivance with them, handed over to the competent Ottoman authorities, to be dealt with in accordance with Ottoman laws for the suppression of Slave Traffic.

"All African slaves captured by a British cruiser on board an Ottoman vessel shall be at the disposal of the Ottoman authorities, or of the nearest authorities in the event of there being no Ottoman authorities in the vicinity, with a view of securing to such slaves their freedom; and the vessel and her cargo shall be handed over for trial to the nearest or most convenient Ottoman authority, or to the competent authorities according to Article IV.

"Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland agrees, on her part, that all vessels navigating under the British flag in the Red Sea, in the Gulf of Aden, on the coast of Arabia, in the Persian Gulf, and on the East Coast of Africa, or in the inland waters of the Ottoman Empire and its dependencies, which may be found engaged in the traffic in African slaves, or which may fairly be suspected of being intended for that traffic, or which may have been engaged in it on the voyage during which she has been met with, may be visited, seized, and detained by the Ottoman authorities or cruisers; but it is agreed that the vessel and its cargo shall, together with its crew, be handed over to the nearest British authority for trial.

"The captured slaves shall be released by the Ottoman authorities, and shall remain at their disposal.

"If the competent Tribunal should decide that the seizure, detention, or prosecution was unjustifiable, the Government of the cruiser making the capture will be liable to pay to the Government of the prize a compensation appropriate to the circumstances of the case.

"It is expressly and formally understood that none of the foregoing provisions apply to the ships of war of either country, which cannot in any case, nor under any pretext, be searched.

"ARTICLE VI.

"With the view to avoid any undue interference on the part of British cruisers engaged in the suppression of the Slave Trade with Ottoman vessels whose crews may be composed in whole or in part of African slaves, it is hereby agreed that every Ottoman vessel manned wholly or partly by African slaves shall be furnished with papers stating the voyage or employment on which she is engaged, and the number and description of the slaves on board, and any larger number of African slaves found on board than is authorised by the ship's papers shall render the vessel liable to detention and to be sent for adjudication before a competent Tribunal.

noirs durant le dernier voyage qu'ils auraient accompli, sur la dénonciation faite par le Commandant ou tout autre officier commissionné d'un croiseur Anglais, ou par un fonctionnaire Consulaire Britannique, les autorités Ottomanes opéreront immédiatement des recherches. Tous les esclaves trouvés à bord de ces navires seront mis en liberté et affranchis; le navire, le capitaine, les officiers, et tous ceux qui seront convaincus d'avoir été de connivance avec eux seront consignés aux autorités compétentes Ottomanes, qui agiront à leur égard à teneur des dispositions de la loi Ottomane concernant la suppression du trafic des nègres.

"Tous les esclaves d'Afrique capturés par un croiseur Anglais à bord d'un navire Ottoman seront placés à la disposition des autorités Ottomanes, et dans le cas où il n'y aurait pas d'autorité Ottomane à proximité, aux autorités les plus rapprochées, à l'effet de les proclamer libres. Le navire et son chargement seront consignés pour être jugés à l'autorité Ottomane la plus proche ou la plus compétente, ou à qui de droit conformément aux prescriptions de l'Article IV.

"Sa Majesté la Reine de la Grande Bretagne consent de son côté à ce que tous les navires naviguant sous Pavillon Anglais dans la Mer Rouge, le Golfe d'Aden, sur la côte Arabique, dans le Golfe Persique, et sur la Côte Orientale d'Afrique, ou dans les eaux intérieures de l'Empire Ottoman et de ses dépendances qui se trouveraient mêlés dans le trafic des nègres, comme aussi tout navire qui pourrait à juste titre être suspecté d'être destiné à opérer ce trafic, ou qui l'aurait exercé dans le cours du voyage où il a été rencontré, soient visités, saisis, et détenus par les autorités ou les croiseurs Ottomans. Mais il est entendu que ces navires et leurs chargements ainsi que leurs équipages seront consignés à l'autorité Britannique la plus proche pour subir leur jugement.

"Les esclaves capturés seront mis en liberté par les autorités Ottomanes et resteront à leur disposition.

"Si le Tribunal compétent décidera que la saisie, détention, et la poursuite n'étaient pas fondées et justifiées, le Gouvernement dont dépend le croiseur qui a opéré la capture payera au Gouvernement auquel appartient la prise une indemnité adaptée à la circonstance.

"Il est expressément et formellement entendu que les stipulations précédentes ne s'appliquent pas aux bâtiments de guerre des deux États, qui ne peuvent en aucun cas et sous aucun prétexte être visités.

"ARTICLE VI.

"Dans le but d'éviter que les croiseurs Anglais chargés de la suppression du commerce des esclaves ne s'ingèrent indûment dans les navires Ottomans dont les équipages seraient formés en totalité ou en partie d'esclaves d'Afrique, il est convenu par le présent Acte que tout navire Ottoman équipé en totalité ou en partie par d'esclaves d'Afrique devra être muni de papiers constatant le voyage ou service auquel il est affecté, ainsi que le nombre et la description des esclaves qui se trouvent à bord. Si le nombre d'esclaves d'Afrique qui se trouveraient à bord était plus considérable que celui autorisé par les papiers de bord, le navire sera susceptible d'être détenu et renvoyé par devant un Tribunal compétent pour y être jugé

"ARTICLE VII.

"His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans engages to take the necessary measures and to issue the necessary orders for giving effect to the present Convention.

"ARTICLE VII.

"Sa Majesté l'Empereur des Ottomans s'engage à prendre les mesures et de donner les ordres nécessaires afin que la présente Convention soit rigoureusement exécutée.

"ARTICLE VIII.

"The present convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at Constantinople as soon as possible.

"The present convention shall come into operation six months after the date of its signature.

"In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

"Done at Constantinople this twenty-fifth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty."

"ARTICLE VIII.

"La présente Convention sera ratifiée, et les ratifications seront échangées à Constantinople le plus tôt que faire se pourra.

"La présente Convention entrera en vigueur six mois après le jour de la signature.

"En foi de quoi les Plénipotentiaires respectifs ont signé le même et y ont apposé les sceaux de leurs armes.

"Fait à Constantinople ce jourd'hui 25 Janvier, mille huit cent quatre-vingt."

And whereas it is expedient that the said Treaty or Convention should be brought within the operation of "The Slave Trade Act, 1873."

Now therefore, Her Majesty by virtue and in exercise of the powers in this behalf as aforesaid is pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

The said Treaty or Convention hereinbefore recited shall, from the said 25th day of January 1880, being the day of the date thereof, be deemed to have been and to be an existing Slave Trade Treaty within the meaning of "The Slave Trade Act, 1873."

And the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, the Right Honourable the Earl Granville, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, are to give the necessary directions herein as to them may respectively appertain.

Letter from the Government of the Punjab, No. 304S., dated 21st September 1881, forwarding an indent upon the Secretary of State for clothing materials required for the Punjab Police Force.

RESOLUTION.—In his despatch No. 418, dated 13th December 1877, the Secretary of State directed that materials for the clothing of the Police should be procured locally. Subsequently, in April 1879, the Government of the Punjab represented that suitable materials for Police clothing could not be so procured, and therefore requested permission to continue the practice of sending home indents for them. This was sanctioned in May 1879. The rules then in force regarding the supply of stores allowed the purchase of European articles either in the local market, or direct from the manufacturers in England. Those rules have since been modified; and by Resolution No. 953, dated 10th June 1881, the Government of India declared its policy that, wherever practicable, articles of Indian manufacture shall be substituted for imported goods, and that in cases in which this is impracticable, European stores shall be obtained only through the Secretary of State and through no other agency.

2. The Government of the Punjab has now submitted for transmission to England an indent for clothing materials required for the Provincial Police Force. The Government of India has reason to believe from the information now before it that the Indian woollen mills will be able to supply all but the finest cloths demanded in the indent.

3. The Governor General in Council accordingly requests that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab will cause careful enquiries to be instituted as to how far it may be possible to procure articles of Indian origin for the clothing of the Punjab Police. In this view the indents are returned for revision.

4. The Government of India expects the heads of Departments to take special pains to carry out the policy declared in the Resolutions cited above, and hopes that the Local Governments will insist that they shall do so. The Local Governments should pass no indent for stores upon the Secretary of State without satisfying themselves in each case that the articles entered in the indent cannot be procured of Indian manufacture at a price not higher than that of imported goods of the same class.

ORDERED, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution, together with the original indent, be forwarded to the Government of the Punjab.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be communicated to the Public Works and Military Departments and to the other Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and that it be published in the Gazette of India.

The 13th October 1881.

No. 3622.—The following letter and extracts are published for general information:—

Letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, No. 3513, dated 10th October 1881.

I am directed to submit, for the consideration of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, the following remarks, in continuation of paragraph 11 of the Resolution of the Government of India in this Department, No. 3353, dated the 30th ultimo, on the subject of the further extension of Local Self-Government.

2. The Provincial expenditure which may at the present time be transferred with greatest advantage to local control appears in the accounts under the heads of Medical, Education, and Public Works, but the Government of India is anxious that no artificial restriction should be imposed on such transfers; and if, in the opinion of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, there should be other items of expenditure under Minor Departments, Miscellaneous, or any other head of the accounts which can without loss of efficiency be transferred to Local Bodies, the Governor General in Council will be glad to consider favourably any recommendation to that effect which His Honour may wish to make.

3. His Excellency in Council specially desires that the case of each minor head of Provincial expenditure under Education or Medical Services should be separately considered, and that the reasons for or against transferring it to local management should be distinctly stated. The various heads under Minor Departments and Miscellaneous need not be considered in detail; but the Governor General in Council will be glad to be favoured with an expression of the views of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor as regards any items under these heads which it might prima facie seem practicable to transfer to local management and control, even though it may not be deemed expedient to make the transfer at present. All expenditure now charged as Local, but not locally administered, should also be considered in detail, and the reasons stated which render it inexpedient, if the case be so, to transfer it to local control. It should also be considered whether any, and what, further expenditure on sanitation, drainage, water-supply, and Public Works might now be made Local.

4. His Excellency in Council observes that at present the total annual amount spent on Police by Municipalities in British India amounts to about 27½ lakhs of rupees. The only function which the Municipalities discharge in regard to Police is the provision of funds for the purpose of meeting the whole, or a portion, of the cost of the Municipal Police Force. They practically exercise no control over the Police, and cannot, therefore, be expected to take any special interest in the efficiency of the force, or to look with sympathy on a provision of the Law which treats them as a machinery for raising taxes to be spent on a department over which they have no control, and in the efficient and economical expenditure of which they have but little direct interest and no immediate responsibility. The Governor General in Council would, therefore, be glad to see Municipal Bodies relieved altogether of the charge for Police, an equal amount of expenditure on Education, Medical Charity, and, if possible, Public Works of local interest, being transferred to them with as full control as may be practically expedient over the details of such expenditure.

5. It is not the intention of the Government of India that the proposed transfer of the control of expenditure of a specially local character to Local Bodies should involve any addition to existing local burdens, and it will therefore be necessary to arrange for the simultaneous transfer of receipts sufficient to meet any net balance of additional expenditure which in any instance may arise. The nature of the receipts to be transferred requires careful consideration. They should, where possible, be of such a character as to afford a reasonable prospect that by careful administration, with all the advantages due to local sympathy, experience and watchfulness, they will so increase as to afford the means of meeting any additional expenditure which may be rendered necessary by the growing wants of each locality. In cases where a larger augmentation may be needed than is yielded by receipts of a specially local character, it may perhaps be found possible to assign to Local Bodies the receipts from Pounds, or a share of Assessed Taxes collected within the area of their jurisdiction. All receipts connected with any head of expenditure transferred to local control would, of course, be also transferred at the same time. For instance, all fees paid in Schools under local control would be treated as local receipts. The Governor General in Council is anxious, however, in this matter, as in all other questions connected with the proposed system of Local Self-Government, which must to a great extent be decided on considerations of local expediency, to meet, as far as may be possible, the wishes of the local authorities.

6. The practicability of the transfer of items of Provincial expenditure to local management and control cannot be profitably considered apart from the question of the Local Bodies to whom such transfers should be made.

The existing Local Bodies of greatest importance are the Municipalities and District Committees, and the Governor General in Council will be glad if, in any proposals which His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor makes, advantage be taken as far as possible of the existence of these bodies, their powers being, where necessary, extended by means of legislation.

7. In the case of Municipalities, all Provinces in British India are now provided with legislative enactments sufficient for their constitution and working. But these enactments are, in some, of a much more elementary and incomplete character than in others, and it may be advantageous, while providing for any changes necessarily entailed by the transfers of receipts and charges now contemplated, for each Province to review all contemporary Indian legislation on the subject, and consider what improvements of a general nature are desirable.

8. With reference to District Committees, I am desired to state that His Excellency in Council is disposed prima facie to consider the most desirable and effective policy to be that of concentrating all the local administration, other than that embraced by Municipalities, in the hands of one Committee for each District, having ancillary subordinate Sub-Committees for each tahsil or subdivision (as the case may be). Of the former the Magistrate and Collector would be President, of the latter the Assistant or Deputy in charge of the subdivision would be Chairman, and in each case the local body should comprise persons not in the service of Government, and elected or nominated, as may seem best, in a proportion not less than from one-half to two-thirds. In districts where more than one Committee now exists for different objects the possibility of their amalgamation should be considered; where no such Committees have yet been formed their constitution is evidently desirable.

9. In view of one or other of the purposes which have been alluded to in the preceding paragraphs, it appears probable that in most provinces, though perhaps not in all, legislation will be necessary; and I am therefore to request that, should this be so in the case of Bengal, the general outline of the nature of the legislation by which it is proposed to effect the necessary changes may be stated in your reply. Special attention will be required in settling the relations between the various Local Bodies and the officers of the general administration, and in providing for a certain measure of control and inspection on the part of the Government. It would be hopeless to expect any real development of self-government, if Local Bodies were subject to check and interference in matters of detail; and the respective powers of Government and of the various Local Bodies should be clearly and distinctly defined by statute, so that there may be as little risk of friction and misunderstanding as possible. Within the limits to be laid down in each case, however, the Governor General in Council is anxious that the fullest possible liberty of action should be given to Local Bodies.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of Bengal in particular the distinctive features would appear to be—

- (a) That the mofussil Municipal organisation, comprising 1st and 2nd class Municipalities, Unions, and Stations, is fairly complete, but that Municipalities are saddled with nearly six lakhs of rupees of police charges, while their total expenditure on Education, and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments falls short of one lakh of rupees.
- (b) That District Committees exist in most districts for the administration of the Road Cess, and of schools or hospitals and dispensaries, but that the Public Works Cess and the District Post Cess are under Provincial management.
- (c) That the expenditure on Education and on Medical Charity is drawn almost entirely from the Provincial revenues, and the assistance given to primary education is small. Municipal contributions for Police, however, amount in all to nearly nine lakhs of rupees per annum.
- (d) That the gross Provincial expenditure in 1881-82 is estimated at Rs. 26,90,000 for Education and Rs. 11,63,000 for Medical Services, of which about two-thirds is of a nature similar to that which is in some other Provinces administered almost entirely by Local Bodies, while only a much smaller proportion is so administered in Bengal by means of the grant-in-aid system.
- (e) That the Provincial and Local charges for Public Works are, for the same year, Rs. 53,43,000 and Rs. 47,31,000 respectively, but that the whole of the former, and some portion of the latter, are practically, at least, beyond the control of Local Bodies.

11. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will, no doubt, take into consideration whether the organisation of the District Road Cess Committees and their Branches, which appears excellent, might not be applied to a more extended sphere, embracing Education, Medical Services, the administration of grants-in-aid, and other objects, subject to suitable inspection under the orders of the Local Government, and especially whether, in the now greatly improved condition of the Provincial revenues, a much enlarged grant might not be made towards primary education, and entrusted to these Committees. The possibility of relieving Municipalities from nearly nine lakhs of rupees (including Calcutta) now contributed for Police, and the substitution of some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary, or other burdens, will also not escape notice.

12. In conclusion, I am to add that the Government of India is confident that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor fully appreciates the importance of the extension of Local Self-Government; that the proposals now put forward will receive the most careful consideration from the Government of Bengal; and that no efforts will be spared to ensure the success of a scheme which will relieve the Provincial authorities from some portion of the ever-growing details of the work of administration, will tend to reconcile the public to the burden of local taxation, and will lead to the more extended employment of the Natives of India in the administration of public affairs, while conferring on them higher powers of control over all expenditure on objects of local importance.

The discussion and settlement of the details of the measures to which this communication refers will impose a considerable burden on the Local Government and its officers, but the Governor General in Council is so deeply impressed with the importance of allowing no delay, that can possibly be avoided, to occur in their introduction, that he trusts that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will find himself in a position to report on the whole question in sufficient time to permit of the necessary arrangements being made before the close of the current financial year.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Secretary to the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 3514, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the distinctive features would appear to us as follows:—

- (a) That the Municipal organisation is fairly complete, but that Municipalities are saddled with nearly six lakhs of rupees on account of Police charges, while their total expenditure on Education and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments falls short of one and a half lakhs of rupees.
- (b) That District Committees already exist, which possess powers of supervision and control over the expenditure of the amount allotted yearly to each district by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor from the proceeds of the Local Rates on land.
- (c) That although there is a considerable amount of expenditure on Education from Local Funds, which, possibly, could not with advantage be increased, the expenditure from Local Funds on Medical and Charitable and Sanitary Establishments is small, and that there appears to be room for the transfer to local control and management of a considerable amount of the Provincial expenditure which is now incurred in connection with Vaccination and Hospitals and Dispensaries.
- (d) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works for 1881-82 is Rs. 26,61,000 and Rs. 20,61,000 respectively. Of the local expenditure on Public Works only Rs. 3,21,000 is in charge of civil officers, and it is believed that no portion is entrusted to the Committees.

11. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will no doubt take into consideration the question of transferring additional expenditure to the supervision and control of the District Committees, subject to such suitable inspection as the Local Government deem necessary, and the Government of India will be glad to be furnished with a copy of the rules defining the functions and authority of the Committees.

The relief of Municipalities from the contributions which they now make for the support of the Police, and the substitution of more appropriate Educational, Medical or other burdens will also not escape notice.

* Paragraphs 1—9 and 12 correspond mutatis mutandis with the paragraphs bearing the same number in the above letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Secretary to the Government of Madras, Financial Department, No. 3515, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of Madras in particular, the distinctive features would appear to be as follows:—

- (a) That the mofussil municipal organisation appears to be fairly complete, and that the charge on Municipalities for Police, though it amounted to less than one lakh of rupees in 1879-80, may be greatly increased at the discretion of the Government of Madras. That the municipal expenditure on Education, and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments during the same year amounted to only three lakhs of rupees.
- (b) That Local Fund Boards already exist for the administration of all funds comprised under the Madras Local Fund Act of 1871.
- (c) That a considerable portion of the expenditure on Education is already met from Local Funds, and is locally administered, but that this amount appears to be capable of considerable augmentation, and that the same remarks apply to Medical expenditure. In particular, there appears to be no reason why a large proportion of the total Provincial expenditure on Hospitals and Dispensaries should not now be de-provincialised.
- (d) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works is Rs. 15,34,000 and Rs. 38,76,000, and that the bulk of the latter, but no portion of the former, is in charge of District Committees.

11. His Excellency the Governor of Madras will no doubt take into consideration the question of entrusting a still larger proportion of the expenditure on Education, Medical Services, &c., to the management of the Local Fund Boards, subject to such Provincial supervision as may be deemed necessary, and the Governor General in Council would be glad if Municipalities could be relieved altogether of the cost of Municipal Police, some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary, or other burden being substituted.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bombay, Financial Department, No. 3516, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of Bombay the distinctive features would appear to be as follows:—

- (a) That the mofussil Municipal organisation is complete, and the Municipal law the best, perhaps, in India, but that Municipalities are saddled with more than five lakhs of rupees of Police charges, while their expenditure on Education and Sanitary Establishments does not much exceed 2½ lakhs of rupees.
- (b) That Local Fund Committees, with Taluka Sub-Committees, already exist in all districts for the administration of all the funds embraced under Bombay Acts VIII of 1865 and VII of 1869, and are in good working order.
- (c) That more than half the total expenditure on Education is now met from Local Funds, but that the Educational expenditure which is locally controlled may, perhaps, admit of still further increase.
- (d) That only a small portion of the total Medical expenditure is Local, and that it seems possible to transfer a large portion of the Provincial Medical expenditure, especially under the heads of Vaccination and Sanitation and Hospitals and Dispensaries, to local control and management.

* Paragraphs 1—9 and 12 correspond mutatis mutandis with the paragraphs bearing the same number in the above letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

- (e) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works in 1881-82 amounts to Rs. 25,80,000 and Rs. 21,20,000 respectively. Of the latter amount, however, nearly the whole is expended through the Public Works Department.

11. His Excellency the Governor of Bombay will no doubt take into consideration the question of entrusting to the control and management of the Local Fund Committees a larger portion of the present Provincial expenditure subject to such Provincial supervision as may be deemed necessary, and the Government of India would be glad if it were found possible to relieve Municipalities altogether from the charge which they now bear on account of Police, some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary, or other burdens, being substituted.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, No. 3517, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of the Central Provinces in particular, the distinctive features would appear to be—

- (a) That the existing municipal organisation is fairly complete, but that Municipalities are saddled with about one lakh of rupees of Police charges, while their expenditure on Education and on Sanitary and Charitable Establishments is only about half that amount.
- (b) That there is no provision of the law requiring the appointment of Local District Committees.
- (c) That the expenditure on Education and Medical Services is almost entirely Provincial, but that there appears no reason why a considerable portion of it should not be entrusted to local management and control.
- (d) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works for 1881-82 is Rs. 8,12,000 and Rs. 3,55,000 respectively; of the latter amount Rs. 3,08,000 is in charge of civil officers.

11. The Governor General in Council desires that you will carefully consider the expediency of creating Local District Committees to be vested with powers over expenditure on local objects, which should be defined by legislation, and to which the control and management of expenditure on Education, Medical Charity, Sanitation, the construction and repair of certain roads, and other Public Works could be entrusted, subject to suitable supervision by the Local Government. The Government of India would also be glad if it were found possible to relieve Municipalities from the charges which they at present bear on account of Police, some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary, or other burden being substituted therefor.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Chief Commissioner of British Burma, No. 3518, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are of a general nature, and will not be applicable in every case to the circumstances of the Province of Burma, in regard to which the distinctive features would appear to be—

- (a) That the Municipal organisation is fairly complete in a few large towns, but that the Municipalities are saddled with an expenditure of about 1½ lakhs of rupees on Police, while the total Municipal expenditure on Education and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments is less than one lakh.
- (b) That there is no provision of the law for the appointment of Local District Committees, though committees exist in certain places for the management of schools or dispensaries.

* Paragraphs 1—9 and 12 correspond mutatis mutandis with the paragraphs bearing the same number in the above letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

- (c) That a considerable portion of the Medical expenditure is Provincial, and that while about half the Educational expenditure is Local, it does not appear to be under the control and management of Local Bodies.
- (d) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works for 1881-82 is Rs. 37,73,000 and Rs. 11,05,000 respectively, Rs. 2,51,000 of the latter amount being in charge of Civil Officers.

11. The Governor General in Council desires that you will carefully consider the expediency of creating Local District Committees vested with powers over expenditure on local objects (to be defined by legislation) to which the control and management of expenditure on Education, Medical Charity, Sanitation, the construction and repair of certain roads, and other public works could be entrusted under suitable and sufficient provincial supervision. The Government of India would also be glad if it were found possible to relieve Municipalities altogether from the charges which they at present bear on account of Police, some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary or other burdens, being substituted therefor.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Chief Commissioner of Assam, No. 3519, dated 10th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are of a general nature, and will not be applicable in every case to the circumstances of the province of Assam, in regard to which the distinctive features would appear to be—

- (a) That the Municipal system is fairly complete, though the circumstances of the Province are not such as to present any considerable sphere for the introduction of Municipal Institutions. The total Municipal expenditure in 1879-80 was only Rs. 89,973, of which Rs. 11,133 was spent on Police, and Rs. 1,023 on Education, and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments.
- (b) That a District Committee exists in each district, but with functions and authority entirely subject to the executive discretion of the Local Administration.
- (c) That only about one-fourth of the total expenditure on Education is Local, but that a higher proportion might advantageously be made so, and entrusted to local control and management.
- (d) That there is at present no Local medical expenditure, but that a portion of the present Provincial expenditure on Medical Services might be similarly de-provincialised.
- (e) That the estimate of Provincial and Local Public Works expenditure for 1881-82 is Rs. 12,51,000 and Rs. 3,37,000, the latter expenditure only being under the charge of District Committees.

11. The Governor General in Council desires that you will now consider the expediency of entrusting to the District Committees and Municipalities the management of a portion of the present Provincial expenditure, subject to such Provincial inspection as may be deemed necessary, and the Government of India will be glad if it be found possible to relieve Municipalities altogether of the present charge for Police, an equivalent amount of expenditure on Education, Sanitary Establishments, or the like, being substituted therefor.

*Extract paragraphs 10 and 11 of letter to the Secretary to the Government of the Punjab, No. 3589, dated 13th October 1881.

10. The preceding remarks are more or less of general application. In the case of the Punjab in particular, the distinctive features would appear to be—

- (a) That the municipal organisation appears to be fairly complete, but that Municipalities are saddled with nearly five lakhs of rupees on account of Police charges, while the expenditure on account of Education, and Sanitary and Charitable Establishments is only about three lakhs of rupees.

* Paragraphs 1—9 and 12 correspond mutatis mutandis with the paragraphs bearing the same number in the above letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

- (b) That District Committees already exist but with functions and authority subject, within the scope of the Act, to the executive discretion of the Local Government.
- (c) That educational expenditure under local control and management is capable of considerable increase.
- (d) That a large proportion of the Medical expenditure is already local, but that the proportion might, perhaps, be increased with advantage.
- (e) That the estimate of Provincial and Local expenditure on Public Works for 1881-82 is Rs. 23,38,000 and Rs. 7,55,000 respectively, the whole of the amount being under the charge of Public Works Officers, and the portion at the disposal of District Committees being, perhaps, susceptible of increase.

11. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will, no doubt, take into consideration the expediency of entrusting to the control and management of District Committees a still larger share of the expenditure on Education and Medical Services, subject to such Provincial supervision as may seem desirable; and the Government of India will be glad if it be found possible to relieve Municipalities altogether of the charge on account of Police, some more appropriate Educational, Sanitary, or other burden being substituted.

NOTICE.

The undersigned is prepared to receive tenders from parties desirous of leasing the water-power available at Kharakwasla, "Lake Fife;" the available power is variable: from July to January, inclusive, the minimum is about 130 actual horse-power, from beginning of February to end of April, it decreases from about 130 to about 40, and during the months of May and June the power which can be guaranteed is very small. Kharakwasla is situated south-west of Poona, 11 miles from the Railway Station, with which it is connected by a good road; about 4 acres of land close to the canal are available as sites for factories, &c. In the last year the area of sugarcane grown under the Mutha canals in the neighbourhood of Poona was 1,966 acres; this area is capable of still further extension to a probable area of 2,500 acres. Under these circumstances, it is thought that the above power offers an inducement for the erection of a sugar manufactory, of which none at present exists in the Bombay Presidency.

Information regarding the actual heads and discharges available throughout the year and all other particulars can be obtained on application to the Executive Engineer for Irrigation, Poona. Tenders will be received up to the 15th November 1881.

The undersigned does not bind himself to accept the highest or any tender.

of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury on the 22nd July last being completed, I have the honour to forward herewith a Report on the weight and fineness of the coins, and to return the bullion remaining.

The coins were first weighed singly by the Mint Balance, and were then handed to one of the Assayers of the Mint, by whom each coin has been separately assayed and reported upon.

The standard weight and fineness of the coins have been maintained with accuracy.

In accordance with the directions of Their Lordships, I have caused parting assays to be made of the silver coins of each presidency in order to ascertain the average proportion of gold contained in them, and the result is shown in my Report.

These assays have been made in the manner detailed in my Report of the 25th of October 1869.

RESOLUTION.—It is reported that no stores were obtained from England for the public service in Assam during the last two years. A statement is however submitted, showing the European articles purchased in the local market by certain officers; but it is not clear whether some of the articles (e.g., khaki cloth) mentioned in the Return are not of Indian origin. From this return a list has been prepared, and is appended to this Resolution, showing the articles which the Governor General in Council considers should be procured of Indian manufacture, if they can be obtained at a price not higher than that of imported goods.

2. His Excellency in Council accordingly requests that the Chief Commissioner of Assam will be good enough to cause enquiries to be made as to the cheapest and most convenient way of obtaining future regular supplies of such goods of Indian manufacture; as also of any other goods which in the course of the enquiry it may be found possible to substitute for imported articles. In order to ensure the existence of a large and constant demand for goods which the manufacturers would not otherwise undertake to make, the Government of India will be prepared to approve of contracts with Indian manufacturers for a term of, say, five years if necessary.

3. In the series of Resolutions on the subject of stores recently published in the Gazette of India, the existing sources of supply of Indian-made goods have been indicated so far as they are as yet known to the Government of India.

4. Lanterns and swords should be procured of Indian manufacture. Lanterns are made in Calcutta by such firms as Jessop & Co. and also by native workers, and they can perhaps be locally made by natives. Swords of better quality than the swords ordinarily made for trade purposes in England are manufactured by native armourers in the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces, and the local authorities of those provinces will be able to indicate to the Chief Commissioner whence he can obtain to the best advantage the supplies he wants.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be communicated to the Chief Commissioner, Assam, and to the other local Governments and Administrations, and that it be published in the Gazette of India.

A Bill to prohibit the landing of certain Stowaways, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prohibit the landing in British India of stowaways of European extraction, and to provide for the recovery of expenses incurred by Government in respect of such persons who become vagrants within one year after so landing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Stowaways Act, 1881"; and it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act—

"Stowaway" means any person of European extraction as defined in the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, who secretes himself and goes to sea in any ship without the consent of the owner, the consignee or the master of such ship, or of any other person entitled to give such consent, and who arrives on board such ship in a British Indian port;

"Master" includes any person in charge of a decked vessel; and

"Shipping master" includes any other officer whom the local Government may from time to time appoint to exercise the powers of a shipping master under this Act.

3. No master shall cause or permit any stowaway finally to land from his ship in a British Indian port without the previous sanction in writing of the shipping master.

4. Such sanction shall not be given unless and until the owner or agent of such ship has given to the shipping master a bond in such form, and with such number of sureties, as the local Government may from time to time prescribe, binding himself, in such sum as the shipping master thinks sufficient, to pay to the Secretary of State for India in Council, in the event of such stowaway becoming within one year after he so lands from such ship chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

5. Any master who, in wilful disobedience of the prohibition contained in section three, causes or permits any stowaway finally to land from his ship, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

6. Whenever any stowaway finally lands from a ship without the sanction required by section three and becomes chargeable to the State as a vagrant under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, within one year after so landing, the person who is at the date of such landing the owner or agent of the ship from which such stowaway has so landed shall be liable to pay to the Government the cost of his removal under the said Act and all other charges incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

7. All costs and charges which any owner or agent is liable to pay under this Act shall be recoverable by suit as if he had entered into an express agreement with the said Secretary of State in Council to repay them. Cf. last para. s. 31, Act of 1874.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Stowaways of European extraction are found, on a rough average, on board twenty per cent. of the vessels arriving at the port of Calcutta. They are also, though less frequently, landed at Bombay, Aden and Rangoon. As the law stands, masters of ships in British Indian ports may land stowaways, and are in no way responsible for them after they have landed. If stowaways so landed are Europeans and become vagrants (as they occasionally do), they have to be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874, and provided with subsistence-allowance while in charge of the police, with food while in a workhouse, and (where no suitable employment is obtained for them) with a passage to England, Australia or wherever their homes may be. As the necessity for relieving such persons really originates in the carelessness of masters of ships, who fail to detect their presence on board before leaving port, it seems unfair that the expenses so incurred should be borne by the Indian tax-payer.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It prohibits the landing of stowaways of European extraction, unless with the previous sanction of the Shipping Master or other officer appointed by the local Government, and unless the owner or agent of the ship on board of which the stowaway is found gives a bond to the effect that all expenses incurred in the event of the stowaway becoming a vagrant within one year shall be borne by the obligor. It also imposes a penalty on any master causing or permitting a stowaway to land, and provides that where any stowaway lands without such sanction and becomes a vagrant within one year of so landing, the owner or agent of the ship from which he has landed shall pay all the expenses incurred by the State in consequence of his becoming a vagrant.

CHAPTER IV.

SPECIAL JURISDICTION.

Act VI of
1871, s. 26.

25. Every District Judge may from time to time, subject to the orders of the High Court, refer to any Subordinate Judge under his control any appeals pending before him from the decrees of Munsifs; and such Subordinate Judge shall hear and dispose of such appeals accordingly.

Act VI of
1871, s. 27.

26. The High Court may from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge under his control appeals under the Code of Civil Procedure from any orders of Munsifs against which an appeal lies to the District Court.

The High Court may also from time to time, by order, authorize any District Judge to transfer to a Subordinate Judge or Munsif under the control of such District Judge any of the proceedings next hereinafter mentioned, or any class of such proceedings specified in such order, and then pending, or thereafter instituted, before such District Judge.

The proceedings referred to in the second clause of this section are the following (that is to say):—

27. Subject to the provisions of the last clause of section twenty-six, all proceedings transferred under the second clause of the same section shall be disposed of by the Subordinate Judge or Munsif (as the case may be) according to the rules prescribed for the guidance of District Judges in like cases:

An appeal from his order thereon shall lie to the High Court if an appeal from the decision of the Judge in such proceedings is allowed by the law in force for the time being.

28. The local Government may invest, within such local limits as it from time to time appoints, any Subordinate Judge with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes for the trial of suits cognizable by such Courts, up to the amount of five hundred rupees, and any Munsif with similar jurisdiction up to the amount of fifty rupees; and may, whenever it thinks fit, withdraw such jurisdiction from the Subordinate Judge or Munsif so invested.

29. Section fifty-one of Act No. XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature) shall be read as if, for the words "Principal Sadr Amin," the words "Subordinate Judge" were substituted.

30. Any District Judge, Additional Judge, Subordinate Judge or Munsif may, for any misconduct, be suspended or removed by the local Government.

31. The High Court may, whenever it sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend any Subordinate Judge under its control.

32. The High Court may appoint a Commission for enquiring into the alleged misconduct of any Munsif.

On receiving the report of the result of any such enquiry, the High Court may, if it thinks fit, remove the Munsif from office, or suspend him, or reduce him to a lower grade.

The provisions of Act No. XXXVII of 1850 (for regulating enquiries into the behaviour of public servants) shall apply to inquiries under this section, the powers conferred by that Act on the Government being exercised by the High Court.

The High Court may also, previous to the appointment of such Commission, suspend any Munsif pending the result of the inquiry.

The High Court may, without appointing any such Commission, remove or suspend any Munsif, or reduce him to a lower grade.

1871, s. 34.

33. Any District Judge may, whenever he sees urgent necessity for so doing, suspend from office any Munsif under his control.

Whenever a District Judge suspends from office any such Munsif, he shall forthwith send to the High Court a full report of the circumstances of the suspension, together with the evidence, if any; and the High Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER VI.

MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

Act VI of
1871, s. 35.

34. The District Judges shall appoint the ministerial officers of their Courts, and, subject only to the general control of the local Government, the said Judges may remove or suspend such officers or fine them in an amount not exceeding one month's salary.

35. The ministerial officers of the Courts of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs shall be nominated and appointed by those Courts respectively, subject to the approval of the District Judge within whose jurisdiction such Courts are situate.

Every such Court may, by order, remove or suspend from office, or fine in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any of its ministerial officers who is guilty of any misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office. And the District Judge, subject only to the general control of the local Government, may, on appeal or otherwise, reverse or modify every such order.

The District Judge, within whose jurisdiction such Court is situate, may, by order, suspend or remove any such ministerial officer.

Nothing in this section or in section thirty-four shall exempt any officer from any penal or other consequences to which he may be liable under any other law in force for the time being.

36. The local Government may, at the instance of the District Judge, transfer from any Court in the territories administered by such Government, to any other Court in the same territories, all or any of the ministerial officers of such Judge or of any Subordinate Judge or Munsif under his control.

The District Judge may transfer all or any of the ministerial officers of any Court under his control to any other such Court.

37. Any fine imposed under this Chapter shall, if the order imposing it directs, be recovered by deduction from the offender's salary.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Section 4 of the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871, declares that the number of Subordinate Judges and Munsifs to be appointed in each district shall be fixed, and may from time to time be altered, by the local Government. And section 6 of the same Act declares that, when the Governor General in Council has sanctioned an increase in the number of Munsifs, the High Court shall nominate such person as it thinks fit to be a Munsif, and the local Government shall appoint him accordingly. The number of Munsifs was accordingly fixed under section 4 in the Lower Provinces and Assam. Subsequently, in exercise of the power vested in local Governments by the terms of the provincial service arrangements in regard to the creation of additional appointments on salaries not exceeding Rs. 250 a month, the Government of Bengal and the Chief Commissioner of Assam, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appointed Munsifs in excess of the number so fixed. Doubts have been raised as to the validity of such appointments. It appears to the Government of India that the law does not authorize the local Government to appoint Munsifs, whether temporarily or permanently, in excess of the fixed number, unless an increase to that number has previously been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council. It is, however, in the opinion of the Government of India desirable to empower the local Government, without the sanction, but subject to the control, of the Governor General in Council, to increase the number of Munsifs, provided that the power is confined to those grades of Munsifs the pay of which does not exceed Rs. 250 a month.

2. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared. It enables the local Government without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council to increase the number of Munsifs of a grade the salary of which does not exceed Rs. 250 per month. The opportunity has been taken to validate the appointments already made by the Bengal Government and the Chief Commissioner of Assam: to make it clear that the local Government cannot increase the number of District Judges or Subordinate Judges without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council: to extend the District Judge's power of transferring appeals and proceedings to appeals from all orders made by Munsifs and to proceedings under the Probate and Administration Act, 1881: and to make such amendments in the wording of the law as the experience of the last ten years shows to be necessary or desirable.

the Recorder of Rangoon shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the High Court.

(g) This section applies to instruments creating powers-of-attorney executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law stands, the donee of a power-of-attorney, when executing an instrument pursuant to the power, must sign, and where sealing is required must seal, in his principal's name. The first object of this Bill is to render it legal for such donees to execute in and with their own names and seals. The law respecting the execution of powers-of-attorney will thus be made accordant with what will be the rule in England from and after the 31st December, 1881, and with what is believed to be the practice in the North-Western Provinces and, probably, elsewhere in India. The section effecting this is copied from section 16 of the recent Statute 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, which takes effect from the close of the present year.

The second object of the Bill is to preclude doubts as to the liability of a donee of a power-of-attorney who makes payments in good faith after the donor of the power has died or become lunatic or bankrupt or insolvent, or has revoked the power, when the fact of death, lunacy, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not known to the donee at the time of making the payment. The section effecting this is copied from section 47 of the Statute above mentioned, and merely extends to all attorneys the rule as to trustees, executors and administrators making payments under powers, which has been in force in British India for the last fifteen years—see Act XXVIII of 1866, section 39.

The third and last object of the Bill is to provide for the deposit of instruments creating powers-of-attorney, and for the evidence of the contents of such instruments. The section effecting this is copied (with the modifications necessary to adapt it to India) from 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, section 48.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR
THE WEEK ENDING THE 18th OCTOBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—In Bengal there has been slight rain in some districts; rice and other standing crops are doing well, and cultivation for cold weather sowings is in fair progress. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there has been no rain (except in one district); crops are suffering in central districts and more rain is needed everywhere. In the Central Provinces heavy rain fell in one district and none elsewhere; agricultural condition and prospects are satisfactory. In the Bombay Presidency rain is needed in two districts; kharrif crops are generally good, and the sowing of rabi is in progress. In the Madras Presidency and the Mysore State there has been very little rain, except in two districts in the former and in one district in the latter, and standing crops are in need of showers. In the Punjab, in the Central India and Rajputana States, in Berar and Coorg, in Assam and British Burma, no change is reported, and agricultural prospects continue on the whole favourable.

Generally the summer monsoon may be said to be practically over: harvest operations have been completed in some parts and are progressing in others; the usual autumnal sickness still prevails in many parts; in some provinces standing crops are in want of rain, while ploughing and sowing for the cold weather crops are generally in progress.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication]

The following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General:—

No. 22 of 1881.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Powers-of-Attorney.

For the purpose of amending the law relating to Powers-of-Attorney; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title	1. This Act may be called Act, 1881": it applies to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882.
Local extent.
Commencement.

44 & 45 Vic.,
c. 41, s. 46.

2. The donee of a power-of-attorney may, if he thinks fit, execute or do any power-of-attorney, assurance, instrument or thing in and with his own name and signature and his own seal, where sealing is required, by the authority of the donor of the power; and every assurance, instrument and thing so executed and done shall be as effectual in law as if it had been executed or done by the donee of the power in the name and with the signature and seal of the donor thereof.

This section applies to powers-of-attorney created by instruments executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

44 & 45 Vic.,
c. 41, s. 47.

3. Any person making or doing any payment or act, in good faith, in pursuance of a power-of-attorney shall not be liable in respect of the payment or act by reason that before the payment or act the donor of the power had died or become lunatic, of unsound mind, or bankrupt, or insolvent, or had revoked the power, if the fact of death, lunacy, unsoundness of mind, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not at the time of the payment or act known to the person making or doing the same.

But this section shall not affect any right against the payee of any person interested in any money so paid; and that person shall have the like remedy against the payee as he would have had against the payer if the payment had not been made by him.

This section applies only to payments and acts made or done after this Act comes into force.

4. (a) An instrument creating a power-of-attorney, its execution being verified by affidavit, statutory declaration or other sufficient evidence, may, with the affidavit or declaration, if any, be deposited in the High Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the instrument may be.

(b) A separate file of instruments so deposited shall be kept; and any person may search that file, and inspect every instrument so deposited, and a certified copy thereof shall be delivered out to him on request.

(c) A copy of an instrument so deposited may be presented at the office and may be stamped or marked as a certified copy, and when so stamped or marked shall become and be a certified copy.

(d) A certified copy of an instrument so deposited shall without further proof be sufficient evidence of the contents of the instrument and of the deposit thereof in the High Court.

(e) The High Court may from time to time make rules for the purposes of this section, and prescribing, with the concurrence of the Local Government, the fees to be taken under clauses (a), (b) and (c).

(f) Throughout British Burma, the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the High Court.

(g) This section applies to instruments creating powers-of-attorney executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law stands, the donee of a power-of-attorney, when executing an instrument pursuant to the power, must sign, and where sealing is required must seal, in his principal's name. The first object of this Bill is to render it legal for such donees to execute in and with their own names and seals. The law respecting the execution of instruments under powers-of-attorney will thus be made accordant with what will be the rule in England from and after the 31st December, 1881, and with what is believed to be the practice in the North-Western Provinces, British Burma and, probably, elsewhere in India. The section effecting this is copied from section 46 of the recent Statute 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, which takes effect from the close of the present year.

The second object of the Bill is to preclude doubts as to the liability of a donee of a power-of-attorney who makes payments in good faith after the donor of the power has died or become lunatic or bankrupt or insolvent, or has revoked the power, when the fact of death, lunacy, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not known to the donee at the time of making the payment. The section effecting this is copied from section 47 of the Statute above mentioned, and merely extends to all attorneys the rule as to trustees, executors and administrators making payments under powers, which has been in force in British India for the last fifteen years—see Act XXVIII of 1866, section 39.

The third and last object of the Bill is to provide for the deposit of instruments creating powers-of-attorney, and for the evidence of the contents of such instruments. The section effecting this is copied (with the modifications necessary to adapt it to India) from 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, section 48.

RESOLUTION.—From the returns received from the Chief Commissioner a list has been prepared, and is appended to this Resolution, showing the articles which, on the information now before the Government of India, it is possible to procure of Indian manufacture. The Governor General in Council accordingly requests that the Chief Commissioner will be good enough to institute enquiries as to the cheapest and most convenient way of obtaining future regular supplies of such goods of Indian manufacture, as well as of any other goods which in the course of enquiry it may be found feasible to substitute for imported articles.

2. In the series of Resolutions on the subject of the supply of stores published in the Gazette of India since the 23rd July last, instructions have already been given as to the different sources of supply, so far as they are as yet known, of the articles mentioned in the list, and they need not be repeated here. The Governor General in Council directs that wherever possible, with due regard to economy, such articles of Indian manufacture shall in future be substituted for European articles in the province of Coorg, as everywhere else in India.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be communicated to the Chief Commissioner of Coorg and to the other Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance.

Ordered also, that it be published in the Gazette of India.

No. 3926.

From—J. E. O'CONNOR, Esq., Assistant Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce,

To—The Superintendent of Government Printing, India.

Referring to the correspondence ending with your letter of the 28th ultimo, No. 2022F., I am directed to say that the Government of India considers it desirable that the work of printing forms now carried on in the Government Central Press should be largely reduced, and I am to request that you will arrange as early as possible for the transfer to private presses of as much of the work as they may be able efficiently to undertake.

2. You should ascertain specifically from all the larger presses in Calcutta how far each of them may be able and willing to undertake the work, that is, what number of forms they can arrange to set up and keep in type, printing copies as required, and the terms on which they would be prepared to do it, if they obtained a contract for four or five years. The proprietor of each press of whom enquiry is made should be informed that similar enquiry is being made of other presses. You should satisfy yourself in each case that the press is competent to carry on without inconvenience and delay to the public service the work which it professes itself ready to undertake.

3. The results of your enquiries should be reported as soon as possible; and I am to request that you will embody in your report a statement of the cost of the work which each private press may be ready to undertake as compared with the cost of the same work as now carried on.

4. The Government of India is inclined to think that only the printing of the forms should be undertaken by private presses, the supply of the printed copies to the departments requiring them being undertaken, as at present, by the Government Central Press. The paper might be supplied direct to each press concerned from the Stationery Office on indents passed by you, and the whole working of the system would be under your general direction.

On these points your suggestions and opinion are invited.

5. I am also to request that when your enquiries are complete, you will report the amount of space and the cost of establishment which will be saved by transferring to private presses that portion of the work which they may be ready to take up.

ORDERED, that this letter be published in the Gazette of India.

(g) This section applies to instruments creating powers-of-attorney executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law stands, the donee of a power-of-attorney, when executing an instrument pursuant to the power, must sign, and where sealing is required must seal, in his principal's name. The first object of this Bill is to render it legal for such donees to execute in and with their own names and seals. The law respecting the execution of instruments under powers-of-attorney will thus be made accordant with what will be the rule in England from and after the 31st December, 1881, and with what is believed to be the practice in the North-Western Provinces, British Burma and, probably, elsewhere in India. The section effecting this is copied from section 46 of the recent Statute 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, which takes effect from the close of the present year.

The second object of the Bill is to preclude doubts as to the liability of a donee of a power-of-attorney who makes payments in good faith after the donor of the power has died or become lunatic or bankrupt or insolvent, or has revoked the power, when the fact of death, lunacy, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not known to the donee at the time of making the payment. The section effecting this is copied from section 47 of the Statute above mentioned, and merely extends to all attorneys the rule as to trustees, executors and administrators making payments under powers, which has been in force in British India for the last fifteen years—see Act XXVIII of 1866, section 39.

The third and last object of the Bill is to provide for the deposit of instruments creating powers-of-attorney, and for the evidence of the contents of such instruments. The section effecting this is copied (with the modifications necessary to adapt it to India) from 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, section 48.

RESOLUTION.

THE Government of India in its Resolution of the 22nd November 1879 referred to the consideration of the various Local Governments the important subject of the education of European and Eurasian children in India, as treated in a Minute by His Excellency the (late) Viceroy, dated the 25th March 1879, and in a Memorandum drawn up by the Venerable Archdeacon Baly on behalf of a Committee which had been appointed to report upon the question. On the 8th June 1880, Lord Lytton's Government forwarded to the Secretary of State a series of reports on European education furnished at different times by Archdeacon Baly, and submitted for approval various proposals, generally based upon the Archdeacon's recommendations. To that communication no reply has yet been received from Her Majesty's Government, the Secretary of State having intimated his wish to await a further expression of the views of the Government of India after the reports of the Local Governments had been received.

2. These reports have now been for some time before the Government of India, and have been fully and carefully considered by the Governor General in Council. His Excellency in Council has also had the opportunity of perusing a further paper by Archdeacon Baly (explaining, and in some degree modifying, his original suggestions), as well as various memorials and representations from societies and individuals interested in the subject. The Government of India finds itself, therefore, in a position to review generally the whole question, and to state the conclusions to which it has come, and the measures in furtherance of European and Eurasian education which it is prepared to sanction or support.

3. From the enquiries made by Archdeacon Baly and the returns of the Local Governments, it would appear that in the interior of the Bengal* Presidency the total number of European and Eurasian children of school-going years among the classes who might be expected to use Indian schools is, as nearly as can be ascertained, 8,567. Of these, 4,530 children are on school-rolls, of whom 445 are on the average absent daily, while 4,037 receive no education of any kind. In Calcutta among the same classes about 4,000 children are on school-rolls, about 400 being daily absent, while about 1,000 are without instruction. There are thus in the whole Presidency upwards of 5,000 European and Eurasian children growing up in absolute ignorance.

4. There are, it further appears, 128 stations in the interior, with an aggregate of 608 children of European extraction of school-going years, in which no school can be established on account of the small number of children at each station. For places of this class boarding schools at a distance offer the only available means of education. There are 45 stations with an aggregate of 1,826 children, and a sufficient number in each station to support a school, in which nevertheless no schools exist. From these stations 808 children go to boarding schools elsewhere, but 1,083 receive no instruction. There are also 45 stations, possessing each a school, in which 2,044 children go to no school. In many, however, of these places the school is little better than a dame-school, and is quite unsuited for the education of boys above ten years of age.

5. The Governor General in Council agrees in the conclusion come to by former Governments, that the state of things revealed in the foregoing figures is from every point of view lamentable, and one which, if allowed to continue, will certainly become in the end (to use the words of Lord Canning) "a glaring reproach to the Government." It has been rightly said that one very special reason why Government cannot afford to ignore the growing up in India of an uninstructed European population is, that in the case of the European his capacity for self-maintenance depends entirely upon the education he receives. He cannot support himself in this country by working as a day-labourer, or by adopting the avocation of the Native peasant. An uneducated European almost necessarily becomes an idle and profitless, and often a dangerous, member of the community. On the other hand, it must be remembered that he (or his English ancestor) was brought out to India originally to do work that could only be done by a European—a fact which in itself gives him some claim to consideration. The climate is uncongenial to him,—the cost of living is necessarily disproportionate to his means,—and he is deprived at the same time of those educational opportunities which are now available at home even to the poorest of the working class. In all these respects the European parent is placed at a disadvantage, and it thus becomes necessary for the Government to come to his assistance. For the same reasons the Government cannot, in rendering its aid, confine itself to subsidising and directing merely the primary education of Europeans, but must, contrary to the practice at home, assist also the schools designed for the middle, and even to some extent those for the higher, education of this class of its subjects. (It is, however, to be remembered that the standard of education in Government-aided Primary Schools in England is at least as high as the standard in Middle Schools in this country.)

6. It has been not unfrequently suggested in the papers now before Government that there is no good reason why European* parents should not make use of the schools already provided for the Native population; or why there should be any special and separate organisation for the education of poor European children. Why, it is asked, should they not attend the ordinary district and town schools of their neighbourhood, and be brought up side by side with the other children of the country? There is at first sight undoubtedly a good deal to be said in favour of such a system. It would furnish an apparently simple solution of the difficulty under consideration. It would involve no special outlay of money. It might perhaps tend to make Native and European understand each other better, and diminish race-prejudices and race-antagonism.

Admitting the force of all this, the Governor General in Council is, nevertheless, of opinion that the adoption of a system of common education for European and Native youth is impossible. It is not merely that, if the Government were to attempt to compel European parents to send their children to Native schools, it would be met by an amount of prejudice, which, however unreasonable in many ways, it would be very difficult to overcome, but it would have to encounter objections on the part of many parents of a much higher kind—objections, namely, to placing their children in schools where they would receive no religious instruction, and where the whole atmosphere of the place would be non-Christian. It appears to the Governor General in Council that, as a simple matter of respect for conscience, such scruples ought to be treated with the utmost consideration; while practically, he has no doubt they would prove strong enough to render abortive any scheme which sought to disregard them. Again, there being in most stations no such thing as a Native girls' school, there would, on the plan suggested, be no provision for the education of European girls; while the distance frequently lying between the European and Native quarters would in itself, in the climate of India, be an insuperable obstacle to the use by young European children of the Native School of the place. For all these reasons, the Government of India is forced to admit the necessity of separate schools for European children during the age when their habits and principles are in process of formation.

7. Taking it, then, to be beyond doubt that further and special provision must be made for the education of the large numbers of European children of tender age now growing up in ignorance throughout the towns and stations of the Bengal Presidency, the Governor General in Council has carefully considered the proposal, that the necessary funds should be raised by means of an educational rate assessed upon the European population. The weight of opinion among those consulted is decidedly opposed to the levy of any such rate; and the Governor General in Council has himself no doubt that the arguments brought forward against it are valid and sufficient. It would, it seems to him, be a form of class taxation of the most indefensible kind, inasmuch as it would be paid mainly by persons who would themselves get no advantage from it. Where a tax is assessed upon the community at large for general purposes, the fact that an individual tax-payer derives no direct or personal benefit from the expenditure of the proceeds is politically a matter of no moment. But the case is different when a tax is levied on a very limited class for a special object. In the case of the particular tax proposed, it is also to be observed that the classes who would most largely contribute are precisely those upon whom educational charges fall already most heavily, and who frequently pay for the education of the children actually dependent on them sums quite out of proportion to their income. To tax these further for the education of the children of parents less provident, or even less well-to-do, would be in many instances to inflict great and unreasonable hardship. Further, the imposition of an educational cess, if it were devoted mainly (as in fact it would be) to subsidising denominational schools, would at once raise up religious difficulties. Besides all this, there are serious practical difficulties in the way of the levy of a rate, which it is not necessary to describe in detail. The Governor General in Council has no doubt that, unless a general educational rate were levied upon all classes of the community, the assessment of any such rate upon any one particular class is not for a moment to be contemplated.

8. The proposal to make the education of European children compulsory upon their parents is also one which, in the opinion of the Governor General in Council, it would be premature to adopt. It falls to the ground in fact along with the proposal for an educational rate, for it would be impossible to punish a parent for failing to send his child to school, unless a school were in each case provided within reasonable distance of his home; and funds for this are certainly not forthcoming at present.

9. In the absence, then, of any special provision of funds, it remains for the Government to determine the amount of assistance which it is prepared to give from the general revenues to meet the educational wants of the class under consideration. In order to arrive at a conclusion upon this point, it is necessary to enquire more particularly to what extent the existing school accommodation stands in need of extension, and the existing grant-in-aid system of development.

10. A large proportion of the children now without education belong distinctly to the indigent class, being either orphans, or deserted by their fathers, or illegitimate; or the children of men out of work or otherwise unable to support their families. These must, as far as possible, be provided for in free schools and orphanages, towards which the benevolent public and the Government may jointly contribute. The existing institutions of this kind are unable to meet the demands now made upon them for accommodation. Even in Calcutta, where they are largest and most numerous, the applications for admissions are greatly in excess of the number of vacancies, being frequently in the proportion of seven or eight to one. Great difficulty is found in maintaining at the existing level the private contributions on which these institutions largely depend; and it is hopeless to expect that they can be extended without the receipt of substantial aid from some special source. Fortunately the munificent legacy of the late Misses Bruce, amounting to £80,000 (at the present rate of exchange equivalent to nearly ten lakhs of rupees) will enable the Local Government to do nearly all that Lower Bengal requires without incurring any further expenditure. This money is, under the will of the donors, to be devoted, without any religious restrictions or limitations, to the maintenance and education of "half-caste or Eurasian female children, whether legitimate or otherwise, and in particular orphans and those deserted by their parents." If a scheme can be devised for relieving the existing free schools of their girls, bringing all these upon the Bruce foundation, the accommodation and the funds thus set free will provide all that is necessary for boys. With an improved system of grants-in-aid, to be noticed below, the wants of Bengal in this respect will then be fully met.

11. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the demand for free school accommodation is equally urgent, while the present provision is still less adequate. The only Protestant free school in the province for orphans and indigent children is a day school at Allahabad, with a daily average attendance of 90; while there are in the five towns of Allahabad, Agra, Lucknow, Cawnpore, and Benares alone 836 children, most of them very poor, attending at present no school. There can be no doubt that Archdeacon Baly's proposal to expand the present local school at Allahabad into a central free boarding school for the whole of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh is deserving of Government support. The school should ultimately be extended so as to accommodate at least 300 children. The Government of India is prepared to contribute from Imperial funds a maximum sum of one-and-a-half lakhs of rupees to enable the Local Government so to extend it. It is probable, however, that the whole amount of accommodation need not be provided at once. The Local Government must determine the limit of the works to be immediately undertaken; and the plans and estimates (which it is understood have been already drawn up) should be submitted for the approval of the Government of India in the Public Works Department, as it is important to avoid unnecessary outlay, and to arrive, if possible, at some uniform standard of accommodation for such institutions when built or subsidised from Government funds. It will also be for the Local Government to provide for the new school an adequate organisation and establishment.

12. For the Punjab, Archdeacon Baly recommended the expansion of the Lahore free school, which at present has 24 day scholars and 41 boarders, into a large free school for 200 children to meet the wants of the Punjab and Sind. There does not, however, appear to be any such pressing need for a large orphanage and free school in the Punjab as would warrant the Government at present in making any special grant towards its establishment. It will suffice if the existing railway schools are adequately assisted and developed; and if the Mayo Orphanage and School at Simla and the existing Free School at Lahore receive more liberal support from grants-in-aid and private contributions. The Government of India will, however, be prepared to consider any application which the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab may feel called upon to make, should the need of new buildings at Lahore become hereafter manifest.

13. As regards free schools and orphanages, the foregoing arrangements seem to provide all that is immediately required in the way of building accommodation. For their more efficient maintenance, reliance must be placed upon the contributions of private charity and upon the Government grants-in-aid, the latter being so regulated as to give equally proportioned assistance to all classes of institutions, in accordance with the amount of educational work done by each, and without any reference to denominational distinctions. Railway Companies and all other employers of European labour may very properly be called upon to aid in the support of institutions of this class.

14. To meet the case of Europeans above the indigent class, but whose means are still inadequate to meet the whole cost of giving their children a suitable education, what appears to be mainly required, is (1) the provision of increased facilities for sending their children to boarding schools, either in the hills or on the plains as they may themselves prefer; (2) the improvement of the instruction given in existing station schools; and (3) the establishment of schools in all stations now destitute of such institutions where the permanent European population is sufficiently numerous to warrant this.

15. As regards hill schools, the Governor General in Council is himself disposed to attach great value to the effect of a hill residence on growing youths of European descent; but he does not think that the Government of India ought at present either itself to provide additional school accommodation in the hills, or to specially subsidise Hill as opposed to Plains schools. There are many vacancies in the existing hill schools of Lower Bengal, Assam, and the North-Western Provinces, and when these are filled up the extension of existing institutions will always be better and cheaper than the establishment of new schools. In most cases the managers may be expected themselves to undertake such extensions. The Railway Companies have also done a good deal, and are prepared to do more in the way of providing schools in the hills for the children of their European employés. It is only in the Central Provinces and the Punjab that new hill schools seem to be at present somewhat urgently required. In the former province the want will probably be met by the establishment of a railway school at Pachmarhi; and if this is made generally available to the European public, the Governor General in Council will favourably consider the question of assisting it by a building grant. In the Punjab what is required is an extension of the Lawrence Asylum at Murree to receive the children of men employed on the Punjab Northern State Railway, the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway, and the Indus Valley Railway,—of subordinates in the public service, and of other European parents who must use Indian schools. This matter should receive early attention from the Government of the Punjab. Apart from these special cases, the Government of India believes that the existing provision of hill schools is sufficient for all immediate wants.

16. Increased facilities for making use of these schools will be given by the revised system of Government grants-in-aid and scholarships, to be described hereafter, and also by the introduction on both the State and Guaranteed Railways of a system of free passes for children going to and returning from school when the parent stands in need of this aid. The Public Works Department will be requested to arrange the details of such a system. The Governor General in Council has no doubt that the Railway Administrations will gladly consent to meet the wishes of Government in this respect, as they have already shown themselves fully alive to the importance of placing the means of education within the reach of the poorer classes of Europeans in this country.

17. Though not prepared to build new schools at present in the hills, the Government may very properly aid in the establishment of new schools, or even, in the absence of private effort, itself build schools at those stations in the plains where there is a permanent European population sufficiently large to justify such a provision. It must rest entirely with the Local Governments to select the stations at which new schools are required, and to settle the number of those which it can cause to be established year by year. But the Governor General in Council desires that European schools may eventually be opened in every station where an average daily attendance of 12 children can be got together. In developing this scheme of European schools, the Local Government should begin with those stations where the permanent European population is largest, and which are most distant from available and suitable schools in other stations; and a further preference should be given to stations where the residents are willing to aid by voluntary contributions and to undertake the management of the local school, receiving only a grant-in-aid from Government. In such cases as those last referred to a building grant might also be often very suitably made.

In considering this matter, it should not be forgotten that where the bulk of the European population consists of Railway servants, the Railway Administrations may very properly be moved to establish a school, the Government giving aid in proportion to the number of outsiders likely to benefit by it.

In some stations again regimental schools may, with the consent of the military authorities, be extended and made available for a certain number of pupils from the civil population.

18. Having thus explained the views of Government in the matter of the provision of additional school accommodation, it remains to state the manner in which it is proposed to facilitate the education of European children at schools of all classes. The Governor General in Council considers that this can best be done by following a system of strict religious neutrality or independence, freely using and aiding all schools, denominational or other, so long as they fulfil the condition of giving a sufficient and suitable secular education. The subsidy of Government will, therefore, be given to every school that chooses to submit to the terms of the Government grant-in-aid. These terms will only be such as may be found necessary to give effect to a reasonable system of payment-by-results. The Government will not interfere in any way in the management of any aided school. It will not insist on any particular form of management, or the adoption of any particular textbooks or mode of communicating instruction. It will be glad to see a more practical direction given to the instruction in the middle and higher schools, and will specially favour attempts to give a sound commercial or mechanical education to the elder boys. But in general terms it may be assumed that the grant-in-aid will be given with reference to the attendance and individual proficiency of the scholars, and the completeness of the educational appliances and discipline of the institution aided. Every aided institution must, of course, be freely open to the inspection of the Government educational officers, and submit to the tests and standards that may be prescribed for the regulation of the grants-in-aid.

19. The Governor General in Council has no doubt that it is only by the adoption of such a system that the anomalies and inequalities of the present grant-in-aid system as applied to European schools can be rectified, or an adequate stimulus applied to the further development of European education in this country. At present there is no security that the money given by Government is spent in the most economical and profitable manner. Grants are calculated solely with reference to the supposed needs of the schools, and not with any reference to their efficiency; and no inducement is held out to the managers to improve their arrangements, or to the scholars to show increased diligence. No doubt some difficulty may arise in applying the system of payment-by-results from the great want at present of properly trained teachers in many schools; and in introducing the change due allowance must be made for this, and the utmost care taken that no avoidable harm is done to existing schools. The system must be introduced gradually, and with such temporary modifications and adaptations as will enable all really sound institutions to bear the change without injury. As time goes on and the standard of education rises, the conditions of the grants may be modified and made more stringent; but at the outset the chief object to be kept in view is the provision of greater facilities for the education of the poorer classes of European children. In determining the amount of the Government grants, however, due advertence must be had to the fact that in respect of some children the Railway Companies are prepared to contribute. In such cases the payment may be divided between Government and the Companies in such proportions as may be agreed upon. This point of detail will not affect the general principle above laid down.

20. The Governor General in Council is also in favour of the establishment of a system of Government scholarships, by the aid of which boys of ability may be able to rise from the lower schools to the higher, and to pass through the whole course of education up to the universities. He does not share the objection put forward by some authorities to the intermixture of social classes in middle and higher schools. So long as the boys introduced from lower schools are lads of well-tested merit and good character, no evil results can ensue from their admission. But His Excellency in Council is quite of opinion that the Government scholarships must be gained entirely by competition, and that no eleemosynary element should be allowed to enter into their grant. Provision for charitable scholarships must be left to voluntary agencies, only such aid being given by Government as may serve to stimulate and encourage these. The Governor General in Council does not propose that the Government scholarships should be specially attached to hill schools. Though convinced that a hill residence will be found most useful to growing lads, he would leave it entirely optional with the parents to select the school to which their children shall be sent, whether in the hills or in the plains. It will perhaps be desirable that a certain number of scholarships in middle and high schools should be reserved for lads desirous of receiving instruction in any technical schools or colleges that may now exist or be hereafter established. It is doubtful whether ordinary and industrial education can with advantage be combined in the regular schools in the earlier stages of education. Experience seems to show that industrial training can best follow upon a certain amount of general education; though it is quite possible to arrange for continuing and extending the latter as a matter supplementary to the special industrial training of any set of youths. This being so, some provision in the way of scholarships or bursaries for lads desirous of learning trades might very usefully be made. It does not appear necessary to provide any Government scholarships for girls.

21. It is hoped that under arrangements such as are above described it will be unnecessary for Government in many instances itself to undertake the establishment and maintenance of station schools. But where this has to be done, the principle of religious neutrality must be strictly observed in the ordinary course of instruction. Every facility should, however, be given by the manager of the school for the religious instruction of the children at suitable hours by approved ministers of religion, each parent being left free to decide by what minister, if any, his children shall be taught. This method is now successfully followed in regimental schools. It is desirable also that in Government schools the principle of payment-by-results should be applied as far as possible by making the salaries of the teachers depend in part upon the attendance of scholars, their progress, and the general discipline of the school, judged by the same standards as may be applied to aided schools.

22. In carrying into effect the principles laid down in the foregoing paragraphs, it is necessary that the Local Governments should be guided by some uniform rule, and that the managers of schools should know the terms upon which they may hope for Government aid and the amount of assistance they may be able to secure. The Governor General in Council has, therefore, determined to appoint a Committee to draft a Code for regulating the conduct of European education in the Bengal Presidency, so far as this is dependent upon Government support. The general conditions upon which the Government aid shall be given, the mode in which the system of payment-by-results shall be introduced and worked, the standard of education to be required in the different classes of schools, the scales of remuneration suited to each class, the manner in which the Government scholarships should be distributed and awarded—these are all matters which the Committee may usefully consider, and as to which they should advise. It is not desirable that the Committee should be a large one, but at the same time it should be, as far as practicable, representative. The Governor General in Council has, therefore, after careful consideration decided that it shall be constituted as follows:—

President:

A. W. Croft, Esq., Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

Members:

The Venerable Archdeacon Baly.

The Very Reverend Father Van Impe, Rector of St. Xavier's College, Calcutta.

The Reverend J. Robertson, Principal of the Free Church College, Calcutta, and late Principal of the Doveton Institution.

The Committee will meet in Calcutta as soon as possible after the 1st November, and will endeavour to submit their report and draft Code to Government before the close of the present cold season, so that the new system may come into force from the commencement of the next financial year.

23. In making their proposals, the Committee, while giving due regard to the main object of their appointment, and providing for the early extension of European education in the manner already set forth, must not overlook the fact that Government has, even in its most benevolent designs, to study economy in the expenditure of public funds. From enquiries made it appears that the amount annually spent at present by Government on European and Eurasian education in the provinces more directly under the Supreme Government amounts to Rs. 2,01,200, distributed thus—

				Rs.
Bengal	72,000
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	53,600
Punjab	46,200
Central Provinces	12,800
British Burma	11,000
Assam	4,000
Nimero	1,200
Berar	600
Total				2,01,200

It is believed that after taking into account the proceeds of the Bruce Legacy for Calcutta, a further Government expenditure of Rs. 1,00,000 per annum would amply meet all the eventual requirements of the case, including the small building grants necessary for the establishment of new schools in outlying stations. Distributed over the Local Governments and Administrations concerned, this sum can probably be easily met from Provincial resources, and the Governor General in Council does not at present propose to make any extra grant from Imperial funds. It will, however, be part of the duty of the Committee to frame as well as they can, on the information which will be laid before them, an estimate for each province of the cost of any scheme put forward by them. The Government of India will then be able to determine, in communication with the Local Governments, whether any special grant from Imperial funds is likely to be required. In framing their proposals, the Committee will bear in mind the wish of the Government of India to limit the whole annual expenditure on European education in the Bengal Presidency to three lakhs of rupees. (That sum should be looked upon as representing the ultimate maximum. During the next few years the schools will only be gradually working up to the full amount of their possible grants-in-aid, and the actual immediate increase of expenditure may probably be very small.)

24. The Governor General in Council has considered the propriety of establishing a training college for teachers—a matter in regard to which very conflicting opinions are to be found in the papers before Government. On the whole, the Government of India has come to the conclusion that the establishment of such a college would at present be premature. The students of a training college should be young men who have already been trained as pupil teachers for at least four or five years. As yet, however, there is no such class in India; and what is immediately required is the introduction in the larger elementary schools of all denominations of an efficient pupil-teacher system; and this is a subject to which the Committee appointed above will be required to devote very special attention. Grants-in-aid to denominational training colleges may hereafter be made on the necessity being shown, and on compliance with any conditions that it may be deemed proper to lay down in the Code.

25. These are the measures which the Government of India considers it proper to take in order to meet the evils referred to in the opening paragraphs of this Resolution. It cannot hope to remove these all at once, or to see the whole European population of the towns and stations of Upper India brought within the operation of its educational system. But the Governor General in Council requests that each Local Government and Administration will actively and perseveringly give effect to the principles and policy above laid down. The subject must be prominently noticed in the annual educational reports, each of which should show year by year the ascertained European population of all towns and stations where 12 or more children of school-going age are to be found, the total number of such children, and the number under instruction there or elsewhere. In this way the Government of India will be able to judge of the progress made in carrying out its orders.

26. In this Resolution the Governor General in Council has been dealing only with the provinces of the Bengal Presidency. It is believed that in Bombay and Madras sufficient provision for the educational wants of the European population is already made. This belief is not, however, based upon the result of such detailed enquiries as have been made in Bengal. It would be well, therefore, if the Governments of the other Presidencies reviewed the question in the light of the foregoing remarks and orders; and the Governor General in Council would be glad eventually to be informed of the conclusions arrived at by each of them. The attention of the Chief Commissioner of British Burma is also requested to the subject.

27. Two very important matters to which attention is drawn in Archdeacon Baly's reports is the establishment of technical schools, and the provision of employment for European youths when their education is completed. Both of these are matters which urgently call for further consideration. The Governor General in Council is aware that a good deal has already been done both by the Government of Bengal and by the Railway Companies towards the establishment of technical schools; but the Public Works Department of the Government of India will now be requested (in communication, where necessary, with the Military Department) to consider thoroughly the whole question of the opening of such schools in connection with Government factories and railway workshops, and also the introduction of a regular system of apprenticeship. Upon these subjects the information and suggestions set out at pages 20-28 of Archdeacon Baly's report of the 15th May 1880 should not be overlooked. The Public Works and Military Departments will also consider how far it is possible for Government to employ the European youths of the country when their school years are over. The Governor General in Council believes that there will always be employment for educated European workmen brought up in India, whose knowledge of the country and of the language will give them a great advantage over men coming direct from home. But, nevertheless, it is proper to enquire to what extent Government can hold out direct prospects of engagement to lads of this class. Local Governments will also be invited to report how far a system of competition might be applied to the admission to clerkships in Government offices. Openings might in this way be found for well educated young men of the class under consideration. The Governor General in Council would not propose to reserve any certain proportion of Government appointments of this kind for European youths domiciled in India; but he considers that they might fairly be allowed to compete with educated Natives upon equal terms, if such a system could be adopted without detriment to the public interests.

28. In conclusion, the Governor General in Council desires to express his strong sense of obligation to Archdeacon Baly for the very able and complete reports which he has submitted to Government on this important subject of European education. The work has been to him no doubt a labour of love, but this in no degree detracts from his claim to receive the best thanks of the Government for the assistance which he has rendered to them. The Governor General in Council desires especially to recognise the fair and impartial spirit by which Archdeacon Baly has throughout been actuated, and the liberal breadth of view which has always characterised his proposals.

ORDER—Ordered, that a copy of this Resolution, with copy of the second report by the Venerable the Archdeacon, be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance; to the Public Works Department with reference to paragraphs 11, 16, and 27; to the Military Department with reference to paragraph 27; to the Foreign Department for information and communication to the Chief Commissioner of Ajmere and the Agent, Governor General, Central India; to the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Calcutta; to the Senior Chaplain of the Church of Scotland, Calcutta, and to the Secretary to the Eurasian and Anglo-Indian Association for information.

ORDERED also, that this Resolution be communicated to the President and Members of the Committee appointed under paragraph 22, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

ABSTRACT OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA, ASSEMBLED FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING LAWS AND REGULATIONS UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF PARLIAMENT 24 & 25 VIC., CAP. 67.

The Council met at Government House, Simla, on Wednesday, the 26th October, 1881.

EXCISE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Excise-revenue in Northern India, British Burma and Coorg be taken into consideration. He said that the amendments made by the Select Committee had been specified with great care in the Report of the Select Committee, which had been drawn up by Mr. Crosthwaite, and he need only now mention to the Council two or three of the more important changes. We had reduced from six months to four months the term of imprisonment provided in section 35 for illegally manufacturing spirit or liquor, in section 36 for illegally introducing country spirit, and illegally removing or illegally importing spirit, in section 39 for illicit sale of spirit, in section 43 for conniving at illicit manufacture or sale of spirit. We had also reduced the penalty provided in section 41 for the illegal possession of spirit, liquor or drugs. The penalty provided in the corresponding section of the Bill as introduced was imprisonment for a term which might extend to six months, or fine which might extend to one thousand rupees, or both imprisonment and fine. We considered that this was unnecessarily severe, and had therefore reduced the maximum term of imprisonment to three months, and the fine to five hundred rupees.

On the other hand, we were of opinion that the punishment which could be imposed under section 45 on an Excise-officer who made a vexatious search or seizure was inadequate. We had therefore, for the penalty of five hundred rupees' fine, substituted a penalty of imprisonment for a term which might extend to three months, or a fine which might extend to five hundred rupees, or of both imprisonment and fine.

At the suggestion of two of the Local Governments concerned, we had inserted in the Bill the provisions of section 81 of the present Act (X of 1871), which provide for the grant of licenses for the sale and manufacture of spirits in military cantonments.

In section 54 of the Bill we had given the Chief Revenue Authority the power of revising the orders of Collectors and Commissioners.

We had also added a section giving the Local Government power to exempt any specified article or any class of persons from all or any of the provisions of the Act. It was thought by the Local Government that this power would be useful in British Burma, where certain tribes had, for many years past, been allowed privileges such as that of brewing without a license their own rice-beer for private consumption, or, at certain seasons, of being permitted, without payment of duty, to distil spirit for a propitiatory offering to the Nats, malevolent demons who dwelt in trees, jungles and other damp places, and who consequently liked to be fortified with alcohol.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that to clause (a), section 9, of the Bill the following words be added, namely,—

“and in particular as to the conditions on which any materials to be used in making spirit may be brought into such distillery.”

Section 9 of the Bill provided that the Chief Revenue Authority might from time to time make rules as to the management of distilleries established under section 6. It had been thought by Mr. James, the Registrar of the High Court, Allahabad, who had greatly assisted the Select Committee in revising the Bill, that it did not provide with sufficient clearness for the power to impose conditions on the introduction into such distilleries of materials, such as the mahowa flower, to be used for the manufacture of spirit. Under this Bill therefore the Chief Revenue Authority would be able to lay down rules as to the time for introducing such materials and the notices to be given to the excise-officers as to such introduction.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

DEKKHAN AGRICULTURISTS' RELIEF BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. GIBBS presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, and for other purposes, and moved that the Report be taken into consideration. He said that the Report had been prepared in communication with the Bombay Government. It was unnecessary that he should say anything as to the principle of the Act, which had been fully discussed when it became law some years ago. The result of the past experience in regard to it had been that, owing to what the Bombay Government considered faults in the original Act, the measure had never had a fair chance of being worked as it was intended to have been, and certain amendments had been from time to time proposed and finally accepted in the form in which the Legislative Department here had prepared the Bill, which he had the honour to introduce into the Council some time ago. The Bill had been sent to Bombay, and had been carefully considered by that Government and by the Special Judge, Dr. Pollen, who had charge of the measure in that Presidency, and they had proposed certain amendments and alterations in the Bill. Those alterations had been fully considered by the Select Committee, and the Bill had been altered in accordance with what was considered to be the wishes of the Bombay Government. The first alteration made was the insertion of a new definition of "agriculturist." The definition originally given was considered not to have worked well, or to have carried out what was the intention of the proposers of the Bill; it was also objected to by the Bombay Government. It had been suggested to leave that Government to decide as to who should be considered an agriculturist, but taking into consideration the difficulties this would give rise to, the Select Committee had introduced into the Bill a new definition of "agriculturist" and had added two explanations which would make that definition more clear. They had also added in one of the sections the words "not being merely a surety for the principal debtor," chiefly owing to a decision given by the High Court of Bombay in which the wording of the Act as originally framed was found to have had anything but a beneficial effect,—in fact, it enabled creditors to get beyond what was the intention of the law; and the present Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Birdwood had come to the conclusion that when the Act was amended, provision should be made to remedy this. Other alterations had been made, to some of which he need hardly allude. There was one made at the suggestion of the Bombay Government, namely, to give the District Judge power to transfer applications pending before one conciliator to the file of another conciliator. The reason for this was that we found that those conciliators were gentlemen who had a great deal of labour thrust upon them without any pay, and who often in consequence found it necessary for their bodily or spiritual health to take a pilgrimage to Benares or elsewhere, leaving their work behind them. As the Act stood, there was no power to transfer the cases to another, and this was now provided for. Another and an important alteration had been made at the request of Dr. Pollen, the Special Judge, and that was in the provision of the original Act which prohibited legal practitioners of any kind from appearing in suits before a village munsif or Subordinate Judge. We had considered that question very carefully, and had come to the conclusion that it would be advisable to allow pleaders to appear before the Subordinate Judge in cases that came before him. The vernacular press had been very considerably exercised upon the point, and it was thought that the consensus of opinion in the press, together with Dr. Pollen's, which was in favour of such a change, should be accepted, and a clause had accordingly been inserted.

The only other matter he need mention was one to which he had already referred at a previous meeting of the Council, about allowing police patels to act as conciliators. The Bombay Government were of opinion that this should be allowed. The police patel in the Bombay Presidency was not like the ordinary policeman in blue coat and metal buttons, but was very often the most respectable man in the village, in which he was perhaps the hereditary revenue and police patel, and often the most influential person there. The Bill did not oblige the appointment of these men as conciliators, but it enabled the Local Government to appoint them if they considered that they were the best men for the business. There were also other minor alterations and amendments which would enable the Bombay Government to carry out the Act to the fullest extent, and to which it was unnecessary for him to refer.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. GIBBS then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BANKI LAWS BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. STOKES presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law in force in the Mahál of Bánki, and moved that the Report be taken into consideration. He said that the Select Committee had made no addition beyond that of repealing two or three words relating to the Mahál, which were contained in three Bengal Regulations, and would when the Bill was passed become obsolete; and the only change made in the Bill was that the Mahál in question would now be attached to the District of Katák instead of to that of Púrf. This was in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants of the Mahál, and those wishes seemed reasonable, as Katák was the headquarters of the Commissioner, the Magistrate and the Collector.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INLAND EMIGRATION BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. RIVERS THOMPSON asked for leave to postpone the consideration of the notices which stood in his name regarding the Bill to amend the law relating to Emigration to the Labour-districts of Bengal and Assam. He said that the Select Committee had hoped to have been able to show the introduction of several changes which it was thought would facilitate the working of the Bill; but within the last few days they had received a telegram from the Chief Commissioner of Assam, who pressed that further time should be given to him for the consideration of the measure, which was of great importance to the Province; and in view of this request, and also to enable the Chief Commissioner to consult the planters and officials in the Districts upon certain sections of the Bill, it had been thought proper not to ignore his application. It was hoped that by the time the Council reassembled in Calcutta the representations referred to would be received.

Leave was granted.

PANJAB LAWS ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES, in the absence of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Panjáb Laws Act, 1872, and moved that the Report be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill as amended be passed. He said that the Select Committee had made no substantial change in the Bill. He himself should have liked to have gone somewhat further. The Bill was a mere piece of patchwork, and the Act which it patched (IV of 1872) had been already twice amended (by Acts XV of 1875 and XII of 1878). He would, therefore, have preferred to repeal the principal and the amending Acts, and to re-enact them with the alteration now thought necessary, omitting the sections of the principal Act which purported to deal with insolvency, and which seemed to have been framed by some one altogether ignorant of what an insolvency-law should be. It made, for example, no provision as to the personal application of the jurisdiction which it conferred: it omitted to provide for vesting the debtor's property in the assignee; and it gave no appeal from orders passed in insolvency-proceedings. In view of the provisions in the twentieth chapter of the Civil Procedure Code, as amended by Act XII of 1879, the sections in question seemed absolutely useless, and he believed that his opinion was shared by the ablest judicial officers in the Panjáb. The Local Government, however, with the proverbial affection of a mother for her most rickety offspring, was unwilling to abolish this imperfect law, and he (MR. STOKES) had now done all that was in his power, in bringing to notice some of its most serious defects.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to the 7th December, 1881.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Commissariat Department. Contracts.

Simla, the 25th October 1881.

The following correspondence regarding the supply of country manufactured blankets to the Bengal Commissariat for military purposes is published for general information:—

From Colonel W. C. R. MYLNE, Commissary General, Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department,—(No. 3479, dated Simla, the 1st September 1881).

With reference to your No. 663 S.-D., "Commissariat Department," dated 9th June 1881, directing tenders to be invited for country manufactured blankets, and my No. 2644, dated 22nd July 1881, forwarding copy of notice and form of tender prepared with a view to arranging a contract, I have now the honor to forward a comparative statement of the tenders received and opened by me at noon to-day.

2. It will be noticed that for blankets, brown, for issue to European troops in barracks, the tender of the Cawnpore Woollen Mills Company is the lowest, and I recommend it for acceptance.

3. As regards the rates for the other country manufactured blankets, those of the Cawnpore Woollen Mills Company and Central Jail, Agra, are the lowest and are the same, and it rests with Government to decide which shall be accepted. I would recommend that for requirements at Agra and all stations above, the Central Jail should have the contract, the supply to stations below Agra and in Oudh and Rohilkund being given to the Cawnpore Woollen Mills Company.

From Captain T. DEANE, Assistant Secretary to the Government of India, Military Department, to the Commissary General, Bengal,—(No. 1509 S.-D., dated Simla, the 29th September 1881).

In reply to your letter No. 3479, dated the 1st September 1881, I am directed to state that the Government of India sanction your acceptance of the tender of the Cawnpore Woollen Mills Company for the supply of country-made blankets to the Commissariat Department for the four years commencing 1st October 1882.

2. With reference to paragraph 3 of your letter, I am to state that preference should be given to the Cawnpore Woollen Mills Company over the Central Jail at Agra.

NOTICE.

The undersigned is prepared to receive tenders from parties desirous of leasing the water-power available at Kharakwasla, "Lake Fife;" the available power is variable: from July to January, inclusive, the minimum is about 130 actual horse-power, from beginning of February to end of April, it decreases from about 130 to about 40, and during the months of May and June the power which can be guaranteed is very small. Kharakwasla is situated south-west of Poona, 11 miles from the Railway Station, with which it is connected by a good road; about 4 acres of land close to the canal are available as sites for factories, &c. In the last year the area of sugarcane grown under the Mutha canals in the neighbourhood of Poona was 1,966 acres; this area is capable of still further extension to a probable area of 2,500 acres. Under these circumstances, it is thought that the above power offers an inducement for the erection of a sugar manufactory, of which none at present exists in the Bombay Presidency.

Information regarding the actual heads and discharges available throughout the year and all other particulars can be obtained on application to the Executive Engineer for Irrigation, Poona. Tenders will be received up to the 15th November 1881.

The undersigned does not bind himself to accept the highest or any tender.

No. 3958.—The following Rule, framed under the orders of the Secretary of State, which is to take the place of Section 5 of the Pay and Acting Allowance Code, is published for general information :—

5. No Acting Allowance is given to an officer acting in a higher appointment in consequence of the absence of another officer on privilege leave for the first 30 days of such leave unless the acting officer is transferred from another station, in which case Charge Allowance under Section 7 is given.
1. As a general rule the duties of an officer absent on privilege leave should be discharged by another officer at the same station. Only in exceptional cases where there is absolutely no officer available on the spot can the deputation of an officer from another station to act in consequence of the absence of an officer on privilege leave be allowed.
2. After the first 30 days of absence on privilege leave, Acting Allowances will be drawn by the acting officers under the ordinary rules.
- 5A. Section 5 and the Rules under it apply also in the case of a vacancy caused by the deputation of an officer from another station to act in consequence of the absence of an officer on privilege leave.

No. 3968.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce.

The Governor General in Council has had under consideration certain representations to the effect that generally the pay allowed to the orderly peons, chaprasis, darwans, and farashes employed in public offices in Calcutta is small in comparison with the cost of living there, and that, owing to this fact, considerable difficulty is experienced in securing for these posts the services of respectable men. His Excellency in Council considers that these representations are not unfounded. In view, therefore, of improving to some extent the position and prospects of this class of servants, the Governor General in Council has decided that of the entire complement of orderly peons, chaprasis, darwans, and farashes attached to an office under the Government of India in Calcutta, one-fourth (allowing in each case one for any fraction) shall receive pay at Rs. 8 and three-fourths at Rs. 7 a month.

2. As regards the jemadar of such an office, His Excellency in Council has further decided that he shall commence with an initial pay of Rs. 12 and rise to Rs. 15 a month, by a single increment after five years' service in that capacity.

3. These orders, which will come into operation from the 1st November 1881, are not intended to authorise the appointment of a jemadar in any office in which a servant of that class has not hitherto been employed, or to affect the pay of any jemadar or of any peon, orderly chaprasi, darwan, or farash who may now be drawing pay at a higher rate than would be admissible under the orders contained in paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Resolution.

ORDERED, that the foregoing Resolution be communicated to—

The other Departments of the Government of India, for information and guidance and the issue of further necessary orders.

The Comptroller General, for information and guidance, with reference to his letter No. 2520, dated the 24th March 1881; and the Mint Master, Calcutta, the Director General of the Post Office of India, the Accountant General, Bengal, and the Superintendent of Government Printing.

Ordered also, that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.

The 2nd November 1881.

No. 3989.—Mr. R. E. Hamilton is appointed to officiate as Deputy Accountant General, Madras.

Mr. E. M. Palmer is appointed to officiate as Assistant Accountant General, Madras.

Mr. T. H. S. Biddulph is appointed to officiate as Assistant Accountant General, Punjab.

The 4th November 1881.

No. 4028.—The Governor General in Council directs that the following rules be observed in future for the storage of coins in strong rooms:—

1. The following are the authorised methods of storing coin in strong rooms:—
 - (1) In bags of uniform contents, placed in strong iron boxes or safes, or wooden chests, or built recesses or wells, each of which has two independent locks, both of which must be opened before access is obtained to the contents. One of the keys to remain in charge of the treasurer, the other of the gazetted officer in charge.
 - (2) In boxes of uniform contents piled upon trestles. This method is not admissible unless every door, window, drain, sky-light, ventilator or other aperture in the walls of the strong room are so closed as to prevent the insertion of any rod or instrument within the room.
 - (3) Temporarily in boxes prepared for remittance, in the manner prescribed in the Account Code.
2. Without the special permission of the Local Government, no place shall be used as a strong room, unless it is first certified to be secure and fit for use as such by an officer of the Public Works Department not under the grade of an Executive Engineer. The Executive Engineer in certifying the room may prescribe any necessary conditions as to the manner of storing the coin, as, e.g., "that it must not be piled in trestles, but must be in boxes; that no bags or boxes be placed within a prescribed distance of the wall or in any particular part of the room." The Executive Engineer must especially examine the condition of any of the enclosing walls which are so situated that they are not, on the outside, under observation of the guard.
3. The District Superintendent of Police, or the commanding officer of the guard, if a military one, shall record an order prescribing the positions of the sentries, and may also require any additional precautions to be taken in the strengthening of fastenings, burning of lights, &c.; but the responsibility for the security of the building and its fixtures shall remain with the Executive Engineer, and that for the security of chests and other treasury furniture not being part of the building or fixtures shall remain with the officer in charge of the Treasury.
4. Copy of the Executive Engineer's certificate and of the District Superintendent's (or Commanding officer's) order shall be suspended in a conspicuous place within the strong room, and it shall be the duty of the officer in charge of the Treasury to see that any conditions as to manner of storage expressed in these documents are acted up to.
5. The Executive Engineer's certificate will be in force for 12 months only, and it is the duty of the officer in charge of the Treasury to cause it to be renewed when the period is expired.
6. The doors and windows of the strong room shall remain permanently closed and locked, except during the time necessary for moving coin or other valuables into or out of it. The officer in charge must be personally present during the whole time between the opening and shutting of the strong room. The strong room must be closed if meantime he is called away on any duty.
7. As an exception to the last rule, the opening of shutters is permitted during office hours, in the aperture which is otherwise barred, if it is necessary for the admission of light or air to any other part of the building: provided that coin or valuables remain securely packed under lock and key.

2. His Excellency in Council also directs that when large amounts of coin are stored, as, for instance, in the reserve treasuries and currency strong rooms, the following rules be observed:—

The following rules regulate the management of reserve treasuries and currency strong rooms:—

1. The bulk of the coin is to be kept in a reserve strong room, of which one of the keys, both of the room and of the boxes, remains in custody of the Accountant General or Deputy Commissioner of Currency; the other in charge of the treasurer. Every such strong room, in addition to being locked, shall be sealed in such fashion that the locks by which entrance can be obtained cannot be opened without the seals being broken, and the outer door must never be opened, shut, sealed or unsealed, otherwise than in the presence of the non-commissioned officer in charge of the guard.
2. Coin sufficient for carrying on the work for a fortnight shall remain in charge of the officer in charge of the Treasury or Currency, the bulk of this being kept in a strong room under the double lock of the officer in charge and treasurer; but a sufficient quantity being given out every day to the treasurer, and received back after the close of business under the rules applicable to ordinary treasuries.
3. When the officer in charge desires access to the reserve strong room, he is to make a requisition upon the Accountant General or Deputy Commissioner for the keys of the strong room, and of any boxes or safes to which he may desire to have access. In this requisition he is to specify exactly what the purpose of his visit is. The keys will be sent to him in a closed box or cover, or will be delivered personally.

4. After each visit to the reserve strong room, the officer in charge will return the keys to the Accountant General or Deputy Commissioner, and will make a report of his proceedings stating in what condition he found and left the strong room, the locks and the seals.

5. The reserve strong room must never remain for twenty days continuously without being visited and inspected. If, therefore, the officer in charge has no occasion to move coin to or from it for that time, he must pay it a visit of inspection.

6. The requisition and the reports will be kept in a book set apart for the purpose and in the custody of the officer in charge.

ORDERED, that these rules be communicated for information and guidance as follows :—

To the Military and Public Works Departments.

To the several Local Governments and Administrations.

To the Comptroller General and the several Accountants General.

Ordered also, that the rules be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

RETIREMENTS.

No. 596.—The Right Hon'ble the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication, for general information, of the following despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India :—

MILITARY,INDIA OFFICE ;No. 323.London, 6th October, 1881.

To His Excellency the Most Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,

Para. 1. I have had under my consideration the question of extending to Officers of the Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers, under Indian retiring regulations, the recently revised scale of pensions for Officers who entered the Staff Corps subsequently to September, 1863.

2. Under the very favorable terms of retirement given to Officers of the Ordnance Corps in Articles 92-111 of the Royal Warrant of 25th June, 1881, it is probable that the revised Indian pensions would be rarely taken advantage of by them. As, however, the extra annuity granted under the Royal Warrant is given under certain restrictions, an Officer may find himself unable to retire, except under those Indian pension rules in force up to the 1st July, 1881, which have recently been revised on the ground that they had become unsuitable to present circumstances. I consider therefore that the benefits of the revised scale should not be withheld from the Officers of the old Indian Army, not of the local service or Staff Corps, who are still serving for Indian pensions.

3. I have accordingly intimated to the Secretary of State for War that these revised rates will be extended to Officers of the Indian cadres of Royal Artillery and Royal Engineers; but that the increased rates* will not be given to Officers availing themselves of the extra annuity specified in Article 978—XI of the Royal Warrant of the 25th June, 1881, Officers retiring on those terms being restricted to the Indian retiring pensions hitherto in force.

4. I request that your Lordship will cause this to be notified in General Orders.

I have, &c.,

HARTINGTON.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General:—

No. 22 of 1881.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Powers-of-Attorney.

For the purpose of amending the law relating to Powers-of-Attorney; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.	1. This Act may be called “The Powers-of-Attorney Act, 1881”: it applies to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882.
Local extent.
Commencement.

44 & 45 Vic.,
c. 41, s. 48.

2. The donee of a power-of-attorney may, if he thinks fit, execute or do any assurance, instrument or thing in and with his own name and signature and his own seal, where sealing is required, by the authority of the donor of the power; and every assurance, instrument and thing so executed and done shall be as effectual in law as if it had been executed or done by the donee of the power in the name and with the signature and seal of the donor thereof.

This section applies to powers-of-attorney created by instruments executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

c. 41, s. 47.

3. Any person making or doing any payment or act, in good faith, in pursuance of a power-of-attorney shall not be liable in respect of the payment or act by reason that before the payment or act the donor of the power had died or become lunatic, of unsound mind, or bankrupt, or insolvent, or had revoked the power, if the fact of death, lunacy, unsoundness of mind, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not at the time of the payment or act known to the person making or doing the same.

But this section shall not affect any right against the payee of any person interested in any money so paid; and that person shall have the like remedy against the payee as he would have had against the payer if the payment had not been made by him.

This section applies only to payments and acts made or done after this Act comes into force.

4. (a) An instrument creating a power-of-attorney, its execution being verified by affidavit, statutory declaration or other sufficient evidence, may, with the affidavit or declaration, if any, be deposited in the High Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the instrument may be.

(b) A separate file of instruments so deposited shall be kept; and any person may search that file, and inspect every instrument so deposited; and a certified copy thereof shall be delivered out to him on request.

(c) A copy of an instrument so deposited may be presented at the office and may be stamped or marked as a certified copy, and when so stamped or marked shall become and be a certified copy.

(d) A certified copy of an instrument so deposited shall without further proof be sufficient evidence of the contents of the instrument and of the deposit thereof in the High Court.

(e) The High Court may from time to time make rules for the purposes of this section, and prescribing, with the concurrence of the Local Government, the fees to be taken under clauses (a), (b) and (c).

(f) Throughout British Burma, the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon shall for the purposes of this section be deemed to be the High Court.

(g) This section applies to instruments creating powers-of-attorney executed either before or after this Act comes into force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law stands, the donee of a power-of-attorney, when executing an instrument pursuant to the power, must sign, and where sealing is required must seal, in his principal's name. The first object of this Bill is to render it legal for such donees to execute in and with their own names and seals. The law respecting the execution of instruments under powers-of-attorney will thus be made accordant with what will be the rule in England from and after the 31st December, 1881, and with what is believed to be the practice in the North-Western Provinces, British Burma and, probably, elsewhere in India. The section effecting this is copied from section 46 of the recent Statute 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, which takes effect from the close of the present year.

The second object of the Bill is to preclude doubts as to the liability of a donee of a power-of-attorney who makes payments in good faith after the donor of the power has died or become lunatic or bankrupt or insolvent, or has revoked the power, when the fact of death, lunacy, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not known to the donee at the time of making the payment. The section effecting this is copied from section 47 of the Statute above mentioned, and merely extends to all attorneys the rule as to trustees, executors and administrators making payments under powers, which has been in force in British India for the last fifteen years—see Act XXVIII of 1868, section 39.

The third and last object of the Bill is to provide for the deposit of instruments creating powers-of-attorney, and for the evidence of the contents of such instruments. The section effecting this is copied (with the modifications necessary to adapt it to India) from 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, section 48.

Joint Memorandum on additional rainfall stations by Mr. E. C. Buck, Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, and Mr. H. F. Blanford, Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India.

RESOLUTION.

THE Government of India in reviewing (Home, Revenue and Agricultural Department's letter No. 10, dated 24th February 1881) the Meteorological Report for the year 1879-80 and the narrative which it gave of the progress of meteorological observations in India during the last five years, took the opportunity of drawing the attention of the Meteorological Reporter to the suggestions contained in paragraphs 34 to 41, Part I, of the Report of the Famine Commission, and called for information and proposals on the following points:—

- (1) The existing practice in regard to the preparation and distribution of daily weather reports, and the measures considered necessary in order to secure a wider and more prompt publicity.
- (2) The communication of timely and continuous information regarding the character of each passing season to the executive authorities, whose duty it would be to provide for famine.
- (3) The wider diffusion of knowledge of the causes and nature of the periodical rains, not only amongst Government officials, but amongst the public generally.
- (4) The improvement and extension of the existing system of meteorological observation.
- (5) Continuance of the investigation of solar physics in relation to the fluctuations of the rainfall and the state of the sun's surface.

2. Mr. Blanford's reply is contained in his letter No. 38. of the 8th June 1881, and his proposals have since been fully considered in consultation with him.

3. In regard to the first head of inquiry, the Meteorological Reporter explained that under the existing system two kinds of daily weather bulletins are issued by the Calcutta Meteorological offices; the one relating to the whole of India, is published by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India; and the other, relating to the coasts of the Bay of Bengal only, is published by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal.

The daily weather bulletin published by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India gives the result of observations at 50 stations in the fine season and of 84 in the rains. Of these stations, 50 are observatories which report throughout the year; 10 others are observatories reporting during the rainy season only, and 24 are stations which, though not observatories, telegraph the rainfall daily during the rains. From the 16th May to 15th October the daily bulletin is published at Simla, and the tabulated figures are supplemented by a brief commentary written by the Meteorological Reporter himself. During the rest of the year, however, the frequent absences of the Meteorological Reporter on tours of inspection necessitate the discontinuance of these remarks, and the figures alone are published by the Calcutta office. These daily reports are distributed free of charge to about 60 officials and offices in India, and till recently, when the number was reduced to two, they were also supplied to about 47 newspapers.

Besides the daily weather reports, the central Meteorological Office prepares a daily chart based on the data collected at all the observatories in India, but this is not published save on exceptional occasions.

The Bengal Meteorological Office issues daily a statement, sketch chart and verbal summary of observations at stations around the coasts of the Bay of Bengal. This report is distributed on the afternoon of the day to which it refers to the Government offices and to 27 newspaper publishers, merchants, and others, who pay a monthly subscription of Rs. 2.

4. With a view to improve the form and extend the distribution of his daily weather bulletins, Mr. Blanford made the following proposals:—

- (1) To attach a chart, showing the distribution of pressure, wind and rainfall, to the daily weather statements, and to elucidate these by a verbal description throughout the year instead of during the Simla season only.
- (2) To distribute the daily reports to all divisional and district officers stationed within one or two days' post of the place of publication, and to any others who may wish to have them; to make them available to the public generally on payment of a subscription of Rs. 2 per mensem, and to furnish them gratis to such newspapers as agree to publish them.
- (3) To telegraph to presidency towns and other seats of Local Governments, for the information of Government and the public press, a condensed summary of the remarks which accompany the daily weather reports.
- (4) To put the Meteorological Office at Simla in direct electrical communication with the Telegraph Office, and to lithograph the report and chart in the Meteorological Office, so as to issue them as far as possible on the afternoon of the day to which they relate.

5. Mr. Blanford further showed that as the daily summary of the telegraphic weather returns can only be prepared by a scientific officer, it would be necessary to entertain an assistant capable of taking charge of the Meteorological Office during the Meteorological Reporter's absence. In view of the increased work involved by the several proposals, sanction to a small additional establishment and to certain extra charges was also requested. The total estimated cost of the Meteorological Reporter's proposals under this head amounted to an annual charge of Rs. 12,793, and a special outlay of Rs. 3,300.*

6. The Governor General in Council, while concurring generally in the recommendations made by the Meteorological Reporter for improving the present arrangements in regard to the daily weather report, is of opinion that the end in view will be sufficiently obtained if a descriptive summary is appended throughout the year to the daily issues. The addition of a chart may, for the present, be dispensed with, as it would involve a heavy outlay, and the report and statements should continue to be printed by the Government Press. This will effect a saving of the items numbered 4, 5, 6 and 7, and of Rs. 240 under 8 in the table marked annexure A to this Resolution. Subject to these modifications and to the Secretary of State's approval to the appointment of a Scientific Assistant, the proposals are sanctioned. They will involve an annual expenditure of Rs. 11,233.

* For details see Annexure A.

7. The request for a Scientific Assistant to the Meteorological Reporter has before been under the consideration of the Government of India. The need of such an officer was recognised, but final decision of this matter had, in 1879, to be postponed owing to financial pressure. The Government of India now considers that for the improvement of the meteorological reports on the lines of the Meteorological Reporter's proposals the permanent addition of another scientific officer to the Department is indispensable. It is most desirable also to provide that in case of the Meteorological Reporter's sickness or absence from head-quarters, the daily meteorological work, which needs continuity of skilled supervision, should suffer no interruption. His Excellency in Council has therefore decided to apply to the Secretary of State for the services of a duly qualified officer.

8. In connection with the preparation of the daily weather reports Mr. Blanford also recommended that the number of observatories sending daily telegrams throughout the year should be increased from 50 to 80, and that reports of rainfall only should be obtained from 35 additional stations during the rainy season, instead of from 24 as at present. The estimated cost of this proposal is Rs. 12,550, but as the whole of this sum represents merely telegraph charges, the expenditure is of a nominal character. The additional reporting stations have since been arranged on the basis of definite principles by Mr. Blanford in consultation with the Government of India, with the result that there will now be in all 116 observatories or stations which will furnish during the rains telegraphic returns of the rainfall.*

9. With reference to the second and third points upon which the Meteorological Reporter was requested to submit his views, he proposed—

(a) to publish a periodical report (monthly during the rains and bi-monthly during the fine season), giving such a resumé of the character of the season as can be gathered from the daily weather bulletins supplemented by the weather and crop reports received in this Department, and indicating, where this can safely be done, the ensuing prospects of the season;

(b) to publish a popular treatise on Indian meteorology founded on the data already collected.

It has further been arranged that the monthly and bi-monthly reports shall in future be periodically supplemented by a short historical summary in a popular form of the weather phenomena of each half-year. The first will embrace the period from 1st of May to the 31st of October (including an account of the south-west monsoon); and the second from 1st November to 30th April (giving an account of the cold weather rains in the north of India and the Carnatic monsoon in the south of India). The dates of publication will be the 1st January and the 1st June respectively in each year.

These proposals are tentatively approved by His Excellency in Council.

10. The extension and improvement of the existing system of meteorological observations form the fourth subject for consideration. The Meteorological Reporter's proposals fall under two separate heads:—(a) establishment of additional observatories, and (b) collection of information on the meteorology of Indian seas.

11. In regard to (a), Mr. Blanford proposed to create 7 new observatories, of which 3 should be in Madras (Cuddapah, Kurnool and Rajahmundry), 1 in Assam (Gauhati), and 3 in the Himalayas (one at Kailang in the upper valley of the Chandra Bhaga, and the other two at places to be selected in the interior of Kumaon). He further proposed to allow a salary to the observers at Ootacamund, Sambhar and Katmandu, who have hitherto received no remuneration. He also recommended the appointment of a well trained European observer, who should visit the various observatories and instruct, where necessary, the observers in charge. He also proposed to grant small additional allowances to a certain number of deserving observers as a reward for good and accurate work.

These measures, he estimated, would entail a special outlay of Rs. 2,800 and an annual charge of Rs. 9,250 (vide Annexure B).

12. It appears to His Excellency in Council that as the Scientific Assistant referred to in paragraphs 5 and 7 will not have to superintend the preparation of a daily chart as originally proposed, he might be partly employed in instructing observers at outlying observatories as occasion may demand. He would also at the same time inspect such observatories as come within the line of his journey, and thus afford material assistance to the Meteorological Reporter in a direction in which the proposed European Instructor could render little or no aid. For these reasons the entertainment of a special Instructor is considered unnecessary; the other proposals, as detailed in the Annexure B, are sanctioned. Items Nos. 2 and 3 of the table will stand, as the allotments will probably be required to cover the travelling allowance charges of the Scientific Assistant. In fixing the position of the new observatories, the Meteorological Reporter will communicate with, and obtain the assent of, the Local Governments concerned.

13. For the purpose of prosecuting the study of marine meteorology Mr. Blanford solicited a grant of Rs. 5,000 to carry out the reduction and discussion of the 20 years' statistics of Indian marine meteorology received from the London Meteorological Office. He also proposed to introduce under the immediate supervision of Mr. Eliot, Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal, a system of collecting information regarding the weather on Indian seas through the medium of the Hooghly pilots and the logs (where obtainable) of vessels coming into the port of Calcutta.

The expenditure required for this purpose is shown in Annexure C, and amounts to Rs. 3,138 a year, besides a special outlay of Rs. 5,000.

14. The importance of extending our at present very imperfect knowledge of the meteorological phenomena over Indian seas, intimately connected as they are with the annual rainfall over continental India, has long been recognised. His Excellency in Council is therefore pleased to sanction as an experimental measure Mr. Blanford's proposals under this head. The concurrence of the Government of Bengal to Mr. Eliot's co-operation will be obtained.

15. The sixth and last point on which a report was called for was the best means of carrying out the suggestion of the Famine Commission, that the investigations already on foot as to the supposed coincidences between the fluctuations of rainfall and the state of the sun's surface should be continued.

Mr. Blanford reported that, besides the solar investigations undertaken by the Great Trigonometrical Survey, actinometric observations are made at Alipore. But as the skies there are ordinarily unfavourable to the observer, preliminary steps have already been taken to obtain actinometric observations at Leh in Kashmir under the supervision of Mr. Ney Elias, the Assistant Commissioner of Leh.

Mr. Blanford further recommended that a trained European should be sent up to Leh to start these observations and instruct the permanent native observer attached to the observatory. The Solar Physics Committee have volunteered to select a sapper of the requisite qualifications in England, who will be there instructed in the use of the Winstanley instrument as an adjunct to the actinometer. The term of his engagement should, it is proposed, be for two years, at the end of which the native assistant observer at Leh will probably be able to conduct the work without further supervision. The pay of the sapper is estimated at Rs. 250 per mensem and that of the native assistant Rs. 150, or an annual expenditure of Rs. 4,800. The cost of the Winstanley instrument would be in addition to this.

The Governor General in Council is pleased to approve of these proposals, and they will be submitted for the sanction of the Secretary of State.

16. Excluding nominal items, the proposed and sanctioned estimated expenditure involved in the several recommendations and suggestions which have been considered above, compare as follows:—

No. 27.—Whereas the Secretary of State for India has, by Resolution in Council, declared the provisions of the Statute 33 Vic., cap. 3, section 1, to be from and after the 1st October, 1877, applicable to the territories forming the Chief Commissionership of Coorg;

And whereas the Chief Commissioner of Coorg has proposed to the Governor General in Council a draft of the following Regulation, together with the reasons for proposing the same;

And whereas the Governor General in Council has taken such draft and reasons into consideration, and has approved of such draft, and the same has received the Governor General's assent:

In pursuance of the direction contained in the said section, the said Regulation is now published in the Gazette of India :—

REGULATION No. II of 1881.

A Regulation to amend the law relating to the Courts in the Province of Coorg.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the Courts in the Province of Coorg; it is hereby enacted as follows :—

I.—Preliminary.

1. This Regulation may be called "The Coorg Courts Regulation, 1881";

And it shall come into force on the date of its publication in the Gazette of India.

2. On and from such date Act No. XXV of 1868 (the Coorg Courts Act) and section 586 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall be repealed;

But such repeal shall not affect anything done, or any offence committed, or any fine or penalty incurred, or any proceedings commenced, before the said date;

And all rules prescribed, forms framed, tables of fees settled, appointments made and powers conferred under the said Coorg Courts Act and now in force shall (so far as they are consistent with this Regulation) be deemed to have been respectively prescribed, framed, settled, made and conferred hereunder.

II.—Civil Justice.

3. Besides the Courts established under any other enactment for the time being in force, there shall be four grades of Civil Courts in the Province of Coorg (namely) :—

- (1) The Court of the Súbahdár;
- (2) The Court of the Assistant Commissioner;
- (3) The Court of the Commissioner;
- (4) The Court of the Judicial Commissioner.

The Court of the Judicial Commissioner and all Súbahdárs' Courts established in the said Province when this Regulation comes into force shall be deemed to have been established under this Regulation.

4. The Governor General in Council may from time to time appoint the Judicial Commissioner, the Commissioner and Assistant Commissioners, and suspend or remove any officer so appointed:

Provided that the Judicial Commissioner and the Súbahdárs holding office under the Coorg Courts Act at the time this Regulation comes into force shall be deemed to have been appointed under this Regulation.

5. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint Súbahdárs and suspend or remove them.

6. The Chief Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, fix, and with the like sanction from time to time vary, the number of Courts of Súbahdárs and Assistant Commissioners.

7. The Chief Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by notification in the local official Gazette, fix, and with the like sanction by like notification, from time to time, vary the local limits of the original jurisdiction of each of the Courts of Súbahdárs and Assistant Commissioners.

8. The Court of the Judicial Commissioner shall, for the purposes of all enactments relating to civil jurisdiction for the time being in force, be deemed to be the High Court for the Province of Coorg.

The Court of the Commissioner shall for the said Province be deemed to be the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction and the District Court within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure.

The control over all the Civil Courts in the Province of Coorg is vested in the Commissioner, subject to the general control of the Judicial Commissioner.

9. Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section fifteen,—

- (a) the jurisdiction of the Commissioner extends to all original suits;
- (b) the jurisdiction of an Assistant Commissioner extends to all original suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed three thousand rupees;
- (c) the jurisdiction of a Súbahdár extends to all original suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed three hundred rupees.

10. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time invest any Párpátigár with power to try and determine suits for money due on bond or other contract, or for rent, or for moveable property, or for the value of such property, or for damages, when the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed fifty rupees, and may from time to time define the local limits within which such power shall be exercised.

The Chief Commissioner may at any time withdraw all or any of the powers conferred under this section.

11. Subject to any law for the time being in force, appeals shall lie as follows:—

- (a) From the decrees and orders of Súbahdárs, and of Párpátigárs invested with jurisdiction under section ten—to the Assistant Commissioner.

(b) From the decrees and orders of Assistant Commissioners in original suits and proceedings—to the Commissioner.

(c) From the decrees and orders of the Commissioner in original suits and proceedings—to the Judicial Commissioner.

12. For the purposes of the last preceding section all decrees and orders passed before the date on which this Regulation comes into force shall be deemed,—

- (a) if passed by the Superintendent of Coorg, to have been passed by the Commissioner; and
- (b) if passed by an Assistant Superintendent of Coorg, to have been passed by an Assistant Commissioner.

13. The period of limitation for the presentation of appeals to the Courts of the Assistant Commissioner and Commissioner shall be the same as that prescribed by the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, for the presentation of appeals to the Court of the District Judge.

14. The Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, define the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of each of the Courts of the Assistant Commissioners, and with the like sanction from time to time vary the local limits so defined.

15. The Commissioner may direct the business in the Courts subordinate to him to be distributed among such Courts in such way as he thinks fit:

Provided that no Court shall try any suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds the jurisdiction conferred on it under this Regulation.

16. Except with the consent of the parties, no presiding officer of any Court having jurisdiction under this Regulation shall try any suit, appeal or proceeding to or in which he is a party or personally interested, or any appeal against a decree or order passed by himself, or shall adjudicate upon any matter connected with or arising out of such suit, appeal or proceeding.

17. When any such suit, appeal or proceeding comes before the presiding officer of any Court subordinate to the Judicial Commissioner, he shall forthwith, unless all the parties request him to proceed with the case himself, transmit the record to the Court to which he is immediately subordinate, with an explanation of his reasons for so doing.

Such Court shall thereupon try the case itself, or transfer it for trial to a subordinate Court of competent jurisdiction.

When an appeal is preferred to the Judicial Commissioner from a judgment or order passed by him in any other capacity, or in which he is personally interested, he shall, unless all the parties request him to proceed with the case himself, report the fact to the Chief Commissioner, who shall either direct the Judicial Commissioner to try the case himself, or shall transfer it to the High Court at Madras for disposal, or appoint an officer to be an Additional Judicial Commissioner for the disposal thereof.

III.—Criminal Justice.

18. The Court of the Judicial Commissioner shall, except with reference to proceedings against European British subjects or persons charged jointly with European British subjects, be deemed to have, throughout the Province of Coorg, the powers conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure, or by any other enactment relating to criminal jurisdiction for the time being in force in the said Province, on a High Court, other than a High Court established by Royal Charter.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

19. The Judicial Commissioner may from time to time make rules regulating the appointment, suspension, removal and punishment of the ministerial officers of all the Courts subordinate to him.

Subject to such rules, the presiding officer of any Court may punish any ministerial officer of his Court who is guilty of misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office with fine which may extend to one month's salary of the offender.

Any fine imposed under this section shall, if the order imposing it so directs, be recovered from the offender's salary.

20. The Judicial Commissioner may, for the purpose of the exercise of any jurisdiction conferred on him under this Regulation, hold his Court at such place either within or without the limits of the Province of Coorg as he from time to time thinks fit.

21. All proceedings pending on the date on which this Regulation comes into force shall be heard and disposed of by the Courts established under this Regulation that would have had jurisdiction if they had been in existence when such proceedings were instituted.

For the purpose of this section all appeals pending on the said date shall,—

(a) if preferred from the decrees or orders of the Superintendent of Coorg,—be deemed to be appeals from the decrees or orders of the Commissioner; and

(b) if preferred from the decrees or orders of Assistant Superintendents of Coorg,—be deemed to be appeals from the decrees or orders of Assistant Commissioners.

EXAMINATIONS.

The 11th November 1881.

No. 80.—The following Regulations respecting the examination of candidates for the Civil Service of India, to be held in June 1882, are published for general information:—

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

REGULATIONS FOR THE OPEN COMPETITION OF JUNE 1882.

N.B.—The regulations are liable to be altered in future years.

1. On the 1st June 1882, and following days, an examination open to all qualified persons will be held in London (a). Not fewer than candidates will be selected, if so many shall be found duly qualified; viz., for the Presidency of Bengal; for the Upper, for the Lower Provinces (including Assam), and for Burma; for that of Madras, and for that of Bombay (b).

2. No person will be deemed qualified who shall not satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners—

- (i) that he is a natural-born subject of Her Majesty,
- (ii) that his age will be above seventeen years and under nineteen years on the 1st June 1882 [N.B.—In the case of Natives of India this must be certified by the Government of India, or of the Presidency or Province in which the candidate may have resided;];
- (iii) that he has no disease, constitutional affection, or bodily infirmity militating him, or likely to unfit him, for the Civil Service of India;
- (iv) that he is of good moral character,
- (v) that he has paid such fee as may be prescribed under the provisions of the order in Council of the 22nd March 1879 (c).

3. Should the evidence upon the above points be prima facie satisfactory to the Civil Service Commissioners, the candidate will be admitted to the examination. The Commissioners may, however, in their discretion, at any time prior to the grant of the certificate of qualification hereinafter referred to, institute such further inquiries as they may deem necessary; and if the result of such inquiries, in the case of any candidate, should be unsatisfactory to them in any of the above respects, he will be ineligible for admission to the Civil Service of India; and if already selected will be removed from the position of a probationer.

4. The examination will take place only in the following branches of knowledge:—

English Composition	Marks
(d) History of England, mentioning points listed by the candidate	300
(d) English Literature, mentioning books selected by the candidate	100
Greek	000
Latin	500
French	50
German	500
Hindui	100
(e) Mathematics (pure and mixed)	1000
Natural Science—that is, the Elements of any two of the following Sciences:— Chemistry, 500; Electricity and Magnetism, 300; Experimental Laws of Heat and Light, 300; Mechanical Philosophy, with outlines of Astronomy, 300
Logic	300
Elements of Political Economy	500
(f) Sanskrit	500
(f) Arabic	500

Candidates are at liberty to name any or all of these branches of knowledge. No subjects are obligatory.

5. The merit of the persons examined will be estimated by marks; and the number set opposite to each branch in the preceding regulation denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it.

6. The marks assigned to candidates in each branch will be subject to such deduction as the Civil Service Commissioners may deem necessary (g), in order to secure that "a candidate be allowed no credit at all for taking up a subject in which he is a mere beginner."

7. The examination will be conducted on paper and read out, as may be deemed necessary.

(a) An order for admission to the examination will be sent to each candidate on the 18th of May.

(b) The numbers will be announced hereafter.

(c) The fee will be £5, payable by means of a special stamp according to instructions which will be communicated to candidates.

(d) A considerable portion of the marks for English History and Literature will be allotted to the work selected by the candidate (see notice on page 10). In awarding marks for this, regard will be had mainly to the extent and reputation of the periods or books selected, but chiefly to the thoroughness with which they have been studied.

(e) The examination will move from Arithmetic, Algebra, and Elementary Geometry, up to the elements of the differential and integral calculus, including the lower portions of Applied Mathematics.

(f) The standard of marking in Sanskrit and Arabic will be determined with reference to a high degree of proficiency, such as may be expected to be reached by a native of good education.

(g) Marks assigned in English Composition and Mathematics will be subject to no deduction.

8. The marks obtained by each candidate, in respect of each of the subjects in which he shall have been examined, will be added up, and the names of the several candidates who shall have obtained after the deduction above mentioned a greater aggregate number of marks than any of the remaining candidates will be set forth in order of merit, and such candidates shall be deemed to be selected candidates for the Civil Service of India, provided they appear to be in other respects duly qualified. Should any of the selected candidates become disqualified, the Secretary of State for India will determine whether the vacancy thus created shall be filled up or not. In the former case, the candidate next in order of merit, and in other respects duly qualified, shall be deemed to be a selected candidate. A selected candidate declining to accept the appointment which may be offered to him will be disqualified for any subsequent competition.

9. Selected candidates, before proceeding to India, will be on probation for two years, during which time they will be examined periodically, with a view of testing their progress in the following subjects:—(h)

	Marks.
1. Law	1,250
2. Classical languages of India—
Sanskrit	500
Arabic	400
Persian	400
3. Vernacular languages of India (each)	400
4. The History and Geography of India	350
5. Political Economy	350

In these examinations, as in the open competition, the merit of the candidates examined will be estimated by marks, and the number set opposite to each subject denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it at any one examination. The examination will be conducted on paper and visu voce, as may be deemed necessary. The last of these examinations will be held at the close of the second year of probation, and will be called the "Final Examination," at which it will be decided whether a selected candidate is qualified for the Civil Service of India. At this examination candidates will be permitted to take up any one of the following branches of natural science, viz., Botany, Geology, or Zoology, for which 350 marks will be allowed.

10. Any candidate who, at any of the periodical examinations, shall appear to have wilfully neglected his studies, or to be physically incapacitated for pursuing the prescribed course of training, will be liable to have his name removed from the list of selected candidates.

11. The selected candidates who, at the final examination, shall be found to have a competent knowledge of the subjects specified in Regulation 9, and who shall have satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners of their eligibility in respect of nationality, age, health, and character, shall be certified by the said Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India, provided they shall comply with the regulations in force, at the time, for that service.

12. Persons desirous to be admitted as candidates must apply on forms, which may be obtained from "The Secretary, Civil Service Commission, London, S.W.," at any time after the 1st December 1881. The forms must be returned so as to be received at the office of the Civil Service Commissioners on or before 1st April 1882. They should be accompanied by evidence on the first four of the points mentioned in Regulation 2, and by a list of the subjects in which the candidate desires to be examined (i).

The Civil Service Commissioners are authorised by the Secretary of State for India in Council to make the following announcements:—

- (1) Selected candidates will be permitted to choose, according to the order in which they stand in the list resulting from the open competition, so long as a choice remains, the Presidency (and in Bengal, the Division of the Presidency) to which they shall be appointed; but this choice will be subject to a different arrangement, should the Secretary of State, or the Government of India, deem it necessary (k).
- (2) The probationers, having passed the necessary examinations, will be required to report their arrival in India within such period after the grant of their certificate of qualification as the Secretary of State may in each case direct.
- (3) The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the selected candidates shall be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the final examination.
- (4) *An allowance amounting to £300 will be given to all candidates who pass their probation at one of the Universities or Colleges which have been approved by the Secretary of State, viz., the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrew's, and Aberdeen, Trinity College, Dublin; University College, London; and King's College, London; provided such candidates shall have passed the required examinations to the satisfaction of the Civil Service Commissioners, and shall have complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of selected candidates.*

RESOLUTION By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce.

Read the undermentioned correspondence regarding the publication of the accounts of certain Local Funds, in accordance with the requirements of the legal enactments constituting the Funds:—

To the Government of Madras, No. 1307, dated the 22nd June 1881.

“ “ of Bombay, „ 1308, „ „ „

“ “ of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1306, dated the 22nd June 1881.

From the „ of Madras, No. 1331, dated the 20th July 1881.

“ “ of Bombay, „ 262A-360, dated the 19th October 1881.

“ “ of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 1675, dated the 18th October 1881.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of Madras was asked whether the annual accounts of the Local Funds constituted by Madras Act IV of 1871 are published in the Local Gazette as required by Section 32 of that Act. In reply that Government reports that the accounts are published in the Gazettes of the districts in which the Local Funds circles are respectively situated.

2. The Government of Bombay was asked whether the accounts of the District Funds constituted by Act III of 1869 are published in the vernacular papers of the districts as required by the Act; and it appears from the reply of that Government that the accounts are published in the vernacular papers of most of the districts where there are such papers, but not in some where the insertion would have to be paid for.

3. The Governor General in Council requests that the Government of Bombay will issue instructions for compliance with the terms of the law in these districts, any necessary payments to the newspapers being made from the Local Funds.

4. The Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh was similarly asked whether any accounts of the local rates levied under Acts III and IV of 1878 are published in the Local Gazette as required by Sections 14 and 13 of those Acts respectively. That Government replies that such accounts were published up to 1874-75, but that afterwards they had to be discontinued, owing chiefly to certain difficulties which were felt in fixing the assignments for each district. The Local Government, however, reports that orders have now been issued prescribing the manner in which district assignments should be fixed, and that the accounts of 1879-80 and 1880-81 are being prepared accordingly, and will be published as soon as they are completed.

5. The Governor General in Council desires that the other Local Governments will take particular care that any similar provisions of the Legislature in respect of any other Local Funds are not overlooked anywhere.

ORDERED, that this Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments.

Ordered also, that it be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

The 9th November 1881.

The Lower Provinces of Bengal, with the exception of the Presidency town and of the town of Howrah.	Benar.
Assam.	Port Blair.
North-Western Provinces.	Coorg.
Punjab.	Ajmere.
Oudh.	Nowgong (Bundelkhand).
Central Provinces.	Indore.
British Burma.	Nusserabad.
	Gwalior.
	Sambhar.
	Quetta.

2. The Governor General in Council is further pleased to prescribe the following rules for the guidance of depositors in Post Office Savings Banks:—

RULES FOR THE GUIDANCE OF DEPOSITORS IN POST OFFICE SAVINGS BANKS IN INDIA.

Definitions.

I.—For the purposes of these rules:—

Deposit means money paid into a Post Office Savings Bank by, or on behalf of, a depositor.

Depositor means the person by whom, or on whose behalf, money is deposited.

Account means the account of a depositor in a Post Office Savings Bank.

Balance means the balance at credit of an account.

Minor means a person who has not completed the age of 18 years.

Legal guardian means not only any guardian constituted by law for the time being, but also includes a father or, if the father be dead, a mother.

Postmaster General means the Chief Postal Authority in any Province or place to which the system of Post Office Savings Banks is extended.

Object of Government in establishing Post Office Savings Banks.

II.—The object of Government in establishing Post Office Savings Banks is to provide a ready means for the deposit of savings, and so to encourage thrift. Savings Banks are not to be used for the purpose of keeping a current account, and the Comptroller, Post Office, is empowered to close an account, should he have reason to believe that the depositor has used the Savings Bank for a purpose for which it was not intended.

Business Hours.

III.—Post Office Savings Banks will be open for the transaction of business between the hours of noon and 4 p.m. every day, with the exception of Sundays, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, and the Queen's Birthday. These hours may, under the authority of the Postmaster General, be altered to suit local circumstances.

Persons who may deposit money.

IV.—Any person may deposit money in a Post Office Savings Bank on his own behalf. The parents or other relatives of any minor may also deposit money in the name and on the behalf of such minor.

Explanation.—Minors are allowed to deposit money in their own names, and women, whether married or single, are allowed to deposit money in their own names, but subject, in the case of married women, to the limitation laid down in Rule V.

Depositor.

XIV.—Women who by the custom of the country are not allowed to appear in public may open accounts in their own names through their agents, or if they are married women, through their husbands or agents. The agent or husband will be required to sign the declaration that the depositor understands and accepts the rules.

XV.—When the declaration is presented duly signed with the amount of the first deposit, or when it has been signed by a depositor attending in person to make a deposit, the amount of the deposit will be entered in a Pass-book, which will be supplied to the depositor, and the entry will be initialed by the Postmaster and stamped with the office stamp. The depositor will be required to sign a receipt for the Pass-book.

XVI.—If the account be opened at a Sub-Post Office, the Pass-book for the depositor will have to be obtained from the Head Office. A Preliminary Receipt for the amount of the first deposit will, therefore, be given to the depositor, who will be informed of the date on which he should call to receive the Pass-book. When the Pass-book is handed over to the depositor, he will be required to return this Preliminary Receipt, and to sign an acknowledgment for the Pass-book. The amount of the original deposit will be entered in the Pass-book at the Head Office, and the depositor will therefore have a guarantee that the sum has been received in that office. He should be careful to see that the entry in the Pass-book corresponds with the amount entered in the Preliminary Receipt before giving up the latter.

Pass-book, and its importance.

XVII.—The Pass-book will show, in the vernacular of the district or in English, as the depositor may wish, the number of his account, with the name of the office from which the book is issued, his own name, occupation or profession, and address. No deposit can be made and no money can be withdrawn from an account without its production, and the Post Office will not be responsible for any sum not acknowledged in the Pass-book. Depositors should carefully examine their books before leaving the offices, and ascertain that the entries are correct. They should also be careful to keep their Pass-books in their own possession, as the Post Office will not be responsible for any loss caused to a depositor if any person shall obtain possession of the book and fraudulently obtain the payment of any sum belonging to the depositor.

Loss of Pass-book.

XVIII.—No charge will be made for the book at first supplied to a depositor or for any books issued to him in continuation of the original book. But if a book be lost or spoiled, or if an account be reopened after it has been closed, the depositor will have to pay one rupee for a fresh book.

Mode of depositing money after an account has been opened.

XIX.—A depositor may deposit money at the Post Office at which his account stands as often as he wishes, so long as the prescribed yearly limit is not exceeded. All that he is required to do is to take or send the amount to be deposited with his Pass-book to the Post Office. The amount of his deposit will be entered in the Pass-book and the balance struck as shown below. The entry will then be initialed by the Postmaster and stamped with the dated stamp of the office, and the Pass-book returned—

Date.	Dated stamp of the Post Office.	Amount of each deposit or withdrawal (to be entered in words).	Amount deposited.	Amount withdrawn	Balance at credit of the depositor.	Initials of the Postmaster.
			Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
3rd April 1882 ..		Deposited ten rupees ..	10 0 0	...	10 0 0	A. B. C.
15th " " ...		Deposited twenty-five rupees	25 0 0	...	35 0 0	A. B. C.
18th May " ...		Withdrawn three rupees	3 0 0	32 0 0	A. B. C.

XX.—If the amount be deposited at a Sub-Post Office, the depositor will receive, in addition to the receipt in his Pass-book, an acknowledgment from the Head Office, which will generally be the office at the head-quarter station of the district. This acknowledgment will be delivered to him in ordinary course through the Post Office. If it should not reach the depositor in proper time, or if, when it reaches him, it should show any signs of erasure, or should not agree with the entry in the Pass-book, the depositor should immediately apply to the Postmaster of the Head Office, the name of which is in the Pass-book, and renew his application again and again until he receives a satisfactory reply.

Mode of withdrawing money.

XXI.—When a depositor wishes to withdraw money, he must present his Pass-book personally or by agent at the Post Office at which his account stands, with a printed form of Application for Withdrawal, which can be obtained at the Post Office, signed by himself and showing the balance at his credit and the amount which he wishes to withdraw. If he is unable to write, he must attend personally and affix his mark or seal to the Application to be attested by the signature of a witness. Should he be absolutely unable to attend personally, he must have his mark or seal affixed to the Application and attested by some respectable witness, and the Postmaster will make payment to the person presenting this Application with the Pass-book, after satisfying himself, by such enquiry as he may think proper, of the inability of the depositor to attend, and of the genuine character of the application.

XXII.—The amount to be withdrawn will be entered in the Pass-book and a fresh balance struck, as in the case of a deposit, under the initials of the Postmaster and the dated stamp of the office. The amount will then be paid to the depositor or to the person presenting the Pass-book and Application, and his receipt taken, in all cases without a receipt stamp, on the Warrant of Payment.

XXIII.—If the amount be withdrawn at a Sub-Post Office, payment cannot be made until a Warrant of Payment is received from the Head Office. The depositor, therefore, or other person presenting the Pass-book and Application, will be informed of the date on which he should come to the Post Office to receive payment, and will have the Pass-book returned to him. On presentation of the Pass-book on that date, or any subsequent date after the arrival of the Warrant of Payment, the amount will be paid to the depositor, or other person presenting the Pass-book, and his receipt taken, in all cases without a receipt stamp, upon the Warrant. The necessary entries will then be made in the Pass-book under the initials of the Sub-Postmaster and attested by the stamp of the office.

Interest.

XXIV.—Interest will be allowed at the rate of $3\frac{3}{4}$ per cent. per annum until further orders on all deposits subject to the conditions of this rule. This interest will be allowed for each calendar month on the lowest balance at credit of an account during the period from the first day until the close of the twenty-fourth day of the month: provided that interest shall only be calculated at the rate of three pias a month on every complete sum of five rupees; provided also that no higher monthly interest than Rs. 9-6 shall be allowed on the balance of any account.

XXV.—The interest calculated as above for each month will be added to the balance of each account after the 31st of March of each year. Depositors should therefore present their Pass-books as soon after that date as possible, in order that the necessary entries may be made in them. If the Pass-book be not presented for this purpose, the entry will be made on the first occasion when a deposit is made, or when money is withdrawn, after the 31st March.

Transfer of account.

XXVI.—A depositor may have his account transferred free of charge to any Post Office that is a Money Order Office. If he should wish to transfer his account, he must present his Pass-book at the Post Office personally or send it with a written application for transfer. The Pass-book will be retained by the Postmaster, and a certificate given to him showing the amount at his credit. On presenting this at the Post Office to which his account has been transferred, he will receive a new Pass-book free of charge.

Closing an account.

XXVII.—When a depositor wishes to close his account, he must present his Pass-book with a form of Application for Withdrawal of the net amount at his credit. The amount of interest due on his account up to the end of the calendar month preceding the date of presentation will be entered in the Pass-book and a final balance struck. The amount will then be paid to the depositor and his receipt taken on the Warrant of Payment. The Pass-book will be retained in the Post Office. If the application for closing an account be presented at a Sub-Office, the same procedure will be followed as in the case of an ordinary withdrawal, except that the Pass-book will be retained.

XXVIII.—If an account be closed under the orders of the Comptroller, Post Office, notice in writing will be sent to the depositor requiring him to present his Pass-book and receive payment of the balance at his credit as soon as convenient. After the date of such notice no deposit will be accepted on the account so closed, and no interest will be allowed upon the balance after the end of the calendar month preceding such date.

Reopening an account.

XXIX.—A depositor who has once closed an account cannot open another account until after the expiration of three months from the date of closure without the permission of the Comptroller, Post Office; and a depositor whose account has been closed by order cannot open a fresh account in any case without the permission of the Comptroller, Post Office.

Powers of Postmaster General in certain special cases.

XXX.—If a depositor should die leaving in a Post Office Savings Bank a sum of money not exceeding one thousand rupees, and if probate of his will or letter of administration of his estate or a certificate granted under Act No. XXVII of 1860 be not produced to the Postmaster General within three months of the death of the said depositor, the Postmaster General may pay the said sum of money to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive it, or to administer the estate of the deceased.

XXXI.—If any depositor become insane or otherwise incapable of managing his affairs, and if such insanity or incapacity be proved to the satisfaction of the Postmaster General, then the Postmaster General may from time to time make payment out of the deposit to any proper person.

Secrecy.

XXXII.—The officers of the Postal Department engaged in the receipt or payment of deposits are not allowed to disclose the name of any depositor or the amount deposited or withdrawn by him except to the Postmaster General or other officers of the Department engaged in carrying out the provisions of these rules.

Purchase of Government Securities on behalf of Depositors.

XXXIII.—If a depositor should wish that the balance at his credit or any part of it should be invested in the purchase of Government securities, he may present a written application to this effect with his Pass-book at the Post Office. The application will then be forwarded to the Comptroller, Post Office, who will take the necessary steps for making the purchase through the Comptroller General.

(a) The paper purchased will be of the 1 per cent. loans, unless $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. paper is specially applied for.

(b) The investor may also specially apply that the paper remain in the custody of the Comptroller General, and that the interest be remitted as drawn to the local Treasury for payment to him. In this case the Comptroller General will, if necessary, transfer the paper to the 4 per cent. loan of 1865 and will remit the interest as applied for. The investor may at any time apply through the local Post Office for the delivery to him of paper thus held by the Comptroller General. If application is not made under this clause, the paper purchased by the Comptroller General will be enfaced for payment of interest at the local Treasury and forwarded to the Post Office for delivery to the investor.

(c) An investor under these rules may at any time apply in the same way for the sale of paper purchased through the Post Office, whether held by himself or held for him by the Comptroller General.

(d) These arrangements are intended only for persons of moderate income, who belong to a class who do not ordinarily have transactions with bankers, and the advantage of them must be refused, both by the Post Office, and, if necessary, by the Comptroller General, if the applicant is not within this definition.

The following fees will be charged :—

On purchase : 4 annas per cent.

On realisation and remittance of interest : 4 annas per cent.

On delivery out of custody : 4 annas per cent., unless the application for delivery is made within a year of the purchase.

On sales : 4 annas per cent., and any actual outlay upon brokerage.

The following are the principal rules of the Post Office Savings Banks in India which will be printed in each depositor's Pass-book in English always and, at the option of the depositor, also in the vernacular language of the District :—

Where and when deposits may be made.

I.—Post Office Savings Banks are established at all Post Offices that are Money Order Offices, and are open to receive deposits daily, with the exception of Sundays and Post Office holidays, from noon till 4 P.M.

Who may deposit—What they may deposit—What Government promises to do with regard to deposits.

II.—At these banks any person, man, woman or child, may deposit money. No sum less than four annas, and no sum that is not a multiple of four annas, can be received, and no one is allowed to deposit more than Rs. 500, in all, in the year. Government promises to repay the money, with interest, to the person depositing it in his or her own name, whether man, woman or child. Parents and other relatives can also deposit money on behalf of minors—that is, of persons who have not completed the age of 18 years—but Government will not pay this money, during the minority of the minors, to any one except their legal guardians.

Interest on deposits how calculated and paid.

III.—Interest is allowed until further orders at the rate of one pie, or three pies, a month on every complete sum of five rupees. It will be calculated on the lowest balance at the credit of an account on any date from the first to the close of the twenty-fourth day of a month. The amount of interest will be added to each account once a year after the 31st March.

How to make a first deposit.

IV.—On making a first deposit every person must give his name, occupation and residence. A Native must also give his father's name and caste. He must then sign the following declaration, or, should he be unable to write, affix his mark or seal to it at the Post Office in the presence of a witness, who will attest it with his signature.

Form of declaration.

I hereby declare that the Post Office Savings Banks Rules have been read {by me to me}, and that I accept them as binding upon me. I further declare that I have no account in my own name at any Government Savings Banks.

Depositor.

Depositor's book—Its use and importance.

V.—A Pass-book will be given to every depositor, free of charge, when he makes his first deposit. This will show, in the vernacular of the district or in English, as the depositor may wish, the number of his account, with the name of the office from which the book is issued, his own name, occupation and residence. Money cannot be paid in or taken out without the production of this book, and the Postmaster will enter in it every sum of money paid in or taken out, strike the balance on each occasion, and sign the entry and stamp it with the office stamp. The depositor must present the Pass-book after the 31st March of each year in order that the interest due may be added to the principal in the book, and he must always carefully examine the entries made in his book before leaving the office. On no occasion should he allow the Pass-book to remain at the Post Office, unless his account is finally closed. The Pass-book is his private property, and must be kept carefully in his own hands. Should he lose the book or allow it to be spoiled, he will have to pay one rupee for a fresh book.

How to make a second or third deposit—Depositor at Sub-Post Office entitled to special receipt.

VI.—When a depositor wishes to deposit money after the first time, all that he has to do is to send or present the money with his Pass-book at the Post Office. If this money be paid in at a Sub-Office, the depositor will receive, in addition to the receipt in the book, an acknowledgment by post from the Head Office. If this acknowledgment should not reach him, or if it should have any corrections in it, or should not tally with the entry in the book, he must write to the Postmaster at the Head Office, the name of which is in his book, and should renew his application again and again until he receives a satisfactory reply.

How to withdraw money.

VII.—A depositor may withdraw money once a week not less than four annas and no sum that is not a multiple of four annas. He must make an application on a printed form, which he can obtain at the Post Office. If he can write, he can sign the form and send it to the Post Office with his Pass-book. If he cannot write, he must attend the Post Office and affix his mark or seal to the form, to be attested by the signature of a witness. Payment will then be made to the depositor, or to the person presenting the signed application and Pass-book, and his receipt taken, in all cases without a receipt stamp, on the order for payment. At a Sub-Office payment cannot be made until an order of payment is received from the Head Office. The depositor will be told on what day to come for the money, and on that day payment will be made as above to the person presenting his Pass-book. If a depositor wishes to withdraw the whole of his money, he must follow the same procedure.

How to transfer deposits.

VIII.—A depositor can transfer his deposit, without charge, to any other Post Office that is a Money Order Office. If he should wish to transfer his account, he must present his Pass-book at the Post Office, or he can send a written application asking for the transfer with his Pass-book. The Pass-book will be retained by the Postmaster, and a receipt given to him showing the amount at his credit. On presenting this receipt at the Post Office to which his account is transferred, he will receive a new Pass-book free of charge.

How depositor can obtain further information.

IX.—If any further information be required on any point connected with the Post Office Savings Banks, detailed rules will be found in the Postal Guide, or can be seen at any Post Office.

Post Office officials bound to secrecy.

X.—The officers of the Post Office are not allowed to disclose the name of any depositor or the amount deposited or withdrawn by him to any one not belonging to the Postal Department.

No. 4162.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by Section 8 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1879, the Governor General in Council is pleased to remit the stamp duty on receipts given by, or on behalf of, depositors in Post Office Savings Banks for sums of money withdrawn from such Banks in all cases in which, but for this exemption, such receipts would be liable to stamp duty.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General.—

No. 23 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act No. V of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to Prisoners confined by order of a Court); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Prisoners' Act Amendment Act, 1881";

Local extent.

Commencement.

Section substituted for section 33, Act V of 1871.

"33. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint places within British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent.

Local Government to direct removal of such persons to places appointed.

except when sentence of transportation is passed on a person already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed for another offence.

it extends to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1883.

2. For section thirty-three of the said Act the following shall be substituted (namely):—

Act X of 1872, s. 319.

places within British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent: and the Local Government, or some officer duly authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, shall give orders for the removal of such persons to the places so appointed, the removal of such persons to the places so appointed,

Act X of 1872, s. 320.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTIONS 319 and 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure have been omitted in the Bill for regulating the Procedure of the Courts of Criminal Judicature, which repeals that Code.

The former section empowers the Governor General in Council to appoint a place or places in British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent, and also authorizes the Local Government to provide for the removal of such persons to the place or places so appointed. The latter section provides for the case of persons sentenced to transportation while already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed.

The reason for the omission of these provisions in the Bill is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to Criminal Procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It simply substitutes for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, a section containing the provisions of sections 319 and 320 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure, and will come into force at the same time as the new Code. The part of the former section which declares that no sentence of transportation shall specify the place to which the person sentenced is to be transported will be added to section 338 of the new Code.

No. 254R.—In exercise of the power conferred by 24th & 25th Vic., Cap. 67, Section 47, and by 28th Vic., Cap. 17, Section 4, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the line described below shall be the boundary between the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal and the Chief Commissioner of British Burma respectively, with effect from the 15th July 1881:—

Commencing from the Bay of Bengal, the Naaf river separates the district of Chittagong from the district of Akyab as far north as the mouth of the Goong-doung stream or Oocha Goong-doung; thence commences the boundary between the districts of Akyab and the Chittagong Hill Tracts: this proceeds eastward along the Oocha Goong-doung to its source; thence in a straight line across the watershed to the Toung-byoo or Toung-broo stream; and thence up that stream to its source in the Wayla-toung peak, or Sugar-loaf hill. From the Wayla-toung peak, or Sugar-loaf hill, the boundary runs northwards for about five-and-a-half miles along the Wayla-toung ridge; thence in an easterly direction for about two miles along the See-see-toung spur to the Bujbukia khial opposite the Tha-walec-toung bungalow on the high road from Chittagong to Akyab; thence, still eastwards for about 12 miles, over a succession of ridges following the northern limits of Mro-thit (northern) Gyokeship, meeting the Ko-ma-toung ridge (a continuation of the Choung-doung range) about four-and-a-quarter miles north-west from Ko-ma-toung survey-station; thence southwards for about two-and-a-half miles along the Ko-ma-toung ridge to a point where the district boundary leaves the Northern Mro-thit Gyokeship; thence in a south-easterly direction along the tortuous Kring-dyn-toung ridge, following the northern limits of the Ching-doung Hill Tract to the Koo-doung or Ko-ma-toung survey-station; thence north-east along low ridges for about three-and-a-quarter miles; and thence east for about one mile, south-east for about one-and-a-quarter miles, and again north-east for about two miles, meeting the crest of the Lee-doung-toung range and the north-western boundary of the Arakan Hill Tracts about three-and-a-half miles south from Lee-doung-toung survey-station. From this spot it proceeds northwards along the Lee-doung-toung range to Lee-doung-toung hill-station; thence along the same range to Mee-doke-toung survey-station and peak; thence northwards along the crest of the Mee-doke-toung range to the second Mee-doke-toung survey-station; and thence, still northwards, along the Mee-doke-toung range, for about eight miles, to the point where it meets the northern boundary of the Arakan Hill Tracts, which runs due east in a straight line to the junction of the Kala and Kaladan rivers.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General:—

No. 23 of 1881.

A Bill to amend the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act No. V of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to Prisoners confined by order of a Court); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Prisoners' Act Amendment Act, 1883";
Short title. Amendment Act, 1883";

Local extent.

it extends to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1883.

Commencement.

Section substituted for section 33, Act V of 1871.

2. For section thirty-three of the said Act the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"33. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint places within British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent; and the Local Government, or some officer duly authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, shall give orders for the removal of such persons to the places so appointed, except when sentence of transportation is passed on a person already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed for another offence."

Local Government to direct removal of such persons to places appointed.

Act X of 1872, s. 319.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTIONS 319 and 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure have been omitted in the Bill for regulating the Procedure of the Courts of Criminal Judicature, which repeals that Code.

The former section empowers the Governor General in Council to appoint a place or places in British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent, and also authorizes the Local Government to provide for the removal of such persons to the place or places so appointed. The latter section provides for the case of persons sentenced to transportation while already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed.

The reason for the omission of these provisions in the Bill is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to Criminal Procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It simply substitutes for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, a section containing the provisions of sections 319 and 320 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure, and will come into force at the same time as the new Code. The part of the former section which declares that no sentence of transportation shall specify the place to which the person sentenced is to be transported will be added to section 308 of the new Code.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 15th NOVEMBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—There has been slight rain in parts of Central and Eastern Bengal, but its want continues to be felt in Orissa and in some other places; general prospects, however, continue good; the earlier sorts of rice are being harvested, with a good average outturn; fever is more or less prevalent. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh there has been no rain; the rabi crops are everywhere in need of moisture, and irrigation has commenced in some districts; fever still exists, especially in Oudh.

In the Punjab rabi sowings are progressing and the kharif harvest is almost over, the yield being generally good and prospects favourable. In the Central India and Rajputana States the weather is seasonable and agricultural prospects continue good on the whole. In the Central Provinces rabi sowings are nearly finished and rain is now wanted in one district; the weather is, however, reported to be cloudy; there has been a little rain; and prospects continue good. In the Bombay Presidency there has been good rain in the Southern Mahratta Country and elsewhere, and agricultural prospects, except in two districts where rain is urgently wanted, have much improved. In the Nizam's Territories and Berar kharif crops are being reaped; there has been some rain, and prospects are favourable. Rain has again fallen copiously throughout the Mysore State and in Coorg, and crops are now everywhere in good condition; the harvesting of rabi and other minor crops has commenced in Mysore, and rice and coffee will now ripen better in Coorg. In the Madras Presidency there has been further rainfall, more or less heavy, in all districts except one; and general prospects are good, although a few districts still need more rain. In British Burma and Assam crop prospects are favourable everywhere; the harvesting of rice has commenced in the latter province.

On the whole it may be said that recent rains have materially improved crop prospects in Southern and Western India; that in the Central tracts of the country the weather is seasonable and agricultural condition satisfactory; and that in the greater part of Northern India general showers would be beneficial.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are published for general information, by order of His Excellency the Governor General, under the 22nd of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Council of the Governor General:—

No. 23 of 1881.

A Bill to amend the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act No. V of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to Prisoners confined by order of a Court); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Prisoners' Act Amendment Act, 1883";
Short title. Amendment Act, 1883";

Local extent.

Commencement.

Section substituted for section 33, Act V of 1871.

Governor General in Council to appoint places to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent.

Local Government to direct removal of such persons to places appointed.

except when sentence of transportation is passed on a person already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed for another offence." Act X of 1872, s. 320.

it extends to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1883.

2. For section thirty-three of the said Act the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"33. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint places within British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent; and the Local Government, or some officer duly authorized in this behalf by the Local Government, shall give orders for the removal of such persons to the places so appointed, except when sentence of transportation is passed on a person already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed for another offence." Act X of 1872, s. 319.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTIONS 319 and 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure have been omitted in the Bill for regulating the Procedure of the Courts of Criminal Judicature, which repeals that Code.

The former section empowers the Governor General in Council to appoint a place or places in British India to which persons sentenced to transportation shall be sent, and also authorizes the Local Government to provide for the removal of such persons to the place or places so appointed. The latter section provides for the case of persons sentenced to transportation while already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed.

The reason for the omission of these provisions in the Bill is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to Criminal Procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

The present Bill has therefore been prepared. It simply substitutes for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, a section containing the provisions of sections 319 and 320 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure, and will come into force at the same time as the new Code. The part of the former section which declares that no sentence of transportation shall specify the place to which the person sentenced is to be transported will be added to section 308 of the new Code.

7. Licenses to export arms or ammunition or military stores by land or by river to any place beyond the frontier of British India, or to any place within the limits of the feudatory States and licenses to import arms or ammunition or military stores into, or to export the same out of, the district of Ajmere, may be granted by the Secretary to the Government of India in the Foreign Department, or by any other officer specially empowered by the Government of India to grant them.

Licenses to export arms or ammunition or military stores by land or by river to any place within the political jurisdiction of the Governments of Madras and Bombay may be granted by the Secretaries to the Governments of Madras and Bombay respectively, copies of such licenses being sent to the Foreign Department of the Government of India for information. These licenses will be valid only for the State named in them, and no export beyond the limits of that State can be permitted under them.

Licenses granted under this rule will be prepared in Form V, and be charged with a fee of rupees five, except in such cases as the Government of India in the Foreign Department may grant exemption from, or reduction of, the prescribed fee. Licenses to import arms, ammunition or military stores into Ajmere will also be granted in Form V, the word export in the heading of the license being changed into import.

Copies of such licenses shall be sent on the day of issue to the Political Officer of the State to which the articles are to be exported, and in the case of imports into Ajmere, to the Commissioner of the district. Copies shall also be sent to the Magistrate of the frontier district if the articles are to cross the frontier by road or river. In such cases the Commissioner of Police or the Magistrate of the district, as the case may be, should at once forward a copy of the license to the Railway authorities at the place of despatch. No Railway Company shall receive for despatch any box, package or bale containing arms, ammunition or military stores as defined in the Arms Act and the rules framed thereunder, unless covered and accompanied by the original license granted under these rules, and the Railway authorities shall in every instance satisfy themselves that the goods tendered to them for transport correspond to the description given in such license, and that the license is identical with that forwarded to them by the Commissioner of Police or Magistrate of the district.

7A. Nothing in Rules 5, 6 or 7 shall be deemed to authorise the grant of licenses—

- (a) to import any arms, ammunition or military stores from Portuguese India;
- (b) to export to Portuguese India by sea, river or land any arms, ammunition or military stores, except the same be exported for the exclusive use of the Government of Portuguese India, or are covered by a special license for import into Portuguese India signed by the Secretary General to the Government of Portuguese India.

8. Persons desirous of transporting or exporting arms, ammunition or military stores must apply in writing to the officer authorised to grant such licenses. The application must specify—

- (a) the place to which the articles are to be transported or exported, the route of transport or export, and the probable time that will be occupied in the journey;
- (b) the quantity, description, average price, and the purpose of each kind of arms or ammunition; or

In the case of articles crossing the frontier of British India by road or river, the export license must, within six days of the consignment reaching the frontier district, and before it leaves British territory, be delivered to the Magistrate of the frontier district, or other officer empowered by him to receive export licenses on his behalf. The officer to whom the transport or export license, as the case may be, may be delivered must satisfy himself that the articles correspond with the entries in the license, and that any deficiency is properly accounted for.

No. 1893.—The Governor General in Council is also pleased to direct that the following endorse-

It is valid only for the period and the route named therein.

It becomes invalid if bulk is broken, or the consignment stopped at any place on the journey.

It is given subject to the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878; and of the rules framed thereunder.

The contents of each package covered by this license shall be described in legible characters on the outside of such package.

The license must be delivered to the Railway authorities or to the frontier district Magistrate, or other officer empowered by him to receive export licenses on his behalf as provided in Rules 7 and 10. RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Public Works Department.

Public Works Department Circular No. 27 R. of 18th November 1880.

Public Works Department Resolution No. 859 R. T. of 22nd July 1881.

Returns of Accidents to trains, &c., on the open lines of railway in India for the quarter ending 30th June 1881.

OBSERVATIONS.—As compared with the corresponding quarter of the previous year, with an increase of 858 miles or 9·78 per cent. in the open mileage, and of 1,310,160 miles or 15·60 per cent. in the train mileage, the number of accidents to trains, rolling-stock, permanent-way, &c., shows a decrease of 152 or 15·45 per cent. The numbers chiefly vary on the following Railways:—

	Increase, Decrease.
East Indian, including the State branches worked by it 35
Eastern Bengal 11
Sind, Punjab and Delhi 12
South Indian 68
Northern Bengal 71
Rajputana	47 ...
Punjab Northern 21
Indus Valley 32

2. The reduction on the East Indian Railway mainly took place under "Goods trains, parts of goods trains, engines, &c., leaving the rails," "Trains running over cattle," and "Fire in trains," the numbers under these heads being 2 against 11, 33 against 43, and 1 against 15, respectively.

3. The number of accidents on the Eastern Bengal Railway diminished from 16 to 5. The decrease was general, and did not occur under any particular class.

4. On the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway the accidents from goods trains or parts of goods trains, engines, &c., leaving the metal, decreased from 19 to 18, and cases of fire in trains, from 12 to 1.

5. On the South Indian the cattle accidents decreased considerably, the number being 62 against 108.

6. The total number of accidents on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, including the State lines worked by the Company, was less by 5; but it appears that there was a decrease of 17 under "Trains running over cattle" and of 10 under "Fire in trains," there being increases varying from 1 to 5 under other heads.

7. The large decrease on the Northern Bengal State Railway was due to there being only 11 cattle accidents against 25, one case of train running over obstruction against 7, 2 failures of machinery, &c., of engines against 8, and 1 failure of couplings against 10. There was, moreover, not a single case of broken rails reported on this line during the period under review, whereas, in the second quarter of 1880, there were 24 accidents under this head.

8. On the Rajputana Railway the increase appears under several heads, especially under "Trains running over cattle" and "Failure of machinery, springs, &c., of engines." The accidents under these two heads numbered 50 against 31, and 15 against nil, respectively. The increase under cattle accidents was apparently due to the opening of larger lengths, and running of more train miles; the majority of the cattle accidents, it appears, occurred on unfenced portions of the line.

9. On the Punjab Northern the cattle accidents rose from 5 to 20, but under "Failure of machinery, &c., of engines" there was not a single accident, against 30 in the corresponding period of 1880.

10. On the Indus Valley the number of failures of machinery, &c., of engines, and cases of fire in trains, fell off by 21 and 10, respectively.

11. The casualties resulting from accidents to trains, &c., were, among passengers, 4 killed and 44 injured against 3 injured, and among servants, 1 killed and 13 injured against 6 killed and 13 injured. It is observed that 4 passengers were killed and 19 injured in an accident on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway, caused by the failure of the rear axle of a covered goods wagon attached to an up local train, and 14 passengers slightly injured by a collision between a mail and a goods train on the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway, owing to the former having been turned into a wrong line by the pointsman. A full report of the accident on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway just referred to is given in letter No. 3576 G., dated 28th May 1881, from the Consulting Engineer, Lahore, as given in the appendix. With reference to paragraph 10 of this Report, instructions have already been issued to overhaul the axles of all the wagons and condemn those that are old and unfit for further use.

12. The following table exhibits the number of accidents under the different classes, and the number of persons killed and injured thereby:—

	Number of accidents.	Number of passengers and others.		Number of servants.		TOTAL.
		Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.
Collisions between passenger trains or parts of passenger trains	3
Collisions between passenger trains and goods or mineral trains, engines, and vehicles standing foul of the line	19	...	5	...	1	...	6
Collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains	41	1	2	1	2
Collisions between light engines	3
Passenger trains or parts of passenger trains leaving the rails	7
Goods trains or parts of goods trains, engines, &c., leaving the rails	74	7	7
Trains or engines travelling in the wrong direction through points	15	...	15	15
Trains running into stations or sidings at too high a speed	2
Trains running over cattle on the line	308	...	1	1
Trains running over obstructions on the line	33	1	...	1
Trains running through gates at level crossings	18	1	...	1
The bursting of boilers or tubes, &c., of engines	25
The failure of machinery, springs, &c., of engines	67
The failure of tries	6
The failure of wheels	2
The failure of axles	17	4	19	...	1	4	20
The failure of brake apparatus	1
The failure of couplings	21
The failure of tunnels, bridges, viaducts, culverts, &c.	1
Broken rails	16
The flooding of portions of permanent way	5
Slips in cuttings or embankments	6
Fire in trains	51
Fire at stations, or involving injury to bridges or viaducts	9
Other accidents	23	...	2	2
TOTAL	832	4	44	1	13	5	57

13. The number of collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains increased from 26 to 41, of which 9 occurred on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, and 11 on the Rajputana.

14. The cases in which goods trains, or parts of goods trains, engines, &c., left the rails, diminished from 102 to 74, and the failures of machinery, springs, &c., of engines, from 112 to 67. The decrease under the latter head was the largest on the Punjab Northern and Indus Valley State Railways.

15. Notwithstanding a decrease of 46, the number of cattle accidents was still the largest on the South Indian Railway. Out of a total of 366 accidents, 62 took place on that line, 50 on the Rajputana, 42 on the Indus Valley, and 33 on the East Indian Railway.

16. Of the 5 cases of failure of tyres, 1 was on the Great Indian Peninsula and 4 on the Wardha Coal Railway.

17. The axles failed in 17 instances, of which 8 occurred on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway.

18. The accidents from broken rails numbered 16, and of this 10 took place on the Holkar and Sindia-Neemuch Railway.

19. The cases of fire in trains show large reductions on the East Indian, Sind, Punjab and Delhi and Great Indian Peninsula Railways, the numbers being 1, 1 and 9 against 15, 12 and 19, respectively.

20. There appears to be some diversity of practice in regard to the classification of accidents from trains running over hackeries and through locked points. In order to admit of a fair comparison being made between the returns of the different railways, it is desirable that there should be a uniformity of procedure. Hackeries on the line and locked points being of the nature of obstructions, all cases of engines or trains running over them should, in future, be entered under heading 10.

21. It is observed that in returning the cattle accidents on some of the Railways, nothing is said as to the state of the fencing and whether the engines were fitted with cow-catchers. This should invariably be done.

22. The casualties to passengers from causes other than accidents to trains, &c., were—

	Killed.	Injured.
From falling between carriages and platforms	1	4
Falling on to the platform, ballast, &c., when getting into or out of trains	3
Whilst crossing the line at stations	1	...
By the closing of carriage doors	1
Falling out of carriages during the travelling of trains	1	28
Other accidents	4	3
TOTAL	7	39

23. Passengers jumping out of carriages during the travelling of trains appear to have been classified on some of the Railways under heading 5 and on others under heading 6. To secure uniformity, such cases should, in future, be recorded under heading 5,—“Falling out of carriages during the travelling of trains.”

24. The accidents to servants in the employ of Railways, or of contractors, whilst performing duties connected directly with the transit of passengers and goods, from causes other than accidents to trains, &c., were—

	Killed.	Injured.
During shunting operations	5	10
Falling off engines, vans, wagons, &c.	4	10
Coming in contact with overbridges, &c., during the travelling of trains	1	3
Do. whilst shunting, with vehicles, &c., standing in adjoining lines	1	2
Getting in or off trains, engines, &c.	4	9
Whilst loading, unloading or sheeting	4	10

25. There also appears to be a want of uniformity in the classification of casualties to persons run over by trains, &c., while sleeping on the line. These casualties should in future be classified under heading 11,—“ Whilst walking, crossing or standing on the line.”

26. Of other persons killed and injured by running trains, &c., 5 were killed and 1 injured whilst passing over the line at level crossings; 30 killed and 7 injured whilst trespassing on the line; 6 committed suicide; and 5 killed and 2 injured from miscellaneous causes.

27. The following table shows the total numbers of persons killed and injured from causes connected with the working of trains, as compared with those in the previous corresponding quarter :—

28. In addition to the above, 11 persons are reported to have been killed and 52 injured in yards, workshops, &c., and 68 passengers to have met death in carriages and at stations from causes unconnected with the working of trains.

RESOLUTION.—The attention of the Governments, Administrations and officers concerned should be invited to the remarks contained in paragraphs 20, 21, 23 and 25 of the above Observations, in regard to the classification of certain accidents and the omission, on the part of some of the Railways, to report, in connection with cattle accidents, the condition of the fencing on the line, and whether the engines were fitted with cow-catchers; also to the large number of accidents on the Rajputana State Railway, especially under “ Collisions between goods trains or parts of goods trains ” and “ The failure of machinery, springs, &c., of engines.”

ORDER.—Ordered, that this Resolution be forwarded to the Governments, Administrations, and officers noted in the margin for information and guidance, together with copies of the returns compiled.

Ordered also, that these papers be forwarded to the Government and Administrations marginally noted for information, and that copies be forwarded to the Secretary of State for the information of Her Majesty's Government.

Ordered further, that this Resolution, with the abstract returns, be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

Officiating Deputy Secretary.

Enclosure to P. W. D. letter No. 1300 R.T., dated 12th November 1881.

Appendix to the Returns on accident of Indian Railways for the second quarter of 1881.

No. 3576 G., dated 28th May 1881.

From—The Consulting Engineer to the Government of India for Guaranteed Railways, Lahore,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Public Works Department.

In continuation of my telegram of yesterday's date I beg to submit the following report on the accident which occurred on the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway to No. 16 up local on the morning of the 26th instant.

2. This train runs from Jullundur Cantonment to Lahore, and judging from the time (9 o'clock) the accident happened, was running to time. The through timing for this train is 16 miles an hour; it must therefore have been running at about 25 miles an hour when the accident occurred.

3. At about the 36th mile from Lahore and about 4 miles from Amritsar the rear axle of wagon No. 1520 broke close to the boss inside. The broken axle with wheel attached passed under C. G. wagon No. 934, 3rd class carriages Nos. 253 and 288, and finally fouled the front axle of 3rd class carriage 288, which it derailed.

4. The train ran some 100 yards before it was stopped by the driver, who put on the brake on feeling the check caused by the accident.

5. On pulling up, the state of matters was as follows:—

Covered goods wagon 934 was found perfectly capsized down the right bank; next to it in front was the underframe of 3rd class carriage No. 253 completely inverted with wheels in the air, the superstructure of this carriage being smashed to pieces. Next came 3rd class carriage No. 288 thrown off to the right of the line and slightly fouling it.

Then on the roadway, but derailed, were three 3rd class carriages—Nos. 382, 315 and 243.

6. All the killed and wounded were found under No. 253.

Killed 4—2 men, 1 woman, 1 child.

Wounded 19—14 men, 4 women, 1 child.

Of these it is feared two (1 man and 1 woman) will not recover.

7. The engine ran in to Amritsar for assistance. The Deputy Commissioner, the Deputy Superintendent of Police, the Civil Surgeon, and the Station Master at once went out and brought in the killed and wounded, the latter being housed and carefully attended to at the Civil Hospital, Amritsar.

8. On receipt of the news at Lahore, the Agent, the Deputy Consulting Engineer, the Locomotive Superintendent, Assistant Traffic Manager, Assistant to Chief Engineer, Mr. Keene, and Dr. Center went to Amritsar, and after a visit to the hospital went on, with the exception of Dr. Center, to the scene of the accident, where they remained until the line was cleared at 19-30.

9. An inspection of the flaw showed it to be not a new one, although it was impossible to detect its existence before it broke, fracture being just within the boss of the wheel. The axle at point of fracture was 4½-inch, and was under one of the old 6-ton carriage goods wagons, which at the time contained 110 maunds of goods.

10. A good many of these axles have failed, and I think it would be safer if no wagon of this type were allowed to run with passenger vehicles. About 1,000 wagons, however, are still running on these axles.

11. The mileage of these axles is not known, as no axle register was kept formerly. For the last 3 years, however, such a register has been maintained, with the intention, I believe, that after an axle has run a certain mileage it shall be condemned, even though it appear to be perfectly sound.

12. The damage done to the permanent-way was not much: 2 rails and some sleepers broken, and the timbers on 2 culverts of 10 feet and 14 feet span smashed, necessitating renewal before communication could be restored.

13. From the nature of the accident no one appears to have been in fault.

14. The Deputy Commissioner, Amritsar, has been asked whether he proposes to hold a magisterial enquiry, and to this a reply is awaited. The estimated damage is Rs. 15,000.

P. S.—Since writing the above, I have heard that both of the bad cases—one spine, one concussion of the brain—died yesterday, the 27th, making 6 fatal cases in all.

The rest are doing well.

OBSERVATIONS.—In the Resolution of the 31st May 1881, His Excellency the Governor General in Council authorised the introduction of a “word” rate of two annas a word for each word in excess of the minimum charge of one rupee for six words; and indicated the future policy of the Government of India with regard to the development of the telegraph service briefly as follows:—

The Government of India is willing and anxious to forward any scheme for developing and facilitating communication by telegraph so far as this can be done without risk to the interests of the general tax-paying community; but in the interests of that community it is essential that the telegraph service should be self-supporting.

The Government of India, as opportunity arises, will consider measures for the partial amalgamation of the telegraph and postal services so as to secure economy of working.

By the same Resolution the power to authorise the Telegraph Department to erect lines and open offices was with certain necessary restrictions extended to Local Governments and Administrations; and the Director General of Telegraphs was desired to suggest further measures which might encourage the more extended use of the telegraph service by the public, without endangering the financial position of the Department.

In accordance with these orders, the Director General of Telegraphs has submitted, for the approval of Government, a scheme for the revision of the tariff, which, while affording room for a very considerable further reduction in rates, will admit of a large expansion of the traffic without necessitating additional expenditure on increasing the number of wires.

The main feature of this scheme consists in the introduction of arrangements which will permit of the disposal of message traffic in order of urgency instead of, as at present, in order of presentation of messages.

Under the present system messages are, with very few exceptions, transmitted in order of receipt without any reference to their comparative urgency; in the case of commercial and “state” telegrams almost the whole of the messages sent are tendered for transmission during the business hours of the day; the result being a great pressure of work for a few hours, while for the rest of the day and night the wires are lying comparatively idle; and messages of great urgency are not infrequently delayed awaiting their turn for transmission while the wires are occupied with messages of less importance in which a delay of some hours would be of no consequence whatever.

On the other hand, messages are delivered on arrival at any hour of the day or night irrespective of their urgency; they are frequently delayed in transit owing to the cause referred to above; and the addressees are needlessly disturbed at night by the receipt of telegrams on which no action can be taken until the following day.

It is obvious that the telegraph officials cannot be the judges of the comparative urgency of messages tendered for transmission; the selection must be made by the senders themselves; and in order to admit of this being done the more readily, the Director General of Telegraphs proposes to introduce, in addition to the ordinary class of message, two other classes, "deferred" and "urgent."

Messages marked by senders as "deferred" will be received at any time during the working hours of the Telegraph Office, but will be transmitted at the convenience of the Telegraph Department on the understanding that they shall be delivered at their destination early on the following morning. Such messages would usually be transmitted during the night, when the wires are comparatively free, and would be delivered at their destination through the Post Office with the first postal delivery, except at stations where such a procedure would entail too much delay.

Messages marked by the senders as "urgent" will have priority over all ordinary messages, and will be delivered immediately on arrival by special messenger.

Messages marked by the senders as "ordinary" will be dealt with in order of receipt as under the present system, but will yield priority to all "urgent" messages.

His Excellency the Governor General in Council believes that the introduction of the "deferred" message system as sketched out above will prove a very great convenience to the public in improving the service for transmission of really urgent messages, and it will enable a large reduction in average cost of telegraphing to be made, owing to the facilities it would give for utilising the wires for a greater proportion of the twenty-four hours than is possible under the present system.

For "deferred" messages, which may be expected to comprise the great bulk of communications relating to such subjects as mercantile transactions effected, evening résumés of operations between corresponding firms, orders issued too late for execution the same day, modifications of orders already sent by post, and to most of the telegrams on domestic concerns, a very considerable reduction of cost will be possible; for ordinary messages the number of words to be allowed can be slightly increased with safety; but for "urgent" messages it will be necessary to somewhat increase the cost, as the privilege of priority and delivery by special messenger which is accorded to such messages will, while adding considerably to their value to the sender, entail additional cost on the State. It is also necessary to make the rates for "urgent" messages sufficiently high to restrict such messages to really important communications, as otherwise the value of the priority obtained would be largely reduced.

His Excellency the Governor General in Council is accordingly pleased to direct that the telegraph rules be revised on this basis, and has approved of the following tariff.

The address to be transmitted free in all cases as at present.

Local messages, that is, messages tendered for transmission in ordinary course within a radius of six miles from a central telegraph office.

Four annas for each group of eight words or less.

Deferred messages, that is, messages tendered for transmission at the convenience of the Telegraph Department, but to be delivered at destination early on the following morning

Minimum charge eight annas for eight words or less, with one anna for each additional word in excess of eight.

Ordinary messages, that is, messages tendered for transmission and delivery in ordinary course.

Minimum charge one rupee for eight words or less, with two annas for each additional word in excess of eight.

Urgent messages, that is, messages tendered for immediate transmission, and delivery with priority over all "ordinary" messages.

Minimum charge two rupees for eight words or less, with four annas for each additional word in excess of eight.

Press messages to be subject to the same rates as above, but four times the number of words are allowed for each rate.

The revised rules and tariff published with this Resolution will come into force on the 1st January 1882.

His Excellency the Governor General in Council is further pleased to direct that, with a view to reduce expenditure and to prevent the State business from unduly interfering with private message traffic, all State telegraph messages shall be sent as "deferred" unless specially marked as "urgent" by the sender, and that no State message shall be despatched as an "ordinary" message.

RULES AND RATES FOR INLAND TELEGRAMS.

Rules and Tariff, relating to the transmission of Telegraph Messages in India, sanctioned by the Governor General of India in Council, with effect from the 1st January 1882.

GENERAL.

Rule 1.—The accuracy of messages is not guaranteed, and the Sender and Receiver must accept all risks arising from non-delivery, errors, or delays.

Rule 2.—Telegraph stations are divided into three classes, viz. :—

Class of office.	General working hours (local time).	Special working hours (local time) on Sunday, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, and the Queen's Birthday.
I	Day and night	Day and night.
II	7 A.M. to 9 P.M.	7 to 9 A.M., and 4 to 9 P.M.
III	10 A.M. to 5 P.M.,	7 to 9 A.M., and 4 to 6 P.M.

Rule 3.—In cases of life and death, or of extraordinary emergency, a message, counter-signed by the chief civil or military authority at a station, or by any of the authorities empowered to "clear the line" (see Rule 40), can be sent from any office at any time.

Exception in favour of emergent telegrams signed by competent authority.

Messages should be legibly written.

Rule 4.—Senders of messages are advised to write their messages in an unmistakable and distinct hand.

ACCEPTANCE OF MESSAGES FOR TRANSMISSION.

Rule 5.—No message or messages of more than five hundred words can be sent at any one time by any private individual or firm, and no second message by the same individual or firm till after the lapse of three hours, unless the lines be free and not required by any one else.

Limit to length of messages.

Rule 6.—All messages must be legibly written in the Roman character or in Arabic figures: subject to the above limitation, messages may be sent in the vernacular, or any foreign language, or in cipher, if written in Arabic numerals.

At stations other than the Presidency towns, every assistance possible is afforded to natives in the translation of messages into English; and vice versa.

Rule 7.—The body of the message must be preceded by the address (as defined in Rule 18). The true signature and address of the Sender must always be written at the foot of the message.

The Sender of a private message can always be called upon to prove that the signature attached to it is genuine.

Rule 8.—The address must contain all the information necessary to ensure the delivery of the message at its destination, and the Sender in all cases supports the consequences of insufficiency of address. After the message is once despatched, it can neither be cancelled, completed, nor rectified, except by the despatch of a fresh paid message.

Rule 9.—Every interlineation, reference, erasure, or alteration of words, must be authenticated by the Sender of the message, or by his representative.

Rule 10.—Messages from places where there is no Telegraph station should be addressed to the nearest Government Telegraph Office by post registered, together with telegraph or postage stamps sufficient for their payment. A receipt for the amount will be posted free to the Sender.

In the case of a private message sent by post to a Telegraph station with an insufficient number of stamps, the message and stamps will be returned "Service Bearing" to the Sender, who should in all cases give his full address.

Rule 11.—Messages can be addressed to places where there are no Telegraph stations. In such cases, the Sender must state (free) from what Telegraph Office delivery is to be effected.

Example.—"To Sherghotty, Post Burhee."

No charge will be made for ordinary Inland postage, which is defrayed by the Telegraph Administration. But if the Sender of a message that has to be delivered by Inland post wishes it to be registered, he must prepay the postal registration fee of two annas, and intimate that this has been done by adding (free) the words "Post registered," instead of "Post," before the name of the Telegraph station at which the message is to be posted.

Postal registration is compulsory in the case of messages which have to be posted in India to places beyond Indian limits, and in such cases both the postage and registration fees* must be prepaid by the Sender.†

Rule 12.—With the following exception, all charges for messages must be prepaid in cash or in stamps:—

Messages are sent "bearing" from seaports when received for despatch by mail steamers or other vessels, but no such message, whether "prepaid" or "bearing," will be received for transmission until the name of the vessel has been made known. Bearing messages will not be delivered to the addresses until after payment has been obtained.

Rule 13.—All charges on telegrams are prepaid in Telegraph stamps, which are procurable at every treasury and every Government Telegraph station.

Telegraph stamps are double-headed, the object being that the upper half shall be returned on the receipt (whereby the Sender receives a guarantee that his message has not been suppressed for the sake of the stamps), and the lower half shall be affixed to the message as voucher to Government that it has been prepaid.

Proper forms on which to write messages are available gratis at all Telegraph stations, and Senders are requested to use these forms only.

The Senders of messages should be careful to affix their stamps on the spaces left blank for the purpose on the message forms, the upper half on the receipt, the lower half on the message, and to see that the stamps are defaced with the office stamp which bears the name of the station and the date.

Telegraph stamps cut in two, before being sent into a Telegraph Office, or which are in any way defaced, discolored, or damaged, cannot be accepted.

Rule 14.—State messages from all public functionaries must be paid for in cash or in stamps prior to despatch; the rates are the same for State messages as those charged to private individuals. This rule will be relaxed in case of great emergency: whenever an urgent State message is tendered for despatch under this permission, the Sender must take the necessary steps to ascertain the charges on it, and pay them into the Telegraph Office within 24 hours.

* Eight annas.

† The registration fee (2 annas) is also payable in the case of messages to which replies are prepaid, and which are addressed to a station where there is no Telegraph Office, or to stations on the Eastern Bengal, Madras, and South Indian Railways (vide note to Rule 37).

State messages take their turn for despatch with private urgent or deferred messages.

order in which they were tendered.

Rule 15.—State messages not marked “urgent” will be treated as “deferred” (see Rule 19); they take their turn for despatch with “urgent” and “deferred” private messages according to the order in which they were tendered.

Rule 16.—No unpaid messages, except those specified in the Departmental Regulations, shall on any account be transmitted. A violation of this rule will subject the Signaller or Telegraph Master in charge of the station from which a message is improperly despatched to dismissal from the public service.

Rule 17.—Telegraph Masters are required to refuse to transmit a message which may be of a decidedly objectionable or alarming character. Should the character of a message be open to doubt, the matter shall be referred to a Secretary to Government, if the message be tendered at the seat of Government, or the chief civil or military officer, if at a provincial station.

CHARGES.

Rule 18.—No charge is made for the transmission of the address.

The “address” includes names of stations from and to which the message is to be despatched, the bonâ fide names or designations* of the Sender and Addressee, and the latter’s address. No other words can be transmitted unless paid for as part of the body of the message, and the officers of the Telegraph Department are authorised to omit from the address any words which are not essential to the correct delivery of the message.

If the Sender of a message desires his own address to be telegraphed, it must be included in the body of the message, and paid for.

Rule 19.—The following are the rates of charge for a message :—

Charge for a message.

No charge is made for the transmission of the address.

Messages despatched to and from Railway stations without extra charge.

Rule 20.—A message can be sent from any station of the Government Telegraph Department to any Railway Telegraph station, or vice versa, without additional charge.

APPLICATION OF CHARGES.

Rule 21.—The maximum length of a word is fixed at six syllables; the excess is counted as a word.

Rule 22.—Messages must not contain any unusual combinations, abbreviations, or constructions. Any word in common use which, although requiring two words to express it, is generally recognised as one word, is charged as one word when so written; when the two parts are not joined by a hyphen or apostrophe, and when less than six syllables. “Halfpenny,” “Two pence,” “Threepence,” &c., up to “Elevenpence,” when written as a single word, count as one word only. “F. O. B.” “C. F. I.” “A. M.” and “P. M.” when written as separate letters, are each counted as three words, but when written “Fob,” “Cfi,” “Am,” “Pm,” as one word.

Words joined by a hyphen.

Rule 23.—Words joined by a hyphen are counted as so many separate words.

Rule 24.—Words separated by an apostrophe are counted as so many separate words. (This rule does not apply to nouns in the possessive case, as “General’s,” “Charles’s,” “Brother’s.”)

Rule 25.—Proper names of towns and persons, names of places, streets, ships, titles, Christian names, prefixes, and qualifications, are counted for the number of words employed by the Sender to express them.

* Name and designation cannot both be admitted, unless it would otherwise be obviously impossible for the addressee to identify the sender.

A message can only be sent in the name of one individual or firm.

Every separate character, including an underline, charged as a word.

Rule 26.—Every isolated character, whether letter or figure, is counted as a word. The same applies to an underline.

Rule 27.—Signs of punctuation, hyphens, apostrophes, inverted commas, parentheses, and fresh paragraphs, are not counted or signalled, but decimal points, commas, bars of division, &c., used with figures are each counted as a figure and signalled.

Rule 28.—When numbers are expressed in figures, all the characters, figures, letters, or signs in each group, are added together, the total divided by three and the quotient, plus one for the remainder, if there be any, gives the number of words the group represents. Signs used to separate groups and letters added to figures to form ordinal numbers are counted each as a figure or letter, groups of letters not forming words (letter cipher) cannot be transmitted.

Rule 29.—All that the Sender writes in his message to be transmitted to be included in the cost, but the address of a message, as defined in Rule 18, will be transmitted without charge.

The day, hour, and minute (Madras time) of receipt of a message into a Telegraph Office for despatch, are in every instance added by the Department and telegraphed free of charge. Senders may, however, date their messages if they think fit, but the Sender's date, if given, will be charged for.

Rule 30.—A message addressed to several persons, or to the same person in localities where delivery is to be effected by different offices, is charged for as so many separate messages.

Rule 31.—A message addressed to several persons in one locality, or to the same person at several places of residence in one locality, with or without transmission by post, is charged for as a single message, but a copying fee of four annas, independently of postage, if any, is charged for each destination after the first.

REPEITION OF MESSAGES.

Rule 32.—The Sender of any message can require that it be repeated. In this case the different stations employed in its transmission collate it as it passes, repeating it to each other integrally.

Rule 33.—The charge for repeating is equal to half the charge for the message. A repeated message is indicated by the word "collated," which, to ensure the greatest accuracy, is telegraphed (free) both in the official instructions, and as the first word of the text of the message.

ADVICE OF DELIVERY.

Rule 34.—Any Sender can require that a notice of the time at which his message is delivered be transmitted to him by telegraph. The advice of delivery may be addressed to him at any station he may name.

Rule 35.—If the message cannot be delivered, the return-telegram indicates the circumstances which prevented delivery, and, if possible, gives the information necessary to enable the Sender to cause his message to reach its destination.

Priority of return message. • The return-message has priority in transmission over ordinary messages.

Charge for advice of delivery. Rule 36.—The charge for an advice of delivery or non-delivery is two rupees.

PREPAYMENT OF REPLY.

Rule 37.—The sender of a message can prepay a reply, depositing for this purpose a sum not exceeding ten times the cost of his original telegram.* He must add to his message the words "Reply prepaid" or "Answer paid." These must form the concluding words of the message, but will not be charged for. On depositing the corresponding sum, the Sender can add (free) to the words "Reply paid" or "Answer paid" the amount to which he wishes the reply to be limited. When the words "Reply paid" alone are given, without any specified amount, it will be understood that the minimum charge only for an 'ordinary' message has been prepaid. The terminal station pays to the Receiver, in Telegraph stamps, the amount prepaid, leaving it to him to send his answer how, and when, and to what address he pleases, or not to send one at all. The reply, if sent, is considered in every respect as a fresh message.

Should it be impossible to effect delivery of a "Reply-paid" message, the terminal station sends a Service telegram to that effect to the Sender, and the amount deposited will be refunded on application being made to the Telegraph Check Office, Calcutta. The words "Reply paid" or "Answer paid" entitle the Addressee to receive the equivalent of the minimum charge only. It should be distinctly understood that it is not compulsory on the Addressee to send a reply. The duty of the Telegraph Department consists simply in paying to him, in Telegraph stamps, or in money, the amount prepaid, leaving him at liberty to do what he pleases with it.*

* A message to which a reply is prepaid must not be addressed to more than one person.

DELIVERY.

Rule 38.—‘Local’ messages will be delivered free of charge within one mile, and other messages within five miles, of a Telegraph station. Beyond this distance messages will be sent by post or by such other means as the Sender may arrange and pay for. Should the Addressee of a message have left the station to which it is addressed, it will, if returned unopened with definite instructions as to the new address, be re-transmitted without extra charge.

If the Sender requests it, messages will be delivered open. In this case the words Deliver open must be included free in the body of the message.

The Telegraph Department may deliver “Deferred” messages through the Post Office of the place of destination.

Rule 39.—Any firm or individual expecting to receive inland or foreign messages can register an abbreviated address at the Government Telegraph Office from which such messages have to be delivered.

No abbreviated address can be accepted which has already been registered locally by another firm or individual.

The fee for registration of each abbreviated address is Rs. 10 per annum, payable in advance on the 1st January in each year, or Rs. 50 for all time, with a fine of Rs. 5 for every change of address. Abbreviated addresses are considered confidential.

The Department accepts no responsibility in respect of the delivery of any telegram having an abbreviated address, if such address has not been registered.

CLEARING MESSAGES.

Rule 40.—On emergent occasions of great importance, the public functionaries named below have the power to “clear the line,” that is, to suspend the receipt and despatch of all messages until the one for which the line is “cleared” is passed on—

- (1) The Governor General of India.
- (2) The Governors of Madras and Bombay.
- (3) Commanders-in-Chief, India, Madras, and Bombay.
- (4) Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal, North-Western Provinces, and the Punjab.
- (5) Secretaries to the Government of India.
- (6) Secretaries to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, North-Western Provinces, and Punjab.

- (9) Commissioners of Sind and Peshawar.
- (10) The Residents at Hyderabad (Deccan) and Mysore.
- (11) Director-General of Telegraphs in India.
- (12) The Maharajah of Patiala, from the Patiala Office only.

The messages so sent are, however, to be paid for, in cash or in stamps, as urgent State messages.

REFUNDS.

Rule 41.—No refund will be made under any circumstance for a ‘local’ or ‘deferred’ message, and no refund will be made for an ‘ordinary’ or ‘urgent’ message delivered wholly or partially in an intelligible state, unless the extra charge for repetition has been paid by the Sender (see Rule 33).

Rule 42.—If an ‘ordinary’ or ‘urgent’ message be not delivered, or be subjected to serious delay through the fault of the Telegraph Department, the whole charge made for it will be returned to the Sender.

Rule 43.—Applications for refunds, as also all complaints respecting messages, should be addressed to the TELEGRAPH CHIEF OFFICE, CALCUTTA. Such claims for refund should be made, under penalty of rejection, within two months from the date of the message; but this period is extended to six months in the case of a repeated message, or of a message for which a Reply or an Advice of Delivery has been prepaid. (When an overcharge has been made on an inland message through the neglect of the Telegraph employes, and when there exists no doubt whatever as to the justice of the claim, the amount overcharged will be repaid at once by the Telegraph Master).

CANCELLATION OF MESSAGES.

Rule 44.—If the Sender of an inland message wishes to cancel it before transmission has commenced, he can do so, but the charges upon it will not be returned when once the stamps are obliterated. If the message is in course of transmission, or has already been despatched, it can only be cancelled by a paid message from the Sender to the Telegraph Master of the terminal station. If, in addition, the Sender wishes to be informed by telegraph in what manner his request has been acted upon, he must deposit the cost of the return telegram.

* In the case of a message to which a reply is prepaid addressed to a station where there is no Telegraph Office, the amount is forwarded to destination from the nearest Telegraph Office, not in Telegraph stamps but by currency notes and postage stamps in an insured cover; the Sender must accordingly prepay the postal insurance fees. As the Eastern Bengal, Madras and South Indian Railway Companies declare their inability to make over reply deposits to the Addressees, messages addressed to stations on those Railways to which replies are not transferred to the Railway Telegraph, but posted with currency notes and postage stamps enclosed from the nearest Government Telegraph Station direct to the Addressee, in the case of such message as also the postal insurance fees are payable by the Sender.

OBLIGATION OF SECRECY.

Rule 45.—To secure secrecy as much as possible, all persons (including officers of the Department) not actually on duty are strictly prohibited from entering the Signal-room. Breach of this regulation renders an offender liable to a fine of Rs. 500 under Act I of 1876.

Rule 46.—Violation of secrecy on the part of any person in the Department will be punished by dismissal from office, forfeiture of arrears of pay, and a declaration in the official Gazette of the incapacity of the delinquent to serve the Government in any capacity. He will also be liable to the further punishment of fine, or to imprisonment (with or without labor) not exceeding three years, or to both.

It is a violation of secrecy to mention the fact that a message has been received or despatched by any particular person or firm.

COPIES OF MESSAGES.

Rule 47.—The Sender and Receiver have a right to be furnished with certified true copies of any 'ordinary' or 'urgent' message sent or received by them; a fixed charge of four annas is made for every copy furnished. As no Telegraph Office keeps copies of messages longer than three days, applications for copies required after that time has elapsed should be made to the TELEGRAPH CHECK OFFICE, CALCUTTA.

Certified copies of 'ordinary' or 'urgent' messages obtainable by Sender and Receiver. Applications for copies must be made within six months of the date of the message. At the expiration of that period all message drafts are destroyed.

One anna must be enclosed for postage of the reply; failing which, it will be sent "bearing."

PRESS MESSAGES.

Rule 48.—Under certain conditions, to be ascertained on application to the Director-General of Telegraphs (Traffic Branch), bonâ fide Press messages, i. e., messages in the ordinary English language addressed to, and intended for publication in, a newspaper, can be despatched at reduced rates.

GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH DEPARTMENT.

Rules for "Press" messages in India, sanctioned by the Governor General of India in Council, with effect from the 1st January 1882.

1. A "Press" message is defined to be a message written in ordinary English language, addressed only to a newspaper or newspapers, and intended for publication in its entirety in such newspaper or newspapers. The message must be one of manifestly public interest and must contain no commercial news of any kind.

2. All rules and regulations that apply to ordinary messages apply also to Press messages except as regards the charges.

3. In a Press message four times as many words are allowed for the same money as in a private message: the charges will be—

Urgent.—Two Rupees for the first 32 words and four annas for every additional 4 words.

Ordinary.—One Rupee for the first 32 words and two annas for every additional four words.

Deferred.—Eight annas for the first 32 words and one anna for every additional four words.

4. In order to prevent any correspondent monopolising the wires to the detriment of other newspapers, the maximum limit of length is 500 words. Press messages can only be accepted for transmission during the working hours of the Telegraph Office at the station of origin.

5. Press messages can only be addressed to newspapers, the names of which have been registered in the Office of the Director-General of Telegraphs, in whom is vested the power of refusing the concession in any particular case on sufficient grounds, or of withdrawing it after it has been granted, should he have reason to believe that the conditions are in any way infringed.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

REVENUE AND AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS
FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 22nd NOVEMBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—More rain has fallen in the Madras Presidency and has much benefited the standing crops, but some localities are in need of a further supply. In the Bombay Presidency prospects continue much the same as in the previous week, rain being still urgently required in Ahmednagar and Násik.

The reports from Mysore, Coorg, the Berars, Hyderabad, Central India, and Rajputana continue favourable. In Bengal the prospects of the rice crop are generally satisfactory, but in parts of Orissa the outturn in unirrigated lands has been damaged through want of rain; rain is also required for rabi sowings in some districts. Reaping of sali paddy has commenced in Assam, and both in that province and in Burma the standing crops continue to thrive.

There has been no rain in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, though it is urgently needed in parts and would everywhere be beneficial to the young crops. Fever is abating, but cholera has made its appearance in two districts of Oudh. The want of rain for the rabi is also making itself felt in the Punjab; at present, however, the prospects in that province are generally favourable.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. IRRIGATION BRANCH.

TERMS ON WHICH LEASES OF WATER-POWER WOULD BE GRANTED ON THE BARI DOAB CANAL.

Proceedings of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, Punjab,—No. 3765 I., dated 5th October 1881.

Read—

Punjab Government, Home Department, letter No. 204, dated 17th February 1881.

Punjab Government Notifications—

No. 4288 I., dated 17th October 1877.

No. 1065 I., dated 9th March 1878.

OBSERVATIONS.—The above Notifications contained the terms on which leases of water-power would be granted on the Bari Doab Canal, with a list showing the localities at which it was available, and the effective horse-power at each site.

2. Up to the present time two contracts only have been entered into for the use of water-power by large companies; but Sir Robert Egerton is of opinion that when the advantages offered by the Punjab canals are better known, they will be sure to attract the attention of persons interested in promoting manufacturing industries.

Raw material in the shape of cotton, wool, hides, hemp, &c., are to be found in abundance in the Punjab; there is also a population sufficient to supply the labour required for factory operations; but the scarcity and dearness of fuel is such that it is almost impossible to make a manufactory remunerative in any case where steam-power is necessary for its working. Wood costs about Rs. 30 per 100 maunds, coal about Rs. 1-8-0 per maund at Amritsar, and 14 annas a maund at Delhi, so that the cost of working a 100 H. P. steam engine would be about Rs. 150 per diem, while a water-wheel of similar power would cost only about Rs. 5 per diem.

3. For this reason the Lieutenant-Governor again notifies the localities where this vast water-power is available, and the conditions under which it will be leased.

On the Bári Doáb Canal there are 26 sites at which water-power in excess of 200 H. P. is available. A metalled road passes at a short distance from them, and a railway is about to be constructed from Amritsar to Patháńkot, which will pass within a few miles of all of these sites.

On the Western Jumna Canal there are four sites at which there is water-power in excess of 200 H. P. and eight other sites where from 100 to 200 H. P. is available.

The Grand Trunk Road is at no great distance from any of these sites.

4. The standard for the calculation of one horse-power is assumed at 15 cubic feet per second falling through one foot, as 8·8 cubic feet per second falling through one foot constitutes a theoretical horse-power; there is thus ample margin allowed for the effective working of the machines.

5. The Government are prepared to grant the use of the water for working machinery for periods not exceeding 20 years on the terms shown below :—

Approximate rates per H. P. per annum.

For the 1st 3 years	Nil.
Ditto 2nd 5	„	Rs. 60
Ditto 3rd 6	„	„ 100
Ditto 4th 6	„	„ 150

The above rates are specified here to give a general idea of the kind of engagement into which the Government is prepared to enter. The exact terms will be the subject of special agreement in each case. A special rate will be fixed for flour-mills based upon the rates now paid by native millers at various sites upon the canal.

SITES AT WHICH WATER-POWER IS AVAILABLE.

Bári Doáb Canal.

6. In the first 15 miles from the head of this canal there are 19 falls varying from 4·5 to 9·5 feet in height, where the minimum supply of water is 1,500 cubic feet per second.

They are so close together that there would be little difficulty in joining two or even more of them by a channel for the supply of the mill, if it were proposed to use machinery requiring a greater fall than is available at any one site. This has already been done for the “Punjab Sugar Works Company, Limited,” which has been established at Sujáńpur between the 5th and 6th falls.

There is a flour-mill at the 7th fall of 4 pair of stones worked by native machinery.

7. The metalled road from Patháńkot to Amritsar crosses the canal at the 7th mile over the crest of the 14th fall, and the projected railway will cross near the same site.

There is a good unmetalled road along the canal banks.

8. The 20th, 21st and 22nd falls are about 4 miles from the metalled road and the town of Dínanagar. There is a good unmetalled road along the canal-banks to that town. The 23rd fall is about 2½ miles from the station of Gur-dáspur, with which it is connected by an unmetalled district road.

9. The 24th fall is situated on the metalled road between Patháńkot and Amritsar, and the proposed railway will cross the canal at a short distance from it. There is a flour-mill of 4 pair of stones at this fall; the flour from this mill is taken into Batála (distant about 15 miles) and into Amritsar.

The “Egerton Woollen Mills Company, Limited,” have applied for 75 H. P., and are building at this site.

The 25th fall is about 6 miles from Batála, and the road is unmetalled.

10. The falls from the 26th to the 41st are small, as also is the supply of water. The communications with the towns also are not so good as is the case with the falls on the main line. Some of them have already been utilized for flour-mills with native machinery. The 42nd and 43rd falls are about five miles from Batála, and the 44th about 10 miles from that town, the communication being by unmetalled road. There are flour-mills with native machinery at the 42nd fall, from which the flour is taken into Amritsar.

11. The whole of the above are situated in the district of Gurdáspur the population of which is about 488 to the square mile; the number of agriculturists being 371,581 and non-agriculturists 283,781.

12. The principal crops grown in this district are—

Rice, about	76,000 acres.
Wheat, about	280,000 „
Other food grains, about	155,000 „
Pulses, about	115,000 „
Drugs and spices, about	15,000 „
Oil-seeds, about	22,000 „
Fibres, about	26,000 „
Sugarcane, about	43,000 „

The rates of labour are as follows:—

Skilled	4 annas to 8 annas per diem.
Unskilled	2 annas to 3 annas per diem.

Western Jumna Canal.

13. The first fall available on this canal is at the crossing of the Grand Trunk Road from Umballa to Delhi, about two miles from Karnál.

The second is about one mile, the third two miles, and the fourth five miles from the metalled road, the communication being by the unmetalled road along the canal-bank.

At each of these sites there is more than 500 H. P. available.

14. The other nine falls have about 100 H. P. available at each site. Nos. 10 and 11 are about four miles from the metalled road; Nos. 5, 6 and 8 about 10 miles; the others are from 15 to 20 miles from the metalled road. Only the first five are likely to be available immediately. The others will not be completed for another year or two.

15. There is a fall at the tail of the canal at Delhi at present occupied by flour-mills worked by native machinery, the rent of which for the current year is Rs. 17,000.

16. The falls mentioned above are situated in the Karnál and Delhi Districts, of which the population is 259 and 490 per square mile, respectively. The numbers of agriculturists and non-agriculturists being as follows:—

	Delhi.	Karnál.
Agriculturists	277,491	305,974
Non-agriculturists	344,184	302,968

17. The principal crops grown in these districts are—

	Delhi.	Karnál.
Rice	12,000 acres	96,000 acres.
Wheat	116,000 „	101,000 „
Other food grains	256,000 „	286,000 „
Pulses	71,000 „	97,000 „
Drugs	7,500 „	1,300 „
Oil-seeds	9,000 „	5,000 „
Fibres	17,000 „	22,000 „
Dyes	700 „	200 „
Sugarcane	32,000 „	16,000 „

The rates of labour per day are as follows:—

	Delhi.	Karnál.
Skilled	5 to 6 annas.	4 to 8 annas.
Unskilled	2 to 3 „	1½ to 3 „

18. Sketch maps showing the position of the falls, the roads, rail-roads and principal towns are annexed.

Particulars regarding the conditions on which mill heads and tails may be built and the water-power used, and any further information required, will be supplied to applicants by the Superintending Engineer, Bári Doáb Circle, at Amritsar and the Superintending Engineer, Western Jumna Canal, at Delhi.

RESOLVED, that the above Observations be published in the Supplement to the Punjab Gazette for general information.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

H. W. GULLIVER, MAJOR-GENERAL, R.E.,

Joint-Secretary to Government, Punjab, P. W. D.,

Irrigation Branch.

Detail of conditions for the use of enquirers as to grant of water-power from the canals.

1. Approved security for the due performance of his contract must be lodged with Government by each applicant before he can be allowed to commence operations.

2. All water drawn from the canal for working machinery must be returned to it again in the same condition; no portion of it must be applied to any other purpose.

3. If water is required for any manufacturing operation, the payment for it will be in addition to the amount charged for motive power, and will be the subject of a separate agreement.

4. The Government will in all cases construct the head and tail works and the lead and escape channels within the canal boundaries, and will maintain them. The channels beyond the canal boundaries will be constructed and maintained by the mill owner. It will be a matter of arrangement in each case how much the applicant shall pay to the Government yearly for the use of the works constructed and maintained by it. The sum will be approximately $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on the original cost of the works to cover the interest of the capital expended and the cost of maintenance and repair.

5. With the above exception, Government cannot undertake any building or erection of any machinery in connection with proposed factories or mills.

6. The Government will not be liable for compensation in respect of loss from failure or stoppage of water in a canal, arising from any cause beyond the control of Government, or which may be necessary for any repairs, alterations or additions to the canal; but the great agricultural interests involved are a sufficient guarantee that closures for repairs or alterations will be as few and as short as is compatible with the due maintenance and safety of the canal, and allowance will be made in the rates fixed for such closures as are probable.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,
HOME DEPARTMENT.
REGISTRATION OF TRADE-MARKS.

The following is published for general information :—

Nos. 129 to 134, dated Fort William, the 3rd February 1881.

From—D. FITZPATRICK, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department,

To—The Secretaries to the Bengal, Madras, Bombay, and Rangoon Chambers of Commerce, and Secretaries, Calcutta Trades Association, and Bombay Millowner's Society.

THE members of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks have now considered the opinions received on their report of the 28th February 1880, and have directed me to send, for the information of your ^{Chamber} ^{Association} ^{Society} the following statement of the present position of the question as to the best mode of fitting-in the Indian system of registration with that established in England, and to request that any remarks or suggestions the ^{Chamber} ^{Association} ^{Society} may desire to make may be forwarded so as to reach me not later than the 1st March.

2. Taking in their order the various propositions which have been put forward for the solution of that question, and beginning with the proposition to restrict the Indian registration to trade-marks used in connection with Indian products, the Committee find that the opinions received from authorities, both in this country and in England, go to support them in their rejection of any scheme so limited.

3. The same may be said, though the difference of opinion is here greater, of the proposal that trade-marks registered in England should be placed upon the register here, and allowed all the benefits of registration as a matter of course, and without any previous notice or inquiry; indeed, as one of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court points out, there is an insuperable obstacle to the adoption of any such proposal in the circumstance that one man may be the true owner of a trade-mark in England and another in India.

4. As regards the solution of the question proposed by the Committee themselves, they regret to find that it too has failed to commend itself to most of the authorities consulted. It has been objected to, not only on account of the mechanical difficulties it would involve and the expense it would occasion, but also on the ground that the distinctive inscription or device to be added to the mark might sometimes, in the case of a well-known Indian mark, so completely destroy the identity of the mark as to deprive it of most of its value to the owner, and might, on the other hand, in some cases where an Indian manufacturer adopted a well-known English mark with the device or inscription superadded, so little affect the appearance of the mark, that the injury done to the English owner would be scarcely less than if his mark were used without the addition.

5. The Committee have no wish to press their suggestion in the face of such objections, and, accordingly, if they were to carry out the views expressed in the 14th paragraph of their report, the only course left would be to restore the Bill to its original shape and require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India, the only concessions made in regard to them being that suggested in the report, and, perhaps, a reduction of the fees.

This is the course recommended by several of the authorities consulted, and among others by the Commissioners of Patents, who must be regarded as the highest authority on this question, and it would apparently be accepted by the ^{Bombay} ^{your} Chamber of Commerce*; but the registration here of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appears to the Committee so formidable an undertaking that they are reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there is a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question.

* [In writing to Bombay say "your Chamber."]

6. Such a solution, it need hardly be said, would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England. The Committee abstained from suggesting this solution in their report, partly because it involved a complete departure from the original scheme of the Bill, and partly because they did not venture to hope that it would find favour with Indian manufacturers and traders. They observe, however, from the papers now before them, that this course is, as a matter of fact, recommended by the Calcutta and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, and also by the Liverpool Incorporated Chamber, and they accordingly deem it worthy of the most careful consideration.

7. In the event of its being adopted, the legislation required here would be of the simplest description. As all the work of registration, including the settlement of disputes as to the right to register and claims for the rectification of the register, would be performed in England, all the provisions relating to these subjects would be removed from the Bill, and the Act to be passed here would simply provide—

1st,—that no proceedings should be instituted here for the protection of a trade-mark unless such mark was registered in England as belonging to the plaintiff, or registration was refused in the particular class of cases referred to by 39 & 40 Vict., cap. 33 :

2ndly,—that in all Courts in British India, registration in England should be from the first prima facie proof, and after five years conclusive proof, of the right to a trade-mark.

8. There is only one point as to which a difficulty might conceivably arise, and it is this:—As your ^{Chamber Association Society} is aware, one of the objects at which the English Acts of 1875-76 aim is to prevent the adoption in future of certain descriptions of trade-marks which, though recognized by the common law, were found to give rise to difficulties and disputes—marks, e. g., consisting of fancy names, such as “pectorine” and “lactopeptine.” In regard to such marks the English Act of 1875 provides that they may be registered if they were used as trade-marks before the passing of the Act, i.e., before the 13th August 1875, and not otherwise. Now, the Committee, looking to the wording of the Act and the forms prescribed under it, see no reason to suppose that use in India before the 13th August 1875, would not be sufficient to entitle such a mark to registration under the Act; but it is quite clear that such a mark used for the first time after the 13th August 1875, would be excluded, and accordingly any persons who may have adopted such marks in India subsequent to that date might, if the Bill was framed on the lines now suggested, have ground for complaint.

9. I am accordingly to inquire whether your ^{Chamber Association Society} consider it probable that there are in use in this country any number of trade-marks worth speaking of adopted since the date in question, and not containing any of the “essential particulars” mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 5 of the Bill No. II, but of such a nature as to be entitled to protection here under the existing law, and, if so, whether they can suggest any mode of saving the rights of the owners of such marks. If the number of such marks is insignificant, it would probably be better that their owners should be driven to alter them than that they should be allowed to stand in the way of settling this difficult question, in a manner acceptable to the bulk of the mercantile community.

Dated 17th February 1881.

From—The Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce direct me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 129 of the 3rd instant, relative to the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks.

The Committee have noted the objections that have been raised in England and in this country to the various propositions that have been submitted for the solution of the question under reconsideration; and they observe with satisfaction that the Select Committee of the Legislative Council do not now, for the reasons assigned, press the adoption of the course which they recommended, and which would have necessitated the registration in India of all English trade-marks.

The Committee of the Chamber are confident that the simplest and most efficacious solution of the question would result from the registration in England of trade-marks of Indian manufacturers and traders, which would thus be placed on the same footing as English trade-marks, and legislative provision would obviously be of the simplest character, as illustrated in the 7th paragraph of your letter.

With reference to the point of difficulty which might arise in connection with the use and registration of marks fancifully designated, the Committee are under the impression that the number of such marks, if indeed they exist at all, must be altogether insignificant; but they are not in a position to answer your inquiry on this point with sufficient accuracy, and would suggest a reference to the Registrar of Calcutta, who must, of course, be in possession of the fullest particulars.

Dated 3rd March 1881.

From—The Secretary, Calcutta Trades Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 133, dated 3rd February, submitting, for the opinion of the Trades' Association, certain propositions relative to the amended Bill for the registration of trade-marks.

2. The Committee of the Association, after carefully considering the subject, have instructed me to state that they are disposed to support the course recommended by the Commissioner of Patents and other authorities, namely, that the Bill be restored to its original shape, and that all English trade-marks be registered afresh in India after due notice, the concessions suggested in the Select Committee's report of 28th February, and in paragraph 5 of your letter, being extended to the owners of such trade-marks.

3. The alternative course which has been suggested would never be acceptable to Indian manufacturers, who should not, the Committee submit, be required to register their trade-marks out of India. In a question of this nature, the committee consider that this country should be on the same footing as other countries, and that facilities for the registration of trade-marks should be provided here, especially as large quantities of Indian produce are now shipped direct to continental ports.

4. In regard to paragraph 8 of your letter, the Committee believe that the number of marks in use in India consisting of fancy names is not large, and they think, therefore, that no marks of this character, adopted after the 13th August 1875, should be permitted to interfere with the progress of the Bill.

Dated 5th March 1881.

Telegram from the Chamber of Commerce, Madras,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

Although Chamber have not experienced want (of) trade-marks legislation, they have no wish (to) oppose proposals (of) Bengal (and) Bombay Chambers.

Dated 9th March 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Rangoon.

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

I have the honour, by direction of the Committee of this Chamber, to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 132, dated 3rd February, relating to the present position of the question of registering trade-marks, and in reply I am desired to state that the Chamber approves of the proposal that Indian manufacturers should register their marks in England, as being a simpler and less cumbrous arrangement than requiring all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India.

With reference to paragraph 9 of your letter, I am desired to say that, probably, very few marks such as the English Acts of 1875-76 were intended to exclude have been adopted in this country since August 1875, and the Chamber agrees with you in thinking that it is better to insist upon the alteration of any that do exist rather than let them stand in the way of a settlement of the question at issue.

Dated 23rd April 1881.

From—The Secretary, Bombay Millowners' Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

Your letter dated 3rd February last, regarding the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks, has been considered by the Committee of the Millowners' Association.

When the Millowners' Association, on 3rd April 1877, submitted to the Government of Bombay the importance of a measure corresponding with the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vic., Cap. 91, and the Trade-marks Registration Amendment Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vic., Cap. 33, being introduced into India, they did so on the ground of the increase of Indian manufactures, and especially of the cotton manufactures of Bombay; and they suggested that steps should be taken to introduce a Bill into the local Legislative Council establishing the registration of trade-marks in the Bombay Presidency; or, if it should be considered advisable that the law should be made applicable to all India, to recommend to the Government of India the introduction of such a measure into the Council of the Governor General. The Association, in submitting this proposal, did not contemplate that the proposed measure should apply to any other than Indian manufactures, although, when it was subsequently suggested that the Bill should require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India, they offered no objection to that suggestion.

The registration in India, however, of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appears now to the Select Committee to be so formidable an undertaking that they are reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there is a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question; and such a solution, they say, would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England.

This course, it appears, is recommended by the Calcutta and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, many of whose members are merely the agents of firms in England, and by the Liverpool Incorporated Chamber. On the other hand, the Commissioners of Patents and several of the authorities consulted recommend that the Bill should be restored to its original shape, and all English trade-marks registered afresh in India.

The Committee of the Millowners' Association are aware of the difficulties which would be experienced if English trade-marks were brought within the operation of an Indian Act; but they desire me to point out that there is hardly an Indian trade-mark, however well known in the Indian markets, which would not be refused registration in England, and that the greatest possible inconveniences would result, in other respects, to Indian manufacturers if they were required to register their trade-marks in England. They therefore desire, but most respectfully, to protest against the proposal that India should come under the English Act, and Indian trade-marks should be registered in England, and to add that, if the original scheme of the Bill cannot be adhered to, and the register established in India, the proposed legislation should, in the interest of Indian manufacturers, be abandoned.

Dated 25th August 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

In continuation of my letter of the 16th June last, I am now directed to inform you that the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce having taken the opinion of Counsel on certain points which had been suggested to them by the correspondence and discussions which had taken place on the subject of the proposed Indian Trade-marks Registration Bill, they submitted the same, along with their report thereon, and with the whole correspondence which had taken place from the time when the measure was first proposed, to a general meeting of the Chamber specially convened for the purpose on the 22nd July last. At that meeting it was unanimously resolved that the report of the Committee be adopted.

The Committee desire me to forward, for the information of the Government of India, six copies of the papers submitted to the general meeting (at page 26 of which will be found the legal opinion above referred to), and respectfully to recommend that, as the proposed legislation is apparently surrounded with many difficulties and objections which could not at first be foreseen, it may in the meantime be abandoned.

Dated 16th July 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay,

To—The Members, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay.

In September 1877, the Committee of the Chamber submitted to Government the expediency of a measure being introduced into India similar to the English Trade-marks Registration Acts of 1875 and 1876. The Committee considered that the increase in the cotton manufactures of Bombay rendered such a measure desirable; and it would therefore appear that the protection of Indian manufactures was the primary object which the Committee had in view when they suggested the measure.

A draft Bill, No. 1, to be called "the Indian Trade-marks Act, 1879," was accordingly prepared by the Government of India, and forwarded to the Chamber, with a request that Government might be favoured with any observations which the Chamber might wish to make on the Bill. A Special Committee was thereupon appointed to consider its provisions. The report of this special Committee will be found at page 11 of the papers sent herewith. It was, with an amendment regarding the fees for the transfers of trade marks from the English to the Indian register, adopted by the Chamber at the special general meeting held on 9th September 1879, and the substance of it communicated to Government. The attention of members is requested to the first paragraph of this report, in which the Special Committee stated that they had discussed the question whether the Bill should apply to trade-marks of goods wherever manufactured, or be applicable only to goods manufactured in India; and that they had concluded that it was desirable that the Bill should apply to all trade-marks, in the broadest sense of the term.

The Bill was thereafter referred by Government to a Select Committee of the Council of the Governor General, who withdrew the Bill No. 1 of 1879, and brought forward an amended

Bill, No. II, to be called "the Indian Trade-marks Act, 1880." This amended Bill, together with the report thereon of the Select Committee, dated 28th February 1880, was forwarded to the Chamber with a request that Government might be favoured with its opinion upon it. This Bill was amended so as to give effect to the suggestions of the Select Committee, whose report was principally concerned in discussing the important question as to the mode in which trade-marks already registered in England should be dealt with. As in the case of the first Bill, a Special Committee was appointed by the Chamber to consider the amended Bill, and the report thereon of the Select Committee. The report of this Special Committee was adopted by the Chamber at the general meeting held on 3rd August 1880, and the substance of it communicated to Government on the 17th idem. In it the Chamber recommended, as the simplest mode of overcoming the difficulty, that, instead of English trade-marks being registered here, India should come under the English Act, and Indian trade-marks should be registered at home, applications being forwarded through the Registrar's office.

The next communication received by the Chamber on the subject was a letter dated 3rd February last, from the Government of India, stating that the members of the Select Committee had considered the opinions received on their report of the 28th February 1880, and sending a statement of the present position of the question as to the best mode of fitting in the Indian system of registration with that established in England. The Select Committee observed with regret that the solution of the question proposed by themselves had failed to commend itself to most of the authorities consulted. They had no wish to press their suggestion, and, if they were to carry out the views expressed in the fourteenth paragraph of their report, the only course left would be to restore the Bill to its original shape, and require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India. But the registration here of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appeared to the Select Committee so formidable an undertaking that they were reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there was a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question. Such a solution would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England: this course was recommended by the Bengal and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, and also by the Liverpool Chamber; and the Select Committee accordingly deemed it worthy of the most careful consideration. In the event of its being adopted, the legislation required in India would be of the simplest description. As all the work of registration, including the settlement of disputes as to the right to register and claims for the rectification of the register, would be performed in England, all the provisions relating to these subjects would be removed from the Bill, and the Act to be passed here would simply provide—

1st,—that no proceedings should be instituted here for the protection of a trade-mark unless such mark was registered in England as belonging to the plaintiff, or registration was refused in the particular class of cases referred to by 39 & 40 Vic., Cap. 33;

2ndly,—that in all Courts in British India, registration in England should be, from the first, prima facie proof, and after five years' conclusive proof, of the right to a trade-mark.

This last communication was circulated to the members of the Chamber; but, before replying to it, and finally committing the Chamber to legislation on this subject, your Committee deemed it desirable to take legal opinion on certain points which have been suggested to them by the correspondence and discussions which have taken place. The questions submitted for Counsel's opinion, with the replies thereto, will be found at page 26 of the papers herewith.* It appears to your Committee that the opinion so expressed is a very valuable one, and points decisively to the conclusion that legislation is not necessary and might be inconvenient. At present the owner of a recognized trade-mark can obtain protection in the Indian Courts, notwithstanding the fact of its being unregistered under the English Act. His proprietary rights are not vitiated in any way even if he has applied for and been refused registration in England, nor does he lose his recourse against a mark infringing his rights, notwithstanding that the latter may have been registered under the English Act. Moreover, an Indian Court would not attach any importance to the right of exclusive user of a trade-mark granted by the English Act after a lapse of five years from the date of registration in England beyond accepting that fact as evidence of its existence at the date of registration. The owner of a non-registered mark would only have to prove his prior right to win his case.

It thus appears to your Committee that, while a special Act for India would provide no more satisfactory protection than already seems to exist, the alternative proposal of coming under the English Act would be attended with many disadvantages. They suggest, therefore, that the opinion which the Chamber has received should be forwarded to Government, with a recommendation that, as the proposed legislation is apparently surrounded with many difficulties and objections which could not at first be foreseen, it may in the meantime be abandoned.

Case prepared by Messrs. Craigie, Lynch and Owen, Solicitors of the Chamber, under instructions from the Committee, and submitted for Counsel's opinion.

A Bill to provide for the registration of Indian trade-marks is now before the Legislative Council of the Governor General, and the question has arisen as to the best mode of fitting in a system of registration for India with the system already in force in England.

The Bombay Chamber of Commerce have recommended, as the best way of overcoming the difficulty, that, instead of English trade-marks being registered here in India, the English Act should be made to apply to India, and that Indian trade-marks should be registered in England, applications for registration in England being forwarded through the office of the Registrar in India.

A further reference has, however, been made by the Government of India to the Chamber by letter No. 131, dated 3rd February 1881, copy of which is sent herewith.

Before replying to this letter the Chamber desire to be advised on the points herewith submitted to Counsel.

QUESTIONS PUT TO COUNSEL.

Counsel is requested to advise—

1. Whether, as the law at present stands, the owner of a trade-mark recognized in the Indian markets as his trade-mark can, notwithstanding that he may have omitted or neglected to register it under the English Act, obtain protection against the use by any one else of an exact or colourable imitation of his mark, and whether the fact that the imitation had been registered in England would make any difference.

2. If the answer to the last question be in the affirmative, whether the owner of a trade-mark would lose his right to protection if he applied for registration in England and such registration were refused.

3. Can the owner of a mark which is recognized as a trade-mark in India, but which has been refused registration in England, obtain protection for such mark from the Courts in India.

4. If a trade-mark had been registered in India as the property of a certain owner, and another precisely similar mark had been registered in England as the property of another altogether different owner, would the owner of the mark so registered in India be entitled to protection from the Courts in India—

(a) against the owner of the similar mark registered in England?

(b) against all other persons?

5. What is the effect (if any) in India of complete registration for a period of five years in England of a trade-mark—

(a) upon the rights of a person who has used the same mark in India for a number of years prior to the registration of such mark in England, but who has taken no steps to obtain registration in England, or to oppose the registration there in the name of such registered owner?

(b) upon the rights (if any) of all other persons in India?

REPLIES OF COUNSEL.

1. As the law at present stands, I am of opinion that the owner of a trade-mark can in the Indian Courts obtain protection against an infringement, notwithstanding he has not registered in England. The fact that the imitation had been registered in England would make no difference.

2. He would not lose his right.

3. He can. The English Trade-marks Registration Acts do not apply to India.

4. It is impossible to answer this question, as the answer depends entirely upon the provisions of the Act (if any) which may be passed for registering trade-marks in India. What these provisions are going to be I don't know.

5. I am of opinion that the registration for five years in England under the English Trade-marks Act has no effect whatever upon the rights of a person suing in the Indian Courts. Section 3 of Act 38 & 39 Vic., Cap. 91, only provides that after five years from the date of registration such registration shall be conclusive evidence of the right of the person who has registered to the exclusive user of the mark registered. This, however, only applies to the English Courts, and not to India. Consequently, the Indian Courts would not be precluded from taking evidence as to who was the owner of the trade-mark in question. The fact of registration in England would be evidence that the person who had registered used that mark at the date of registration; but that would not prevent the person who had not registered proving if he could that he had used and become the owner of the trade-mark before the person who had registered. Registration in England, I think could only be used in the Indian Courts in corroboration of the evidence of the person who had registered to the time when the mark in question was claimed or used by him as his mark.

6. Whether, having regard to the present state of the law, it is desirable that an Act for the registration of trade-marks in India should be passed.

7. If the answer to the last question be in the affirmative, is it desirable that such Act should provide merely for the registration in England of Indian trade-marks, or that it should provide for the registration in India of such marks?

6. This is a question that I think a merchant is more competent to decide on than a lawyer. For my own part I don't see what substantial benefit a merchant gets from a registration of trade-marks on the lines of the English Act. Without any Act at all he is in this position; he has only to prove that the mark he seeks protection for has been put on goods which have been and are being offered for sale, and his right to that mark is established against the infringer, unless the latter can show that he or some one else has used the mark before, and has not lost the right to use it. No length of user is necessary for the purpose of acquiring property in a trade-mark. See McAndrew v. Barrett, 33 L. J., ch. 566, and Marwell v. Hogg, L. R. 2, ch. 307, as to how the property in a trade-mark is acquired. Consequently the merchant can now very easily prove his right primâ facie to the trade-mark. This is all that he can prove by producing his certificate under the Trade-marks Registration Act for the first five years after registration. After the five years are passed I don't think the merchant really gets any practical benefit under the Registration Act. The only benefit he gets is that the defendant cannot dispute his right to it. But as the law at present stands, if the merchant had been using his trade-mark for five years, practically the defendant would not dispute his right to it. In fact, the defence in every case is generally that the mark has not been imitated. The Trade-marks Registration Act, in my opinion, is no protection against imitation at all. The imitator does not want to sue, so he does not care about registering, as he can use his imitation all the same whether registered or not; and, as I have pointed out, I don't think the honest merchant in his suit against the imitator gets any practical benefit. There is not the slightest difficulty, as the law at present stands, of proving your primâ facie right to a trade-mark. After a five years' user it would be almost hopeless for a defendant to prove the plaintiff did not own the trade-mark. If, as a matter of fact, other persons were, or claimed to be, entitled to the mark, and it was of any value, long before the five years were over, the registered proprietor would be fighting in Court with those persons who by section 5 of 38 & 39 Vic. Cap. 91, can apply to rectify the register: and if he was not the owner he would never succeed, in the case of a mark of any value, in remaining on the register five years. Again, an Act on the lines of the English Act would deprive a large number of marks which are now recognized as trade-marks of the quality of trade-marks. The fees charged for registration are, I should say, much more than an equivalent for any benefit the merchant gets.

7. I think an Act which provided for registration in England would be worse than an Act which provided for registration in India, for the following reasons:—(a) Any mark used for the first time since 13th August 1875, and which is not registrable under the English Act, will be deprived of all value, as any one will be able to imitate it without being sued. (b) The expense and difficulty

8. If a special Act were passed for India and a certain mark exactly or very closely resembling a mark already registered under the English Act were registered under it, or vice versa, how could the respective registered owners protect their rights as against each other in a foreign market such as China?

9. Generally giving any suggestions on the proposed legislation which may occur to Counsel.

25th June, 1881.

attending registration of any disputed mark will prevent an Indian merchant from fighting for his rights. He will have to either abandon his mark, or spend far more than it probably is worth to establish his right to it.

8. As the English Trade-marks Registration Act does not extend to China, and the Indian legislature has no authority to legislate for the Courts there, I am of opinion that the China Court (in the case put) could and would satisfy itself who was the owner of the mark in question, quite apart from the registration in India or the registration in England, only using such registration (if at all) as some proof that the mark was, at the respective dates of the registrations, used by the persons who registered. In short, I am of opinion that, in the case put, registration either in England or India would have, except to the extent I have mentioned, no value at all.

9. I can add nothing to what I have said above, except that if an Act is to be passed, one providing for registration in India, I think, is the only one that could practically be worked.

REPORTS ON THE STATE OF THE SEASON AND PROSPECTS OF THE CROPS
FOR THE WEEK ENDING THE 29th NOVEMBER 1881.

GENERAL REMARKS.—Winter crops are generally thriving in Bengal, and, except in Orissa, where the late rice crop has suffered to some extent from want of rain, prospects continue favourable. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, no rain is reported; though early winter rains are much needed, the rabi sowings have been nearly completed and irrigation is being generally resorted to. In the Punjab also rain is needed, but prospects on the whole continue good. In the Rajputana and Central India States, in the Central Provinces and Berar, agricultural prospects continue in a satisfactory condition. In the Bombay Presidency the want of moisture is still felt in parts. In the Nizam's Territories and in Mysore and Coorg crops are doing well. In the Madras Presidency the rains have done much good to the crops; and although more rain is required in parts, prospects are on the whole good. In Assam the reaping of sali rice is progressing. In British Burma the late rain has done slight damage to the more advanced crops in parts, but agricultural prospects are generally satisfactory.

 Short title.
 It extends to the whole of British India ; but nothing herein contained affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one, or affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language : Provided that such usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument, which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by this Act ; and it shall come into force

4. A "promissory note" is an instrument in writing (not being a banknote or a currency-note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Illustrations.

- A signs instruments in the following terms :—

 The instruments respectively marked (a) and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A "bill of exchange" is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

6. A "cheque" is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or, if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque, are payable on demand.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives prima facie authority to the holder thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance, or protest for non-acceptance.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight or on presentment is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted for non-acceptance, or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a). A negotiable instrument, dated 29th January, 1878, is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February, 1878.

(b). A negotiable instrument, dated 30th August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

(c). A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

26. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

27. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section twenty-six, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

28. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

29. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

30. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

31. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him and caused by such default.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

34. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

36. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

37. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

38. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

39. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which, under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

40. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright & Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright & Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

41. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

42. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, indorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without indorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Exception 1.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

44. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

45. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

47. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

48. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

- (a) "Pay the contents to C only."
- (b) "Pay C for my use."
- (c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."
- (d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

- (e) "Pay C."
- (f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded as mentioned in section fifty, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional. may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a). The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b). A is the payer and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an indorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

53. A holder of a negotiable instrument

Holder deriving title from holder in due course. who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

54. Subject to the provisions hereinafter con-

Instrument indorsed in blank. tained as to crossed cheques, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

55. If a negotiable instrument, after having Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full. been indorsed in blank, is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is

Indorsement for part of sum due. valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be indorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

57. The legal representative of a deceased

Legal representative cannot by delivery only negotiate instrument indorsed by deceased. person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

58. When a negotiable instrument has been lost,

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration. or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

59. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue. has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it, deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

60. A negotiable instrument may be nego-

CHAPTER V.OF PRESENTMENT.*61. A bill of exchange payable after sight

Presentment for acceptance. must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain

In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

65. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

66. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

67. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

68. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

69. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

71. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

72. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

74. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-one, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

75. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or, where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, when presentment and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(d) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

77. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

78. Subject to the provisions of section eighty-two, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount of the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the Interest when no rate specified. amount due thereon shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay,

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss. the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

82. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming by cancellation ;

under such holder ;

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or by release ;

been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

85. Where a cheque payable to order purports is discharged by payment in due course.

86. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part

Parties not consenting discharged by qualified or limited acceptance. of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners, is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder they assent to such acceptance.

Explanation.—An acceptance is qualified—

(a) where it is conditional, declaring the payment to be dependent on the happening of an event therein stated ;

(b) where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid ;

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place and not otherwise or elsewhere ; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere ;

(d) where it undertakes the payment at a time other than that at which under the order it would be legally due.

87. Any material alteration of a negotiable time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties ;

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five.

90. If a bill of exchange which has been Extinguishment of rights of action on bill in acceptor's hands. negotiated is, at or after maturity, held by the acceptor in his own right, all rights of action thereon are extinguished.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

91. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill, or where presentment is excused and the bill is not accepted.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract, or the acceptance is qualified, the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

92. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour. prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section ninety-three.

96. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

97. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary. 98. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

99. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

100. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

101. A protest under section one hundred must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(d) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and, when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

105. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and, in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

106. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Unless the person who intends to accept supra protest first declares, in the presence of a notary, that he does it for honour, and has such declaration duly recorded in the notarial register at the time, his acceptance shall be a nullity.

109. A person desiring to accept for honour must, in the presence of a notary public, subscribe the bill with his own hand, and declare that he accepts under protest the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser, whom he names, or generally for honour; and such declaration must be recorded by the notary in his register.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

111. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

112. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment, and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

113. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

114. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

115. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a bill of exchange, or in any indorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

116. A drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

(a) the holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) when the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) an indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) when the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) the party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him, together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

Presumptions as to negotiable instruments.

118. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration; and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration;

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date;

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity;

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity;

(e) that the indorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon;

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped;

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that, where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

119. In a suit upon an instrument which has been dishonoured, the Court shall, on proof of the protest, presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

120. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

121. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

122. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

123. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

124. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

125. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

126. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

127. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

128. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

129. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

130. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

131. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XV. OF BILLS IN SETS.

132. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill.

133. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

CHAPTER XVI. OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured.

An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange, drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorser causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or indorsement made thereon in British India.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

REGISTRATION OF TRADE-MARKS.

The following papers are published for general information in substitution of the papers published in the Gazette of the 3rd instant:—

No. 918, dated Simla, the 17th October 1881.

Office Memo. from—R. J. CROSTHWAITE, Esq., Offg. Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

In continuation of office memorandum No. 1369, dated the 31st December last, the undersigned is directed to forward to the Home Department, for consideration, a copy of printed papers, No. 28, relative to the Trade-marks Bill (No. II).

2. It will be seen from these papers that the Calcutta Trades Association and the Bombay Millowners' Association raise objections to the form of legislation which was proposed in the circular from this Department, Nos. 129-34, dated the 3rd February 1881 (paragraph 6), and that the latter body and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce recommended that the Bill should be abandoned. The Legislative Department concurs in this recommendation, and the papers are accordingly transferred to the Home Department for orders as to the abandonment of the projected legislation to provide for the registration of trade-marks.

Nos. 129 to 134, dated Fort William, the 3rd February 1881.

From—D. FITZPATRICK, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

To—The Secretaries to the Bengal, Madras, Bombay, and Rangoon Chambers of Commerce, and Secretaries, Calcutta Trades Association, and Bombay Millowners' Society.

The members of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks have now considered the opinions received on their report of the 28th February 1880, and have directed me to send, for the information of your ^{Chamber} Association ^{Society} the following statement of the present position of the question as to the best mode of fitting-in the Indian system of registration with that established in England, and to request that any remarks or suggestions the ^{Chamber} Association ^{Society} may desire to make may be forwarded so as to reach me not later than the 1st March.

2. Taking in their order the various propositions which have been put forward for the solution of that question, and beginning with the proposition to restrict the Indian registration to trade-marks used in connection with Indian products, the Committee find that the opinions received from authorities, both in this country and in England, go to support them in their rejection of any scheme so limited.

3. The same may be said, though the difference of opinion is here greater, of the proposal that trade-marks registered in England should be placed upon the register here, and allowed all the benefits of registration as a matter of course, and without any previous notice or inquiry; indeed, as one of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court points out, there is an insuperable obstacle to the adoption of any such proposal in the circumstance that one man may be the true owner of a trade-mark in England and another in India.

4. As regards the solution of the question proposed by the Committee themselves, they regret to find that it too has failed to commend itself to most of the authorities consulted. It has been objected to, not only on account of the mechanical difficulties it would involve and the expense it would occasion, but also on the ground that the distinctive inscription or device to be added to the mark might sometimes, in the case of a well-known Indian mark, so completely destroy the identity of the mark as to deprive it of most of its value to the owner, and might, on the other hand, in some cases where an Indian manufacturer adopted a well-known English mark with the device or inscription superadded, so little affect the appearance of the mark, that the injury done to the English owner would be scarcely less than if his mark were used without the addition.

5. The Committee have no wish to press their suggestion in the face of such objections, and, accordingly, if they were to carry out the views expressed in the 14th paragraph of their report, the only course left would be to restore the Bill to its original shape and require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India, the only concessions made in regard to them being that suggested in the report, and, perhaps, a reduction of the fees.

This is the course recommended by several of the authorities consulted, and among others by the Commissioners of Patents, who must be regarded as the highest authority on this question, and it would apparently be accepted by the ^{Bombay}_{your} Chamber of Commerce*; but the registration here of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appears to the Committee so formidable an undertaking that they are reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there is a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question.

6. Such a solution, it need hardly be said, would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England. The Committee abstained from suggesting this solution in their report, partly because it involved a complete departure from the original scheme of the Bill, and partly because they did not venture to hope that it would find favour with Indian manufacturers and traders. They observe, however, from the papers now before them, that this course is, as a matter of fact, recommended by the Calcutta and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, and also by the Liverpool Incorporated Chamber, and they accordingly deem it worthy of the most careful consideration.

7. In the event of its being adopted, the legislation required here would be of the simplest description. As all the work of registration, including the settlement of disputes as to the right to register and claims for the rectification of the register, would be performed in England, all the provisions relating to these subjects would be removed from the Bill, and the Act to be passed here would simply provide—

1st,—that no proceedings should be instituted here for the protection of a trade-mark unless such mark was registered in England as belonging to the plaintiff, or registration was refused in the particular class of cases referred to by 39 & 40 Vict., cap. 33:

2ndly,—that in all Courts in British India, registration in England should be from the first prima facie proof, and after five years conclusive proof, of the right to a trade-mark.

* [In writing to Bombay say "your Chamber."]

8. There is only one point as to which a difficulty might conceivably arise, and it is this:—As your ^{Chamber of Commerce Association Society} is aware, one of the objects at which the English Acts of 1875-76 aim is to prevent the adoption in future of certain descriptions of trade-marks which, though recognized by the common law, were found to give rise to difficulties and disputes—marks, e. g., consisting of fancy names, such as “pectorine” and “lactopeptine.” In regard to such marks the English Act of 1875 provides that they may be registered if they were used as trade-marks before the passing of the Act, i. e., before the 13th August 1875, and not otherwise. Now, the Committee, looking to the wording of the Act and the forms prescribed under it, see no reason to suppose that use in India before the 13th August 1875, would not be sufficient to entitle such a mark to registration under the Act; but it is quite clear that such a mark used for the first time after the 13th August 1875, would be excluded, and accordingly any persons who may have adopted such marks in India subsequent to that date might, if the Bill was framed on the lines now suggested, have ground for complaint.

9. I am accordingly to inquire whether your ^{Chamber of Commerce Association Society} consider it probable that there are in use in this country any number of trade-marks worth speaking of adopted since the date in question, and not containing any of the “essential particulars” mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 5 of the Bill No. II, but of such a nature as to be entitled to protection here under the existing law, and, if so, whether they can suggest any mode of saving the rights of the owners of such marks. If the number of such marks is insignificant, it would probably be better that their owners should be driven to alter them than that they should be allowed to stand in the way of settling this difficult question, in a manner acceptable to the bulk of the mercantile community.

Dated 17th February 1881.

From—The Secretary, Bengal Chamber of Commerce,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

The Committee of the Chamber of Commerce direct me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 129 of the 3rd instant, relative to the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks.

The Committee have noted the objections that have been raised in England and in this country to the various propositions that have been submitted for the solution of the question under reconsideration; and they observe with satisfaction that the Select Committee of the Legislative Council do not now, for the reasons assigned, press the adoption of the course which they recommended, and which would have necessitated the registration in India of all English trade-marks.

The Committee of the Chamber are confident that the simplest and most efficacious solution of the question would result from the registration in England of trade-marks of Indian manufacturers and traders, which would thus be placed on the same footing as English trade-marks, and legislative provision would obviously be of the simplest character, as illustrated in the 7th paragraph of your letter.

With reference to the point of difficulty which might arise in connection with the use and registration of marks fancifully designated, the Committee are under the impression that the number of such marks, if indeed they exist at all, must be altogether insignificant; but they are not in a position to answer your inquiry on this point with sufficient accuracy, and would suggest a reference to the Registrar of Calcutta, who must, of course, be in possession of the fullest particulars.

Dated 3rd March 1881.

From—The Secretary, Calcutta Trades Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 133, dated 3rd February, submitting, for the opinion of the Trades Association, certain propositions relative to the amended Bill for the registration of trade-marks.

2. The Committee of the Association, after carefully considering the subject, have instructed me to state that they are disposed to support the course recommended by the Commissioners of Patents and other authorities, namely, that the Bill be restored to its original shape, and that all English trade-marks be registered afresh in India after due notice, the concessions suggested in the Select Committee's report of 28th February, and in paragraph 5 of your letter, being extended to the owners of such trade-marks.

3. The alternative course which has been suggested would never be acceptable to Indian manufacturers, who should not, the Committee submit, be required to register their trade-marks out of India. In a question of this nature, the Committee consider that this country should be on the same footing as other countries, and that facilities for the registration of trade-marks should be provided here, especially as large quantities of Indian produce are now shipped direct to continental ports.

4. In regard to paragraph 8 of your letter, the Committee believe that the number of marks in use in India consisting of fancy names is not large, and they think, therefore, that no marks of this character, adopted after the 13th August 1875, should be permitted to interfere with the progress of the Bill.

Dated 5th March 1881.

Telegram from—The Chamber of Commerce, Madras,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

Although Chamber have not experienced want (of) trade-marks legislation, they have no wish (to) oppose proposals (of) Bengal (and) Bombay Chambers.

Dated 9th March 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Rangoon,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

I have the honour, by direction of the Committee of this Chamber, to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 132, dated 3rd February, relating to the present position of the question of registering trade-marks, and in reply I am desired to state that the Chamber approves of the proposal that Indian manufacturers should register their marks in England, as being a simpler and less cumbrous arrangement than requiring all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India.

With reference to paragraph 9 of your letter, I am desired to say that, probably, very few marks such as the English Acts of 1875-76 were intended to exclude have been adopted in this country since August 1875, and the Chamber agrees with you in thinking that it is better to insist upon the alteration of any that do exist rather than let them stand in the way of a settlement of the question at issue.

Dated 23rd April 1881.

From—The Secretary, Bombay Millowners' Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

Your letter dated 3rd February last, regarding the Bill to provide for the registration of trade-marks, has been considered by the Committee of the Millowners' Association.

When the Millowners' Association, on 3rd April 1877, submitted to the Government of Bombay the importance of a measure corresponding with the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vic., Cap. 91, and the Trade-marks Registration Amendment Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vic., Cap. 33, being introduced into India, they did so on the ground of the increase of Indian manufactures, and especially of the cotton manufactures of Bombay; and they suggested that steps should be taken to introduce a Bill into the local Legislative Council establishing the registration of trade-marks in the Bombay Presidency; or, if it should be considered advisable that the law should be made applicable to all India, to recommend to the Government of India the introduction of such a measure into the Council of the Governor General. The Association, in submitting this proposal, did not contemplate that the proposed measure should apply to any other than Indian manufactures, although, when it was subsequently suggested that the Bill should require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India, they offered no objection to that suggestion.

The registration in India, however, of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appears now to the Select Committee to be so formidable an undertaking that they are reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there is a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question; and such a solution, they say, would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England.

This course, it appears, is recommended by the Calcutta and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, many of whose members are merely the agents of firms in England, and by the Liverpool Incorporated Chamber. On the other hand, the Commissioners of Patents and several of the authorities consulted recommend that the Bill should be restored to its original shape, and all English trade-marks registered afresh in India.

The Committee of the Millowners' Association are aware of the difficulties which would be experienced if English trade-marks were brought within the operation of an Indian Act; but they desire me to point out that there is hardly an Indian trade-mark, however well known in the Indian markets, which would not be refused registration in England, and that the greatest possible inconveniences would result, in other respects, to Indian manufacturers if they were required to register their trade-marks in England. They therefore desire, but most respectfully, to protest against the proposal that India should come under the English Act, and Indian trade-marks should be registered in England, and to add that, if the original scheme of the Bill cannot be adhered to, and the register established in India, the proposed legislation should, in the interest of Indian manufacturers, be abandoned.

Dated 25th August 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

In continuation of my letter of the 16th June last, I am now directed to inform you that the Committee of the Chamber of Commerce having taken the opinion of Counsel on certain points which had been suggested to them by the correspondence and discussions which had taken place on the subject of the proposed Indian Trade-marks Registration Bill, they submitted the same, along with their report thereon, and with the whole correspondence which had taken place from the time when the measure was first proposed, to a general meeting of the Chamber specially convened for the purpose on the 22nd July last. At that meeting it was unanimously resolved that the report of the Committee be adopted.

The Committee desire me to forward, for the information of the Government of India, six copies of the papers submitted to the general meeting (at page 26 of which will be found the legal opinion above referred to), and respectfully to recommend that, as the proposed legislation is apparently surrounded with many difficulties and objections which could not at first be foreseen, it may in the meantime be abandoned.

Dated 16th July 1881.

From—The Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay,

To—The Members, Chamber of Commerce, Bombay.

In September 1877, the Committee of the Chamber submitted to Government the expediency of a measure being introduced into India similar to the English Trade-marks Registration Acts of 1875 and 1876. The Committee considered that the increase in the cotton manufactures of Bombay rendered such a measure desirable; and it would therefore appear that the protection of Indian manufactures was the primary object which the Committee had in view when they suggested the measure.

A draft Bill, No. I, to be called "the Indian Trade-marks Act, 1879," was accordingly prepared by the Government of India, and forwarded to the Chamber, with a request that Government might be favoured with any observations which the Chamber might wish to make on the Bill. A Special Committee was thereupon appointed to consider its provisions. The report of this Special Committee will be found at page 11 of the papers sent herewith. It was, with an amendment regarding the fees for the transfers of trade-marks from the English to the Indian register, adopted by the Chamber at the special general meeting held on 9th September 1879, and the substance of it communicated to Government. The attention of members is requested to the first paragraph of this report, in which the Special Committee stated that they had discussed the question whether the Bill should apply to trade-marks of goods wherever manufactured, or be applicable only to goods manufactured in India; and that they had concluded that it was desirable that the Bill should apply to all trade-marks, in the broadest sense of the term.

The Bill was thereafter referred by Government to a Select Committee of the Council of the Governor General, who withdrew the Bill No. I of 1879, and brought forward an amended Bill, No. II, to be called "the Indian Trade-marks Act, 1880." This amended Bill, together with the report thereon of the Select Committee, dated 28th February 1880, was forwarded to the Chamber with a request that Government might be favoured with its opinion upon it. This Bill was amended so as to give effect to the suggestions of the Select Committee, whose report was principally concerned in discussing the important question as to the mode in which trade-marks already registered in England should be dealt with. As in the case of the first Bill, a Special Committee was appointed by the Chamber to consider the amended Bill, and the report thereon of the Select Committee. The report of this Special Committee was adopted by the Chamber at the general meeting held on 3rd August 1880, and the substance of it communicated to Government on the 17th idem. In it the Chamber recommended, as the simplest mode of overcoming the difficulty, that, instead of English trade-marks being registered here, India should come under the English Act, and Indian trade-marks should be registered at home, applications being forwarded through the Registrar's office.

The next communication received by the Chamber on the subject was a letter dated 3rd February last, from the Government of India, stating that the members of the Select Committee had considered the opinions received on their report of the 28th February 1880, and sending a statement of the present position of the question as to the best mode of fitting-in the Indian system of registration with that established in England. The Select Committee observed with regret that the solution of the question proposed by themselves had failed to commend itself to most of the authorities consulted. They had no wish to press their suggestion, and, if they were to carry out the views expressed in the fourteenth paragraph of their report, the only course left would be to restore the Bill to its original shape, and require all English trade-marks to be registered afresh in India. But the registration here of all English trade-marks used or likely to be used in India appeared to the Select Committee so formidable an undertaking that they were reluctant to adopt any course which would necessitate it as long as there was a prospect of finding any simpler solution of the question. Such a solution would be found if Indian manufacturers would be content to register their marks in England: this course was recommended by the Bengal and Bombay Chambers of Commerce, and also by the Liverpool Chamber; and the Select Committee accordingly deemed it worthy of the most careful consideration. In the event of its being adopted, the legislation required in India would be of the simplest description. As all the work of registration, including the settlement of disputes as to the right to register and claims for the rectification of the register, would be performed in England, all the provisions relating to these subjects would be removed from the Bill, and the Act to be passed here would simply provide—or registration was refused in the particular class of cases referred to by 39 & 40 Vic., Cap. 83;

2ndly,—that in all Courts in British India, registration in England should be, from the first, prima facie proof, and after five years conclusive proof, of the right to a trade-mark.

This last communication was circulated to the members of the Chamber; but, before replying to it, and finally committing the Chamber to legislation on this subject, your Committee deemed it desirable to take legal opinion on certain points which have been suggested to them by the correspondence and discussions which have taken place. The questions submitted for Counsel's opinion, with the replies thereto, will be found at page 26 of the papers herewith.* It appears to your Committee that the opinion so expressed is a very valuable one, and points decisively to the conclusion that legislation is not necessary and might be inconvenient. At present the owner of a recognized trade-mark can obtain protection in the Indian Courts, notwithstanding the fact of its being unregistered under the English Act. His proprietary rights are not vitiated in any way even if he has applied for and been refused registration in England, nor does he lose his recourse against a mark infringing his rights, notwithstanding that the latter may have been registered under the English Act. Moreover, an Indian Court would not attach any importance to the right of exclusive user of a trade-mark granted by the English Act after a lapse of five years from the date of registration in England beyond accepting that fact as evidence of its existence at the date of registration. The owner of a non-registered mark would only have to prove his prior right to win his case.

It thus appears to your Committee that, while a special Act for India would provide no more satisfactory protection than already seems to exist, the alternative proposal of coming under the English Act would be attended with many disadvantages. They suggest, therefore, that the opinion which the Chamber has received should be forwarded to Government, with a recommendation that, as the proposed legislation is apparently surrounded with many difficulties and objections which could not at first be foreseen, it may in the meantime be abandoned.

Case prepared by Messrs. Craigie, Lynch and Owen, Solicitors of the Chamber, under instructions from the Committee, and submitted for Counsel's opinion.

A Bill to provide for the registration of Indian trade-marks is now before the Legislative Council of the Governor General, and the question has arisen as to the best mode of fitting-in a system of registration for India with the system already in force in England.

The Bombay Chamber of Commerce have recommended, as the best way of overcoming the difficulty, that, instead of English trade-marks being registered here in India, the English Act should be made to apply to India, and that Indian trade-marks should be registered in England, applications for registration in England being forwarded through the office of the Registrar in India.

A further reference has, however, been made by the Government of India to the Chamber by letter No. 131, dated 3rd February 1881, copy of which is sent herewith.

Before replying to this letter the Chamber desire to be advised on the points herewith submitted to Counsel.

QUESTIONS PUT TO COUNSEL.

Counsel is requested to advise—

1. Whether, as the law at present stands, the owner of a trade-mark recognized in the Indian markets as his trade-mark can, notwithstanding that he may have omitted or neglected to register it under the English Act, obtain protection against the use by any one else of an exact or colourable imitation of his mark, and whether the fact that the imitation had been registered in England would make any difference?

2. If, the answer to the last question be in the affirmative, whether the owner of a trade-mark would lose his right to protection if he applied for registration in England and such registration were refused?

3. Can the owner of a mark which is recognized as a trade-mark in India, but which has been refused registration in England, obtain protection for such mark from the Courts in India?

4. If a trade-mark had been registered in India as the property of a certain owner, and another precisely similar mark had been

REPLIES OF COUNSEL.

1. As the law at present stands, I am of opinion that the owner of a trade-mark can in the Indian Courts obtain protection against an infringement, notwithstanding he has not registered in England. The fact that the imitation had been registered in England would make no difference.

2. He would not lose his right.

3. He can. The English Trade-marks Registration Acts do not apply to India.

4. It is impossible to answer this question, as the answer depends entirely upon the provisions of the Act (if any) which may be registered in England as the property of another altogether different owner, would the owner of the mark so registered in India be entitled to protection from the Courts in India—

(a) against the owner of the similar mark registered in England?

(b) against all other persons?

5. What is the effect (if any) in India of complete registration for a period of five years in England of a trade-mark—

(a) upon the rights of a person who has used the same mark in India for a number of years prior to the registration of such mark in England, but who has taken no steps to obtain registration in England, or to oppose the registration there in the name of such registered owner?

(b) upon the rights (if any) of all other persons in India?

6. Whether, having regard to the present state of the law, it is desirable that an Act for the registration of trade-marks in India should be passed?

passed for registering trade-marks in India. What these provisions are going to be I don't know.

5. I am of opinion that the registration for five years in England under the English Trade-marks Act has no effect whatever upon the rights of a person suing in the Indian Courts. Section 3 of Act 38 & 39 Vic., Cap. 91, only provides that after five years from the date of registration such registration shall be conclusive evidence of the right of the person who has registered to the exclusive user of the mark registered. This, however, only applies to the English Courts, and not to India. Consequently, the Indian Courts would not be precluded from taking evidence as to who was the owner of the trade-mark in question. The fact of registration in England would be evidence that the person who had registered used that mark at the date of registration; but that would not prevent the person who had not registered proving if he could that he had used and become the owner of the trade-mark before the person who had registered. Registration in England, I think, could only be used in the Indian Courts in corroboration of the evidence of the person who had registered to the time when the mark in question was claimed or used by him as his mark.

6. This is a question that I think a merchant is more competent to decide on than a lawyer. For my own part I don't see what substantial benefit a merchant gets from a registration of trade-marks on the lines of the English Act. Without any Act at all he is in this position; he has only to prove that the mark he seeks protection for has been put on goods which have been and are being offered for sale, and his right to that mark is established against the infringer, unless the latter can show that he or some one else has used the mark before, and has not lost the right to use it. No length of user is necessary for the purpose of acquiring property in a trade-mark. See McAndrew v. Barrett, 33 L. L., ch. 566, and Maxwell v. Hogg, L. R. 2, ch. 307, as to how the property in a trade-mark is acquired. Consequently the merchant can now very easily prove his right prima facie to the trade-mark. This is all that he can prove by producing his certificate under the Trade-marks Registration Act for the first five years after registration. After the five years are passed I don't think the merchant really gets any practical benefit under the Registration Act. The only benefit he gets is that the defendant cannot dispute his right to it. But as the law at present stands, if the merchant had been using his trade-mark for five years, practically the defendant would not dispute his right to it. In fact, the defence in every case is generally that the mark has not been imitated. The Trade-marks Registration Act, in my opinion, is no protection against imitation at all. The imitator does not want to sue, so he does not care about registering, as he

7. If the answer to the last question be in the affirmative, is it desirable that such Act should provide merely for the registration in England of Indian trade-marks, or that it should provide for the registration in India of such marks?

8. If a special Act were passed for India and a certain mark exactly or very closely resembling a mark already registered under the English Act were registered under it, or vice versa, how could the respective registered owners protect their rights as against each other in a foreign market such as China?

9. Generally giving any suggestions on the proposed legislation which may occur to Counsel.

27th June 1881.

can use his imitation all the same whether registered or not; and, as I have pointed out, I don't think the honest merchant in his suit against the imitator gets any practical benefit. There is not the slightest difficulty, as the law at present stands, of proving your prima facie right to a trade-mark. After a five years' user it would be almost hopeless for a defendant to prove the plaintiff did not own the trade-mark. If, as a matter of fact, other persons were, or claimed to be, entitled to the mark, and it was of any value, long before the five years were over, the registered proprietor would be fighting in Court with those persons who by section 5 of 38 & 39 Vic., Cap. 91, can apply to rectify the register: and if he was not the owner he would never succeed, in the case of a mark of any value, in remaining on the register five years. Again, an Act on the lines of the English Act would deprive a large number of marks which are now recognized as trade-marks of the quality of trade-marks. The fees charged for registration are, I should say, much more than an equivalent for any benefit the merchant gets.

7. I think an Act which provided for registration in England would be worse than an Act which provided for registration in India, for the following reasons:—(a) Any mark used for the first time since 13th August 1875, and which is not registrable under the English Act, will be deprived of all value, as any one will be able to imitate it without being sued. (b) The expense and difficulty attending registration of any disputed mark will prevent an Indian merchant from fighting for his rights. He will have to either abandon his mark, or spend far more than it probably is worth to establish his right to it.

8. As the English Trade-marks Registration Act does not extend to China, and the Indian legislature has no authority to legislate for the Courts there, I am of opinion that the China Court (in the case put) could and would satisfy itself who was the owner of the mark in question, quite apart from the registration in India or the registration in England, only using such registration (if at all) as some proof that the mark was, at the respective dates of the registrations, used by the persons who registered. In short, I am of opinion that, in the case put, registration either in England or India would have, except to the extent I have mentioned, no value at all.

9. I can add nothing to what I have said above, except that if an Act is to be passed, one providing for registration in India, I think, is the only one that could practically be worked.

* Including Patli Branch.

FURTHER DETAILS OF CONSTRUCTION, &c.

BROAD-GAUGE.

1. East Indian.—This line extends from Calcutta (Howrah) to Delhi with a branch of about 224 miles from Nynee, near Allahabad, to Jubbulpore, and several shorter branches, aggregating 82 miles, none of which exceed 27 miles in length. It is in junction with the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway at Gazeabad, the Great Indian Peninsula Railway at Jubbulpore, the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway at Aligarh and Cawnpore, the Sindia State Railway at Agra, the Patna-Gya State Railway at Bankipore, all of which lines are of the same gauge. It also exchanges traffic with the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway via Benares, across the River Ganges, where a connecting bridge is now being built. Its junctions with narrow-gauge lines are at Nalhati, Cawnpore, Agra, Hathras Road and Delhi; it is also connected with the Tirhoot State Railway by a short branch and ferry at Barh.

The Railway has a double road for 411 miles.

There are 158 stations having an average distance apart of $9\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and 18 engine stations.

Construction was commenced in January 1851, and the first section ($23\frac{1}{2}$ miles, from Howrah to Hooghly), was opened on the 15th August 1854. The line has been open throughout its whole length since January 1871.

The earthwork and bridges generally are for a double line, except the superstructure of large bridges. The road consists of double-headed rails varying in weight from 74 to 82 lbs. per yard carried on cross-sleepers for the most part of wood and a small proportion of iron. Steel rails are being used for renewals where the traffic is heavy.

2. Eastern Bengal.—This line extends from Calcutta (Sealdah) to Goalundo on the bank of the Ganges near its confluence with the Brahmaputra, with a branch 4 miles long to Kooshtea, also on the right bank of the Ganges about 45 miles up stream; there is also a short branch 2 miles long to Chitpore where junction is effected with the Calcutta Port Trust Railway; there is a connection with the Calcutta and South-Eastern State Railway at the terminus, Sealdah. From Poradaha at the 103rd mile there is a State Branch worked by the Company 13 miles long to Damukdia on the Ganges, which is connected with the Northern Bengal State Railway by a steam ferry.

The Railway is laid with a single track throughout. There are 32 stations at an average distance apart of miles, and 4 engine stations. Construction was commenced in April 1859, and the first section ($15\frac{1}{2}$ miles), from Calcutta to Ranaghat, was opened in September, and the second section (62 miles), to Jagati, in November 1862. The extension to Goalundo was opened in January 1871.

The earthwork and the masonry of bridges and viaducts have been constructed for a double line. The rails are double-headed, weighing 74 lbs. per yard, and have been laid principally on creosoted pine sleepers.

3. Oudh and Rohilkhand.—The Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway runs in a north-westerly direction from Benares, and is approximately paralld to the East Indian Railway at a mean distance of 80 miles, the River Ganges running between the two. It has junctions only with the East Indian Railway which are noted in para. 1 above.

The Railway is laid with a single track throughout. There are 80 stations averaging 7 miles apart, and 5 engine stations.

Construction was commenced in January 1861; the length of 42 miles from Lucknow in the direction of Cawnpore was opened in April 1867; two other sections of 30 miles each were opened on the 1st February 1872, and, with the exception of the bridge at Cawnpore and junction with the East Indian Railway at that station, which was completed in July 1875, the line may be said to have been opened throughout in the early part of 1874.

Land has been taken for a double line, but the formation is for a single way; between Lucknow and Nawabganj however the masonry of the bridges has been constructed for a double track. The permanent way adopted consists of 60-lb. flat-footed rails on cast-iron oval bowl sleepers, but there are short lengths on wrought-iron saddle sleepers, and of Bessemer steel saddle sleepers.

4. Sind, Punjab and Delhi.—This Railway consists of two distinct and separate sections, viz., the Punjab section, 554 miles in length from Gazeabad, the junction with the East Indian Railway, to Sher-Shah Bunder on the left bank of the Indus and 15 miles beyond Mooltan, and the Sind Section, 110 miles long from Kotri, the junction with the Indus Valley State Railway, to Kurrachee. On the Punjab Section there is a junction at Lahore with the Punjab Northern State Railway, and another at Mozufferabad, 7 miles to the east of Mooltan, with the Indus Valley State Railway.

The road is laid with a single track on both sections, except $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles of double way Kurrachee.

There are 73 stations on the Punjab Section, being at an average distance of $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and 10 on the Sind Section at 12 miles intervals. There are 6 engine stations on the former and 2 on the latter.

The Sind Section was commenced in April 1858, and was opened throughout its length in May 1861.

The length from Amritsar to Mooltan and Sher Shah, 250 miles, was commenced in February 1859, and was opened to Lahore, 32 miles, in April 1862, and from Lahore to Mooltan, 208 miles, in April 1865.

The portion from Gazeabad to Amritsar, 304 miles, was commenced early in 1864, and in May 1865, Messrs. Brassey and Company entered into a contract for the construction of the line in five years; this period was subsequently extended to six years, owing to the magnitude and large additions made to the original design of the Sutlej Bridge. The first length to Meerut City, $27\frac{1}{2}$ miles, was opened in April 1867, and in November of the same year, 26 miles were opened from the Beas River to Amritsar. The uninterrupted communication between Delhi via Gazeabad and Mooltan being established by the completion of the Sutlej Bridge in November 1869.

On the Sind Section the earthwork is for a single line; masonry of bridges for a double line, iron superstructure for one road. The permanent way consists of double-headed rails, 65 lbs. to the yard, laid on sleepers of creosoted pine and babul.

From Amritsar to Mooltan and Sher Shah the earthwork and bridges are for a single way. Double-headed rails of 68 lbs. per yard have been used throughout, $77\frac{1}{2}$ miles being supported on Graves' bowls, the remainder on wooden sleepers which, however, are being renewed with iron.

From Amritsar to the Beas the earthwork is for a double road, that of the remaining distance to Gazeabad is for a single line. The rails used were single-headed of "steel iron" weighing 60 lbs. to the yard; these have, however, failed and are being replaced by solid steel.

5. Madras.—This Railway at Arkonam, 42 miles to the west of Madras, bifurcates into two main lines, viz., the north-west line which meets the Great Indian Peninsula Railway at Raichur, 308 miles,* and has a branch $31\frac{1}{2}$ miles long to Bellary, and the south-west line which runs to Beypore on the west coast, 364 miles,* with branches to Bangalore, 87 miles, and to Mettupalaiyam at the foot of the Nilgiri Hills, 26 miles.

There are junctions with the South Indian Railway at Arkonam and Erode, and with the Mysore State Railway at Bangalore, both these lines being of the metre gauge.

With the exception of a double road from Madras to Arkonam, the line is single throughout.

There are 105 stations, giving intervals of $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles, and 10 engine stations.

Work was commenced on the south-west line in June 1853, which, in July 1856, was opened to Arcot, 63 miles; through communication with Beypore being established in May 1862. Junction was effected with the Great Indian Peninsula Railway in March 1871.

Except on the double portion, the embankments are for a single track; but the bridges and viaducts are built for a double way, except on the Nilgiri and Bellary Branches. The rails weighing from 65 to 84 lbs. per yard are supported on iron pot sleepers, with the exception of a few miles near Beypore of creosoted pine. The south-west line was originally laid with sleepers of indigenous woods, but these were not found to answer, and have nearly all been replaced by iron.

6. Great Indian Peninsula.—This line starting from Bombay divides into two at Kalyán on the 33rd mile, the north-east line, 582, miles * meeting the East Indian Railway at Jubbulpore with a branch of 245 miles to Nágpur, and a short coal line of 12 miles to Mohpáni, and the south-east line, 409 miles,* meeting the Madras Railway at Raichur, with a branch of $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles to Campuli at the foot of the Ghauts (seldom worked). Besides those above mentioned, there are junctions with the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway at Dadur, the Dhond and Manmad State Railway at Dhond and Manmad, the Wardha Coal Railway at Wardha, the two small Berar lines and the Nizam's Railway, all of the same gauge, and also with the metre-gauge Nagpur and Chhattisgarh State Railway at Nagpur.

There are 325 miles of double road.

There are 163 stations at average intervals of nearly 8 miles, and 17 engine stations. Construction was commenced in October 1850, and a length of $20\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Bombay to Thána was opened in April 1853; this was the first Railway opened in India.

Excepting the double portion the earthwork is for a single line, and the bridges and viaducts for a double line of rails. Most of the rails weigh 68 lbs. per yard; on some short lengths, however, rails weighing 84 lbs. to the yard have been laid. Most of the rails are of iron, but are being replaced by steel as renewals become necessary. The sleepers are chiefly of wood with a portion of iron bowls.

7. Bombay, Baroda and Central India.—The Railway runs nearly due north from Bombay, skirting the coast for 200 miles of its length, it has two short branches, viz., from Ánand to Páli, 32 miles, and from Virangám to Kharághora, $22\frac{1}{2}$ miles; this latter is the property of the State, but is worked as part of the Company's undertaking.

The junction with the Great Indian Peninsula Railway being only 6 miles from Bombay is used solely for the exchange of goods traffic. There are junctions with the Bhavnagar-Gondal and the Rajputana State Railways, both metre-gauge, at Wadhwán and Sabarmati near Ahmedabad respectively, there are also two junctions with His Highness the Gackwar's line of 2 feet 6 inches gauge at Miyágám and Baroda.

The Railway has a double track for short sections, aggregating 23 miles in length.

There are 74 stations at an average distance of 6 miles apart, and 8 engine stations.

Work was commenced in May 1856, and the first section from Amroli to Anklesvar, $28\frac{1}{2}$ miles, was opened in February 1860. In January 1861, $43\frac{1}{2}$ miles were opened from Baroda to the south, and before the end of the year communication between Bulsar and Baroda (23 miles) was established; this length was not connected with Bombay until November 1864, when the main line to Ahmedabad may be said to have been completed.

Except on the double portions, the earthwork is for a single line, the bridge piers and abutments being generally built for a double road. With the exception of a short length of Adams' rails, the double-headed rail, weighing 68 lbs. per yard has been used throughout the main line, supported for the most part on wooden sleepers; iron bowls being used in suitable places. The Wadhwán Branch is laid with 60 lbs. rails on iron bowl sleepers.

8. Calcutta and South-Eastern.—This line extends from Calcutta to Port Canning, it was constructed under a guarantee at the time the Port Canning Company were endeavouring to divert some of the Calcutta shipping business to Canning. In consequence of the Railway having been worked at a loss since its opening (May 1863), the Company surrendered it to Government, under the provisions of their contract, on the 1st April 1868, since which date the net earnings have amounted to nearly one lakh of rupees. The line is laid with a single track throughout. There are 8 stations at an average distance of 4 miles. It is proposed to utilize the first 10 miles of this Railway to form part of a line connecting Calcutta with Diamond Harbour.

9. Patna-Gya.—This Railway connects Bankipore on the East Indian Railway with Gya, it has a single track throughout, which for the first 29 miles has been laid on an existing road with few deviations, the remainder has its own alignment. The rails weigh 60 lbs. to the yard, and are supported on iron bowl sleepers.

The first 28 miles were opened in April, and the remaining 29 miles in June 1879. At the end of 1880, the interest on Capital had been more than recouped by the net earnings. There are 8 stations, at an average distance apart of 8 miles. There are proposals for extending this line to Palamow.

10. Dildarnagar-Ghazipur.—This line is being worked as a branch of the East Indian Railway.

11. Dhond-Mannad.—This is a chord line between the two trunk lines of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. It was constructed by the State, but is now being worked as part of the latter. There are 18 stations, being at an average distance apart of 8½ miles.

12. Wardha Coal.—This Railway was constructed to carry the coal from the Warora Mines to the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, and its traffic chiefly depends on the out-put of coal which, owing to defects in machinery, was much restricted in 1880.

13. Sindia.—Until this year, 1881, the traffic on this line has been seriously affected by the want of the bridge over the Chambal. The line now extends from Agra to Gwalior, 75 miles, and is worked as part of the East Indian Railway.

14. Punjab Northern.—This Railway extends in a north-westerly direction from Lahore, its junction with the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway, to Attock on the Indus which is to be bridged, and the line carried on to Pesháwar, 276 miles.

There is a branch on the metre gauge from Lála Músa, 82 miles from Lahore, to Miani on the Jhelum, constructed chiefly for the carriage of salt. A branch has also been constructed from Rawalpindi to Khusálgarh on the Indus in the direction of Kohat. This was opened to Khusálgarh in April 1881.

The line is constructed with a single track throughout.

From Lahore to Pindi, 171 miles, the rails weigh 60 lbs. to the yard, and are carried on cross-sleepers, chiefly of deodar. Beyond Pindi 62-lb. steel rails have been used.

Between Jhelum and Pindi the gradients are very heavy, $\frac{1}{50}$ and $\frac{1}{60}$ for considerable lengths, which adds considerably to the cost of working.

The line has been opened in a very incomplete state in order to accommodate the troop traffic to and from Afghanistan, and is only now being got into working order.

15. Indus Valley.—This line unites the two portions of the Sind, Punjab and Delhi Railway. There is a junction with the Kandahar Railway at Ruk near the north bank of the Indus, 320 miles from Kurrachee, and this Railway, which is open for 133 miles, is worked as a branch of the Indus Valley Railway. There is a branch from Sibi to Pir Chowki, 19 miles, almost ready for opening.

The line is laid with a single track throughout.

Excluding the branch there are 49 stations and 7 engine stations.

There is a break in the line by the Indus at Sukkur, and communication is kept up by means of a steam ferry. The river will eventually be bridged. The rails used weigh 60 lbs. to the yard, and are carried on cross-sleepers, chiefly of creosoted pine and deodar.

16 & 17. Khamgaon and Amraoti.—These short lines situated in Berar were constructed chiefly to connect the cotton marts of the names they bear with the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. They are now worked as branches of that Railway:

18. Nizam's.—This line connects the Great Indian Peninsula Railway at a point 376 miles from Bombay in the direction of Madras with Hyderabad, and is the property of the Nizam. Work was commenced about the middle of 1871, and the line was opened throughout in October 1874. There is a single track only, of which 87 miles are laid with double-headed 69-lb. rails on iron bowl sleepers, and the remainder with 60-lb. flat-footed rails on creosoted pine. There are 12 stations at average intervals of 11 miles, and 2 engine stations.

NARROW GAUGE.

1. South Indian.—This line which now has a metre gauge throughout originally consisted of several portions. The length from Negapatam to Erode, 167 miles, was commenced in May 1859, by the Great Southern of India Railway Company, and was completed on the 5 feet 6 inches gauge. The portion from Arkonam to Little Conjeeveram was commenced in March 1864 on the 3 feet 6 inches gauge, and in January 1868 a contract and 3 per cent. guarantee was granted to the Carnatic Railway Company for the extension to Cuddalore. In July 1874 the two undertakings were amalgamated under the title of the South Indian Railway, and the whole system is now on the metre gauge.

The earthwork and bridges are for a single way, except from Negapatam to Trichinopoly where the bridges have been built for a double road. On the section between Negapatam, the old rails weighing 68 lbs. to the yard, are laid on iron and wooden sleepers, but on the greater length of the system the rails are 40 3 lbs. to the yard on wooden sleepers.

There are 99 stations at average intervals of $6\frac{1}{2}$ miles and 10 engine stations.

2. Nalhati.—This short line meets the East Indian Railway at a point 145 miles from Calcutta. It was constructed on the 4 feet gauge by the Indian Branch Railway Company, and bought by the State in March 1872. It was opened for traffic in December 1863.

The line was laid on one half of a metalled road with rails weighing 32 lbs. per yard.

3. Northern Bengal.—Omitting the broad-gauge portion worked as part of the Eastern Bengal Railway, as noted above, this line extends from the north bank of the Ganges to Siliguri at the foot of the Himalayas, whence there is a steam tramway to Darjeeling.

There is a branch of 34 miles from Parbatipur to Kaunia on the River Teesta.

There are 30 stations on the line, rather less than 8 miles apart, and 6 engine stations.

The line is constructed for a single track, but sufficient land has been taken for a second line of rails.

The first section opened consists of 134 miles between the Atrai River and Jalpaiguri, and the Main Line was completed by the opening of the northern section in June 1875. The road is laid with 10-lb. rails on wooden cross-sleepers, chiefly creosoted pine with a proportion of sal and red gum.

4. Tirhoot.—With the exception of the short branch from Barh on the East Indian Railway, this line is located to the north of the Ganges. From Samastipur, 27 miles from Ganges bank, there is a branch to the north-west which was opened to Mozufferpore, 32 miles, in February 1877; this is now being extended to Bettiah, another 78 miles. The present Main Line continues from Samastipur to Durbhunga, 23 miles. The Durbhunga line, after having been partially opened for short periods, was finally opened for traffic in November 1875.

The line is single, and is built with 40 lbs. rails on wooden cross-sleepers, chiefly deodar.

The stations average a distance of $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles apart.

5. Muttra-Hathras.—This line, which connects the left bank of the River Jumna, opposite to the town of Muttra, with the East Indian Railway at a point 557 miles from Calcutta, borders and is partly laid on a metalled road. The rails weigh 30 lbs. to the yard, and are laid on wooden cross-sleepers, chiefly of deodar. An extension of 24 miles from Muttra to Achnera, on the Rajputana Railway, is in course of construction. On this length heavier metals will be used.

6. Cawnpore-Farukhabad.—This line is now open from Cawnpore on the East Indian Railway to Farukhabad, 86 miles. The first section, as far as Miran Scrai, 49 miles, was opened on the 15th December 1880.

6. Nagpur-Chhattisgarh.—This line starting from the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Station at Nagpur passes through the Cantonment of Kamptee, and takes a westerly direction; it was opened to Tumsar, 53 miles, for goods traffic in April 1880, and for passenger traffic in November. It is in contemplation to extend this line to Bilaspur, 261 miles, from Nagpur, with the view of opening out the rich grain-producing districts of Chhattisgarh.

8. Rangoon and Irrawaddy Valley.—The location of this line is expressed in its name. It was opened throughout its length from Rangoon to Prome in May 1877. The stations are a little short of 7 miles apart on an average. An extension of 42 miles to Allanmyo is included in the original proposal.

9. Rajputana.—This line connects the north-west portion of the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab with Bombay, via Rajputana, and the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway, its northern termini being at Delhi and Agra where there are junctions with the East Indian Railway, the junction with the Bombay and Baroda Railway being at Sabarmati near Ahmedabad. The lines from Delhi and Agra meet at Bandikui, 134 miles from the former, and 93 from the latter. There is a junction with the Holkar and Sindia-Neemuch Railway at Ajmere, and on the completion of this line the two Railways will probably be worked as one undertaking. There is a short Salt Branch to the Sambhar Lake leaving the Main Line at 184 miles from Agra. Through communication with Bombay was established on the 1st January 1881.

The line is constructed for a single track, but sufficient land has been taken for a double road. The rails weigh 36 and 40 lbs. per yard, but as renewals become necessary on the Main Line, the heavier rail is to be everywhere used. The sleepers used are chiefly deodar.

The stations are on the average $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles apart, and there are 10 engine stations.

10. Holkar and Sindia-Neemuch.—This Railway, which will shortly be opened throughout, extends from Khandwa on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway to Ajmere, passing through Indore, Neemuch and Nussערabad, and crossing the Vindhya Range. There is a branch, 12 miles long from Fatchabad, 25 miles from Indore, to Ujjain. The total length of the line will be 390 miles.

The stations are at average intervals of $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

The construction is similar to that of the Rajputana Line except that the sleepers are chiefly of creosoted pine.

11. Western Rajputana.—With the through opening of the Rajputana Railway on the 1st January 1881, this section became merged in the Main Line, and its existence as a separate Railway ceased.

12. Gaekwar of Baroda.—This line is the property of His Highness the Gaekwar of Baroda. The gauge is 2 feet and 6 inches. The rails are flat-footed weighing 30 lbs. to the yard, and are spiked to wooden sleepers. The entire line is on embankment, the formation width being 10 feet. The management and working is in the hands of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway Company. The stations are at intervals of 9 miles on the average.

RESOLUTION.

IN June last, when sanctioning the reconstruction of the Revenue and Agricultural Branch of the Government of India Secretariat, Her Majesty's Secretary of State invited a further consideration and development of the proposals of the Famine Commission in regard to the purposes and duties of Agricultural Departments in India. The main objects which the Commission had commended to the notice of such Departments were broadly described by His Lordship in the following terms :

Firstly.—More complete and systematic ascertaining and rendering available of the statistics of vital, agricultural, and economic facts for every part of India, in order that Government and its officers may always be in possession of an adequate knowledge of the actual condition of the country, its population, and resources.

Secondly.—The general improvement of Indian agriculture, with the view of increasing the food-supply and general resources of the people.

Thirdly.—Better and prompt organization of famine relief, whenever the actual approach of famine may be indicated by the statistical information.

The objects thus delineated may be briefly designated as agricultural inquiry, agricultural improvement, and famine relief.

2. It may be admitted that in dealing with questions of such consequence and magnitude as those indicated in the preceding paragraph, the Government of India has hitherto stood at considerable disadvantage. Though, under Lord Mayo's administration, a Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce was created at the head quarters of Government, the actual form which the Department assumed departed widely from Lord Mayo's conception of its proper constitution. Burdened with multiform and manifold duties, the new Department had neither the leisure nor the power to take up either directly or efficiently the many problems which affect the agriculture and rural economy of the Empire. Apart from the difficulties inseparable from the undue amount and variety of business thrown upon the Central Bureau, there was not in 1871 a single institution under any of the Provincial Administrations which had been devised for the furtherance of similar ends. It is hardly surprising, therefore, that, in the absence of any Provincial organization with which to hold correspondence, the Government of India, itself seldom initiative in action and depending in its execution of large measures upon the agencies which Local Governments can supply, found its injunctions inoperative and its schemes without positive result. The position at the present time is very different. In response to the invitation extended by the Imperial Government to the various provinces of the Empire, that they should adopt the recommendation of the Famine Commissioners to establish local Departments of Agriculture, a favourable acceptance of the proposal has already been received from many quarters. In the North-Western Provinces a Department has for four years been established, and a well organized provincial agency thereby secured, the duties of which the Local Government has now proposed to extend. An opening has long been afforded in Madras for the extension of agricultural knowledge in the establishment of an experimental farm and college at Sydapet. The sanction of the Secretary of State has already been received to the creation of an Agricultural Department in Burma. The Government of Bombay, moving in the same direction, has submitted its proposals to the Government of India and the Secretary of State. The Government of the Central Provinces has taken similar action, and a scheme for the attachment of an Agricultural Branch to the Settlement Department in the Punjab is at present before the Government of India. The time, therefore, has now come when the Government of India can hope to give a wider expansion to the ideas of 1871.

3. In giving expression to their recommendations the Famine Commissioners have with great distinctness intimated that, apart from any special organization which may be required to meet the exigencies of famine, or to enter into any new field of agricultural experiments, a permanent agency should be closely associated with the existing authorities in each province for the systematic prosecution of agricultural inquiry. The importance of this view, which directs attention to those duties of the Agricultural Department which must precede any attempt at agricultural improvement, has hitherto been far too greatly overlooked. Indications, not altogether absent from the proposals submitted in connection with Agricultural Departments have, from time to time and in various ways, been afforded to the Government of India that in public and official opinion the first and main duty of an Agricultural Department is to be the conduct of agricultural experiments and the supervision of model farms. This supposition is one which, at the outset, it is desirable to correct, as it obscures the relative importance of the various objects which the Agricultural Departments now contemplated are intended to fulfil.

4. Of the three objects distinguished by the Secretary of State as the special aim of Agricultural Departments, the third, or that relating to famine relief, will not, on the present occasion, be particularly discussed. The Draft Famine Code prepared by the Secretary to the Famine Commissioners is still before various local authorities, and until their views are known, it would be premature to consider what special or temporary arrangements should be made in time of famine, of which happily there is no prospect during the present season. Consideration must, therefore, be primarily given to the development of a permanent organization in each province of such a character as may be most compatible with existing administrative arrangements with the view of confiding to it the execution of those measures which may be required for the maintenance of a thorough system of agricultural inquiry.

Such an inquiry cannot fail to lead, in the course of time, to sounder conclusions as to the direction in which it is desirable either to attempt agricultural improvement, or to afford protection to the agricultural population against the difficulties and dangers of famine and drought.

5. The desirability of closely associating the permanent organization thus required with the existing administrative staff is, throughout the report of the Famine Commissioners, strongly indicated. The system, they write, should be "worked by the ordinary official staff, supplemented, where necessary, to meet the special circumstances of the case." Financial exigencies, indeed, render it imperative that no other course should be adopted. While therefore insisting on the necessity for a permanent establishment for the purpose of collecting and keeping up to date the knowledge of the country necessary for its administration, the Government of India does not desire to prescribe any definite rules for an uniform organization. Necessarily, its shape must vary with the character of the arrangements already in force under each Government. In some provinces the existing machinery may be regarded as needing no more than some slight re-adjustment or modification. In others, the question may arise of transferring to the control of an Agricultural Department duties now performed under the supervision of some other authority; elsewhere the probability of more extensive alterations may have to be faced. In all cases the necessity of securing to the Agricultural Department an accurate and comprehensive knowledge of agricultural life and practices is to be thoroughly considered. But it is equally imperative that economy and the utilization to the fullest extent of means already available should be accepted as the guiding principles of administrative arrangements. Subject to these remarks, the first question which the Government of India desires to consider in communication with Local Governments and Administrations is in what way a permanent organization can be made most conveniently to meet the local circumstances of each province.

6. In this connection the advantage of bringing an Agricultural Department, in that section of its duties which appertains to agricultural inquiry, into close connection with any official organization already constructed, or at any future time required for the assessment of revenue, for the investigation of rent rates and other issues between landlords and tenants, or for the revision and maintenance of village records, cannot be overlooked. In the words of the Famine Commissioners, "the success of an Agricultural Department would mainly depend on the completeness and accuracy with which agricultural and economic facts are collected in each village and compiled in each sub-division and district throughout the country." The Department would thus naturally acquire that very knowledge which it has hitherto been the main effort of a settlement staff to attain. Without doubt, too, a permanent department of this kind would, in course of time, become more competent to deal with questions of settlement, demanding as they do an intimate acquaintance with agricultural conditions, than any temporary department forced to gain a hurried experience at great cost to the country during the actual process of assessment. Nor must it be forgotten that as the Department would be a permanent branch of the ordinary administration, the evils which attend the influx of temporary establishments, or which result from prolonged and harassing investigations, would, as indicated in a recent resolution on revision of settlements, be avoided.

7. The Lieutenant-Governors of the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces have substantially accepted these views in proposing to connect the work of the new departments very closely with the conduct of, or the preparation for, settlement operations.

The administrative arrangements have hitherto differed somewhat widely in these two provinces. In the North-Western Provinces, an Agricultural Department has, during the last few years, been entrusted with the establishment and improvement of the subordinate machinery by which village statistics are maintained, and by which the history of every estate in the Province is annually placed on record. But hitherto no direct duties have been assigned to the Department in connection with Settlement proceedings. In the Punjab, on the other hand, there exists a practically permanent settlement staff, but its connection with any particular district ceases on the completion of assessment; no complete system has been adopted for the continuous collection and record of agricultural information. The Government of the North-Western Provinces has now proposed that its Agricultural Department should undertake the work of preparing districts for settlement, whilst the Punjab Government desires to place all permanent duties connected with agricultural inquiry and improvement under its existing settlement staff. Thus, the final result, though approached from opposite directions, is in both provinces identical. A similar combination may elsewhere be found practicable by which the Agricultural Department can be made to form an essential link in the administrative chain. It is neither necessary nor advisable that the new Department should either exercise independent authority or should interfere with the responsibility of the local officials who are at present charged with the duty of maintaining any system of agricultural records and observation. The Department may undoubtedly be utilized by the governing authorities in assisting them to control and maintain any organization required for the continuous supply of agricultural information, yet its chief duty will be to deduce from the facts and figures thus supplied those conclusions or suggestions which the Famine Commissioners have shown to be necessary to the administration of a province.

8. In considering this part of the subject, it is necessary to point out that the agricultural inquiry should not be confined to the mere collection or collation of statistics in the ordinary acceptation of the term. An examination of the portion of the Famine Commissioners' report which deals with agricultural inquiry will show that, in recommending with reiterated force an intelligent system of investigation, their final object is to urge through its means, and as a practical outcome of its results, the policy of maintaining agricultural operations at the highest attainable standard of efficiency. The Government of India fully accepts this definition of a most important aim of agricultural inquiry. The maintenance of agricultural operations implies the full sustenance of agricultural labour and the complete provision of agricultural requirements, and in India this means that cultivators, their families and cattle, must be properly fed, and their need for labour, irrigating machinery, and agricultural implements adequately met. Now insufficiency of food as well as the deterioration or lack of mechanical appliances must diminish the effectiveness of labour, and thereby reduce the produce of the country. If, therefore, through rack-renting or any unsuitable system of collecting rent, or from inability to obtain capital on reasonable terms, or if from accidents of season and other causes, the amount of produce becomes less than sufficient to provide the sustenance and appliances required by labour and land, it becomes the imperative duty of Government to ascertain whether any legitimate means can be provided to check the degradation of agriculture which must otherwise ensue. On the other hand, if by any means the efficiency of agricultural operations can be increased, a larger amount of produce will be available both for the support of labour and the provision of mechanical requirements, and also for the rent fund from which the land revenue of the country is derived. Thus, apart from any consideration of the suffering due to an inadequate food-supply, a great economic error is committed if the agricultural operations of the country are allowed to fall below the standard of full efficiency. The relief or prevention of such deterioration is therefore an object which should have prominence in the work of every provincial Agricultural Department.

9. In investigating the conditions under which the agriculture of any part of a province is exposed to deteriorating influences, it is necessary, first, to localize the evil, then to discover its cause, and finally, to devise such protective arrangements as may remove or alleviate its injurious action. In India no causes tend more forcibly to the inefficiency of agricultural operations than the uncertainty of produce due to variation of season and the incompatibility of fiscal arrangements with this condition. The numerous indications which are given of agricultural distress in various parts of the country are found with few exceptions to point to the existence of these factors as its prime causes. The first step, therefore, in the required direction, is to submit each province to a careful examination and to ascertain the extent to which in each part of its area its agricultural outturn may be considered as secure. Some tracts or villages will be found in which it is, in all seasons, even those of general famine, completely safe; others in which it is secure in ordinary but not in exceptional seasons; and others again in which it continually fluctuates. In the prosecution of such an analysis no general assumption is sufficient. There is, indeed, no great difficulty in demarcating extensive areas in which the produce of every season may be broadly recognized as approximately secure or as altogether precarious; but a much closer investigation than is thus indicated is required from the Agricultural Department. Many facts have been brought before the Government of India which prove that there are dispersed throughout tracts of prevailing prosperity numerous localities of greater or less insecurity, which, though strongly enough marked when subjected to close analysis, are too often overlooked in the general business of administration. Thus, owing to the fact that canal water is often barred by physical causes from reaching the most thirsty land, areas totally unprotected by irrigation have been found in the very centre of a tract marked off en bloc as "secure against drought" and covered with a net-work of irrigating channels. So again there have been discovered cultivating communities depressed by debt, exaction, or some local calamity in the midst of the most prosperous populations. Occurrences of this character are especially common in parts of India lying on the margin of the monsoon area, and receiving, therefore, a rainfall which, while sufficient to attract a large population, is so capricious as to be the continual cause of partial and sporadic drought. It is certain that a vast amount of distress and indebtedness has been due to the absence of administrative interposition when such isolated cases of insecurity occur in small areas and detached groups of villages. No assurance can therefore be accepted that any province is secure against agricultural difficulties and distress until a detailed investigation of the condition of every part of it has been made and a system established under which a thorough knowledge of the circumstances of every village may be continuously maintained from year to year by competent officials. To this analysis of the rural economy and condition of each province the Governor General in Council attaches great importance. Each Local Government and Administration is accordingly invited to state in what way its Agricultural Department can be most usefully associated with already existing agencies in the conduct of these investigations.

10. When such an analysis has in any province succeeded in ascertaining the cause of agricultural difficulties and distress in any locality in which they exist, the Agricultural Department should at once endeavour to strike at the root of the evil by positive treatment. It may be that the remedy will be found in the improvement of communications, the construction of canals or wells, the plantation of forests or fodder reserves, the supply of seed-grain and cattle, or the promotion of emigration. It may be that some reform in the fiscal system or in the laws relating to landlords and tenants is required in order to enable the cultivating community to protect its own agricultural interests. Careful inquiry will inevitably result in useful suggestions, or in sound action.

11. The Department having thus primarily directed its attention to those parts of the country in which agriculture is depressed or its result uncertain, may hereafter give consideration to the general improvement of agriculture by the introduction of new staples and implements, the trial of new industries, and the experimental adoption of new methods. In dealing with these questions it may, as time goes on, become the duty of the Department to inquire how far the physical researches of the West may be beneficially applied to the agricultural system of this country, and to associate with itself in this investigation the assistance of qualified experts. Engineering science would be required for the construction of works of irrigation or of improved agricultural implements; the science of the veterinary surgeon will be necessary when the breeding or diseases of cattle are dealt with; the science of forestry is called for in arboriculture and reboisement, and science of divers kinds for the development of various industries. Finally, the science of agricultural chemistry will be demanded for the solution of many important agricultural problems. Recognizing, however, the existence of these great wants, the Government of India does not now invite any proposals to supply them. These questions must be deferred until Agricultural Departments have been securely organized in accordance with the special constitution of each Administration, and have set on foot the system of inquiry and analysis which has been indicated in foregoing paragraphs of this Resolution.

12. The Government of India desires, moreover, to express its conviction that in dealing with agricultural improvement the earliest ambition of the Agricultural Departments should be to secure the active aid of those members of the Native community who are sincerely interested in agriculture. It is after all only through and by the Native community that agricultural improvements can on any important scale be effected. Native gentlemen have experience and facilities for extending improvements which no official can hope to obtain, while in many provinces they have a large amount of capital available for investment in agricultural enterprise. They are familiar with the usages of the cultivating classes. They understand the existing system of Indian agriculture, and they are often acquainted with the local reasons which justify practices that may seem strange and illogical to an European observer. They can therefore best guide the course of agricultural improvement with the least disturbance of existing circumstances, and develop the true policy of progress in improving and adding to indigenous conditions without that subversion of ideas and methods which is likely to accompany the introduction of exotic reforms. To secure their co-operation is therefore an important object. Nor must it be forgotten that a further valuable source of information and advice exists in the European community of planters and landlords, who have already given a useful lead to Native enterprise in the adaptation of Western appliances to the agricultural system of the East.

13. The views of the Government of India may be summed up by saying that the foundation of the work of an Indian Agricultural Department should be the accurate investigation of facts with the view of ascertaining what administrative course is necessary to preserve the stability of agricultural operations. It is desired therefore that the new departments should be so constituted as to give the fullest effect to this policy. The primary efforts of the departments should when established be devoted to the organization of agricultural inquiry, which has been shown to comprise the duties of gauging the stability of agricultural operations in every part of a province, of classifying the areas of the province according to the result of careful investigation, and of deciding what method of administrative treatment is suitable to each, so as to maintain agricultural operations up to the highest standard of efficiency possible under present conditions. From a system of agricultural enquiries thus conducted will follow the gradual development of agricultural improvement in its manifold variety, and the Government of India will be satisfied if, on the first constitution of an Agricultural Department, the organization of agricultural inquiry is placed in the hands of qualified officials, to whom may be committed the subsequent preparation of carefully considered proposals for agricultural improvement.

The 13th December 1881.

No. 1943.—

From the Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, to the Secretary to the Government of Bombay.

The Governor General in Council has reason to believe that persons interested in the development of local industries are anxious to utilise water-power instead of steam and would be glad to obtain sites from Government where existing water-power can be utilised to advantage.

2. Such sites undoubtedly exist in the Bombay Presidency in various places where other conditions afford promise of success in the prosecution of manufacturing industry on a large scale. It is not, however, easy to induce private speculators to undertake the slow and laborious, and somewhat costly task of seeking out for themselves the most promising sites for factories to be worked by water. The Governor General in Council is, as the Government of Bombay is aware, most desirous to do all in his power to aid private capital in the development of the industrial capacity of the country, and one of the most efficient means of giving help is to obtain and place before the public all available and procurable data in regard to the conditions under which enterprises may be commenced in places still unknown to the general public.

3 I am accordingly directed to request that His Excellency the Governor in Council may be moved to collect and furnish to the Government of India, at as early a date as possible, all available information connected with sites in the Bombay Presidency where water-power exists sufficient for putting in motion the machinery of an extensive factory. The report in each case should state, among other things, the estimated force obtainable from the water, the general circumstances of the locality, its distance from the nearest railway station, and the quantity of labour and carriage generally available.

4. I am also to request that you will be good enough to state whether any applications have as yet been made to the Government of Bombay for such sites, and, if so, what orders have been passed in each case.

ORDERED, that the foregoing letter be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

The 16th December 1881.

PROMOTIONS.

No. 680.—STAFF CORPS.—

The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following extracts of a Military letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 372, dated the 10th November, 1881 :—

Para. 1. I forward, for the information and guidance of your Lordship's Government, the accompanying copy of Her Majesty's Royal Warrant of 25th June 1881, regulating the pay, promotion, and non-effective pay of the Army, with effect from the 1st July 1881, throughout the British dominions except, as regards full pay and allowances, India.

2. With regard to the operation of the Warrant in India, your Lordship will observe that power is reserved to me to submit for Her Majesty's approval such modifications in the Royal Warrant of the 6th September 1878 as are the necessary result of the changes instituted in the Warrant of the 25th June, and such changes of pay and emoluments as appear desirable in consequence of the recently sanctioned organization of Her Majesty's British Forces.

* * *

5. It is not necessary that a special Royal Warrant should be issued for regulating the promotion and retirement of Officers of the several Staff Corps, all that is needed is that the Secretary of State for India in Council shall lay down such rules within the limits prescribed as the Royal Warrant of 25th June 1881 empowered him to do.

6. I accordingly forward, for information and guidance, the rules which the new Warrant appears to me to call for. These are concurred in by the Secretary of State for War.

* * *

8. I have already addressed your Lordship on the subject of the pensions for those Officers who join the Staff Corps after the 1st July 1881, and I now desire to inform your Government what has been decided under Article 107-1 of the Royal Warrant with respect to their retirement in the several grades.

9. Those Officers will come under the compulsory retirement clause of the Royal Warrant on attaining the age of 55 years in the rank of Colonel, of 62 years in the rank of Major-General, and 67 years in the rank of Lieutenant-General or General. Up to the age of 55, there will be no compulsory retirement on account of age from the Staff Corps. Non-employment for five years in the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel or Colonel, and non-employment as a General Officer for five years continuously since his promotion to Major-General, or non-employment for seven years continuously from the time of his last employment as Colonel, will involve compulsory retirement on the pensions elsewhere laid down, or in the grade of—

Major-General, at 62, at 800% a year,
Lieutenant-General, at 67, at 900% a year,
General, at 67, at 1,000% a year, with voluntary retirement in those grades of—

Major-General, at 60, on 750%,
Lieutenant-General, at 65, on 850%,
General, at 65, at 950%.

10. I have already informed you that Officers in receipt of good service pensions will not retain them after retirement on pension.

11. The regulations under which Officers of the Indian Service may be placed on half pay will, of course, apply to those now joining the Staff Corps, with this further addition, that an Officer who, after six years' service on the half-pay list, whether continuous or otherwise, is not reported fully qualified for active service in India, will be then placed permanently on the half-pay retired list, and will not be eligible for further employment. An Officer so circumstanced, may, if entitled to pension, retire on that pension, for which, however, his service on half pay will not count as qualifying service.

REGULATIONS FOR THE PROMOTION AND TRANSFER TO AN UNEMPLOYED SUPERNUMERARY LIST OF THE OFFICERS OF HER MAJESTY'S INDIAN STAFF CORPS.

I. Promotion in the Staff Corps shall continue as at present, with the following exceptions :—

Four years' service in the Staff Corps, with the substantive rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, shall qualify for the Brevet rank of Colonel, instead of five years, as heretofore.

Article 12, Clauses (c, sub-sections 1 and 2), of the Warrant of the 25th June shall be applied to the Officers of the Staff Corps, the Secretary of State for India in Council being substituted for the Secretary of State for War.

II. General Officers shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list on completing the ages and periods of non-employment fixed under Articles 106 and 107 of the Warrant of the 25th June, for the compulsory retirement of the General Officers of the British Service.

III. Colonels who entered the Staff Corps on or before the 12th September 1866 shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list, provided they are in receipt of Colonel's allowance, and not in military employ, and Colonels who entered the Staff Corps after that date, whether in receipt of the allowance and employed or not :—

If they attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel before the 1st October 1877—at the age of 59 years until the 1st July 1885, and after that date at the age of 58 years.

If they attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel on or after the 1st October 1877—at the age of 55 years.

IV. In special cases, where it may appear desirable, the Secretary of State in Council may delay the transfer of an Officer to, or, in the case of those under the Parliamentary guarantee, bring an Officer back from, the unemployed supernumerary list.

V. Of the above regulations, Clauses II and III shall not affect Officers whose admissions to the Staff Corps shall bear date on or after the 1st July 1881. On attaining to the rank of General Officer or Colonel in the Army, these Officers will come as regards the limits of age and periods of non-employment under the retirement Articles of the Royal Warrant of the 25th June 1881; the amounts of their pensions, non-effective pay, &c., being governed by Indian regulations.

No. 681.—INDIAN ARMY—

The Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication of the following additional extracts of the above quoted Military letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 372, dated the 10th November, 1881, together with the Royal Warrants therein referred to :—

3. I now forward, for your Lordship's information, and guidance, two Warrants which have received Her Majesty's sanction, one providing for the transfer to an "Unemployed Supernumerary List" of General Officers and Colonels of Her Majesty's Indian Forces who have attained certain limits of age, or who have been continuously unemployed for certain periods, the other providing for the promotion of the Officers of Her Majesty's Indian Forces on the effective list.

4. In the first Warrant the limits of age and non-employment have been taken generally from the Royal Warrant of the 25th June 1881, but some of the provisions of that Warrant have been somewhat relaxed in the case of those Officers who are under the previous conditions of service. In the second Warrant the existing regulations have been modified in accordance with the terms of the Warrant of 25th June, the necessary reductions being made in the establishment of General Officers.

Royal Warrant for the Formation of the Unemployed Supernumerary List.

Victoria, by the grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland Queen, Defender of the Faith, Empress of India.

Whereas it has been represented to Us that it is expedient to provide for the transfer to an unemployed supernumerary list of General Officers and Colonels of Our Indian Forces who have attained certain limits of age or who have been continuously unemployed for certain periods;

Our will and pleasure is that, with effect from and after the 1st day of July 1881, the following rules shall be established for that purpose :—

1. Transfer to the retired list under Our Warrant of the 31st December 1877 shall cease.

2. A Major-General shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list on attaining the age of 62 years, and a Lieutenant-General or General on attaining the age of 67 years.

3. A General Officer shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list after being unemployed for five years continuously since his promotion to Major-General, or after being unemployed for seven years continuously from the time of his last employment as Colonel.

4. A Colonel of the "local service," that is, an Officer whose appointment was not made subject to the conditions prescribed in the General Order of Our Governor General of India in Council, dated the 9th December 1859, No. 1637, shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list, provided he is in receipt of Colonel's allowance and not in military employ,—

If he attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel before the 1st October 1877,—at the age of 59 years until the 1st July 1885, and after that date at the age of 58 years.

If he attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel on or after the 1st October 1877,—at the age of 55 years.

5. A Colonel of the "general list," that is, an Officer whose appointment was made subject to the above-mentioned General Order, shall be placed on the unemployed supernumerary list on attaining the age of 55 years.

6. In the event of an Officer being called to, or engaged on, active service in the field, at or about the time when, under any article of this Our Warrant, he would be liable to be transferred to the unemployed supernumerary list, Our Secretary of State for India in Council may, on the recommendation of Our Governor General in Council, extend his term of service during the continuance of the emergency as a supernumerary to the establishment.

7. If in any special case, not under the terms of the preceding article, it appears desirable to postpone the transfer of an Officer to the unemployed supernumerary list, Our Secretary of State for India in Council may, upon the recommendation of Our Governor General in Council, so postpone it.

8. Our Secretary of State for India in Council, upon the recommendation of Our Governor General in Council, may also bring back an Officer from the supernumerary unemployed list to the effective list, should it appear essential to the interests of Our Service to do so.

9. An Officer whose case has been specially treated under Articles 6, 7, or 8 shall, so long as he remains on the effective list, be supernumerary thereon.

Given at Our Court at Balmoral, this twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, and in the forty-fifth year of Our reign.

By Her Majesty's Command,
HARTINGTON.

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A "promissory note" is an instrument in writing (not being a banknote or a currency-note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Illustrations.

- A signs instruments in the following terms :—
 (a). "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."
 (b). "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000, to be paid on demand, for value received."
 (c). "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."
 (d). "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."
 (e). "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."
 (f). "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."
 (g). "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."
 (h). "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a) and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A "bill of exchange" is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

6. A "cheque" is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or, if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full," and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque, are payable on demand.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives prima facie authority to the holder thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance, or protest for non-acceptance.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight or on presentment is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted for non-acceptance, or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a). A negotiable instrument, dated 29th January, 1878, is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February, 1878.

(b). A negotiable instrument, dated 30th August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

(c). A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

26. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

27. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section twenty-six, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

28. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

29. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

30. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

31. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor of a bill of exchange are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him and caused by such default.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

34. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

36. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

37. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

38. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

39. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which, under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

40. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright & Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright & Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

41. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

42. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, indorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without indorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Exception 1.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

44. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

45. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV. OF NEGOTIATION.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

47. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

48. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

- (a) "Pay the contents to C only."
- (b) "Pay C for my use."
- (c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."
- (d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

- (e) "Pay C."
- (f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded as mentioned in section fifty, indorse and negotiate the same.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a). The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

“Without recourse.”

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b). A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an indorsement “without recourse,” he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

53. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

54. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained as to crossed cheques, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

55. If a negotiable instrument, after having been indorsed in blank, is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be indorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

57. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

58. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

59. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration, for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it, deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

60. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

61. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight (if he can after reasonable search be found) by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance, allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

65. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

66. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

67. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

68. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

69. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

71. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

72. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

74. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-one, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

75. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or, where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(d) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

77. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

78. Subject to the provisions of section eighty-two, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount of the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

82. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming by cancellation ;

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge ;

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours, exclusive of public holidays, to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

84. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment within a reasonable time, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

85. Where a cheque payable to order purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

86. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners, is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder they assent to such acceptance.

Explanation.—An acceptance is qualified—

(a) where it is conditional, declaring the payment to be dependent on the happening of an event therein stated ;

(b) where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid ;

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place and not otherwise or elsewhere ; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere ;

(d) where it undertakes the payment at a time other than that at which under the order it would be legally due.

87. Any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties ; and any such alteration, if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five.

88. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

89. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered but does not appear to have been so altered, or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay, and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

90. If a bill of exchange which has been negotiated is, at or after maturity, held by the acceptor in his own right, all rights of action thereon are extinguished.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

91. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill, or where presentment is excused and the bill is not accepted.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract, or the acceptance is qualified, the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

92. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section ninety-three.

96. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

97. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary. 98. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

99. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

100. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

101. A protest under section one hundred must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(d) when the note or bill has been dishonoured, the place and time of dishonour, and, when better security has been refused, the place and time of refusal;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such

Notice of protest. protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance. some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested

Protest of foreign bills. protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

105. In determining what is a reasonable

Reasonable time. time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and, in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

106. If the holder and the party to whom

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour. notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice. seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or

Acceptance for honour. protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Unless the person who intends to accept supra protest first declares, in the presence of a notary, that he does it for honour, and has such declaration duly recorded in the notarial register at the time, his acceptance shall be a nullity.

109. A person desiring to accept for honour

How acceptance for honour must be made. must, in the presence of a notary public, subscribe the bill with his own hand, and declare that he accepts under protest the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour; and such declaration must be recorded by the notary in his register.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made. whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

111. An acceptor for honour binds himself to

Liability of acceptor for honour. all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

112. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged

When acceptor for honour may be charged. unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment, and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

113. When a bill of exchange has been noted or

Payment for honour. protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

114. Any person so paying is entitled to all the Right of payer for honour. rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

115. Where a drawee in case of need is named

Drawee in case of need. in a bill of exchange, or in any indorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

116. A drawee in case of need may accept and Acceptance and payment without protest. pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dis-

Rules as to compensation. honour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

(a) the holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) when the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) an indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) when the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) the party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him, together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

Presumptions as to negotiable instruments. 118. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made of consideration; and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration;

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date;

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity;

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity;

(e) that the indorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon;

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped;

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that, where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

119. In a suit upon an instrument which has been dishonoured, the Court shall, on proof of the protest, presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

120. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

121. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

122. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

123. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

124. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

125. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

126. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

127. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

128. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

129. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

130. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

131. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XV. OF BILLS IN SETS.

132. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill.

133. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

CHAPTER XVI. OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured.

An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or indorsement made thereon in British India.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th December, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 24 of 1881.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Seditious Publications.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Seditious Publications; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Seditious Publications Act, 1882."

Local extent.
Commencement.

It extends to the whole of British India; and shall come into force at once.

2. Act No. IX of 1878 (An Act for the better control of Publications in the Oriental languages) and Act

No. XVI of 1878 (An Act to amend Act No. IX of 1878) are repealed.

3. After section 60 of Act No. XIV of 1866 (The Indian Post Office Act, 1866) the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"60A. Whenever any notification has been published under section nineteen of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, in respect of any newspaper, book, pamphlet, placard, broadsheet or other document, any officer of the Postal Department empowered in this behalf by the Governor General in Council, by name or in virtue of his office, may search or cause search to be made for any copies of the same in the custody of that Department, and shall deliver all such copies found to such officer as the Governor General in Council may appoint in this behalf by name or in virtue of his office, and such copies may be disposed of in such manner as the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Government of India is of opinion that a special law is no longer necessary to regulate the vernacular Press of India, and has, therefore, resolved to repeal the Vernacular Press Act, Act No. IX of 1878.

2. That Act dealt with two separate branches of the same subject, namely,

(a) vernacular publications printed in British India itself;

(b) the importation of vernacular publications printed elsewhere than in British India for circulation therein.

3. The importation of vernacular publications which are of a seditious nature can be prohibited by a notification under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878. Under section 172 of that Act, any Magistrate may, on application by a Customs Collector, search for prohibited goods, and under sections 167 and 168 the importer can be punished with fine. The Government has, therefore, power to prohibit the importation of seditious publications; after such prohibition, the Magistrates can search for, and seize, them when imported, and the importer can be punished.

It will be desirable to give the Post Office authorities power to search for and seize any such prohibited publications, and this can be done by adding a section to the Post Office Act, 1866. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared. It repeals Act No. IX of 1878 and the Act amending it, Act No. XVI of 1878, and adds to the Post Office Act, 1866, a section containing, with the necessary amendment, the provisions of section 15 of Act No. IX of 1878, which give power to the Post Office authorities to search for and seize prohibited publications.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES moved that the fourth Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques be taken into consideration. He said that this Bill was a good instance of the tendency to hasty legislation of which the Government of India was so constantly accused by the veracious newspapers on behalf of which his hon'ble friend opposite (Mr. Gibbs) was going to address the Council. Drawn originally in 1866 by the late Indian Law Commission, and intended to be one of the chapters of the Indian Civil Code, it was introduced without alteration in December, 1867,—just fourteen years ago,—and referred to a Select Committee. The then mercantile members of this Council, while admitting the desirability of codifying the rules relating to negotiable instruments, objected to the Bill on account of its numerous deviations from English law, and they were supported in their objection by the criticisms which in the years 1868—1869 were sent in to the Legislative Department. Strong objection was also taken to the omission from the Bill of any saving of the customs of native merchants regarding hundis. To obviate these objections the Bill was, in 1877, recast in the Legislative Department, Mr. Phillips of the Calcutta Bar, then Legislative Secretary, doing the bulk of this laborious and difficult piece of work with a skill and zeal of which Mr. Stokes had already spoken in this Council. A preliminary report was presented by the Select Committee in October, 1877, and the revised Bill was published in the Gazette of India and circulated to all the Local Governments for opinion and publication in the local Gazettes. Further criticisms from the Local Governments, the High Courts and the Chambers of Commerce came in, and these, with the Bill, were submitted to a Select Committee comprising, amongst others, the Advocate General of Bengal, Mr. Evans of the Calcutta Bar and Mr. E. C. Morgan, a leading Calcutta-merchant. These gentlemen reported in favour of the Bill, but made certain alterations both in wording and substance. The Bill as amended by them was published in the Gazette for February, 1879. It was then by orders of the Secretary of State referred to a new Law Commission, composed of Sir Charles Turner, Mr. Justice West and himself. That Commission reported that they had found little or nothing to change in the Bill, but thought that certain specified additions (some of which were suggested by Mr. Chalmers' able Digest of the Law of Bills of Exchange) might usefully be made to it. Of these the most important was in the second paragraph of section 1. That paragraph saved local usages relating to hundis and other instruments in an oriental language. But, in order to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of native shroffs to that of European merchants, the Law Commissioners recommended the insertion of a proviso that such usages might be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument indicating an intention that the legal relations of the parties should be governed by the proposed Act. He believed that this proviso (which had, as well as he remembered, been suggested by the practice of the Bank of Bengal for many years) would have the most beneficial results in ultimately rendering the custom of shroffs as to hundis identical with that of European bankers as to negotiable paper. An eminent critic (Sir James Stephen) of the Bill said that he "cannot see why uniformity of practice is desirable." The reason was that it prevented uncertainty and litigation as to what had been called the most cosmopolitan of all contracts, and that it facilitated dealings, not only between English and native merchants, but between native merchants in different parts of India. The practical working of a system of credit was made safer and more beneficial when the bills of exchange under which a banker or merchant was responsible were governed by precisely the same legal conditions as those on which he was a creditor, and in reference to which the others were issued or accepted.

The next stage in this long history was that the Bill as settled by the Law Commission was published in the Gazette of India, and that it was then, by order of the Secretary of State, communicated to the Select Committee, which at that time consisted of Mr. Bazett Colvin of the Bengal Civil Service Mr. Pitt Kennedy, Mr. Paul and himself.

A fourth report was then prepared. The Committee adopted most of the additions proposed by the new Law Commission, made some further unimportant changes and recommended that the Bill as thus amended be passed. Their report was published last January with the Bill as revised for the fourth time, and the Bill was again circulated for opinion and publication, and was translated into the vernacular by all the Local Governments with the single exception of British Burma. Considering the many years that the Bill had now been before the Council, the copious and searching criticism it had received from all or almost all competent persons in India, the number of times it had undergone revision, and the absence of all objection on the part of the Local Governments, Mr. Stokes had only to repeat what he said when presenting the fourth report last January, namely, that without the experience derived from its actual operation the Bill was not likely to be further improved. He trusted, therefore, that the Council would now follow the example of more than forty countries which had codified their rules on the subject, and allow this useful measure to become law; and he was authorised by his learned friend the Advocate General, who was unavoidably absent, to say that he fully concurred with him in thinking that the Bill might now take its place on the Indian Statute-book.

The Select Committee was well aware that the Bill did not deal exhaustively with the subject: no Bill could possibly do so. But it believed that the Bill, the Contract Act (to which it was a supplement) and the Evidence Act would, taken together, supply rules for the disposal of all the questions that ordinarily arose in British India as to the rights of parties to negotiable instruments.

MR. STOKES, in conclusion, expressed his deep sense of the obligations which the Government, and especially the Law Member, were under to the Additional Members who had successively served on the Select Committee on this Bill, and he wished also to acknowledge the valuable criticisms received officially and unofficially from his friends Sir Richard Garth, Sir Charles Turner, Mr. Wilkinson, the Recorder of Rangoon, and Mr. O'Sullivan, the Advocate General of Madras, from the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, from the Calcutta Trades Association, from Mr. Dickson, Mr. Scrymgeour, Mr. Franck and other officers of Indian banks, from Mr. Rattigan of the Lahore Bar, and last, but by no means least, from those distinguished native lawyers Lakshmi Nārāyana Pandit of Lucknow and Nánābhāi Haridās of Bombay.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that, in section 1, for the word "January," the word "March," be substituted. The object of this amendment was to postpone the commencement of the Act for two months, so as to give more time to judges and lawyers to familiarise themselves with its provisions.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that in section 3, paragraph 2, line 1, for the word "officer" the word "person" be substituted. The object of this amendment, which had been suggested by the Local Government of the Panjāb, was to authorise the appointment as notaries public (for the purpose of noting and protesting bills and hundis) of persons not being officers of Government. Such officers would, it was feared, be in some places too much occupied with their proper duties to undertake the additional functions of notaries under the proposed Act.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

INLAND EMIGRATION BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. RIVERS THOMPSON presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to Emigration to the Labour-districts of Bengal and Assam.

HINDÚ WILLS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES introduced the Bill to declare the extent of the testamentary power of Hindús and Buddhists, and to regulate their Wills, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Gibbs and Evans, the Hon'ble Mahārājā Jotindra Mohan Tagore and the Mover. He said that the Hindú Wills Act, 1870, had now been in force for eleven years in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the Chief Commissionership of Assam and the towns of Madras and Bombay. It had worked satisfactorily in preventing forgery, fraud and perjury. There was also reason to believe that it had enhanced the value of property by making the title thereto more readily ascertainable and by facilitating its transfer. The primary object of the present Bill was to extend to the rest of British India such of the provisions of the Act as had not been repealed by the Probate and Administration Act, 1861.

The opportunity had been taken to declare, in accordance with recent decisions, that a Hindú's right to bequeath was co-extensive with his power to alienate, except where in an undivided family the right to bequeath conflicted with the law of survivorship. MR. STOKES had submitted the wording of this declaration to his friend Mr. J. D. Mayne, who was probably, next to Professor Buhler of Vienna, the highest living authority on what was called Hindú law, and Mr. Mayne had expressed his approval of the clause.

In British Burma, the learned Recorder of Rangoon and the Judicial Commissioner, sitting as Judges of the Special Court, had recently decided that a Buddhist had no power to make a will. But both Judges were strongly in favour of conferring the power by legislative enactment. The Local Government remarked that "the Burmese of the larger towns are in the habit of making wills. They are very ready to adopt the practices of advanced civilisation where they recognise their advantages, and they are quick to discover the merits of any particular custom. In the course of the rapid progress which their country is making, they have easily perceived the benefits of a power of regulating the devolution of property by will, and a genuine want for this power has in consequence grown up." The Bill, therefore, expressly declared that every Buddhist might bequeath the property in the cases and to the extent in and to which he might transfer the same.

As there possibly were in some parts of the empire Hindús and Buddhists to whom it might be inexpedient to apply the rules for the execution, attestation, revocation, revival and interpretation of wills, power had been given to each Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to exempt from all or any of those rules the members of any race, sect or tribe throughout the whole or any specified portion of the territories administered by such Government.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

SEDITIONOUS PUBLICATIONS BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. GIBBS moved for leave to introduce a Bill to amend the law relating to Seditious Publications. He said—

"My Lord, I have the honour to move for leave to introduce a Bill to repeal Act IX of 1878 and its amending Act, XVI of 1878.

"It will be remembered that what is commonly known as the Vernacular Press Act was introduced and passed at a time when it was considered that some further restriction than the law then allowed should be placed on the freedom which the writers in the vernacular press enjoyed, and which it was considered they had abused, and this, not because the provisions of the Indian Penal Code had been tried and been found wanting,—although legal opinions had been obtained throwing doubt on the provision of that Code being sufficient for the purpose,—but to give the Government the power, when necessary, of its own motion to stop seditious writing without having recourse to the ordinary tribunals of the country. The measure, I believe, was considered more in the light of a preventive than of a punitive nature.

"Whether so severe a measure as Act IX of 1878 was needed or not it is not now necessary for me to inquire, but since its passing into law it has never been fully put into operation against any vernacular publication in British India, and its exceptional nature has doubtless prevented it being made use of, it going much further than its alleged precedent, the Irish Press Act, did, and rendering necessary, at all events in the opinion of the present Government, the existence of a state of circumstances far more serious than happily has occurred for many years to justify its being placed in full operation. For these reasons the question of its repeal has been very carefully considered, with the result that a Bill for that purpose has been prepared, and for permission to introduce which is the object of my present motion.

"Act IX of 1878 dealt with two separate questions, namely, seditious writings in—

- (1) vernacular publications in British India, and
- (2) vernacular publications printed elsewhere and imported into British India.

"With regard to the latter subject, the Act had been put into force on the occasion of an attempt to import into this country a very objectionable publication issued in Turkey. It is not intended that the power so given to the Government should be done away with, but it will be preserved in a different form, namely, by an executive order under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act of 1878 and a re-enactment, in the form of an addition to the Indian Post-office Act of 1866, of the 15th section of the Act now to be repealed. A combination of these will give Government full power to stop the import of any objectionable publications issued abroad and to punish attempts to infringe the law on the subject.

"Should any seditious communications in publications issued within British India be brought to the notice of Government, the law as provided by the Indian Penal Code can, if necessary, be had recourse to, while, should a state of things unhappily arise at any time in this country which would compel Government to take exceptional measures beyond what the law of the Penal Code would permit, the present Government at all events would not shrink from taking such steps as might be deemed necessary and justifiable. But in a normal condition of affairs it is considered sufficient to leave the law as it stood before the passing of Act IX of 1878."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

POWERS-OF-ATTORNEY BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. STOKES introduced the Bill to amend the law relating to Powers-of-Attorney, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Gibbs, Reynolds and Evans and the Mover. He said that, as the law stood, the donee of a power-of-attorney, when executing an instrument pursuant to the power, must sign, and, where sealing was required, must seal, in his principal's name. The first object of this Bill was to render it legal for such donees to execute in and with their own names and seals. The law respecting the execution of instruments under powers-of-attorney would thus be made accordant with what would be the rule in England from and after the 31st December, 1881, and with what was believed to be the practice of the Natives in the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, British Burma and, probably, elsewhere in India. The section effecting this was copied from section 46 of the recent Statute 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, which took effect from the close of the present year.

The second object of the Bill was to preclude doubts as to the liability of a donee of a power-of-attorney who made payments in good faith after the donor of the power had died or become lunatic or bankrupt or insolvent, or had revoked the power, when the fact of death, lunacy, bankruptcy, insolvency or revocation was not known to the donee at the time of making the payment. The section effecting this was copied from section 47 of the Statute above-mentioned, and merely extended to all attorneys the rule as to trustees, executors and administrators making payments under powers, which had been in force in British India for the last fifteen years—see Act XXVIII of 1866, section 39.

The third and last object of the Bill was to provide for the deposit of instruments creating powers-of-attorney, and for the evidence of the contents of such instruments. The section effecting this was copied (with the modifications necessary to adapt it to India) from 44 & 45 Vic., c. 41, section 48. It might also be worth while to declare (in accordance with section 40 of that Statute) that married women, whether minors or not, should have power to appoint attorneys on their behalf for the purpose of executing a deed or doing any other act which they might themselves execute or do. The matter would be considered by the Select Committee to which he hoped the Bill would now be referred.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

PRISONERS' ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. STOKES also introduced the Bill to amend the Prisoners' Act, 1871, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Messrs. Gibbs and Reynolds and the Mover. He said that sections 319 and 320 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure had been omitted in the Bill for regulating the procedure of the Courts of Criminal Judicature, which repealed that Code and re-enacted the greater part of it.

The former section empowered the Governor General in Council to appoint a place or places in British India to which persons sentenced to transportation should be sent, and also authorized the Local Government to provide for the removal of such persons to the place or places so appointed. The latter section provided for the case of persons sentenced to transportation while already undergoing transportation under a sentence previously passed.

The reason for the omission of these provisions from the Criminal Procedure Bill was that the bulk of the matter with which they dealt did not belong to criminal procedure, but fell within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871.

The present Bill had, therefore, been prepared. It simply substituted for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, 1871, a section containing the provisions of sections 319 and 320 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure, and would come into force at the same time as the new Code. The part of the former section which declared that no sentence of transportation should specify the place to which the person sentenced was to be transported did, no doubt, belong to criminal procedure, and would, therefore, be added to section 368 of the new Code.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

BENGAL CIVIL COURTS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Reynolds and the Hon'ble Mahārājā Jotindra Mohan Tagore be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the law relating to the Civil Courts in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Assam.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

SUNDRY BILLS.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property, the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Private Trusts and Trustees, and the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Easements and Licenses be referred back to the respective Select Committees. He said his object in making this Motion was to ask the Select Committees on the Transfer of Property Bill and the Trusts Bill to consider the expediency of making in each of those Bills a few further amendments, most of which had been suggested by the admirable Property Act (44 & 45 Vic., c. 41) which had recently been passed by Parliament, and for which England was indebted to Lord Cairns, and to suggest to the Select Committee on the Easements Bill the desirability of providing, in accordance with a recent decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, Turner v. Walsh, 6 App. Ca. 636, a statutory rule under which easements could be acquired as against the Government.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. STOKES also moved that the Hon'ble Mr. Evans be added to the Select Committees on the following Bills:—

To define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property.

To define and amend the law relating to Private Trusts and Trustees.

To define and amend the law relating to Easements and Licenses.

To consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns.

For the incorporation, regulation and winding up of Trading Companies and other Associations.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

TRUSTS AND EASEMENTS BILLS.

The Hon'ble MR. NOTIFICATIONS.

Fort William, the 19th December 1881.

No. 2048.—Insulator cups to the value of about £5,000 sterling are annually imported into India for the Telegraph Department. With a view to substitute locally-made insulator cups for the imported article, enquiries were instituted for the purpose of ascertaining whether they could be procured of Indian manufacture. As the result of these enquiries, it appears that they cannot at present be made in India at a lower price than twelve annas each, whereas the cost of the imported cups, including freight and all charges, is not more than six annas and ten pie each. The Government of India will be prepared to engage to take for a term of years the whole number of insulators required for the telegraph lines in India, if they can be made at a cost about equal to that of the imported article.

No. 2121.—With reference to Notifications in the Calcutta Government Gazette dated, respectively, the 18th September 1824 and the 3rd July 1828, the Governor General in Council is pleased to give notice that the Four Per Cent. Sicca Rupee Loans of 1824-25 and 1828-29, commonly known as the first and second 4 Per Cent. Loans, will be discharged at the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta, on the 27th March 1882, at the rate of Rs. 106-10-8 Government Rupees for every 100 Calcutta Sicca Rupees of Stock.

The Notifications No. 44, dated the 10th January 1867, and No. 3097, dated the 15th December 1871, permitting transfers from any loan bearing interest at 4 per cent. into the loans of 1842-43 or 1865, are cancelled from this date in so far as they apply to the abovementioned loans of 1824-25 and 1828-29.

No. 2145.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce.

Read—

Letter to the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 3926, dated 28th October 1881, informing him that the Government of India desire to employ private enterprise in the work of printing forms now carried on in the Government Central Press, and requesting him to invite tenders from the private presses in Calcutta for the execution of the work.

Read also—

Letter from the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 102, dated the 14th instant, submitting tenders received from several of the Calcutta printing presses.

RESOLUTION.—It appears from these tenders that the prices at which private presses are ready to undertake the work which the Government of India desires to transfer to them are much in excess of the rates for which the work is now done in the Government Central Press, the whole cost of which, including binding and distribution to the different Departments, now amounts to a little under Rs. 1,10,000 annually.

2. The Governor General in Council is most desirous of affording free scope for private enterprise in all matters in which it may legitimately be employed, and the principal aim of the measure now proposed is to afford such encouragement in an important branch of industry. But the attainment of this object, desirable as it is, cannot be allowed to conflict with the interests of the general tax-paying community, and it is not possible to offer to private enterprise an undertaking for the execution of which a premium must be paid from general revenues in excess of the cost for which the work is now done under direct management by officers of the Government. His Excellency in Council accordingly regrets his inability to accept any of the tenders which have been submitted to the Superintendent of Government Printing.

3. It is understood, however, that the offer of a contract for five years is not considered by some an adequate inducement to lay out capital in the purchase of the plant and machinery which will be required for the execution of the very large quantity of work to be done, at least thirty millions of copies of forms being required every year. The Governor General in Council has considered this point carefully, and has decided that, as it appears that the rate of cost per thousand forms in the Government Central Press varies but very slightly from year to year, the term of contract may unobjectionably be extended. His Excellency in Council will be prepared now to receive tenders for a contract for ten years. These will be received by the Superintendent of Government Printing at his office until noon of the 3rd January 1882.

4. The tenders which have been received and rejected refer only to the printing of the forms. The Government of India has now decided, after further consideration, that the binding of the forms and their despatch as required to indenting officers shall also be undertaken by the firm or firms whose tender may be accepted. Intending tenderers for printing should accordingly include in their tender rates for these two branches of the work.

5. The Superintendent of Government Printing will afford to intending tenderers such information as they may require relating to the nature and quantity of the work and the rates at which it is now done, or on other points.

6. The Government of India do not consider it necessary to require that any single press in Calcutta shall undertake the whole of the extensive amount of work involved in the printing, binding, and distribution of these forms. The work has therefore been divided into four sections—

- (1) Railway Forms.
- (2) Post Office and Forest Forms.
- (3) Public Works and Commissariat Forms.
- (4) All other Forms.

The tenders for each should be distinct, but any tenderer may put in tenders for any one or more sections, or for all of them, and the tender for any section or sections should include a tender for binding and distribution, as well as for printing.

7. The Government of India will be prepared to dispose at a fair valuation of the machinery and plant now employed in printing the forms to the party or parties whose tender may be accepted.

ORDERED, that copy of the foregoing Resolution be forwarded to the Superintendent of Government Printing; also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

SPECIAL.

No. 709.—In continuation of G. G. O. No. 315 of 1881, the Most Honorable the Viceroy and Governor General in Council is pleased to direct the publication for general information of the following despatch from the Secretary of State for India, together with the letter therein referred to:—

MILITARY,
No. 390.

INDIA OFFICE,
London, 24th November, 1881.

To His Excellency the Most Honorable the Governor General of India in Council.

MY LORD MARQUIS,—Para. 1. I have considered in Council your Military letter No. 343, dated 16th September, 1881, in which you bring to notice the services, during the late campaign in Afghanistan, of various Officers whose names were omitted in your Lordship's Minute of the 15th January, 1881.

2. It has afforded me satisfaction to receive a list of Officers in continuation of that which I acknowledged in my Despatch, No. 136, of the 5th May last, and I desire to repeat the assurances I then gave of the recognition of the services brought to notice, and to request that you will inform the several Officers whose names you now mention of the appreciation by Her Majesty's Government of the excellent service they rendered, as testified by your Lordship.

I have, &c.

(Sd.) HARTINGTON.

Letter from the Government of India, Military Department, to the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 343, dated Simla, the 16th September, 1881.

1. Your Lordship's Military despatch No. 136 of the 5th of May, 1881, conveyed the concurrence of Her Majesty's Government in the approval recorded by the Viceroy, in a Minute dated the 15th January, 1881, of the services rendered by various civil and military officers during the late war in Afghanistan.

2. Your Lordship will have observed that the Minute and connected despatches have been published in our General Order No. 315, dated the 10th June, 1881. It has however come to our notice that there were certain omissions in the Minute—omissions which were perhaps unavoidable, bearing in mind the numerous officers and departments who were connected with the late war in Afghanistan, but which we would desire to rectify.

3. The Government of Bombay have lately submitted the names of certain civil officers in Sind who did valuable service when the resources of that province were so largely called upon during the operations of 1878-79 and 1879-80, namely,—

(the late) Mr. F. D. Melville, c.s.,

Mr. H. N. B. Erskine, c.s.,

Mr. J. B. Peile, c.s., c.s.I.,

all of whom acted as Commissioners of Sind during the late war; also the following officers:—

Colonel W. R. Lambert, Collector of Karachi;

Colonel L. D'A. Dunsterville, Collector of Hyderabad;

Colonel R. R. Wallace, Collector of Shikarpur, and

Lieutenant-Colonel E. W. Trevor and Mr. G. Macleod, Acting Collectors of Shikarpur;

Major R. V. Malden, Acting Superintendent, Sind Frontier;

Mr. E. C. K. Ollivant, Personal Assistant to the Commissioner.

4. The Government of Bombay also bring to favourable notice the services of Lieutenant G. C. Parker, of the Indian Marine, who in his capacity of Harbour Master at Karachi did excellent work in connection with the disembarkation of large numbers of troops, followers and animals, and great quantities of war materiel of all kinds.

5. The following officers of the Political Department, whose names have not previously been brought to notice, also deserve mention:—

Dr. H. W. Bellew, c.s.I.

Colonel T. E. Gordon, c.B., c.s.I.

Lieutenant-Colonel E. S. Reynolds.

Captain W. Loch.

Major T. C. Plowden, Deputy Commissioner, Kohat.

Mr. F. W. Fryer, c.s., Deputy Commissioner, Dera Ghazi Khan.

Captain C. E. Yate.

Captain A. Muir.

Mr. A. F. D. Cunningham, c.s., c.I.E.

Major E. Conolly.

- Dr. Bellew had been specially selected, in 1878, to accompany Sir Neville Chamberlain's projected mission to Kabul. In the autumn of 1879, when military operations began in Northern Afghanistan, Dr. Bellew proceeded, at the request of the Government of India, over the Shuturgardan to join Sir Frederick Roberts. He remained at Kabul during the winter months upon political duty; and his knowledge of Afghan languages and large experience of the country proved useful.

Colonel T. E. Gordon joined the Kuram Field Force on special political duty in April, 1879. When General Roberts advanced on Kabul in the following September, Colonel Gordon assumed military and political charge of the Kuram Valley and the Hariob. The services rendered by him in this part of the country were of much value.

Lieutenant-Colonel Reynolds and Captain W. Loch did good service in Beluchistan, and Captain Loch also accompanied General Phayre's force in the advance to Kandahar. During the occupation of the Kuram Valley by British troops, Major Plowden exerted himself with much energy and success in maintaining communications and in preserving the peace of an important section of the frontier.

He also accompanied the Zamusht expedition in December, 1879.

Mr. F. W. Fryer was employed in 1878 and 1879 upon the Beluch border, and in the operations connected with the march of Major-General Biddulph's force to Quetta. His local knowledge and influence enabled him to afford material assistance.

Captain C. E. Yate and Captain A. Muir did well in Southern Afghanistan during the British occupation of the country, the former especially at Khelat-i-Ghilzai, the latter at Kandahar.

Mr. Cunningham and Major Conolly were at different times entrusted with the management of the Khyber, where their services were of marked value. Mr. Cunningham was also selected to accompany Mr. Griffin to Kabul.

6. The omission to allude to the services of the Medical Department with the Government of India, in a Minute which dealt with civil services alone, arose from the circumstance that the late head of this department was included among the officers recommended to the notice of the Government of India by the Commander-in-Chief for military services during the war, the fact being that, until the late changes in the administrative organisation of the Medical Services, the Surgeon-General, Her Majesty's Forces, was more directly connected with the Commander-in-Chief than with the Government of India. But the services rendered by the Army and Indian Medical Departments to the Government of India were valuable and conspicuous. The superintendence of the medical service at the beginning of the war was under Surgeon-General Ker-Innes, c.B., of the Army Medical Department, and Surgeon-General Beatson, at that time at the head of the Indian Medical Service in Bengal; and was afterwards conducted in a very successful manner by the present able head of the Army Medical Department in India, Surgeon-General Crawford, M.D. Surgeon-General Cunningham, M.D., as Surgeon-General with the Government of India, was also largely concerned in the successful administration of the medical services; we desire to bring to the notice of Her Majesty's Government the services performed by these officers.

7. The services of the Survey Department in the field have already been recognised by the promotion of several of the military officers belonging to it; but the good work done by Messrs. Scott, Ogle, Price, Claudius and McNair, civil officers of the department in the field, deserves to be publicly recorded; while it is due to the head of the Survey Department, Lieutenant-General Walker, c.B., R.E., to notice with approbation the assistance rendered to the military operations in the prompt supply of maps and plans, and the general efficiency with which the work of his department in all branches was conducted.

8. The Bengal Clothing Department, under the superintendence of Colonel B. Walton, c.I.E., met the sudden demand for a large supply of warm clothing in a prompt and efficient manner.

9. The names of several officers in the Commissariat and Transport Departments of the Army have already been brought to notice in the Viceroy's Minute; but there are two officers whose names were omitted from the Minute: as their services were commended to Her Majesty's Government in forwarding the list of officers whom His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief considered deserving of reward, Lieutenant-Colonel J. O. Travers, the General Transport Officer of the Khyber Line Force, whose duties confined him mainly to the base at Peshawar; and Captain R. Pateh, Deputy Assistant Commissary-General, who, although he served in the field in the first phase of the campaign, was during the latter portion of the operations in charge of the great field depot at Peshawar, from which the main bulk of the supplies of the Army were forwarded with admirable regularity and precision to the troops in the front. Lieutenant-General Sir M. Kennedy, late Controller-General of Supply and Transport, brought the services of these officers especially to notice in his report on the operations of supply and transport during the second campaign.
